RHEUMATISM
15 Convert sisters say there's nothing to equal Kruschen
This letter is not one person's opinion—it is the unanimous vote of the sisters of a large convent.
"We are a large community (15 in number) and find no medicine to equal Kruschen Salts. Many of the sisters are troubled with Rheumatism, which accumulation taking more than the daily dose . . . We cannot speak too highly of Kruschen. It is safe, and has benefit we derive from them."—Sister M. J.
The natural treatment for rheumatism is Kruschen Salts. The six mineral salts of Kruschen have a direct effect upon the whole blood stream, carrying away acid, which is the recognized cause of rheumatism. They also restore the eliminating organs to proper working order and so prevent reabsorption, thereby checking the further formation of new acid and other body poisons which undermine the health.
FREE TRIAL OFFER
If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. Get a bottle of Kruschen from any one of GIANT packages which make over 200 times as much. Take a half teaspoonful every morning in a cup of hot water before breakfast for one week. Then test your progress by weighing yourself and measuring your waist, hips, arms and chest. Then write to us, telling us how much you have reduced in weight and inches. We will then send you a second bottle entirely free. Address: Kruschen Laboratories, 1 Imperial Square, Montreal, Canada.

New Use For Vanishing Cream

Artificial Aids To Improve Complexion Of Grain Kernels Will Not Be Tolerated At Grain Shows

Vanishing cream is evidently used by other purposes than facial adornment by the females of the species. At a recent meeting of the Associated Seed Growers Association, H. T. Weiner, the Secretary-Treasurer, and a former judge at the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago, announced that the use of vanishing creams, tincture, paints, powders and other such materials to improve the complexion of grain kernels will not be tolerated in the competitive classes of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina, in 1932. He said he had visions of farmers carefully sorting out their entries, kernel by kernel, with a magnifying glass in order to make the best selection to meet the keen competition that there was certain to be. Every kernel there at Regina, but he warned prospective exhibitors against attempting to use vanishing cream for the purpose of trying to improve the appearance of their exhibits. The use of artificial aids at the World's Grain Show of 1932 will prove a detriment rather than an asset.

Nothing To Worry Over

Lo Of Hair Has Marked Progress

A prominent Philadelphia doctor says that "once headaches is present, nothing in the world can cure it." There is no need for members of the smooth-domed variety to worry about that fact. The bald-headed party is the most likely of all to be the first to join the ranks of luxuriant and a bald menace up-to-date-ness of the times. Science has recovered how to save and be prevented he lost more and more of his adornment. Probably very highest type of civilization today is the bald-headed specimen

There is nothing reputable in Mineral Wool Powders and they are to prevent to take advantage so that the children will refuse them in future. Good Music Abundant In England

Appreciation Of Music In Great Britain Raised To Higher Level

"The British Broadcasting Corporation has performed one great service, at least, to the arts' an editorial in the Daily Express, recently said. "It has raised the appreciation of music in Great Britain to a higher general level than in any other country. As a result our service clubs are ceasing to be in more than one sense of the words, scratch organizations. We are blessed with many musical conductors who, like the orchestral players, are realising that the modern audience is worthy of the best in adhering to the policy that good music has only to be planted in the human soul to blossom abundantly."

Why France Is Economically Strong

Trying to ferret out the reason why France, of all the major nations, has no unemployment, but rather is importing 2,000,000 aliens to work in her fields, mines and factories, Freeman Tilden writes in the World's Work on "Why France is the Top-Dog":

All the chimneys of French factories are smoking. Portuguese workers have been imported in droves to supply the shortage of labor. Italians arrive with picks and shovels follow Pioneer Trail over the Alps, in record time. Three hundred thousand Poles were given jobs last year. There are no dukes, no Communists, no brand loses.

The findings run something as follows: Frenchmen are born marksmen. They waste nothing. They know how to stretch French paper to make the two ends meet. Nothing is wasted.

Nor does this mean they have poor food. They furnish the chefs of the world. They do not dress shabbily. They dress the world. But they dress themselves first

They buy for cash. They pay down in full for real estate. Not many know what call money is. Margins are on printed pages only. High-powered salesmen are an American institution. French cars seldom wear out carrying heavy mortgages around. Every big business concern has its economical employees get good meals at cost. The economic purchase at wholesale prices. Railway employees even get their coal and household supplies for a third what others pay outside of the communist. Companies do not stagger for commercialism their help.

The Frenchman hardly knows what a robot is. Almost everything is hand made. A country that is much smaller than any one of our Western Provinces supports its millions by managing its individual affairs well. Thus the under-dog has become top-dog.

Is there not in the French character as thus disclosed a suggestion of value worthy of the thoughtful consideration of the producers and workers of other countries"

Here in America, in Canada as well as in the United States, every encouragement, indeed the most striking inducements, are held out to people in all walks of life to buy on the instalment plan, rather than for cash. The sum of credit has become almost unbelievable. Much of it is unnecessary, which is justifiable and proper if the borrowings are kept within reason, and the capital expenditures to which they are devoted are of a revenue-producing character that will more than meet current expenses. People are urged to buy not only necessities but luxuries on the credit plan, with payments spread over a term of months, or even years. The argument advanced is frequently to enjoy those luxuries now and while you are paying for them, rather than to wait until you have saved sufficiently to pay for them outright. It is a fallacious argument, a fatal mistake to make.

Consequence are fairly general that the banks will not extend credit at the present time. Possibly, however, the mistake by the banks in the past is that they extended too much credit too easily, coupled with the further mistake that they demanded too high a rate of interest and thus made it next impossible for the borrower to ever get out of debt once he is landed in that position. Many a man, both city residents and farmers, have told the writer that having got into debt to the banks or mortgage companies they had a long uphill struggle to get out. They found themselves working for these financial corporations to meet interest charges rather than for themselves. They vowed that once they got out of debt, they would never get in again, but rather would do without things until they could pay for them outright, tighten their belt if necessary, and carry on in the meantime.

It is the man who is carrying a load of debt, paying high rates of interest charges annually, possibly on no-revenue producing expenditures made in the past, who finds himself in real difficulty in times of business depression. Any little cash he can get must be paid out again to keep himself solvent instead of being available to carry him along until the tide turns again. But the man who has followed the policy of "pay as you go," who is free of debt, is the man who can most easily weather the storm. Such a man can say "sorry on," but the man already 'neavily in debt finds himself in the predicament of going in still deeper, and the final result is, all too frequently, that he finds himself in an impossible position, so deep in fact that he can never get out

End Of Communism

McGill Economist Sees Soviet Dictatorship Ended By Human Nature

"Russia is going to break. Communism will prove unworkable. The five-year-plan is doomed to failure, and the greatest dangerous and tyranny that the world has ever seen will be foiled by human nature," declared Dr. Stephen Leacock, head of the department of political economy of McGill University, addressing the junior board of trade of Montreal recently on Communism.

The professor issued a warning that police batons were not the correct means of destroying Communism in Canada. "The people of the people which lead them to seek after anything now must be satisfied in the end and only shall happen to do away with this evil," he said, referring to Communism in this country.

What was going to happen to Canada and other parts of the western world Leacock declared, the 5-year-plan failed, Dr. Leacock added. "Are we going to sit back and condemn Communism and do nothing to meet the evils of present-day civilization" Are we to permit Russia to set us and the rest of the world an example in energy and determination in the exploitation of their country"

Military Medal Law Revised

Soldiers Ill V.C. Cannot Be Automatically Deprived Of Decoration

Holders of the celebrated Victoria Cross, highest award for gallantry in Britain and the world, will not, in the future, be automatically deprived of the medal if convicted of "treason, felonies, or other crimes of the most famous crime," as has been the case in the past.

This important change is one of the new provisions governing military awards announced in the London Gazette. Hereafter, it will be necessary for the Sovereign, who may also be consulted, to sign the warrant, on the recommendation for annulment is withdrawn.

A Dangerous Weapon

Germany Is Replacing Her Steins With Paper Cups

Beer mugs are the latest item dangerous weapons in Germany. But no longer will political gatherings in Munich, Nuremberg and Berlin bring beer mugs. The Berlin police have issued an order that when politicians meet in beer halls they are to stein on the table, but paper cups only.

This is going to museum a good deal of the dramatic from Berlin cafe gatherings. But it should bring relief to the overworked hospitals, which usually have a number of injured to patch up after a Fascist or a Communist meeting. No mush of a chance to the hospital assistance can be made with a paper cup.

Scotland Boosting Aviation

Dundee, Scotland, recently held an informal jollification over the first business transaction carried out there by aeroplane. A business man had flown from Glasgow, landed in a field near Dundee, completed his deal and within an hour was on his way back by air. As a result of the visit, Dundee and district is planning to provide an airport for every city in Scotland.

The worms that infest human beings in their birth are of two types, those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Expel worms by using dinkops worm birds and while expelling them from your system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

A lady much above the usual size was trying to enter a street car as a passenger, who was waiting to get off, began to laugh at her futile efforts.

The passenger retorted, "Madam, if you were half a lady, you wouldn't need any help."

New Canadian Destroyer

Two New Vessels To Be Added To Canadian Navy

Delivery of the first of Canada's new destroyers, H.M.C.S. Saguenay, has been made to this country very shortly. A number of tests have still to be made, but it is expected that a Canadian crew will be put on board the warship soon, and she will formally pass into the hands of the naval service of this country.

For the most part the ship's company is already in England. From time to time in the past few months Canadian bluejackets have proceeded to the United Kingdom on courses of instruction in the Royal Navy, nearly 200 officers and ratings are thus ready to take over the new destroyers as soon as they are delivered from Thornycroft's.

The second vessel, H.M.C.S. Skeena, will be launched on or about May 30.

The new destroyers are the last word in construction of that type of craft, incorporating many new features that have been developed since the war. Specifications called for a speed of 35 knots, but on her trials "Saguenay" has exceeded that. Both are equipped with turbine engines. Their armament consists of four 4.7 guns and two 4-tube torpedoes. About 160 officers and ratings constitute the ship's companies.

California Protects Its Fruit Industry

May Prohibit Bananas Imports So People Will Eat Home Grown Fruits

The State Legislature of California is seriously considering the prohibition of the importation of bananas, and why? Not because the banana is grown in California and so the import of the foreign product would interfere with the home-grown product. The argument for prohibiting the importation of bananas is in the logic of the protectionist. The eating of bananas as the protectionists of California see it, is a habit that has developed as a result of the efforts of peaches and other fruit grown there. So the eaters of bananas have to cast their sinful appetites when it comes to their favorite fruit. To make it all the easier for them to do this habit is to be to have bananas in California if the legislators of California are to have their way.—Lethbridge Herald.

Big Business in Farm Machinery

Nearly 100,000 Tractors Sold In Western Canada In Past Twelve Years

Nearly 100,000 tractors have been sold in Western Canada in the past twelve years, and of this total, more than 50,000 are still in active use on the farms, according to the latest estimates. In three years more than 5,000 tractors have been sold in Saskatchewan, half the total for all Western Canada. In the past five years Saskatchewan farmers have purchased 6,000 combines and the total for the West in that period was nearly 14,000. The 2,046 threshers sold in the west in 1930, 826 were bought in Saskatchewan.

This type of training would, he said, be more useful than "some of the twaddle" now being taught.

The year 1930 was described as surpassing all other years in the history of the association. In the various courses, 23,308 persons took part and proficiency certificates were awarded to 13,850 men. Certificates and awards had a grand total of 19,746. The annual report was presented by Hon. J. H. King, president.

Rubber Wheels For Diners

The possibility of rubber dining car wheels is being studied in France by representatives of the principal railway lines, it was disclosed at a conference conducted on a branch line to St. Florent. Gasoline-driven engines with rubber tires have been operating for several months, and experts believe that their adoption for passenger cars also will lessen noise, shocks, and deterioration of the rails.

Many Movie Actors Lose Lives In Moving Pictures

Pushing their automobiles into the movies is fraught with danger and accidents often as tragic and thrilling as a film melodrama. During the last five years, fifty-five actors, extras and studio workmen have lost their lives in making pictures, and scores of others received permanent or temporary injuries in the effort to provide "thrills" for the screen fans. In addition, the California state industrial accident commission paid out $421,000 in compensation in the motion picture industry for deaths and accidents arising in the course of employment.

Closing Exercises At Vermilion School Of Agriculture

Attendance of Visitors Exceeded Previous Years

Diplomas Presented

The closing exercises at the Vermilion School of Agriculture were held on the evening of March 31st, 1931 and in spite of almost impassable roads in all directions the large gymnasium was packed to capacity by an interested and appreciative gathering.

During the morning the students had arranged their various displays in numerous class rooms. These included work in the livestock administration, carpentry, blacksmithing, cooking, nursing etc

Promptly at 2 o'clock the people began to gather and after looking over the exhibits and displays wended their way to the large gymnasium where the Fashion Show was to take place. By 2 o'clock the gymnasium was packed to the very limit that people were standing. The girls of the second year paraded before the gathering displaying the various types of dresses, suits and hats which had been made. The first year girls then appeared arrayed in the various garments which they had made in the clothing class as a final touch to the proceedings the second year girls appeared in their graduating dresses. These had all been made of colored material as being more useful than the ordinary white dresses. The whole was an illusion of appreciation on the part of the audience as the Fashion Parade drew to a close. The judges were Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Hall.

The next item was the presentation of diplomas to the graduates. This was performed by Mr. J. P Andrew, former instructor at the Vermilion school and now assistant deputy minister of agriculture for the Province. This task was responded to by Jean Cochrane of Grande Prairie, a graduate of the school for 1930. The donats were very fittingly and very cleverly responded to.

After the diplomas were over the doors were opened for the main meeting which was to be held in the gymnasium again. The crowd poured until there was little room left. A very interesting programme was given consisting of the following

O Canada

A violin solo by Mr. Ronnie Barwick

Address by Mrs. Montgomery of Wetaskiwin, Provincial President of the Women's Institute

Solo by Mrs. S. C. Herbert

Main address by Mr. John Blue, Secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

This was followed by a solo by Dorothy Hetherington, after which the prizes were presented by Mr. J. P. Andrew and this task was followed by the presentation of the diplomas to the 43 graduates and the meeting was then brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

It is but fitting that special mention be made of the splendid practical address which was given by Mr. John Blue. It sparkled with wit and at the same time carried a serious strain that was appreciated by all. His pointed remarks to the graduates from time to time were thought provoking and well given.

Mrs Montgomery was well received and spoke very fittingly to the graduates. Many of the are interested in Women's Institutes were present to hear their Provincial President

After the meeting the gymnasium was cleared and the young folks enjoyed themselves in the graduation dance until train time. This was perhaps one of the most largely attended dances that has ever been held in the institution

The Vermilion School of Agriculture is very much indebted to Miss Isabel McKone and Mr. Ronnie Barwick, both of Vermilion ,who furnished the music for the Fashion Show in the afternoon, and thanks are also due to all those who assisted with the splendid programme.

Those receiving their graduation diplomas this year, arranged in the order in which they stand, are as follows:

Beautiful Ontario Summer Camps Call

Unrivalled for its scenic splendour, the beauty of its lakes and streams and their world-wide reputation as fishing-grounds, Ontario offers the holiday-seeker as fine territory as may be located on the American Continent. Bungalow camps bring practically virgin areas within easy reach of the disciples of Izaak Walton, with handy connections from Toronto and other points by Canadian Pacific Railway lines. These camps are a combination of the lure of the wilderness with the charm of civilization and consist of individual "camps" or sleeping-cottages, centred on a dining and recreation hall. Modern furniture and conveniences predominate, and thus the individual or family seeking a country vacation find golf, tennis, hiking, swimming, sailing, canoeing, motor-boating and dancing for their amusement, apart from a wide variety of fishing, which may be carried out, either in the vicinity of the camps themselves, or back in the hinterland, with competent guides who also act as servants. On the main transcontinental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, townsite camps are found in the Province of Ontario. At French River, 218 miles north of Toronto, within a stone's throw of the railway station, there is a well-found camp, which offers an unchallenge and great northern pike to the lumberman. At Nipigon, 22-hours run from Toronto, trout, pike and pickerel are the principal offerings and at the Devil's Gap, Keenra, Lake of the Woods District, 176 miles east of Winnipeg, the famous Canadian beach base offers sport such as anglers of all but rarely get. All these camps combine the recondest luxury already referred to and are visited by fishermen, tourists and holidaying families from all quarters of the globe, each summer. They have a thoroughly enjoyable and thrilling holiday time and return each season in ever increasing numbers. They are part of a great chain of such installation in connection with the railway, for the purpose of taking people back to nature's way and giving them the same standards of accommodation and service as are found elsewhere throughout its system. The picture shows: (1) Scene at the Devil's Gap Bungalow Camp. (2) A typical fighting great northern pike. (3) Bungalows at French River. (4) One for the train-crew, from if the angler at Nipigon.

DON'T GIVE A DOLLAR

"Don't give a newspaper a dollar." Such is the advice spoken by a well known merchant over the radio recently. He was directing his remarks to business men in small towns and cities. "Don't give the newspaper a dollar," he emphasized. "Instead, buy twice as much advertising as you think you can for a period of one year. Then watch your business grow." "The newspaper," he said, "is the accurate mirror of the town which it serves. If your town is a live town, one that can meet the intense competition of today, the newspaper will be filled with business with invitations to trade at the various stores of that town. Your newspaper is your weekly or daily contact with the people at your trade territory. Use it liberally and you will be surprised at results. Merchants in any community where a real live newspaper is published could afford to pay the subscription of the paper for every resident within thirty miles — they would get their money back many times over by increasing sales of wares for advertising messages. Boost for your newspaper. It is always boosting the community and the boost you give will pay big dividends. — Custer Advance.

Ranchers In India

Cavalry Troops Shoot Down In Riotous Mob

Karachi, India.—Turned brute out again in India as Mahatma Gandhi, hero for the Nationalist congress meeting, was feared by Europeans, and troops at Chaupara shot down at least 50 rioting Mohammedans.

The disturbance grew out of the opposition last week of three Indians convicted of the murder of a 21-year-old European enlisted in 1926. Gandhi was fined on off a train 12 miles outside of the town, but the thousands gathered here for the congress meeting spotted him as he rode into town in an automobile.

A group of 50 or more, known to be Communist leaning, made for him with jeers and one even made an though to attack the frail little man with a flag staff. Some carried a tray with a gruesome mess of meat and blood.

"Here is the blood of our brothers who were murdered," they cried, referring to the three executed Indians. "Take it back with your lines to Delhi."

Gandhi's men threw off the assailants and there were cheers for Mahatma.

The day at Cawnpore was even more exciting. Rioting began during the night when Moslem shop-keepers refused to close their stores under the general strike call. Then the mobs began to run. Troops came out when the fighting got serious, and before the worst was over, 20 had been killed, and at least 100 injured.

This trouble too, grew out of the executions.

Must Serve Sentence

Sixteen-Year-Old Earns Boy Pals In Ball Is Spent With Mother Court

Toronto, Ont.—Robert Kilcavil, 16-year-old farm boy, must serve his sentence of five years at the Bonsecours Mountain penitentiary and receive 20 lashes as imposed by Magistrate Crutchfield, Mr. Justice Logan and Judge of the Dominion Bank at Port Perry, on February 11 last. This was the decision of the First Appellate Court of Ontario, Osgoode Hall, Toronto, following an earnest plea for "a more humane punishment" from A. A. MacDonald, counsel for the young prisoner.

Youthfulness of the prisoner which brought forth a "popular sentence" following the sentence, did not appeal to the first divisional court, the chief justice, Sir William Mulock, declared in announcing their judgment.

To Dispose Of Wheat

Senator Beresk Would Donate Surplus Wheat to United States To China

Washington, D.C.—Suggestion that the surplus wheat held by the National Grain Stabilization Corporation, amounting to over 300,000,000 bushels, should be turned over to China, was made by Senator William E. Borah.

Such action would require an act of congress. Wheat held by the corporation has been bought and paid for, and the policy of the Farm Board is that it shall not be given away.

Senator Borah was that a gift of the wheat to China would create an appetite for wheat bread among the 400,000,000 Chinese which would result in largely increasing the market for wheat in that country.

Well-To-Do Farmers

Toronto, Ont.—The well-to-do middle class farmer had by no means disappeared, declared Mr. Duncan Marshall, former Minister of Agriculture in Alberta, told a meeting of advertisers in this province here when discussing farming conditions in western Canada. He believed that present difficulties were overcome by the farmers. Generous loans to farmers by bankers at low rates of interest were a necessity, however, he said.

DIVERGENT VIEWS EXPRESSED IN COMMONS DEBATE

Ottawa, Ont.—Political leaders in Quebec Federal politics swung into action in the House of Commons. In contrast debates on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, Hon. Arthur Meighen, former premier, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, presented divergent views.

Mr. Meighen spoke first. It was his initial speech in the House of Commons, and his reception, especially when he spoke at some length in English, was hearty. He defended the government, reviewed what had been done to aid the unemployed and assist the farmer, and called for cooperation of all parties to make the coming economic conference a success. He also remarked that, in announcing the action of the government in respect to Russia, the leader of the opposition was unfair in denouncing the Quebec government.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, veteran of 24 years in politics, found that the last Imperial Conference, empire event, was the first of the government. Mr. Lapointe, who has himself represented Canada at Imperial Conferences, censured Premier R. B. Bennett for the necessary spirit which he claimed has animated him in his negotiations.

"The British Commonwealth is an idea," he said in his initial sentence. Mr. Lapointe. "To base it on a mercenary foundation is to court disaster. The tie of sentiment is that, but it is strong. It may seem weak, it may be invisible to those who cannot see beyond the ledger, but this tie has proven equal to the test to which it has always been put in periods of trouble and difficulty."

Mr. Lapointe had criticism for Mr. Bennett in the matter of preference in British economic policy.

"To force protection upon Britain, as the prime minister of Canada tried to do, was not only beating the Empire on an economic question, but it was interfering in the most direct way with the domestic policy of the United Kingdom," charged the Rimouski member of Parliament.

Mr. Lapointe MacDiall, Progressive member for Saskatchewan, was the only woman member of the House of Commons, followed Mr. Lapointe.

In his turn Mr. Bourne had made direct reference to Miss MacPhail. He said that the arguments advanced by her in support of "been of such a subtle character as to induce me to excuse her for the stand she has taken toward restaurant by the province of Quebec to the granting of the franchise to women."

"In fact," added Mr. Bourne, "I am coming more and more to an acceptance of the idea of the granting of this franchise."

Wolves Terrorize Settlers'

Honored By King

London, England.—The King has invested the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General designate of Canada, with the insignia of the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George. Lord and Lady Bessborough had luncheon with Their Majesties after the ceremony of investiture.

SIR JOSIAH STAMP APPOINTED HEAD OF GRAIN INQUIRY

Ottawa, Ont.—One of Britain's leading economic experts, Sir Josiah Stamp, was recently named as head of the royal commission to inquire into grain trading in Canada, Premier R. B. Bennett told members of the House of Commons that Sir Josiah will sail this week for Canada.

It was known that the British economist had been invited to represent the Dominion Government, but the recent announcement carried the information that he had accepted the post. The royal commission is to consist of three members, one of whom will represent the Grain Exchange and another is to be chosen by the prairie provinces to represent them.

Rumors have associated the name of Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta as a "popular choice" as provincial representative, but Mr. Brownlee denied that he would accept the post.

Sir Josiah Stamp has for many years been regarded as an outstanding expert in financial matters. He has had a distinguished career in the civil service and has frequently represented the British Government on financial commissions. In 1919 he was secretary of the British royal commission on income tax, in 1924 he was member of the commission on the national debt, and in the same year was British representative on the Dawes reparation commission. His most recent task has been to seek means of accomplishing economic co-ordination of British industry.

Appointment of the royal commission has followed expressions of dissatisfaction in the prairies with trading in grain futures in detrimental to the best interests of the producer.

Present indications are that work of the commission will be confined to the investigation of trading, although it appears possible the scope of the inquiry may be extended to include considerations of marketing of the wheat crop.

Was Without a Country

Department Of Immigration Studies To Admit Refugee To Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—John Rashundi, referred to as the man without a country, will be admitted to Canada, the Department of Immigration has decided. When he was stopped at the Detroit-Windsor border some weeks ago, he was the object of considerable public comment because, not only did the United States refuse him entry, but so did Canada. The order permitting him to enter this country went forward recently.

Rashundi came to Canada in 1914. In 1923 he went to United States, where he married an American woman. They had two children, whom, after his wife's death, Rashundi sent to Canada to the home of his parents. It was when he sought to follow them back to this country that he was stopped by immigration authorities.

There was one fatality—a 67-year-old Cleveland man, Manning F. Fisher, who was with his family en route to Vancouver from where he was to have sailed for China on a holiday. His death was attributed to shock. He died shortly after the derailment. Mrs. Fisher and a 23-year-old son escaped injury.

Thirteen other passengers occupants of sleepers and two members of the dining car staff, were cut and bruised when thrown from their berths. All escaped serious injury.

Three Grand Champion and Reserve Champion Stallions Are Named

Regina, Sask.—Three grand champion stallions were named at the Regina Winter Fair. These were: Clydesdale, "Lochleve," owned by John Falconer, of Govan, Sask.; Percheron, "Colmar," owned by C. M. Roy, of Regina, and Belgian, "Jules," owned by C. M. Roy.

The reserve championship in Clydesdale stallions went to H. Black, of Belle Plaine, with "Carndee Footprint"; in Percheron, to C. Roy, with "Prince Percy Charles" and in Belgian, to R. Thomas, of Grassiers, with "Paragon Bill."

A strong wind helped to harden the best gelding in the show with a Clydesdale, winning over a Percheron, owned by H. Black.

Photograph shows a portion of the radio department staff receiving the mail. The huge fan mail as it comes in each day. The Melody Mike feature is declared by competent judges to be one of the most popular radio offerings on the continent.

May Increase Postal Rates On Newspapers

To Help Lower Deficit Of Post Office Department

Ottawa, Ont.—Voicing a protest against the projected increase of postal charges on second class mail matter, a delegation of over 30 members of the Canadian National Newspapers and Periodicals Association conferred here with Hon. Arthur Sauve, postmaster-general.

The government has had before it for some time the proposal to increase the mail rates on second class mail matter, under which category are included newspapers and periodicals. For the current fiscal year the deficit of the post office department will likely range between five and six million dollars, and the proposal to raise the rate on newspapers has been advanced in an effort to overcome some of that deficit.

Would Repeal Dry Law

Illinois Senate Passes Bill Repealing Enforcement

Springfield, Ill.—The Illinois Senate recently passed the bill repealing the State's prohibition enforcement laws. The measure, already passed by the House, now goes to the governor. The vote was 36 to 24.

The bill would repeal the state prohibition law under the Search and Seizure Act. In effect, it would withdraw all state support from the Federal Government in fighting illicit manufacture and traffic in intoxicating liquor.

MANITOBA POOL ELEVATOR PROBE IS UNDER WAY

Winnipeg, Man.—Surrounded by prominent counsel, including T. J. Murray, K.C., authority on the legal aspects of co-operative marketing, E. K. Williams, K.C., commenced a royal commission investigation into the operations of the Manitoba Wheat Pool Elevators Limited.

Procedure to be adopted in presentation of evidence has been settled. Commissioner Williams gave a compromise ruling which will permit Pool counsel to present documentary evidence, and, in special cases, evidence of company officers in explanation of financial reports submitted.

It had been the intention of Mr. Murray and his associate counsel, Travers Sweatman, K.C., to present oral testimony on each document submitted, but this was objected to by A. B. Hudson, K.C., representing James R. Murray, Winnipeg grain authority, whose brawnies and Cubs Premier John Bracken brought about the appointment of the commissioner.

Under the compromise ruling, agreed to by all counsel, the Pool elevators will file documents, and opposing counsel will be permitted immediate cross-examination of witnesses. The same ruling will apply when witnesses for Mr. Murray testify on the filing of documentary evidence.

Mr. Murray, who charged extravagance in the purchase of Pool elevators, and under-grading to the detriment of the farmer shareholders, was in attendance at the session.

In the country there are 11,000 farmer shareholders, operating 156 country elevators. They are vitally interested in the probe, which is expected to last at least three weeks.

Both sides made clear that a complete picture of the pool elevators operations must be presented

Mr Murray senior counsel for the pool, feared it was the intention of Mr. Hudson to call officers and employees of the elevators only to substantiate the charges and not to bring out the complete facts relevant to the whole case.

A wrong impression might be created with the examination of only one document or witness, said Mr. Murray Incomplete examination might at least cause suspicion and with keen rivalry existing between pool and non-pool elevator agents lead to the circulation of propaganda calculated to break the confidence of shareholders

"Confidence of shareholders is the life blood of the Pool Elevators, Limited," he said "It must be maintained"

J. T. Thorson, K.C. associated with Mr. Hudson, declared it was not intended to create any unnecessary disturbance in the minds of shareholders. Everything must be presented in detail, not summarize, and not piecemeal.

MARKET BOARD FOR WHEAT IS RECOMMENDED

Winnipeg, Man.—Establishment of a permanent Canadian marketing board was urged in the Manitoba legislature by Hon. R. A. Hoey, minister of education. Answering criticism of wheat pool operations, Mr. Hoey contended that a permanent markets board would have a vital and direct relationship to the recovery of agriculture in the west.

He also proposed, in speaking on the second reading debate on ratification of government pool loan guarantees that quality production should be insisted on and that products should be standardized from

Cash payment to the banks for the pool government's guarantee of the Manitoba Wheat Pool's indebtedness was urged by W. Sanford Evans (Ind. Con.), Winnipeg. He advised the government to float a [illegible] issue and pay the banks in cash rather than to be to carry the overdraft over a period of years.

Under such a plan, believed Mr Evans, the pools would get a new start and would profit by their losses in the past, altering the policy of speculating in futures, which, he contended, had been the pools' undoing. Most severe threat to the world market, at present, he commented, lay in the grain to be realized from the United States following the farm board's decision to end its stabilization policy.

Mr. Hoey, minister of education, replied spiritedly to Mr. Evans' statements, reviewing the formation of the pools and quoting Premier R. B Bennett as saying, at Regina, that the pools had followed the wisest policy under the circumstances. He is coming to the government for aid in adversity, said Mr. Hoey, farmers should be doing only what had been done with extraordinary success by many other interests.

Tourist Traffic Slightly Less

But Figures For 1930 Place Value At $250,000,000

Ottawa, Ont.—Despite falling off from 1929 tourist traffic still remains a decidedly prolific source of income to Canada. Figures for 1930, estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, place the value of tourist traffic at $250,000,000. This substantial figure, in the face of far-flung economic depression, was only $26,

Automobile entries from the United States increased in numbers, but apparently did not spend as much money. The total of expenditure was $302,469,000 as compared with $315,577,000 in 1929. The conclusion reached by the statistics bureau at the Bureau of Statistics is that the relative cheapness of a motor trip through Canada which railways had hoped for those who in more prosperous times might have been inquisitive about the country to the north. Tourists from the United States numbered 5,400,000 as against 4,500,000.

Canada's overseas abroad also were watching their pocketbooks. Automobiles carried tourists to the United States who spent $18,000,000, according to the estimate This compared with $3,065,000 in the previous year. Total expenditures abroad of all Canadians is placed at $112,000,000 as against $122,000,000 in the year of booming stock quotations

SKATING AND CURLING APPARENTLY ARE OVER

"Spring has come and the ice has went can now be applied to bank curl ing and skating too. The last skating card plays on Monday night and as far as we know the last curling games last night also. A knock-out competition which is to get under way on Saturday night was doomed to failure and died a sudden death. The two games on Monday night at the rink resulted in Ed Patten's decisive defeat by 16-6 at the hands of Ed Lane while Dr. Knell and Fred Long played a game bordering the one-sided affair by the latter winning a close game after a 15th end.

Fire Loss Vermilion Last Year $15.00

Approximately Ten Cents per Head

The fire loss of the town of Vermilion for the year 1930 was just $15, and this amounts to approximately 10 cents per head of the fifteen hundred people which the town is supposed to harbor. This fire loss is according to the report of the fire chief and the secretary, turned in to the town office. The loss was suffered by H. A. Crosby on April 22nd of last year. No loss was suffered at the only two other fires for which alarms were sent in, that at the residence of D. Ganton, and one at Vermilion Motors.

The value of the improvements in the town amounts to $995,866.00, so the percentage of fire loss can be figured out by anyone interested in infinitely small ithizm.

Another interesting item noted on the report was that 25 men are at present enrolled in the brigade. A. E. Williams is fire chief and Geo. Law is secretary.

Royal Albert hall, London, has installed its own printing plant, painters' and carpenters' shops and blacksmith's forge.

OBITUARY

MRS. EDWARD HOPKINS

The funeral of Mrs. Edward Hopkins, well known and much respected resident of the Mary Lake district, north of town, was held on Tuesday afternoon last from the United church, Vermilion, service being conducted by the Rev. H. A. Boyd.

Mrs. Hopkins passed away early on Saturday morning after a very brief illness, and leaves behind her husband, three sons and one daughter, who deeply feel their irreparable loss. The family have resided at Mary Lake for the past eight years, coming at that time from South Wales.

In spite of the bad condition of the roads, a large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the church for the service, where Mrs. Hopkins lay in a state casket surrounded by a beautiful setting of flowers, silent but effective testimony to the respect in which she was held in the neighborhood. The floral tributes included a large wreath from the Family, also from Miss Dorothy Bury, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Homer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Davies and Family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ibtson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hicks and Family, Iris, Betty and Trevor, Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller, Tom and Ted, the Watling Family, and others. Arrangements were carried out by Mr. Warning, burial taking place in Vermilion cemetery

The family wishes to express their sincere appreciation for the kind aid of their friends in their trouble, and also for the sympathy so fittingly expressed in the many beautiful floral offerings.

DOG MUSHING OF CURLING FAME, NOW IN ISLAY

Skipped Alberta's Champion Last Year

Bob Munroe of Edmonton and Westlock, who won no little fame in the curling world in 1930 by representing Alberta in the MacDonald-Brier competition in the east and nearly capturing that event, is at present in Islay relieving the manager of the Bank of Montreal there while the latter is on his holidays. "Bob" as he is familiarly known to the curling world, arrived just too late for any curling in the eastern village, much to the regret of the knights of the besom and stone.

Champion In Vermilion —Has Biggest Span

Vermilion has at last come into the limelight and to now harboring in its confines a blushing, shrinking world's champion in the person of "Monsieur de Castelline, the French peasant," or more commonly known as Jack Holder, not Holden as the Bulletin has it, but HOLDER, pronounced in two syllables: Hold-er. The Bulletin of Edmonton explains this quite fully, and the extract is:

"SPANS 12 NOTES ON PIANO; SEEKS RECORD"

"If he lived in Chicago they'd call him "The Big Mitt," but as it is he lives in Vermilion, Alberta, and goes by his own name, which is Jack Holder.

"His claim to fame is that his hand allows him to stretch over 12 notes on a piano. A few days ago The Bulletin published the picture of a player who had claim to having the largest piano hand in the world, having a stretch of 12 notes, but now comes Jack Holder with a picture to prove that he can go the champion one better.

"'Is this the record?' he asks. 'If anybody can beat that, well, he sure must have some hand.'

"And believe it or not, he must have."

Experiments have proved that the rate per second at which bullets in their native velocity is falling through the air is thirty-two feet. If a ball is allowed to fall from a tower, it is merely up at the rate of thirty-two feet per second at the end of the first second after it has dropped from the hand, at the end of the next second with a velocity of sixty-four feet, and at the end of the third second at the rate of ninety-six feet per second.

Football In Schools

Campaign Started To Organize School Teams Throughout Saskatchewan

(NOTE—This is a copy of a report submitted by Mr. G. J. Hopkins, of Amerley, to the President and Executive of the Saskatchewan Football Association, with a request to that body to apply to the Saskatchewan Athletic Commission for a substantial grant from the Provincial Government for inclusion in the next Budget. This will require immediate attention.)

Organize all towns, villages and hamlets as potential centres of development along the existing lines of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. in Saskatchewan

Competitions (a) Public Schools. (b) High Schools

The game of football (commonly called soccer), is a typical British game, but is internationally played and is included in the list of contests held in the Olympic Games. It is current in all the provinces in varying stages of success (a measure of success is measured by the number of teams playing. British Columbia is a shining example of what can be done by thorough organization in the schools, there being a number of over 1 000 school teams in that province, exceeding the total in the rest of the Dominion.

Soccer is played amongst the Senior (adult) in many parts of the province of Saskatchewan, within registered and unregistered organizations and leagues in many cases so that although there is an unfortunate lack of co-ordinated effort there is, nevertheless, a very valuable nucleus of older and experienced players from the older Provinces and the British Isles to work on if means can be found to connect up and develop these efforts. There is no question that for popularizing a game the league system has been the most effective, the added spurt of an organized competition giving a spice to the matches which is a great incentive to the gaining of public support

In looking over information received from the Saskatchewan representative, Mr. D. A. Grant, of Regina, to the Dominion Football Association in 1930, one finds considerable development in school football in the western provinces as the following demonstrates

Winnipeg football in all the public schools, the games being played under the supervision of the school boards: Regina, one League; Saskatoon, two Leagues, 6 teams; Prince Albert, four leagues, 30 teams; Calgary, two Leagues, 8 teams, and thirty other school teams in different cities all under the supervision of the school authorities.

British Columbia has 1,004 teams with an average of fifteen players each, operating in Junior and school districts. In Vancouver Island greater interest is being taken in the public schools and steps are being taken during the coming season to get all the schools in the game.

To return to Saskatchewan and the programme of development for the 1931 season. Almost every town and village has its sports ground, and every need be no difficulty to fit the game of soccer so as not to clash with any other sports and games enjoyed in the district.

A special appeal through the sporting columns of the Press and by circulars should be made to all principals and assistant masters to foster the game of soccer in the interest of amateur sport emphasizing the team play required to attain efficiency and the resultant benefit to the school team and individuals, physically and morally.

In towns and village schools there may be a sufficient enrolment of boys to make up two or more teams. Sometimes in turn could organize two or more neighboring schools to form a school league; (b) a midget league for grades up to 7, and (b) a junior league for all grades over 7 embracing high school pupils. It would be a great mistake to lay down too hard and fast rules in the initial stages of the organization as every district league would have to solve its own problems, and in the event of any out of town, rural schools desiring to join, a competition would need to be as elastic as to permit of two or more rural schools entering as a composite school team. This qualification is necessary to take care of instances where the register of boys of playing age is below the required number. This is commonly the case.

Challenge shields can be purchased for the moderate sum of $25.00 or less at well known houses, and medals suitably engraved for presentation to the members of winning teams can be purchased for a trifling figure. Such would be a great incentive to the boys, and the trophy a source of pride to the school entering the successful team in a competition of this nature, even on these difficult times, it should not be hard to raise the small amount locally to purchase the local trophy.

If the local league programme so outlined can be developed it would become advisable, later to create a unit of large size so as to arrange the inter-city matches conveniently timed across with the end in view of staging a provincial-wide knock out cup competition. It is here suggested the school inspectorate area to be basis of these units. It may be stated here that it would be hard to find a keener body of sportsmen, in the best sense of the word, than our school inspector and a special effort should be made to enlist their active service in developing amateur sport along these lines. If time can be brought about it should be possible to arrange for the semi-finals and final of the competition to be fought out at the provincial fairs before harvest

In closing on this subject it must be borne in mind that any programme of rural games must be run off between seed-time and harvest, i.e. May 15 to August 15, as after the latter date most boys are engaged in harvesting of the crop and cannot compete.

To obtain a suitable trophy for the provincial schools football competition, an appeal could be made to some public spirited citizen and he regards obtaining funds to operate the campaign an appeal should be made to the Saskatchewan Athletic Commission, the Dominion Football Association, and the Football Associations in Great Britain.

To wage a successful and continuous campaign the writer is of the opinion a sum of five thousand dollars would be required.

In furtherance of the scheme outlined, and following closely on the above campaign, active organizers of old footballers with ability to demonstrate in words and footwork should be engaged to follow up on the towns and villages as described.

The Saskatchewan Football Association is desirous of expressing its appreciation of the assistance rendered by the Department of Education in supplying a large scale map of Saskatchewan with all inspectorate areas outlined thereon.

Since outlining the campaign it has become apparent that owing to the existing financial stringency it will be impossible to obtain any grants from the Government during the current year.

It is hoped, however, that wherever possible local efforts will be made to organize school teams and leagues. Wherever this is done please notify the writer of his effort, and as to effort will be made later to pick up the threads and continue efforts. It is recognized that as soon as a nucleus of school teams and league has been formed that a subsidiary Grand Football Association will be necessary to further the particular interests of the games in the schools of the province.

Local leagues in course of formation may obtain on application one or more referee covering the game, also one rule book issued by the S. F. A for the sum of 50c, from C. J. Hoyles, Ainsley P.O., Sask.

Public Meeting This Friday Night

Expect Big Attendance

Our readers are reminded of the public meeting on Friday evening, 10th inst., when the Honourable Duncan Marshall will address the people of Vermilion and district on a very timely topic, "Wheat and its Relation to Canadian Farming." Being unable to make satisfactory arrangements for the use of the college auditorium on that evening, the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the meeting will be held, has made arrangements to hold the public meeting, commencing at 8:30 p.m. sharp, in the United Church, Vermilion.

The meeting will be preceded by a dinner to the guests and members of the Chamber of Commerce to be held in the dining room of the Brunswick Hotel. The main speaker at the dinner will be Mr. W. F. Prendergast, advertising manager of the Imperial Oil Company, who will accompany the Hon. Mr. Marshall on his visit to Vermilion.

Auto Accident Occurs At Islay

Little Stanley Knapp Is Injured

Stanley Knapp, four-year-old son of Dr. Knapp of Islay, was injured on the main street of that village about 2 p.m. Tuesday when he ran head on into a slowly moving car driven by Mr. Jas. C. Mooney. The lad was severely bruised but no bones were broken and as far as has been ascertained he has suffered no internal injuries as was at first feared. He is reported to be improving in condition steadily.

Mr. Mooney had just returned from Vermilion and was proceeding south along the street. He had originally intended to park in front of the church but continued on, intending to stop at the hardware store, so that the car was coasting slowly down the slight decline of the street preparatory to coming to a halt. Stanley and his elder brother, Hector, were playing with a ball and the former ran into the road and into the car without the driver or lad noticing each other. It is not known whether a wheel passed over the boy or not His head struck and broke a light of the car.

First Straw Hat Out Saturday

—But Nobody Smashed It

The first straw hat of the season was noticed around town on Saturday, and though it is perfectly allowable to smash the first straw of the season, this one went unchallenged probably for the simple reason that it was a big Mexican sombrero of peaked straw, and sat high on the head of a six-foot lad clad in recognized cowboy garb, chaps, etc. We know the wearer well by sight but fail to recall his name just now. He lives in the Campbell Lake district

Dwelling Catches Fire Tuesday

West End Residence Has Narrow Escape

During the high wind of Tuesday evening, fire broke out in the residence of Dave Kennedy in the west end of town, and for a time threatened to destroy the building. Confusion started near the chimney but was caused by a tin pipe from the kitchen range being burnt away where it entered the brick chimney, and sparks had fallen down between the walls, starting flames which spread to the ceiling and showed at the eaves of the closed-in verandah.

Considerable delay was caused owing to the alarm not being sounded, the engineer in the power plant being at one time blowing the whistle, in another part of the building. The alarm was not sounded until a man was sent to the power plant with the information. Some difficulty was also experienced at the hydrant, the water being decidedly somewhat, in the meantime, however, stellar work was done by the chemical in keeping the flames subdued and after the regular water supply was turned on short work was made of the flames The damage was chiefly confined to the interior partitions of the house which suffered considerably; the roof of the verandah was also badly burned. The alarm was turned in about 9 p.m

All furniture had been removed from the downstairs, so little damage was done to contents.

LOCAL BOY IN SHOOTING ACCIDENT

.32 Bullet Passes Through Foot

Percy Cooper, 11-year-old son of the editor, had a .22 long bullet pass through his left foot when a rifle he was loading discharged accidentally. The bullet passed cleanly through the foot between the bones of the big and second toes, apparently with out harming either bones or tendons The accident occurred about 8 p.m. Monday in front of the home when he saw a gopher and took the rifle unnoticed from the house to shoot it The rifle was a bolt action and very stiff, automatically cocking when the cartridge was shoved home Somehow the bullet discharged, passing through the foot Medical aid was quickly in attendance and the young lad is progressing well

THE WEATHER

The weather for the past week has been extremely mild with high winds —a general feature of spring—predominating for the last three days. Farmers claim that they will be able to start work on the land early next week if the present drying weather continues.

WHY??

Why send your orders for job work out of town, when you can have it done just as well at The Standard office? Dozens of orders for stationery go out of town with every traveller of that line who spends nothing with you, who helps your business not one iota, who does nothing but take money from the district that will never come back to it. All the money that your own printing office gets goes back to you. Nothing is more public-spirited than a newspaper — why not support it?

Our job department has tendered lately on jobs considerably all the way from one thousand runs to 20,000 in competition with big outside interests. Give us a trial on your next and we give you a good job. If it is anything in the line of stationery, call us up and let us give you a price on it before you send your money and trade out of the district.

FAREWELL TO MR AND MRS. JOHN WATTS

Mr. and Mrs. John Watts were the guests of honor last Saturday evening at an Eastern Star function held at the home of the Worthy Matron, Mrs. A. M. Wood. Both Mr. and Mrs. Watts have long been members of the Queen Esther chapter and the function served to show the esteem in which they are held. The evening was passed pleasantly in music and games, followed by many refreshments. At this, Mrs. Wood presented the departing couple with a silver fower basket. Both Mr. and Mrs. Watts voiced their sentiments in replying.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts, after residing here for the past twenty years, have really not much work for a change where they have purchased a house and intend living in future.

"Shall we go straight home, or would you like to ride for a few miles in the moonlight dear?" Angela laughed.

"How polite and considerate we are all of a sudden! It's a long time since you've asked me to ride with you, my dear."

Her tone was sarcastic, but Halliday refused to take offense, though he did not speak till they had left the town behind and entered the old coast road that led through the pine woods. He drew a deep breath then, and stopped the car.

"Aren't these pines wonderful? I wish we had a lunch and could stay all day. Don't you like to get out and follow that path a way?"

"I certainly should not, in these shoes. They pinch like anything. I never was one to enjoy prowling in the woods, you know."

"There was a time," he began, when with an impatient gesture she interrupted:

"Oh, then! What do you expect of a girl at a time like that? I was merely following your lead—doing the thing I knew would attract you. Did you expect me to keep on? I can't see that you've continued trying to please me as you did in those days."

"What about this last week, Angela?"

He spoke evenly, and she flushed.

"I supposed that's a criticism of my friends. You always are critical of them. I'll have you know that the Myers are worth cultivating. They've got money to burn—oil wells in Oklahoma. They have a magnificent place in Pasadena, and have asked me to visit them next winter; but the reason they don't happen to like the things that you like, I can see that you score heavily."

"Angela," said her husband quietly, "do you enjoy these scenes you so often thrust upon us?"

She shrugged and said: "So the fault is always mine?"

"I'm afraid it is, dear, for when I unwittingly arouse your anger I am sorry."

"Unwittingly? There've been times when you've goaded me to it?"

"I know, I'm sometimes hateful; but I'm trying to do better. Won't you help?"

She looked at him, puzzled.

"What do you want to get out of me?" she asked.

He sighed, and would have started the car had not she stopped him.

"Look here—if it's about having that child come back to the house you can save your breath. We'll settle it here and now. I hate to look at her. It reminds me of that awful ride in the rain, and how terrible she looked lying across my lap in those dirty, blood-stained clothes. Why her eyes weren't even clean, her hair ginger nuts! I can't forget it. I wouldn't touch her for a hundred dollars. It was ridiculous your bringing her here. As for your sending her to the Hastings', I should think you'd be ashamed to ask a favor of such mere acquaintances."

"I consider them more than acquaintances. I saw a good deal of them while you were gone; but in any case I shouldn't have hesitated to ask a thing like that of Mrs. Hastings. She was glad to do it as I was glad to open my house to the child when you had hurt."

"Well, she's not hurt now. There's no reason for keeping her any longer."

"There's an excellent reason. You will laugh. I know, but I happen to have grown fond of the little thing."

Genuine surprise lit Angela's face.

"You!—fond of that little mongrel! It's laughable. What would your Back Bay mother have thought of that, Hallday?"

Halliday's eyes gleamed ominously, and his lips tightened.

"Isn't it something new for you to consider my mother's viewpoint on any subject? And I shall ask you not to refer to the little girl in those unmusical terms."

"Very well; but if you expect me to vacate my room——"

"I don't ask that; but there's an unoccupied guest room, isn't there?"

"And you mean to confront Isabella, after your parting a trained nurse to look after that impossible child?"

"That won't be necessary much longer. We can get someone else, though Julie is fond of children and would be glad to help when help is needed. Sarah does a good deal for herself, though she's such a baby. She hasn't been used to the tender care of the poverty-stricken."

"And for her own good she'd better not get used to it now," said Angela, rising. "Will you stay I ask, do you plan to keep the waif?"

"Always—unless my wife rashes it impossible."

"Well, she does."

"In what way?"

"You can choose between us—that's all."

"If you don't mean that, Angela."

"I never meant anything more Why, you'll be adopting her legally next."

"I had thought of that," Halliday admitted.

"Do you realize what you are saying? You adopt her legally, and as your death she gets the better part of your estate. Do you call that fair —a mere State ward who comes from the very dregs of the earth?"

All the old cynicism was back in Halliday's face as he replied: "There is no reason to count on my early death, my dear. I come, perhaps unfortunately, of long-lived stock."

"Well, I have told you to choose. If the child comes, I go. That's all."

"Oh," said Halliday sternly, "that is not all." He faced her, and instinctively she moved away, as if in fear of his anger. Words might hurt her physically. The child is coming—and you are not going. You will not go because, when you think it over, you will see that by doing so you will gain nothing, and lose much. The name of Halliday shall remain unstained. I did not give it to you lightly, and you shall not cast it aside. Where would you stand in a divorce court should I tell the things I could tell? Answer me that."

Her face grew white.

"You—you wouldn't dare."

"I am so sorred, Angela."

"But—I am your wife. You—you wouldn't——"

He raised her eyes, and he saw in them a subtle fear of him that was, he knew, the only weapon he possessed. Yet, as past memories flooded back upon him, he hated that weapon as he had never hated anything in life.

"Angela," he said gently, and his tone softened, "Angela—my dear—why have we grown so far apart? If I am different from the man you married, what has made me so? Isn't the love we once had for one another worth fighting for to preserve? Can you try—as I have been trying lately, to—to——"

He hesitated, but the plea that should have stirred her hardt only brought back his wife's lost poise. This was familiar ground — her ground. She laughed and answered, not caring that her words hurt him cruelly: "So you thought that I loved you? Really, Jim, after those baleful purse you've written I suspected you of more understanding of human kind—or should I say, my kind?

"As for this quixotic idea about the child, you will end by doing as you please. You always do. But don't expect my help from me. I won't raise a finger for her. It's fortunate we kept the Boston apartment. I'm tired of Dalmorville and everyone connected with it."

"Including me?"

Angela only shrugged.

"Thanks," said Halliday, as his mouth dropped into its cynical lines once more. "In that case there is nothing further to say."

He opened the throttle and turned the car toward home.

(To Be Continued).

Oysters from Prince Edward Island are the finest in the world, according to Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Canadian Minister of Fisheries. Medical Experts Give Idea On Rejuvenation

They Call Shower Baths Best Rejuvenator For Feeling Blues

Medical experts say that regular cold shower baths will do more to rejuvenate the body and the nervous glands on earth. Dr. W. H. Riley, noted Baltic Creek Sanitarium magazine, writing in effect Stimulates the action of the American College of Physiotherapy that cold baths are the best restorative for feeling those that has yet been discovered. He and Dr. Paul Roth agreed that "a course of short cold baths would do more to rejuvenate a man than transplantation of glands or taking of glandular secretion extracts or serums."

The Adventures of CARCAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

Soon both Scottie and I were scared asleep by our exertions, and after an hour or two's rest we started on again. It was on this night that it was necessary for us to use the length of one's arm. I remember I climbed for breath, and when I was not comfortable was when I was not climbing. I was so tired that I could not make out but I knew that there was something wrong. Scottie was behind and pulled at my shoes just as I shaked and coughed and tottered along.

The second morning I could not tell where I was. My eyes...
When I awoke Scottie was gone. I was terrified. The sun was the above point of horizon, and, over the valley itself was getting thick with smoke. It was very, very cold.

Where the ground sloped down to the valley it was frosted over. Already the leaves of the trees were dead and brown. I was terrified. I called and called, but there was no answer. I ran down the slope, and all about me was Fairyland. Every blade of grass was covered with a sparkling frost. Every bare branch was outlined in white

The ice is just beginning to come up in the river, the water to a depth of several feet flowing over the top of it.

Hardy Youngsters of Yesterday Not More So Than Present Generation

A couple of local girls, feeling the urge of spring, mounted their wheels and hiked a distance of some eighteen or twenty miles in the direction of Tom Bothwell of Islay, and rode back again the same afternoon, which taking roads, and age of the conveyors in consideration, speaks well for the endurance of girls of this era. The girls were Marjorie Soape and Gertie Cooper, both aged 14 years. The last three miles at the journey out had to be practically walked as the country roads were in a bad condition.

BAD ROAD IS REPAIRED)

The particularly bad spot, or rash or, stretch of road leading up to the Agricultural College grounds has been repaired by the town council during the week. A few other bad spots have been particularly noted during the spring break up and will no doubt be fixed during the summer The road leading from David Kennedy's corner to one block west has been practical ly impassable until the last few days of dry weather, while the new hill road leading into town on the south has been more or its semblance on a road, owing to having no ditch for drainage purposes. The low stretch of road a mile east was a sore spot with farmers, detours having to be made all over the prairie, and then hastily roaded with getting mired to the mud. However, the last week had dried all roads up considerably

ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN C. P. R. DISTRICT

With the object of promoting traffic relations along mutual channels, Superintendent J. M. Cheevan of the Canadian Pacific railway, Edmonton district announced Wednesday that effective April 1, the territory between Lloydminster and Willingdon, which as heretofore been under the jurisdiction of the C.P.R. superintendent at Saskatoon, will become part of the Edmonton district.

Mr. Cheevan left Wednesday to inspect the district in question.

It was pointed out by Mr. Cheevan that the business affiliations of this territory are naturally with the city of Edmonton, rather than with Saskatoon.—Edmonton Journal.

Harold White and sister Miss Donabelle White motored to Edmonton last Saturday. They were accompanied back by Miss Floris Purser of Islay.

"More Important . . . are the Family Councils"

"More important than all the deliberations of the industry are the family councils on the performance of cars, the atmosphere of service stations and the courtesy of salesmen. Millions of daughters, mothers, sons and fathers are writing the future of the automotive business around the fireside — with no one there to plead the case of the manufacturer, car or dealer. And the verdicts are final." Motor Magazine.

The verdict, with relation to cars priced between $1290 and $3900, is clear-cut and conclusive: . . . More than fifty out of every one hundred buyers of eights in this field choose the Straight Eight by McLaughlin-Buick, while the remainder divide their purchases among 16 other makes. And eighty-eight per cent. of McLaughlin-Buick owners—almost nine out of ten—return to buy McLaughlin-Buicks again and again.

Owing to their popularity the present models of 1931 McLaughlin-Buick Straight Eights will be continued throughout the coming summer and fall.

Where West Leads The East

General recognition is accorded to the fact that the West leads the East in grain and livestock production. It is known that the Western Provinces have a greater railway mileage per capita than the older settled provinces. It is an established and recognized fact that there are more rural telephones per capita in the West than in the East. It is not so well known that the West leads the East by a wide margin in the field of aviation. Yet such is the case as disclosed by the first annual report of Canadian Airways Limited, recently issued.

According to the report of this company, which is an amalgamation of all the large aviation companies in the Dominion, and in which the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways are now largely interested, the amount of air business done in the West far outstrips the volume of Eastern business, and that operating conditions in the West are more favorable with respect to capital than there is less competition and more productive flying and consequently greater profits here than in the East.

The figures given in this report will prove most illuminating and interesting to western people. They cover twelve months operation of the Eastern Zone, and thirteen months operation of the Western zone. It is shown, for example, that the total mileage flown by the East was 714,199 miles, as compared with 1,313,625 miles in the West. Total flying hours in the East were 7,888, but with the Western total 13,137, or almost twice as great.

But it is when one comes to a consideration of the amount and value of the business transacted, and the efficiency in operation, that the ascendency of the West over the East in flying is most strikingly illustrated. Mail matter carried over Eastern lines amounted to 136,420 pounds, while the amount carried over Western lines was 307,463 pounds. Freight and express carried on the mail 'planes in the East was greater than in the West, being 14,971 pounds as compared with only 307 pounds, but freight and express carried on other than mail 'planes tells a very different story and reveal the extent to which this form of transportation has been developed in the West. No less than 404,010 pounds of package freight and express was transported by air in the West, as against 82,152 pounds in the East. In other words, the East has not developed this department of air service, apart from the regular mail 'planes, to anything like the extent that has been done in the West.

In passenger traffic, both on mail 'planes and other aerial services, as even more surprising record has been established by the West, showing that our people are becoming air-minded. The number of passengers carried on mail 'planes in the East was 390, and in the West 3,346; on 'planes other than the mail 'planes, 1,647 Eastern people travelled by the air route, while in the West 2,966 chose the same method. Considering the much larger population of the East the fact that 7,004 Western passengers travelled by air as compared with 1,746 in the East speaks eloquently for this Western country.

The Western predominance in the air has no doubt partly accounted for the fact that the West is now regarded as an ideal country for flying operations, and also because of the further fact that distances between points to be reached are much greater in the West than in the East. That the West is well adapted to flying is demonstrated by the figures of mail efficiency contained in the report under review in this article. Out of a scheduled or possible mileage in Eastern Canada of 677,634 miles, only 558,364 miles were actually flown, leaving a lost mileage of 119,770, or only 82.4 per cent of scheduled flying. In the West, on the other hand, out of a scheduled or possible mileage of 704,575, productive mileage flown totalled no less than 708,344, leaving only 96,024 miles lost and representing an operating efficiency of 93.7 per cent.

The lighted airways of the West, making night flying practicable and safe, and the very fine municipal airports now in existence and being steadily improved, coupled with the excellence of flying conditions in general throughout the prairie country, provide an assurance that air transportation will more and more prove an important factor in the life of Western Canada, and is all probability a greater factor here than in the older sections of the Dominion.

Canada Will Advertised

Descriptive Booklet Was Distributed At Buenos Aires Exhibition

Canada was well advertised at the Buenos Aires exhibition in the Argentine Republic, fifty thousand copies of an artistically-designed booklet descriptive of this country having been sent to the exhibition for distribution. The booklet is written in Spanish and so is the wording on a series of beautiful pictorial blotters that were distributed with it.

The publicity branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce produced the booklet, which is of a quality reflecting credit upon the publicity director, H. H. M. Chisholm. The author does not forget to tell his South American readers that Canadians invented the telephone, originated the idea of standard time, built the first submarine telegraph, made the first electric stove, discovered insulin and did other remarkable things. Many of our own citizens would profit from reading what the sketcher has to say about our form of government, our natural resources and the characteristic features of the country."—Toronto Star.

Novel Christening

Cracked Ice Is Used To Christen Submarine That Will Cross Arctic Ocean

They used cracked ice to christen the Nautilus, new Canadian-built submarine in which Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to cross the Arctic Ocean this summer.

The cracked ice was contained in a small silver barrel perched on the prow of the submarine. Lady Wilkins smashed a string, and the barrel discharged its eminently symbolical contents — and the christening was complete. Sir Hubert will attempt to cross the top of the world under ice floes, coming up now and again for air and observations.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly three-quarters of all human ailments—colds, indigestion, neuritis, insomnia, nervousness, headache, biliousness, etc., are due to excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Instead of treating the symptoms, get at the cause by counteracting that acid with Bisurated Magnesia and take to unsweeten it. Just as soon as Bisurated Magnesia tablets reach the stomach they turn sour and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia is sold by all druggists in tablet form—never liquid or milk! It is safe to use. Get a 25c package today at any drug store and try this wonderful method of relief. Write for free sample. It is useful for those who suffer from acid indigestion. Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

ORANGE SPONGE CAKE

2 egg yolks.
1 tablespoon orange juice.
½ tablespoon lemon juice.
¾ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon grated orange rind.
2 egg whites.
1 cup flour.
1 teaspoon soda.

Beat egg yolks with orange and lemon juice until thick and yellow; add sugar, then orange rind, and add, gradually, to egg yolks; add stiffly-beaten egg whites, and cut and fold in flour, sifted three times with soda. Pour into a buttered and floured cake pan, and bake in a moderate oven about forty minutes.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIE

Line a deep pie plate with pie crust and add the following mixed together in the order given.

1 cup cottage cheese.
1 cup stewed prunes.
1 cup chopped raisins.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
3 cups milk or enough to fill the pie plate.

Bake as you would custard pie, being careful to reduce the heat to insure a firm consistency.

Three Ingredient Needed

A blizzard calls for three ingredients, and must have all of them: cold, high wind, and snow. Lack any fail, with the latter not so important as the first two because cold and a high wind will keep the snow aloft. Air can create the impression of a heavy snowfall even when it is comparatively light.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor in Saskatchewan, Dr. Bell, it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is particularly valuable for rubbing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises, and sprains. The family medicine chest saves many a fee.

Innes Taylor, only Canadian to accompany the Byrd expedition, has arrived at Vancouver from White Horse, Yukon, to admit that he is on a secret number one mission of exploration which, however, he declared he had been ordered not to disclose. Mr. Taylor refused to say out, he stated, is to be conducted in secrecy. Formerly a member of the R.C.M.P. he had charge of all the huskies with Byrd.

Canadian Schoolboy Are Good Marksmen

Canada's schoolboy marksmen for the second time in succession have won the King's trophy in the Empire rifle shooting contest under the auspices of the National Rifle Association. The Canadian lads shooting marked against 100 other British competitors with a record score of 98.96 points.

In second place was South Africa with 83.85, while Britain was third with 68.85.

Fourth place was taken by New Zealand with a score of 63.16.

With 300, Canada also netted the biggest bag of silver and bronze medals awarded for individual scores of 97 and over. South Africa came next with 100 while British secured 68.

The Dominion also monopolized the first three places in the shoot for the Junior Imperial Challenge Shield, and Calgary public schools carried off the first and second were won by the east.

DRAPERIES MADE NEW

"When we restained housekeeping a month ago I found my draperies had become creased from packing; I hung them on the line, but could not remove the creases. Then I forgot them. The result was they became faded and sun-spotted.

"I was heartsick until the happy thought struck me to dye them. I just dyed them a deeper green, Rit and Diamond Dyes they had gorgeous and new. I have never seen sister dyes to use than Diamond Dyes. They give the most beautiful results, and I'm sure Rit for cotton or dyeing—and never take the Rit out of cloth as other dyes do."

The Issue in Italy

Retired Official Gives His Opinion Of the Situation

"I have been in Italy 46 years and cannot help thinking that most of our troubles are due to the fact that in the past, politicians failed to think out the results of their actions to their logical conclusion," said Field Marshal Sir William Birdwood, who has just retired as commander-in-chief in India, in a speech to the London Dominion Society, England.

"I hope that whatever government is in power will remember that the Germans of India are illiterate and inarticulate and will see that the safeguards we read about will be real safeguards; and that those people will not be handed over to the intelligentsia who speak in the name of India without having the same affection for the cultivators of the land as we English people have," the field-marshal added.

A Beggar's Blessing

"You don't happen to have a cup of nice hot coffee on you, Mister?" asked a pan-handler of a citizen on King Street, Toronto, and the expression of gratitude when the wherewithal was dropped into his palm was equally original. "God bless your specs," he said heartily, "and keep 'em conspicuous."

Women Of Quebec Voted Century Ago

Privilege Later Taken Away By Act Of Parliament

More than a hundred years ago French-Canadian women in Quebec had the right to, and did, vote in the government of Canada, Mr. Justice Riddell told members of the Women's Law Association, at Toronto. According to the Canada Act of 1792, "persons having the necessary property were entitled to vote for the first legislative assemblies, and French-Canadian women claimed that they were persons, just as did the women of a year ago when demanding the right to sit in the Senate, the Justice pointed out.

The women of Quebec accordingly voted in 1791, but the men objected and, when the matter came up in the House an act was passed preventing women voting. It never became active, for the act contained a clause which was considered objectionable by the British Constitution, which at that time passed upon Canadian acts, and the Canadian act was cancelled. The Lower House refused to vest, and in 1842, the Legislature of Canada passed an act stating that the voter must be male.

Expect Heavy Exports Of Canadian Cattle

Greatly Increased Market In Old Country Predicted

Cattle exporters and those in close touch with the cattle-raising industry in Ontario and the West, estimate that at least between 15,000 and 30,000 head of cattle will be exported to Britain this summer.

Some exporters think Canada will have much more than 30,000 head to export, one estimating as high as 100,000, but in view of the heavy domestic consumption this seems to be generally considered impossible. In 1925, this country shipped 110,846 head to Britain, but since then the shipments dropped off steadily to very small proportions. The British embargo against Canadian cattle was lifted in 1926.

In 1923 it will be possible to ship cattle from the port of Churchill and many supporters of that port think this will greatly lower the costs for cattle on the prairies

Everything Would Turn Black

Mrs. Andrew Black, Harcourt, N.B., writes: —"I had been troubled for some time with bad blood, pimples and everything in front of me would turn black, and I would fall down in a faint and be unconscious for several minutes. I used two boxes and found they help me wonderfully."

GRAIN FUTURES SALES WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Ottawa, Ont.—Does the sale of grain futures operate to the detriment of the producer? This was the "simple, single question" which Dr. Robert Bland, and his colleagues will be asked to determine, Premier Bennett announced in the House of Commons. Mr. Bennett stated British economist, consented to act as chairman of the commission to conduct this inquiry, at considerable inconvenience to himself.

The government had taken the view that there had been such sharp differences of opinion on this continent and in this country as to the desirability of maintaining markets for the sale of futures in Canada, that it was thought best to secure the services of some one entirely removed from the scene of these conflicts of opinion, Mr. Bennett declared. Hence the Bland inquiry. The terms of reference would be settled when the commission met.

Two other commissioners will complete the board, one selected by the governments of the prairie provinces, and the other to represent the grain exchanges. They will be selected very soon.

"The commission will, in all probability, hold meetings at Winnipeg, and possibly in other centres in the west, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, added. The minister explained that the commission would be given a free hand but as it was desirous to get the information as possible and also desirous to hear representatives of all interests affected, might hold meetings if no doubt be decided upon as the most expedient. The government was desirous that everything possible throw any light on the problem should be tested.

Expected is that the investigation will be completed and the report made public in time to guide in the marketing of the next crop. Mr. Weir viewed with favor the International wheat conference to be held in London, England, in May. "All the information we can get on the subject is to be good," he said.

Counsel will be selected to represent the government, the grain exchanges and the producers, according to present plans.

Immigration Restricted

Government Policy Has Helped To Solve Unemployment Problem

Ottawa, Ont.—The government's policy of restricted immigration has materially helped to solve the unemployment problem in the last six months, and has reduced the number of arrivals now coming in by 53 per cent. over the corresponding period of the previous year, according to Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization.

He also pointed out that in the first 11 months of the last fiscal year, 38,000 young Canadian men and women who were resident of the United States, had returned to Canada.

For 11 months of the fiscal year which ended Tuesday, March 31st, 83,810 persons entered the Dominion as compared with 168,712 in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Total number of jobless men placed on farms by the Land Settlement branch of the Immigration department numbers 2,260 to the end of February, 1931.

Women In Writing Contest

Novel By Calgary Girl Carried Off Third Prize

Montreal.—A Dominion-wide contest in novel writing came to an end with the announcement that Raymond Knister, of Port Dover, Ontario, has been awarded first prize of $2,500 for his winning manuscript. The book will be published by the sponsors of the contest, an Ottawa publishing company.

Second prize of $1,500 went to Marcus Adamy, of Toronto, and Ella R. Wallis, of Calgary, won the third prize of $1,000. All three books will be published in the near future.

Several manuscripts were thought to be of such merit that the contest judges recommended that they be published also. Included in this latter group were books by Laura Goodman Salverson, Port Arthur, Ontario; Frank's Oven, Edmonton; and Ian Wilson, Edmonton, Winnipeg.

The object of the contest was to demonstrate to Canadian readers that a good novel, Canadian books can be had as cheap published anywhere, and that there are many potential authors in the Dominion.

U.S. Airplane Crash

Kansas Gasoline, Native Farmer Football Coach, Is Killed

Bonner, Kas.—Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football genius, plunged to death with five fellow passengers and two pilots on a Transcontinental and Western Air Inc. air liner in the Kansas grazing country near here.

The plane, California-bound from Kansas City, crashed on a farm, killing all eight occupants instantly. Witnesses said the craft, flying through clouds and fog lost a wing in the air and hurtled to the ground like a crippled bird.

The body of Rockne was identified by W. L. White, son of William Allen White, of the Emporia Gazette. The famous coach boarded the plane just before its departure from Kansas City, in mist and rain, at 9:18 a.m. He was bound for Hollywood to complete arrangements for making talking pictures.

The Dandelion countries again sought tariff preferences in Europe for their wheat. But to this serious objection was again made and proposals involving rationing of production met with like objections. The overseas exporting countries discussed orderly marketing, apart from the conference proper, and some success was made. Unofficial representations were made to the Dominion countries. They agreed to a conference to be held next year and the Soviet delegation did likewise, making their agreement, however, conditional on the approval of the Soviet Government.

Then came the formal motion to the effect that wheat production in Canada's chief delegate. The committee approved the motion and representatives of all the producing countries concerned met to discuss preliminaries.

Ontario's Grain Requirements May Be Supplied From West

Toronto, Ont.—Western Canada grains will replace those imported from the United States for use in Ontario if legislation is passed next year, following investigation now being made by the Department of Agriculture, under Col. Thomas Kennedy. The expected legislation will probably bind grain pools, elevators and feeders of the province in a co-operative arrangement.

LAY PLANS FOR MARKETING OF THE WHEAT CROP

Rome, Italy.—The first steps were taken towards the orderly marketing of the world's next wheat crop, representatives of Canada, the Argentine, Australia, Bulgaria, Hungary, India, Poland, Rumania, the Soviet Union and Yugo-Slavia met to discuss preliminaries to the summoning of a formal conference where, it is hoped, a definite agreement will be reached for the sale of the 1931-32 crop.

It was upon the motion of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's high commissioner in London, England, and the Dominion's chief delegate at the conference, that the production committee adopted the suggestion of a later conference to deal with marketing the crop which is to come. Mr. Ferguson's motion read, "That this committee recognizes the importance of orderly marketing of the export surpluses of wheat and being convinced the present low price of wheat on the world's markets is a serious factor in the present economic depression, is of the opinion that it is desirable that delegates of countries exporting wheat should meet together as soon as possible to consult with five fellow-delegates and two pilots on a Transcontinental and Western Air Inc. air liner in the Kansas grazing country near here.

Reports Say Ottawa Plans Domestic Loan

To Cover Obligations Maturing Within Two and a Half Years

Ottawa, Ont.—While there are many rumors of government financing to provide for large maturities within the next few years, no decision as to the plan to be adopted has been reached, Canada paid off her $25,000,000 maturity in New York, April 1, out of money raised last year. This year will see one of the first war loans, and was floated in 1916.

In respect to the very large obligations which will mature within the next two and a half years there has been no official pronouncement. These total more than a billion dollars.

It is the general impression that the government proposes to utilize domestic resources and that a large loan will be floated in Canada. Premier Bennett, in his capacity of finance minister, has the matter in hand, and the policy of the government will be announced in due course.

Look For Better Prices

Believe Canadian Wheat Prices Due For a Rise Shortly

Toronto, Ont.—Belief that Canadian wheat prices are due for a rise shortly, was expressed by C. W. Peterson, of the Farm and Ranch Review, Calgary, Alberta. Those who contended Mr Peterson, who is visiting the city, could not continue to produce wheat at present prices and when they did increase their prices the Canadian price would also increase

United States, he thought, would soon disappear from the wheat market and would become purely an importing country.

The question of state medical aid would have to be considered by the government within a short time, Dr MacKay believed

Ripped Fabric Caused Dirigible Disaster

Commission Gives Report On Crash Of R-101

London, England.—The disaster to the dirigible, R-101, which stunned the world when it came down in flames on a hillside near Beauvais, France, last October, killing 48 men, has been attributed to mechanical causes, and not to human failure. The report of the Simon Commission, which made a long study of the disaster, and just made public, attributed the disaster mainly to "a substantial loss of gas in very bumpy weather."

The report considered that it was probable that the forepart of the ship's envelope was ripped. "Something of this sort happened on a previous occasion and no amount of care could assure that it would not happen again," the report said, emphasizing the possibility of mechanical failure in dirigibles as at present constructed.

The commission refused to take a position one way or another regarding the effect of the tragedy on the future of lighter-than-air navigation

WILL MAINTAIN CLOSE CHECK ON EXPENDITURES

Ottawa, Ont.—"Every department must live within their appropriations if not, then some adjustment is going to loss their positions," declared the prime minister in the House of Commons. The House was in committee of supply considering supplementary estimates and had under consideration an appropriation of $500,000 to "$35,310 46 to cover unprovided items 1929-1930," as per auditor-general's report. The item finally passed.

Mr. Bennett traced the growth of this annual amount, and declared that if parliamentary control over appropriations was to be maintained, then discipline must be applied or the whole system would be wrecked. The amounts covered by the item had already been paid, and all that was left was to legislate for the expenditures and begin the new fiscal year on April 1 with a clean sheet.

"I agree with the prime minister as to the desirability of exercising the closest possible control over public officials" declared Mr Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, but the prime minister should recall that he (Mr. Bennett) had had this for eight months of the fiscal year, while the previous administration had only four months. In view of this and the responsibility for the over-expenditures lay with the government. The items, which had appeared almost every year, were due, not to overpayment, but to unforeseen expenditures, which did not imply negligence on the part of anyone.

The question of whether the control of the auditor-general began before or after the payment of accounts was raised, the prime minister contending that this officials duty was only to check the accuracy of the amounts and the authority for the expenditures. The money, he said, was paid before the auditor-general had a chance. Hon. Charles Stewart (Leral, Edmonton West), declared that the prime minister would find it the most difficult thing in the world to close out accounts at the end of the fiscal year

Mr King recalled that in 1921-1922 the outgoing Conservative government had left an amount of $3,-000,000 to be accounted for in the correspondding item for that year. Compared with the sum now under consideration it could be seen, he said, how the last administration had exercised care and caution. The prime minister observed that special reasons had existed then, the magnitude of the sum being due to activities in connection with unemployment relief The situation was said the prime minister that the present government in an endeavor to have all things squared away by the beginning of the fiscal year, was seeking authority for the payment of three or four months now instead of placing them in the next supplementary estimates for 1931-1932.

I am asking authority to see that hereafter there will be no overexpenditures by depts ministers or the administration of their departments."

It might be that the conceptions of his obligations as minister of finance may not be realized, continued Mr Bennett, but he desired to make it clear that the appropriations passed by the House must not be exceeded.

WORLD WHEAT PARLEY TO BE HELD IN LONDON

Rome, Italy — Canada House at London, England, will be the scene of a conference between representatives of wheat exporting countries of the world. The conference will endeavor to reach agreements for the orderly marketing of the next crop Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner, will preside

The conference will meet on May 18, and its activities will be confined only by Mr. Ferguson's resolution in which the high commissioner moved that the conference suggest the London meeting, at which delegates of countries exporting wheat should meet to organize, on an international basis, the exportation of next year's crop. The motion also suggested that the United States should be invited to take part in the discussion

The conference said a free hand to tackle the problem only after a long and strenuous fight recently. In production and consumption of the world wheat conference, Embraces were made to circumscribe the activities of the conference to exports and to make it, in effect, responsible to the International Institute of Agriculture, under the auspices of the Rome wheat conference was called.

Exporting countries, with Canada leading, have agreed to curtail their limitations. Mr. Ferguson told the exporters' conference was a distinct, step forward in marketing. "We are subservient to nobody. We are not an adjunct of anybody. We are a distinct country and we have a distinct economic problem," he declared. "We shall welcome any information we can get from here that may help us to reach a successful solution but we ask the committee not to pass any resolution that, instead of helping, will restrict us."

Earthquake Takes Heavy Toll

City Of Managua, In Nicaragua, Is In Ruins

S.S. City of Panama, in Cortuin Harbor, Managua. City of Managua is in ruins and there are hundreds of bodies, Hoke Palmer, United States Marine Corps aviator, said on his arrival here, after witnessing the results of the earthquake which devastated Managua. The city was still on fire when he left, he said.

Palmer had come over here from Managua to scrape up all the medical supplies he could get from this ship and from any other source where they were available.

"The whole town is in ruins," he said. "I don't think there's a building left standing and there are hundreds of bodies buried.

"The heaviest toll taken was in the penitentiary, which collapsed, and looked as though it had been ground to powder.

"We moved through the wreckage, and there was a panic in no time Martial law was declared immediately.

"The railroad is destroyed, and all the wires are down. You can't get word any other way except by 'plane to Corinth, and then possibly by radio.

"When my 'plane left Managua the marines had the rescue work well under way."

Visible Wheat Supply Shows Big Decrease Over Last Year

Winnipeg, Man.—Decreasing supply of Canadian visible wheat was down at end of March to 183,489,397 bushels more than 12,000,000 less than gaumed elevators of North America a year ago According to a report issued by E. A. Tyrell, chairman to the board of Grain Commissioners, stocks declined 3 133,986 bushels during the week ended March 27.

Chamber Of Commerce Banquet And Meeting

Both Largely Attended

The first public function promoted by the new officers of the Chamber of Commerce, which took the form of a banquet and public meeting held last Friday night, was a very successful event. Every available seat was occupied at the tables in the Brunswick where a splendid repast was served by the management. The guests of the Chamber for the evening were Hon. Duncan Marshall, formerly minister of agriculture for this province in the liberal administration now covering a period of twelve years, and Mr. Prendergast, advertising manager of the Imperial Oil Company. The latter was to have spoken at the banquet, but the program arranged for the occasion was cancelled owing to the late arrival of the guests, who drove from Edmonton by car and suffered some delay en route.

The public meeting following, held in the United church, drew a large attendance, agricultural interests being well represented in the audience. President Scott presided and in a few well chosen, remarks introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. Duncan Marshall. The speaker's subject was one of outstanding interest at the present time—"Wheat and Its Relation to Canadian Farming"—consequently his remarks received the closest attention for an hour and a half discourse. It was an outstanding address and dealt with many phases of farm life and endeavor, together with the problems with which agriculturists are confronted. The speaker did not believe that the farmer should stop growing wheat; but still had and would always have its place in farm operations. Big wheat farming exclusively was not proved to be a paying investment. Fair-sized farms which could be thoroughly worked, yielding much larger returns proportionately together with diversification of interests, the love of farm life and a ready feeder for home-killing, were advocated as essentials towards success. Mr. Marshall was opposed to proposals of pegging the price of wheat and entered into a number of reasons for the same. The wheat farmer would be the only one to benefit—the hog farmer, beef raiser, etc. would have to stand to one side — and the pegged price meant, if anything, an increased wheat production, quite naturally. He was most optimistic regarding betterment of grain prices generally and the passing of the great economic world wide depression; former depression periods were dealt with, all of which had eventually righted themselves both in Canada and the United States. Bess sold on the boat in Toronto in 1930 at 1c per pound. The importance of quality in farm products was urged by Mr. Marshall. Quality demanded good prices always and he made a strong plea for farmers to endeavor to produce and breed the very best. Credit for saving on borrowed capital he considered a dangerous plan to follow owing to interest burdens and he sympathized with difficult times. The system of not going into debt adopted by the earlier settlers in Ontario, who built each for every thing and restricted their buying to what they could afford to purchase, had its reward as by like to some people it would appeal as a new method if eventually led to prosperity. These farmers never bought an additional piece of land without having cash enough for a down payment to make the balance easy to pay and they never put a mortgage on the land they already held. They always played safe and when periods of depression and poor crops arrived were not in any dismay way of doing business could be continued upon with greater security than hoped-for profits from speculations with borrowed funds; farming, from his very nature, he asserted, was unable enough in itself. The weather with its uncertainty figures in his profits, insect pests and livestock diseases are an element of speculation without adding interest-paying sec-ur-ties in his stock-in-trade.

A number of books entitled "Farm Management" published by Imperial Oil Limited and written and compiled by the Hon. Duncan Marshall, were distributed free at both the banquet and public meeting. It is a comprehensive and readable work of 206 pages and we believe copies are still available on application.

The public meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

Local Exhibitors Win At Spring Stock Show

Miss Doris Williams Fourth in the Calf Feeding Competition

W. D. Williams and Sons, well known farmers of the Claymore district, figured prominently in the list of winners in the different classes with horse entries at the Edmonton Spring Livestock Show. According to Edmonton papers the horse entries were the largest and the competition the keenest in the history of the show. The prizes won were:

In the heavy horse classes: Broad mare in foal, 4th, and in draught teams 7th and 8th. In the light horse classes, Standard Bred mare, 3rd; team of roadsters 3rd, and 4th for single pacers.

Many Prizes Taken by Doris and Ray Williams in Children's Classes

In spite of exceptionally hard entries in every class, Miss Doris Williams and Ray Williams carried off a total of $128.50 and a $25 gold watch for the children's classes. In addition to this, Doris' entry in the calf feeding competition was purchased by Mr. George Tait of Warner, Manitoba, a well-known feeder of high class stock, and this animal will be taken to the Royal Winter Stock Show in Toronto this fall. It is interesting to note that the same animal won 1st in the local fair last summer and also in the school fair. The young exhibitors are provided with amusement by the board every minute of their stay, being taken to shows, dinners and being wonderfully treated generally. The showing made by these young people and the entertainment accorded them should indue many more youthful farmers to exhibit at the Edmonton show next spring.

Prizes won were: Children's calf feeding competition (31 entries), Doris Williams 4th, also taking 1st in the Stockyards' special, 2nd in the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' special, and a $25.00 gold wrist watch donated by Jackson Bros. for the girl standing highest in the class. Ray Williams stood 15th in this class. A total of 91 entries were shown in the beef and dairy calf classes

Ray also took 10th in the two best horses bred with his entry out of 19 en-tries. In the junior horse classes Ray won the following prizes: 3rd in best draught foal and 3rd in a special offered by the Clydesdale Breeders' Association. In the Dominion Live-stock Breeders' Association class he stood 8th.

Lyle Robinson Also in Limelight

Lyle Robinson also carried off several prizes with his Shorthorn entries of which he had four at the Show. The prizes won by this well-known Northern raiser were: Bull under 18 months, 4th; Steer over 1000 lbs and under 1150, 4th, open class in the above weights, 4th. Lyle sold his bull for $150.00 and the steers sold for 7c per lb. Heavy exhibits were shown in all these classes

A New Order Prevails

In the business and financial section of one of the most conservative papers in the world (the Times) in Canada we find the following paragraphs:

"That our present economic scheme is seriously at fault surely no reasonable person will deny. The existence of hunger and want in the midst of plenty—the fact that the existence of the abundance of supplies is itself responsible, at least in part, for our present condition, surely constitutes uncontrovertible evidence of our economic unsoundness.

"Argue as we may as to the respective responsibilities for the current depression of the various immediately contributory factors such as over-production and under-consumption of commodities, shortages of gold, hoarding of gold, demonetization of silver, tariffs, war debts, etc., the fact remains that our present economic system doesn't work. It functions increasingly poorly even in 'good' times. Its breakdown is immediate and shocking when bad times recur."

The fact that Big Business our industrial magnates and captains of finance, as well as the workers now recognize this fact is, perhaps, the most hopeful sign of all. There was a time when everybody everywhere accepted "bad times" as inevitable sooner or later But not now. The world is at last coming to a realization of the truth that many of our economic ills are largely man-made and, therefore, capable of both prevention and cure by man-made methods. Cure and prevention will not be brought about by any one magic formula, nor can it be accomplished over-night. The process of developing solutions may be slow and painful. We will probably have to discard many pre-conceived ideas, and accept policies formerly rejected as impracticable and utopian.

For example there is a growing acceptance of the fact that the old idea of nationalism as opposed to internationalism must give way. The Great War has taught all nations at least one lesson, namely, that no one nation can live unto itself. Canada, as well as every other nation is absolutely dependent on other nations whether they like it or not. Recognition of this fact led to the creation of the League of Nations to direct the world's thought in relation to matters of peace and war. That a time would come when everybody everywhere accepted the League and its decisions as final and the Assembly soon revealed that the issue of peace or war was not confined to the solution of racial problems, or the adjustment of boundary disputes, or the eradication of dangers by one nation on another for purposes of gain and glory. The maintenance of peace, or the outbreak of war, was found to depend, in many cases, upon the illiteracy of a people, upon the social conditions under which they lived, upon their sharp contrasts of great wealth on the one hand and grinding poverty on the other, upon their ability to sell and buy what their necessities demanded they should buy. Hence the League of Nations today is scientifically studying every conceivable subject in relation to the welfare of all nations and races.

This lesson was not learned at once, and immediately following the Great War, nations everywhere adopted policies with a view to making themselves self-contained. Where one adopted policies to that end, others followed. Instead of recognizing and profiting by the lesson taught by the war, they ignored it and went to extremes. That is one of the outstanding reasons for and causes of the present world depression and stagnation in business A man concretely can live and eke out an existence on his own farm refusing to have any relations whatever business or otherwise, with his neighbors, but he will deny himself all the enjoyments, refinements, and many of what we now regard as the necessities of life Never will he become prosperous. And so it is with nations.

As Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., told the recent Teachers' Convention in Saskatchewan, the world is facing an entirely new order. Instead of confining our thought and our policies to an extreme nationalism, we must become internationally minded. She declared that most people were internationally illiterate and were not conversant with conditions existing in the world and the relation which one part bears to the other. People have not kept pace with the trend of the times, whereby the day of the self-contained and independent nation has given place to a new era of inter-dependence of nations. And because we have not realized how completely the world is inter-dependent, we are still trying to solve our problems with yesterday's methods. They won't work because the world has moved to a new condition the old is gone forever.

We must take that lesson to heart, and govern ourselves accordingly. We cannot be prosperous if other nations are not. Their prosperity is absolutely essential to our own well being.

Good News For Aviators

Device To Keep Ice Off Wings Of Planes Is a Success

Victory was reported at Akron, O., over one of the aviator's most dangerous enemies—ice that forms on the wings of his aeroplane and sometimes causes it to be wrecked.

Through low-hanging clouds, at freezing temperature and an altitude of 2,000 to 3,000 feet, Charles Meyers, of Cleveland, piloted his aeroplane, which was equipped with rubber "overshoes."

The overshoes—pouches of a specially treated rubber fabric fitted over the leading edges of the plane and wings and struts—were made to "breathe" as the ice formed on them. As they breathed the ice crumpled away.

The inflation and deflation, which worked like a man's lungs, were controlled by a motor-driven air pump in the cockpit.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green dress—an imported dress—lost its color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she asked Cyrsing if it would remedied Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress and only paid 15c.—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They are either very simple. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and level. They never spot, streak or run; and therefore never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are relyed at all."

Mrs. R. F. Quebec.

Reciprocal Trade

Would Refrain From Advertising Dominion Products in Britain

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary for Dominion Affairs, was asked by a questioner in the British House of Commons to consider the advisability of refraining from further advertising Dominion produce on Empire Marketing Board hoardings in Britain, "until a scheme is evolved whereby similar advertising of British goods can be shown in the Dominions."

The minister replied in the negative. "I am not prepared to adopt," he said, "asking me to agree to something that would be a violation of the bargain we have made with the Dominions. I am endeavoring to ask them to reciprocate in other ways, but to say that unless and until they do we will give you the effect of our part in the bargain, is rather wide."

Treatment Of Cancer By Serum Will Be Subject Of Inquiry

Dr. Bridges To Be Chairman Of Commission

The treatment of cancer by radium will be the subject of an enquiry by a royal commission, Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, announced in the Ontario legislature. The announcement led to an unguarded condemnation of the use of radium by the former minister of health, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey. Dr. Robb's dominate in the House.

It was a case not only of doctors disagreeing, but of ministers of health and Conservative front-benchers disagreeing and the incident created a sensation. Dr. Godfrey is the first government official to admit openly and if we are going to use radium we have to concentrate on that. Those who have studied the question in this province feel we should have more radium.

"I have the authority of the prime minister to say that a royal commission will be appointed to look into the whole question. The commission makes its report some definite policy will be announced on the matter," Premier Ferguson declared, should stop in and purchase a quantity of radium for treatment of cancer patients in order to avoid overcrowding which would be decided when the commission brought in its findings.

"I am prepared to say I disagree with the minister, but I must do it most emphatically," said Dr. Godfrey. "Conservative hereditary, treatments by surgery, X-ray and radium have all proved dismal failures. I am entirely opposed to the use of radium. If I am ever so unfortunate as to become cancerous I would die of cancer in preference to death from radium."

Areas in Alberta and Age Of Homesteaders Reduced

Alberta will permit homestead entry in certain specified areas but restrict this to persons of the full age of 17 years, British subjects or with the intention of becoming British subjects, who have resided in the province for a period of at least three years.

Regulations to this effect were approved by the Provincial House before the House prorogued, when the new Alberta Lands Act was finally passed.

An Unfamiliar Country

Few Canadians Know Very Much About It

Canada stretches across the north half of North America. Argentina occupies the greater part of the southern extremity or "tail" of South America. Argentina's length from north to south is approximately two-thirds of Canada's from east to west. Its population is perhaps a million greater than Canada's. Its largest city, Buenos Aires, is three times the size of Toronto, and, with its 2,225,000 inhabitants, ranks as the world's eighth. They are (in millions of population): London, 7.74; New York, 5.86; Berlin, 4.01; Chicago, 3.37; Paris, 2.83; Osaka, 2.60; Tokio, 2.39; Buenos Aires, 2.22. Argentina has four other cities larger than Hamilton, Ont., ranging in population from 400,000 down to 170,000, whose names (Rosario, Cordoba, La Plata, and La Plata), are quite unfamiliar to the average Canadian reader. But the opening of the British Trade Exposition in Buenos Aires, and the visit of the Prince of Wales to Argentina, has drawn all eyes to that far and unfamiliar country.—Toronto Star.

Volume Of Eskimo Poems Just Published

Translated Into English By Arctic Explorer Should Be Interesting

Knud Rasmussen, the Arctic explorer, has sprung a surprise upon the world.

He has celebrated his return to civilization, after many years of wandering in the wilds, by publishing a volume of poems by Eskimos.

It will be interesting to see the poems in English. We may be sure Rasmussen has presented them worthily in print, for, with his European education, he has the advantage of being himself half an Eskimo, and so thoroughly understands his subject.

It seems natural for primitive people to talk of wild picturesque poetry, portrayed, but full of beauty and imagination, such as we see fixed for all time in the musical names which the Red Indians gave to rivers and lakes and mountains in their native land.

It will be remembered by some that scholars have declared the Eskimo languages contains only about two hundred words which should add greatly to the labors of the poets.

BANK CREDITS FOR FARMERS UNDER REVIEW

Ottawa, Oct.—"The way has been opened for closer co-operation between the banks and the government," declared Premier J. E. Brownlee, of Alberta, after meeting on the conference held here between representatives of the chartered banks, Dominion Government, and governments of the three prairie provinces. Matters relating to bank credits, especially as they affect the farmers of the west, were discussed.

Only the broad principles relating to credits were under review. Premier Brownlee said he was satisfied with the results and was hopeful that the basis of a working agreement would be established. He intimated there will be further conferences held between the provincial governments and western executives of the banks.

Although no official statement was issued after the conference it was understood the bankers intimated their intention to instruct local managers in the matter of interest. Premier R. B. Bennett represented the Dominion at the conference. Premier J. E. Brownlee, Alberta; Premier John Bracken, Manitoba; Premier T. C. Douglas, Saskatchewan, and Premier J. Patterson, Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, and Premier J. Bracken, of Alberta. No official statement, however, was made.

Under the respective agreements the provinces would guarantee the two provinces, entered into more than a year and a half ago, the same body is to function with regard to both provinces in unison in all the matters concerned, assuming that such a suggestion is acted upon

Further discussion will take place on the point said to be the source of the turning over by the Dominion of certain records to these provinces. In addition, Premier Brownlee has an appeal pending before the judicial committee of the privy council asking for an accounting by the Dominion in respect to the administration of that province's natural resources prior to 1930.

Chicago's New Mayor

Mayor-Elect Cermak Busy With Re-Organization Of Municipal Government

Chicago.—Speedy re-organization of Chicago's municipal government was promised by Mayor-elect Anton J. Cermak.

The new mayor will have a working majority in the city council, considerably enhanced by victories which accompanied his own success. Thirty of the city's 50 aldermen are Democrats. Nine of the 20 Republicans were elected as allies of Mayor Thompson.

"What are you going to do about Al Capone?" British reporters asked on the phone.

"I understand he is out of town," replied Cermak, "and my advice to him is to stay out for the next four years. He is under sentence here you know, and I suggest that he stay in Florida, that's where he belongs now."

Cermak laughed when the London writers asked about Thompson attack on the King.

"He didn't really feel you people, did he?" chuckled the mayor-elect. "No, he isn't really anti-British. The British vote is too small in Chicago to be decided to pick on the British King. No, I haven't anything against King George or any other king."

Importance Of Wheat Conference

Robert Gardiner Says Hopes Of Western Agriculture Depend On It

Calgary, Alberta.—Upon the outcome of the wheat conference in London, England, next month, the financial stability of western agriculture depends, according to Robert Gardiner, U.F.A., member for Acadia in the last provincial election, and a member of the House of Commons. Much will depend upon the mutual arrangement for the division of export markets. The solution, he thought, would be an arrangement by which Canada, Russia, Argentina and Australia to permit orderly marketing of the export surplus of these countries to the mutual advantage. This, if developed, would involve development of controlled marketing from Canada, possibly under government auspices.

The other alternative would be a subsidy, Mr. Gardiner said, although he had grave doubts about its practicability.

Reduced Railway Fares

Drastic Cut For Summer Week-End Trips Is Announced

Montreal.—Drastic cuts in fares on Canadian railroads for the summer week-ends were announced by C. T. Hibbard, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association, after a series of conferences. The new scale will go into effect May 1, and will continue through June and July. The new round trip fare from Winnipeg will Monday midnight will be only one and one-quarter times the present single fare.

The reduction will be of special benefit to those passengers wishing to week-end in the country.

The present round trip fare for 100 mile journey is $6.30 and under the new week-end rate will be only $4.35.

The reductions will apply between all stations in Canada and will commence with the first week-end in [illegible]

Cost Is Prohibitive

Winnipeg-Calgary Air Mail Letters 367 Mark In Report

Calgary, Alberta.—Air mail letters between Calgary and Winnipeg are costing on an average $37 each, according to statements made here by Dr. G. D. Stanley, M.P. for East Calgary, who has just returned from Ottawa.

Government investigations have revealed the prohibitive cost of present air mail service, he said, and these surveys show that Calgary sends two letters by air for every one sent by Winnipeg.

One medal is awarded each year to the person, without regard to nationality, whom the institution decides is the most deserving.

ARGUE QUESTION OF RESOURCES COMPENSATION

Ottawa, Oct.—The amount of compensation to be paid to Saskatchewan and Alberta for the transfer to the administration of their natural resources from 1908 to October 1 last, the date of return, may be considerable if the arrangement between Premier R. B. Bennett; Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of Immigration, and A. L. Mc-Pherson, Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, and Premier J. E. Brownlee, of Alberta. No official statement, however, was made.

Under the respective agreements the provinces would guarantee the two provinces, entered into more than a year and a half ago, the same body is to function with regard to both provinces in unison in all the matters concerned, assuming that such a suggestion is acted upon

Further discussion will take place on the point said to be the source of the turning over by the Dominion of certain records to these provinces. In addition, Premier Brownlee has an appeal pending before the judicial committee of the privy council asking for an accounting by the Dominion in respect to the administration of that province's natural resources prior to 1930.

Proposals for increasing the prize lists at the rifle matches to be held at Connaught Ranges next August were approved.

No Cancellation Likely

Serious Hardships Would Attend Reduction In Air Mail Service

Ottawa, Oct.—It is unlikely there will be any cancellation of existing air mail contracts it was stated on good authority here. The need for exercising economies in the post office department, coupled with the necessity for overtaking some of the $3,900,000 deficit with which the department completed the fiscal year, had given rise to the expectation that the government would reduce some of the transportation services, in which category the air mail services is understood to fall.

Cancellation of the contracts, however, would have entailed considerable hardship inasmuch as in the expectation of a continuance of the services, several companies had incurred large capital expenditures in establishing air transportations organization

Anglo-German Conference

Matters Of Vital Importance Will Be Discussed

London, England Matters of the utmost importance in European politics will be discussed from June 8 to 13, when Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany come to England for a conference with Premier MacDonald and [illegible]

Among the questions expected to be considered are general disarmament, especially in relation to the German conference early in 1932, and the Austro-German economic pact, both on topic of significance to European politics is likely to be barred

Official British circles take very calmly the suggestion that other European powers had been somewhat ruffled by the exclusive nature of the conference.

WIDER POWERS ARE SEEN FOR THE DOMINIONS

Ottawa, Ont.—Statute of Westminster has been approved by representatives of the nine provinces of Canada. A section of this proposed act, however, will contain definite safeguards of the Canadian constitution. This section, which was left to Canada to draft, ensures that the Statute of Westminster cannot repeal or amend the British North America Act.

This was the net result of the Dominion-Provincial conference which concluded here. An official statement, handed out after the conference, announced that a final draft of the Canadian clause in the Statute of Westminster was now in the hands of the provincial representatives While approved by the conference this draft would be taken home for submission to the provincial governments. They weeks has been allotted for discussion by the provinces.

Now that the clause is under consideration which will set at rest any fears that the B.N.A. Act might be altered by the Statute of Westminster, the question of how the B.N.A. Act can be changed as the occasion for amendments develops is to be taken up at some further conference in which the Dominion and the provinces will take part. This was announced by Premier Bennett

Many changes in the act, which is Canada's constitution, defining provincial and Dominion rights have been made from time to time, but the most important that where a change of jurisdiction [illegible] will, the legislatures must consent. The conference is now in receipt of the draft of [illegible] which will involve many changes.

Adherence to the Statute of Westminster is the condition of the Dominion of the British Empire It [illegible] the Dominion a more exact relationship to the Imperial Parliament. It declares the Dominions will no longer be subject to Parliamentary statutes unless they so desire. It repeals the Colonial Laws Validity Act. It gives legal approval to the position of the Monarch [illegible] status in the British Commonwealth

If the provinces approve of the clause which was agreed on at the conference the next step will be taken by the Dominion in submitting it to the general session of parliament a resolution or bill will be introduced expressing Canada's adherence to the statute The Imperial conference of last year agreed that the Dominions should express their attitude toward the statute by August If there is general agreement, the Imperial parliament will be asked to pass the Statute of Westminster

Bankers Quota Policy

British Miller Thinks Wheat Scheme Is Too Dangerous

London, England—John Westgate of Liverpool, who is an officer of the National Association of British and Irish millers, is inclined to doubt the report that the government is considering the imposition of regulations requiring British millers to take 15 per cent. of requirements from wheat growers in the United Kingdom.

No definite scheme has been submitted to the millers by any political party, he said

"It is perfectly certain that no legislation is possible without the millers' agreement," said Mr. Westgate, in an interview with the Manchester Guardian. "The quota system is far too dangerous to be acceptable And the English wheat policy at present is insufficient to constitute a 15 per cent. quota.

GREENLAWN ITEMS

More than thirty old time read dents of the Greenlawn neighborhood gathered to surprise Mr and Mrs. Wm Turnbull at their home on their silver wedding anniversary Saturday evening, April 11th. After a delightful dinner, which consisted with a wedding cake made by Mrs Herbert Parker, toasts were in order Mr R H Walker acted as toastmaster and many amusing incidents of early pioneer days were revived and glorified. Mr. Bert Lloyd, in describing "the Bonnest Days," was especially well received others also were entertaining in their response. Mr and Mrs Turnbull were assured of their neighbors' regard in a tangible way, by a presentation of table silver.

Mr. Lourdon McMullen had two bones broken in his foot when his horse fell on him not long ago.

Mr Herbert Parker is slowly improving after a nervous collapse caused by his severe injury several weeks ago.

Vermilion Old-Timers Hold Annual Banquet

The third annual banquet of the Vermilion Old Timers' Association was held in the Armouries on Friday evening, April 9th.

Eighty-five pioneer men and women sat down to the banquet table and did ample justice to a sumptuous repast provided by the proprietor of the Banquet Table. It was a happy scene. The guests had been invited to lay care aside and enjoy themselves and add to the enjoyment of others. Everyone present followed the instructions to the letter, and the Old Timers, who of late years have had very little chance to be alone together, enjoyed themselves from the moment of assembling to 1 a.m. the next morning when the party dispersed.

Mr Chas K Henry, the president for the year, presided. He called on Mr John Bishop to say Grace.

He then welcomed the members in a very neat address and read letters from Mr R G Dunsmore, Mr. Percy I Marshall, Mr G Eldon Hayward, and Mr Harry Palmer, all old timers, who wanted their absence that they were unable to attend.

A silent tribute was paid to our late pioneer friend, Mr. Alexander Hall.

Mr Henry then called on Honorary President, Mr P G Pilkie, who as the oldest pioneer present, spoke at some length. His remarks were very suitable to the occasion and were much enjoyed by those present.

There was a full card. This was handled very nicely by the Toast Master the president. The first was a toast to The King. Mr. W. E. Sutton proposed the toast "The Dominion" in a very able manner. This was responded to by Mr Fred Long who went very fully into matters pertaining to the country we live in, and when he had finished all those present thought that Canada is not such a bad place to be.

The toast "Our Province" was proposed by Mr Arthur Campbell and responded to by Mr Arthur Rounsefell. Both gentleman acquitted themselves well and when they had finished all agreed that Alberta is the banner province of the Dominion.

The toast "Our Town" was proposed by Mr. Isaac Pitchbeck, and this was handled in Isaac's thorough style. Mrs M G Brimacombe responded and when the subject was exhausted, all could see visions of a building boom in Vermilion, as all are hoping for the reputation built up for the town will what to live here.

The toast "Our Old Time-s" was proposed by Mr. John Bishop and responded to by Mrs I. A. Witherbe. Mr. Bishop spoke of the hardships encountered by the early settlers, their indomitable spirit and their general cheerfulness in the present depression and their hopefulness for the future, while Mrs. Witherbe spoke of the wives who came into the country with their husbands, and the children who came later and who through their helpful courage made the settling of the country possible.

Mr W M Stead proposed a toast to "The Ladies." This was responded to by Mr. Arthur Sharp.

The toast list was interspersed with musical selections by the Old Timers quartet composed of Mrs M. G. Brimacombe, Mrs. F. C. Long, Mr. M. G. Brimacombe, and Mr. Wm. Haddata. Solos were rendered by Mrs M. G Brimacombe, Mrs. A. Pinchbeck, Mr M A Brimacombe, Mr. Wm. Haddata, Mr I A Witherbe and Mr. Wm. Sherwood. Mr Victor Duncan contributed a mouth organ selection accompanied by Mrs Arthur Monaghan.

The old-time part of the program was reached when the chairman called on Mrs. P. G. Pilkie Mrs. Pilkie sang with all her old-time sweetness and when she had finished the applause recorded testified fully to Mrs. Pilkie's popularity.

Mr Gilbert Brimacombe accompanied throughout.

The tables were cleared away and Chris Holm and his Okimawin Cowboy Orchestra appeared with all the latest cut-time music, such as the "Lambeth Walk Waltz," "Turkey in the Straw," etc. Everyone formed for the Grand March, which was led by Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Pilkie. Then the dancing started, men and women who had not danced for twenty-five years entered around like boys and girls and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Mr Roy Walker was floor manager and with assistants, waiters, substitutes and minutes kept the crowd busy. His work was well done.

The party broke up at 1 a.m. and it was generally remarked that the Old Timers' Association is worth while and must be carried on. "Auld Lang Syne" sung with joined hands, typifies the spirit still existing amongst the old timers of the town and district

Prominent Canadian Died At Toronto

W. E. Mackenzie received word on Sunday of the death of his father at the family home, Toronto, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Following receipt of the sad intelligence Mr. Mackenzie spoke over long distance 'phone with his sister, Mrs. W. Beauchamp of that city. The deceased was in his 84th year, being born on September 16th, 1857. Besides Mrs. Mackenzie, who was 84 years old in March, he is survived by five sons and two daughters. Both the golden and diamond wedding anniversaries were celebrated by family re-unions and the life partnership continued for 66 years. About ten years ago Mr and Mrs. Mackenzie visited members of the family in the west, spending some time here where they made many warm friends. A year ago August last, W. E. visited them in Toronto. From the earliest days until his eighty-second year the late Mr. Mackenzie was engaged in contracting work. In the construction days of the C.P.R. he erected buildings and stations along the line across the prairies and through the mountains, after work extending to the Atlantic coast and also had charge of the extensive station construction for the Canadian Northern over the entire territory from Fraserton to North Battleford. The late Mr. Mackenzie was the last member of the original Mackenzie family. The family will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their bereavement.

A Good Well

Very few people in this neighborhood realize the kind of well that is located at the School of Agriculture. The well is 117 feet deep and there is a stand of 64 feet of water in the pipe. One of the electric pumps has been running steadily on this well for three months—24 hours a day—and the output from the well has been at least 200 barrels of water each 24 hours. This is used in the dormitory, with the bathers, in the kitchen and for the watering of stock and poultry. The surprising thing about the matter is that in using this tremendous amount of water the well has never been lowered an inch.

OUR HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Horticultural Society is announced to be held on Tuesday evening next, April 21st at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall. The success attending this organization since it was formed a few years ago, has been phenomenal until the annual show stands out prominently in the province. Beautiful flowers are always a joy and all can produce an exhibit of good vegetables. Co-operation and a large and enthusiastic membership is required to promote the very best interests of this society and it is confidently felt that this will be assured by the number who will attend the meeting on Tuesday.

MONEY IN MOTOR TRAFFIC.

Premier Tolmie of British Columbia in a recent address reminded his audience that tgurist traffic in that province last year left $50,000,000 in its wake, and the tourist industry had become of first rank importance. Tourist traffic in Alberta has been increasing rapidly with the surfacing of our highways and will soon reach an important stage. Attractive camping and recreation points at strategic places where tourists can lay over for a day or two would have an untold value, and this is where Vermilion's proposed valley lake and park grounds would predominate as a popular resort.

The Montreal Canadiens took the fifth and decisive game of the Stanley Cup series from the Chicago Black hawks Tuesday night by a 2-0 score. This gives the Canadiens their second straight Stanley cup, which feat has only been duplicated once before.

COMMUNICATION

EDITOR STANDARD:

Dear Sir,—A casual survey shows that there are no less than 40 (forty) different organizations in this town which have a recognized secretary and an individual banking account! All these organizations hold executive meetings, social meetings, sales and other entertainments periodically.

A good many of the major organizations have regular monthly meetings.

As there is no generally accepted centre at which all organizations can "register" the proposed dates of their meetings, parties, sales, etc the date is constantly clash, to the detriment of the success of the said card parties, dances, teas, sales, etc, organized at considerable trouble by different organizations.

If these events are advertised I believe at a very low charge

Mac: I suggest that you keep some sort of REGISTER published in your valuable paper each week, under the heading of say, "Date Booked"

For "Major" dates such as annual card parties, plays, etc, etc, where several weeks must be anticipated in preparation, the dates should be "registered" at least three weeks in advance

For "Minor" events such as tea card parties, etc, dates should be "registered" in time for insertion in the issue of your paper the week previous to the date proposed

"Registration" fees should be charged.

Yours truly,

B. E. BURY

Editor's Note: The suggestion of our correspondent is both a practical and timely one and presents little if any difficulty in being carried out. A register, such as proposed, would overcome confliction of dates and the consequent results at a small cost. In the forty different organizations in the town, Mr. Bury includes our ladies. In this connection, in most towns papers will be found a standing list of the various fraternal societies, date of meeting, principal officer and secretary. These are not noted as a rule in the social activities of these bodies, and dragging 75c return mile.

It was decided to spend $5 per foot of the town levy on public work in each division

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS

Golden Text: "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth consume, and where thieves do not break through nor steal."—Matthew 6.20.

Lesson: Luke 16.1 to 17.37.

Devotional Reading: 1 John 3.13-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Parable Of the Rich Man and Lazarus. 16.19-31—We call this rich man of the parable "Dives," making use of the Latin word for "rich man." Dives was clad in purple and fine linen; his outer garment was dyed purple, and his inner garment was made from a sort of flax that grew on the banks of the Nile, so finely woven as to be almost transparent. "Purple and fine linen" is a phrase used in this day for luxury and ostentation.

And to add to its attractiveness, it is accompanied by matching bloomers with knee bands.

Apples In Egypt

Canadian Apples Are Being Well Received In the Cairo Market

The market for Canadian products, particularly apples, is ever widening. Recent reports indicate that a potential market of considerable interest to Canadian growers is available in Egypt. Canadian apples are being well received in the Cairo market, selling at around $4.88½ per box. They have not only won recognition on the best apples coming onto the Egyptian Market, but apparently they can be laid down there at a price which makes them more attractive than other fancy pack importations from the United States.—Dominion Department of Agriculture.

CHAPTER XV.

On a day some two weeks later, the unusual sight of Jake Hipps, clad in a blue sport coat of obviously modish cut, might have been seen on Main Street. He was pushing a go-cart in which sat little Martha, clasping in her arms the doll for which Halliday had sent to Boston, Julie following behind. Mary, sad of the little girl, who wore a dainty pink gown that brought out the color in her cheeks, in a desire to please her fancy she pronounced the length of Main Street's "shopping district," then turned to the north, and a long dusty thoroughfare. To all appearances she was "taking her time," which is the reverse of the truth. His purpose in His story was not to reveal the nature of the life hereafter, but to teach that retribution overtakes the sinner, and in doing this he deliberately adopted the picture he happen to have at hand which admirably suited his purpose.

The rabbi's said, "The fire of Gehenna has no power over the sinners of Israel, for Abraham descends and rescues them from it." In accordance with this thought, the rich man, who had also been a Jew, is in Abraham bosom. His place of torment and hopeless despair is far from the faithful. In only with water on the tip of his finger. But Abraham bids Dives to remember that in his lifetime he had had the good things while Lazarus had had the evil; now Lazarus is rewarded while he's punished.

it ain't goin' to begin. She's the lady I'm accommodatin'. I read in a magazine that that's what you call a person who helps out at a critical time. most any time would be critical if Mis' Halliday did the cookin'. She don't know salt from soda."

"She's an artist, you know," suggested Mary kindly. "Some artists aren't as practical as the rest of us."

"Well I'll tell the world she's practical enough to know what pleases a man, though she don't try very hard to please her own. She's like them women in the movies, Mis' Maxwell, them that don't appreciate a good, steady feller when they got him, but is always runnin' after some other woman's husband. How them Myers ever ristered her—he was about as handsome as a stuffed pillar case, but he wore pants and was somethin' they'd got used to. I guess maybe you found me that elegant black dress for the funeral, and if I can liven you up with a little news about the Halliburn, why it's my Christian duty to do it. I was goin' to say that that putty Myer man did for a time, but now he's gone and there ain't no one handy for her to make eyes at but Nick. I've known Nick Hastings ever since he wore short pants, and to see him stiffin' up the veranda fence made a fool of, gets my goat."

"What do you mean?"

Mary Maxwell threw her scruples to the wind as she seated herself, while Julie, enjoying the role of newsmonger, spoke mysteriously.

"I was last night, and had run over to carry a glass o' jelly to Sadie Twichell. She bakes wuss a-bed, and Nick was supposed to be lookin' out for 'em; but Mis' Halliday see him an' called him over. He'd gone for a walk—Mr. Halliday, I mean, and I was puttin' away the silver in the sideboard; that is, I'd been puttin' it away, and had sat down a minute by the window. They was right outside and I couldn't help hearin' what they said."

"But, Julie, it's not honorable to listen to conversations that way."

"It's what's Satanic, I was restin' my feet. Mis' Halliday give me a pair o' pumps she got tired of, and they're such purty broke in yet, so I set down by the window and slipped 'em on. And just then she give a sort o' call. It sounded for all the world like a bird, and I looked out and saw Nick Stevens propped like he was in the Boston paper that his ma left him a pot o' money—him and his sister. I guess Mis' Halliday knew which side her bread was buttered on when she took him."

"Julie, Julie! you really shouldn't say such things. Of course she cared for him."

"Take it from me," replied Julie, unabashed at this reproof, "that woman don't care for nothin' but her complexion. And she told you something. Mis' Maxwell, though I wouldn't say it if I didn't know you for all of a gossip; Mis' Halliday is one o' them women they call a vamp!"

Julie made this announcement with such fine oratorical effect that Mary Maxwell was forced to stifle a laugh, and to command that Julie should agree with her own conclusions regarding Angela Halliday. She hid her smile behind little Martha's curls before she answered:

"Mercy, Julie! What a thing to say about your mistress!"

"Excuse me, Mis' Maxwell," Julie corrected, "but I never called nobody that yet, and at thirty-four years old husband that if the President of the United States should invite Julie Hipps to dinner, she would go through the proceeding with no uncomfortable qualms as to her fitness. She seated herself now in John Maxwell's favorite chair, and proceeded to rock at as rapidly as she talked.

"She's gone to Boston to see about opening up their apartment for the winter; and he's gone to Aston Hay to see an old aunt or somebody. He didn't go till after she left. Guess he didn't want her to find it out. By my time's my own till supper. Look out, Martha, you'll be brushin' the baby's hands if you pull on 'em like that."

"No, she won't," contradicted Mary. "They've w.ltested the hands of five children and seven grandchildren. Well, Julie, if the Halliburns go back to the city you'll be out of a job. Perhaps you'll do my fall cleaning if I leave it long enough."

"Well, now I'd thought o' that myself; but it seems they don't want to take Martha with 'em. Maybe there ain't room in that flat, but it's my opinion that she won't have her. Anyhow, I'm to stay right on and be sort 'o caretaker for the house and Martha Ann, too. It'll be some more sense, but Mr. Halliday said he'd make the pay all right, and I will say he may have a long face but he ain't got a mean bone in his body. Sam Toomy's to come every day to fix the furnace and bring up coal and wood. I'll five like a lady. Say! I see in the Boston paper that his ma left him a pot o' money—him and his sister. I guess Mis' Halliday knew which side her bread was buttered on when she took him."

"Julie, Julie! you really shouldn't say such things. Of course she cared for him."

DEPRESSION

"I'm a different woman"

"Two years ago I began to get depressed, and everything was too much trouble for me. I was a misery to myself and everyone else, too. I was advised to take Cheshire Salts by a friend who said it was the same as Kruschen but it did me no good. I felt I was getting worse and to please her own. She's like them women in the movies, Mis' Maxwell, them that don't appreciate a good, steady feller when they got him, but is always runnin' after some other woman's husband. How them Myers ever ristered her—he was about as handsome as a stuffed pillar case, but he wore pants and was somethin' they'd got used to. I guess maybe you found me that elegant black dress for the funeral, and if I can liven you up with a little news about the Halliburn, why it's my Christian duty to do it. I was goin' to say that that putty Myer man did for a time, but now he's gone and there ain't no one handy for her to make eyes at but Nick. I've known Nick Hastings ever since he wore short pants, and to see him stiffin' up the veranda fence made a fool of, gets my goat."

"What do you mean?"

Mary Maxwell threw her scruples to the wind as she seated herself, while Julie, enjoying the role of newsmonger, spoke mysteriously.

"I was last night, and had run over to carry a glass o' jelly to Sadie Twichell. She bakes wuss a-bed, and Nick was supposed to be lookin' out for 'em; but Mis' Halliday see him an' called him over. Travelled On Dimes

Unique Method Used To Finance Round the World Trip

Oscar S. Bodenhausen started back to his home in St. Joseph, Mo. recently, after making the world on dimes.

Twenty-seven years ago he decided to save every dime he found in his pockets at the close of each day. Last August, having amassed $3,700, he took a de luxe train for San Francisco. There he embarked on a tour that took him to all the places he had been dreaming of—Japan, Korea, Manchuria, China, the Philippines, Burma, India, Ceylon, Italy, Paris and London.

He landed in New York with $350. It becomes the nucleus of a new travel fund.

It has been estimated that 90,000,000 theatregoing enjoy the earth's atmosphere from outer space every day.

Substitute Substitute

Drugs producing hypnotic sleep as a substitute for anesthetics in operations were described to the American Chemical Society recently. The chemists were informed of more than 1,000 successful operations already performed in this sleep. The hypnosis still is quite limited, but there is hope of a sleep deep enough for any kind of operation.

Little Helps For This Week

"Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward."—Exodus xiv. 15.

Let us have done with vain regrets and apologies for the days that will never be ours again. Our work lies in front, not behind us; and "forward" is our motto. Let us set out with folded hands gazing upon the past as if it were the building; it is made of that remarkable granite, Memory. Then we shall waste heart and life thinking of what might have been, and forgetting the "may be" that is.

C.N.R. EMPLOYEES HOLD FAREWELL PARTY TO MR. & MRS. J. WATTS

A very delightful affair under the auspices of the Canadian National Recreation Association of Vermilion was held in the Britannembe Hall on Friday evening last when a party of 60 railroaders and their friends met together to honor Mr. and Mrs. John Watts who are leaving Vermilion to reside at the Coast. Mr. Watts has served with the Canadian National Railways for the past 19 years and has been retired from the service.

A very enjoyable evening was spent in games, etc. Agent W. A. Fallow, in a very kind and appreciative speech presented Mr. Watts with a wallet on behalf on behalf of his fellow employees on the railroad. He expressed the regret of all present at having to say goodbye to Mr. and Mrs. Watts, and that he hoped they would both be long to enjoy their retirement in Vancouver. Mrs. W. E. Macdonald presented Mrs. Watts with a beautiful bouquet of roses and carnations. Mr. Watts in his response expressed his regret at leaving so many good friends in Vermilion, and intimated that he would have liked very much to spend his retirement in Vermilion, but thru force of circumstances he had to move to the Coast.

A splendid lunch was served by the members of the Canadian National Recreation Association and the function terminated with "Auld Lang Syne" and hearty cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Watts.

Death Of Former Mayor Of Vermilion

Word of the death of William J. Steed at his home at Vancouver, B.C. on Monday last was received here with profound sorrow and regret. He was seventy three years of age, and passed away following a brief illness. Mrs. Steed survives him.

Deceased was born in Adelaide, Ontario and lived for many years at Strathroy. He was married to Annie Welch daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith of Hensall. Until middle life he was associated with the Hobbs Manufacturing Co. of London, but came West in 1906 when he purchased the Steeple Hardware store at Vermilion which he successfully conducted for a number of years. In 1918 he retired from active business and for the benefit of his health located in Vancouver. From there, in company with his wife, a trip was enjoyed to the British Isles and periodic visits made to Vermilion where he had considerable business interests.

Mr Steed last visited here about two years ago and enjoyed greatly renewing acquaintance with many of his old friends. During the twelve years in which he was a most highly respected citizen of this town, his activities were numerous and he willingly devoted much time to the promotion of all worthy undertakings. In 1913 he was first elected on the town council and early in 1914, on the death of Mayor Ryan, succeeded him in the chair. The duties of Mayor he discharged with honor to himself and in the best interests of Vermilion for four years, practically throughout the war period. The material interests of the town were substantially advanced by the building undertakings of Mr. Steed who erected two or three fine residences, a large brick business block, purchasing and removing others property, both business and residential.

The late W. J. Steed was a Past Master of his home Lodge in the east and a life member of Vermilion Lodge No. 24 A.F. & A.M., as well as Past Deputy Grand Master.

The funeral was held at Vancouver on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The deepest sympathy is extended to his widow in the great bereavement she has sustained

ANNUAL MEETING OF HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY HELD TUESDAY NIGHT

Past Year Was Most Successful

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society was held in the town hall on Tuesday evening. Officers were elected for this year and plans discussed, while activities of the past year were reviewed. It was specially noted that the largest gate receipts in the history of the Society were received at the last annual Show.

The meeting went on record as being in favor of supervising the plant ing of trees to take off the barren bleak appearance of the present hospital grounds and this will be brought to the attention of the proper authorities. Mr. W. J. Elliott and the president of the society were appointed on a committee to look into project and draw up a plan for same providing, of course, that the hospital board is in favor of beautifying said grounds. Names of blanks were also passed in.

Officers elected were: Hon Pres dent, His Worship Mayor Fallow Pres., W. C. Herbert; 1st Vice President, Mrs H. J. Payne 2nd Vice President, Col. Watson, Secretary-Treasurer, W. G. Flint; directors, A. E. Kaiser, George Law, Miss P. Hobbis, Mrs. John Brimacombe, Miss G. Barry, Mrs. H. Watson, and H. J. Long.

A membership drive is planned and a campaign will be inaugurated to have all town residents clean and tidy up their property, even if this just means raking up and fixing the gate that is now swinging on one hinge.

Developments In Transportation

It is obvious to even the most casual observer of current happenings that we live in an age of rapid changes and revolutionary developments. Hardly a year passes that does not record some new invention, or the application of some hitherto known force to an entirely new purpose. The world makes progress, and progress must and must not be stopped, but in its onward march there is always a lurking danger that we may be weakening, possibly destroying, something which, in our own interests, we can ill afford to injure or destroy.

Does the general public, for example, fully realize the true meaning of the situation which has arisen in the realm of public transportation owing to the introduction and rapid increase in the use of motor busses for passengers and large trucks for freight haulage upon our highways, and the effect which this development is having upon our railways? Without giving the matter much consideration many people may say "We are not concerned as to the effect on the railways; they can look out for themselves." But this is a short-sighted view, because what affects the railways affects every producer, every taxpayer, every citizen in this country.

Let us briefly examine this new development, not from the standpoint of the railways, or of the passenger busses and freight trucks, but from the standpoint of the farmer-producer, the merchant, the banker or the average individual taxpayer.

The people of Canada have invested hundreds of millions of dollars in railways. They are paying heavy taxes today because of land grants, tax exemptions, cash subsidies, bonuses, guarantees of bonds and the payment of deficits in years past, in order to provide these essential services. Today the people of Canada are the owners outright of more than one-half the railway mileage in Canada, while thousands of Canadians, as individuals, are financially interested in the second great railway system of this Dominion. It is in the interests of every citizen, therefore, that our railways be operated efficiently, financially as in all other respects.

During recent years the taxpayers of Canada, Federally, Provincially, and Municipally, have been investing tens of millions of dollars annually in the provision of good roads. Thousands of miles of all-weather highways have been built, and the construction programme is to be carried forward on a more and better highways. The tax burden is mounting higher and higher as a result. The advent of the automobile forced this newer development. It could not be prevented if it had to be regretted; it is progress.

But these improved highways have created a new situation, namely, the development of motor transportation services over these highways for both passengers and freight haulage. The outcome is that the competition which the privately owned and operated automobile offered to the railway passenger service, has been intensified, with the result that railway freight earnings—the most profitable department in railway operation,—are suffering.

Briefly stated, that's the situation. Having taxed ourselves to create the railways, we have now taxed ourselves to create the means whereby rival services are made possible to cripple the institutions in which we are so heavily interested, financially and otherwise.

What does this mean, say to the farmer-producer of Western Canada? Everywhere the demand is being voiced that railway freight rates should be reduced, that in view of the present low price of all farm products, existing freight charges on those products to the markets of the world are too high, and altogether out of proportion to the price of the commodities transported. Granting this to be true, the fact remains that it costs the railways just as much to move a bushel of 50 cent wheat as it does to move a bushel of $1.50 or $2.00 wheat.

So far as the farmer-producer is concerned he must rely upon the railways to transport his product. He may move it from his farm to the nearest elevator in a truck, but he cannot so transport it to the head of the lakes ports or to the seaboard. The railways must do that. Neither can he depend upon motor truck services to bring to him all the heavy machinery and equipment from far distant points; the railways must do that, too.

Therefore, the question for the farmer-producer, and for the merchant who depends upon the success of farming for his livelihood, is to face and answer is How can freight rates be reduced; how in fact can they be maintained even at present figures, if the railways lose the revenues accruing to them from short hauls, and the lighter classes of freight?

Some people may answer that the railways can prosper on their long hauls. But experience has demonstrated that no railway can exist on long hauls alone. It is the short feeder lines on the branches that makes the railway system a success. The Grand Trunk Pacific main line was as fine a piece of railway as any country possessed, but the war stopped the building of the branch line feeders, and the railway went into liquidation.

Even assuming that main line long haul traffic could make a railway a paying proposition, the fact remains that without the revenues accruing from short hauls on the lighter classes of freight, railways would have to charge more, not less than at present, for transporting the farm products of this country to the open markets of the world.

This article, and a second one to follow, is not written as an apologist for, nor as propaganda in behalf of the railways, but solely in order to direct attention to some factors now entering into the transportation problems of this present age.—Editor.

Rhodes Scholars

Many Are Teaching in Canada's Universities and Colleges

An examination of the records shows that returned Rhodes Scholars are already playing a great part in Canadian life, even though the oldest of them are not more than three or seven years of age. They shine particularly in law and university teaching. We need go no further afield than our own McGill University to point out a Rhodes Scholar, and a fellow of All Souls, Oxford, who is Dean of the Faculty of Law. It is especially encouraging that out of 140 Rhodes Scholars, no less than 47 are now teaching in our universities and colleges. Many of these are to be found in the newer institutions, for example, in the West. Thus, as by a laying on of hands, our Canadian student bodies are receiving the impress of Oxford at second hand, if not at first. —Montreal Star.

New Queen Of the Seas

Construction Work On Giant Cunard Liner Is Proceeding Rapidly

Work on the new 72,000-ton Cunard liner has progressed so rapidly that word was received at the local offices of the Cunard Line to the effect that it is highly probable that the date of the launching will be advanced from June, of 1922, to February, of next year.

The yards of John Brown and Company, who are building this giant liner has progressed so rapidly that word was received at the local offices of the Cunard Line to the effect that it is highly probable that the date of the launching will be advanced from June, of 1922, to February, of next year.

The yards of John Brown and Company, who are building this giant liner, are a hive of industry at present, and activity ever since the order for the vessel was first given and the clang of the riveting machines has been incessant for twenty-four hours every day for weeks.

Factories and foundries all over Great Britain are also to be found working on a twenty-four hour schedule in an effort to speed up the work as much as possible. No little effort has been made to see that all the component parts that will go to make up this vessel and all her equipment, will be of the very best materials and of the finest craftsmen that the British Isles can produce are at present working and they are doing that all the new "Queen of the Seas."

It was only last Sunday that the Empress of Britain was launched by her factory in Darlington on board a steamer that required special fitting out for the trip transcontinental by the courtesy of John Brown at Clydebank. This gigantic piece of metal weighs over one hundred thousand tons and is the largest that has ever been constructed, of fitted machinery, and is now in the building of this rudder.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY SURVIVES CENSURE VOTE

London, England.—The government won in a canter. The great crisis—the Conservative motion of censure—was brought to a conclusion on the party of 94 on a vote of 366 to 281. But it was a victory for the electric Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, rather than a victory for the government's unemployment programme. Previously so Rt. Hon. Tom Johnston, Minister of Employment, presented it in the Commons recently.

The premier's chief point was what he called the danger of change in the basis.

The prime minister's strength, the Liberal leader cautiously observed, "lies not in his front bench. It lies in the Conservative front benches." If the government were defeated, the Conservatives would be compelled to take office. Did that mean food taxes? Having his arm down the long Conservative front bench, Mr. Lloyd George questioned: "Are they yes' men or 'no' men?"

The latticed garment of agreement between Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and those who would tax food, was not yet complete and repatched so many times it looked like the pasts of a tramp. Nobody knew what the Conservatives were.

"I don't think," he exclaimed, "it is fair to the country that we should confine to the Conservative benches until we know definitely and clearly and unreservedly from Mr. Baldwin what he proposes."

From the Conservative benches came the taunt: "They're looking ben appetizing than a crab pie."

"I heard that 46 years ago," responded the Liberal chieftain.

The gist of the Conservative motion of censure was that the government had failed to implement its election pledges with regard to unemployment.

Mr. Baldwin in opening the debate, quoted from the pledges which were made during the polycun election days when Labor men dreamed dreams and saw visions. He quoted at the phantom ships of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas' Canadian trip, and declared the government had produced a wholly absolutely incapable.

Mr. Johnston spoke from a large pile of statistics. Occasionally he stopped to read from a typewritten speech. He held that the government had carried out substantially the pledges of its official programme and argued that the Trade Facilities Act unemployment problem had been intensified by decreased migration to the Dominions.

He submitted the following national unemployment proposals:

1. Acceleration of housing.
2. Encouragement for the extraction of oil from coal.
3. Extension of the time for Russian credits from 12 to 18 months.
4. Encouragement of tourist traffic.
5. A study of electrification for British railways.
6. Reforestation.

2nd Demonstration

Mr. Tiessen Unemployed Battle With Police In Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man.—Six thousand unemployed disrupted the usual orderliness on city streets recently, when they clashed with officers of the law in one of the most serious demonstrations witnessed in the Manitoba capital in years.

Six demonstrators are in hospital as the result of the battle. More than a score of others are suffering from injuries, caused by the policemen's batons and flying missiles that broke store windows and damaged automobiles and street cars.

The struggle with the police occurred following a demonstration in front of the Legislative buildings as hands of the unemployed interviewed Premier John Bracken and placed their appeals before him. The 6,000 men attempted to parade downward. Scoring of police started and several of the unemployed attempted to block street car and automobile traffic.

Suddenly, one demonstrator picked up a stone and hurled it at a policeman. It was the signal for battle.

Huge rocks, pieces of cement taken from the sidewalks, clubs, fists and thick. Policemen swung their batons on the bodies of the unruly as they charged, without avail, into the crashing into store windows and automobiles. As the struggle waged, the unemployed ranged all over the business district.

Men, bleeding around the head, emerged from the scene. Many others continued the struggle until the affair scarred several. Then the police arrived and the struggling mass of humanity drifted downwards in groups, singing the "Red Anthem" and cheering the Soviet regime.

Fast Telegraph Service

New Canadian National Wire Carries 9,000 Words Per Minute

Winnipeg, Man.—The world's greatest telegraph capacity for any one of wires has been placed in service between Toronto and Winnipeg with the completion of the superimposing by the Canadian National Telegraphs and the installation of a 36-channel carrier current system between Toronto and Winnipeg.

Giving a theoretical maximum telegraphic speed of about 9,600 words per minute the system is designed to take care of transmission needs between the two east and west for a number of years to come. It makes use of a double modulation principle by working two types of carrier system, one superimposed on the other. One pair of wires between Toronto and Winnipeg is made, by the new system, to provide 36 trunk telegraph circuits.

Britain Buys Russian Wheat

Report Shows Imports Increase For First Three Months Of Year

New York.—The New York Times publishes the following special cable from London:

Evidence that Britain is buying more wheat from Russia, and about the same from Empire sources, is contained in the board of trade figures for March, which fell to show signs of the anxiously awaited trade revival. The amount paid to Russia for wheat was almost ten times as great in the first three months of this year as in the corresponding period of 1920. The first quarter's import of Russian wheat this year totalled 8,788,947 hundred-weight, valued at $7,318,995, while in the first quarter of last year Great Britain took only 221,913 hundredweight of Russian wheat, with a value of $778,500.

Tariff Advisory Board Promised

To Replace Old Board Which Was Abolished Last August

Ottawa, Ont.—Establishment by the government of a commission to replace the old tariff advisory board which was abolished by order-in-council last August would seem to assume more definite shape in the light of promised legislation during the inclusion of $130,000 in the estimates "to provide for salaries and expenses of the tariff board."

This is an amount similar to that voted last year for the maintenance of the now defunct body.

In the Speech from the Throne the establishment by legislation of a board which would investigate matters relating to tariffs was promised.

CLAIM IS MADE ALFONSO DID NOT ABDICATE

Madrid, Spain.—Members of the former monarchial government said that Alfonso did not sign an actual document of abdication.

They still, however, will not reveal precisely what he did sign. The idea was gaining currency in Madrid that Alfonso still claims the throne of Spain and may plan to return if favorable developments should seem to warrant it.

It was said that his exile was not likely to be shortened by any further disclosures. It was also said that he had withdrawn most of his funds from Spanish banks and deposited them in British and other foreign securities.

Although there was no authoritative announcement that King Alfonso was bonded for Great Britain, the present opposition is that he will go to London, England, and probably reside with his family at Kensington Palace, where his wife's mother, Princess Beatrice, lives.

Stalinoula Attributed To Canadian High Commissioner Are Questioned

Ottawa, Ont.—Statements attributed to Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain, were read to the House of Commons by Thomas Reid, Liberal member for New Westminster, who wanted to know if they were official and how governmental approval.

The former Ontario premier was quoted as saying that Canada placed a ban on Russian imports of coal because it had been found that country was competing with Wales in the European markets.

Mr. Reid underlined Canada had refused to trade with Russia for the country's own goods and not for the benefit of Wales or Great Britain No answer came from the government benches and the incident closed.

Reported Alien Drive In New England States Will Affect Many Quebec Francos

Montreal The Gazette publishes a despatch from Manchester, N.H., in part as follows

"With 35 additional Federal officers at her command, Mrs. Anna C M Tillinghast, commissioner of immigration in the New England district which includes all of the New England states except Maine, is directing extensive plans for a wholesale round-up and deportation of many thousands of aliens illegally residing in this section

"At least 30 000 French-Canadians will either be deported or returned to their native province of Quebec before the middle of next month, it is estimated. The drive is instituted to protect native labor.

"The immigration officials point out that the coming drive against aliens is not directed in any sense at any particular nationality or class."

Alberta Delisted Cats

Alberta Member Thinks Monetary Policy Of Canada Needs Change

Ottawa, Ont.—Business in Canada would improve materially if the Canadian dollar were allowed to depreciate to the level it reached at the close of the Great War, is the belief of George G. Coote, member of parliament for Macleod, Alberta.

Addressing an Ottawa service club, Mr. Coote expounded the theory that the monetary policy of the Dominion is in need of a change. "Deflation has been practiced in practically all gold countries, resulting," he said "in a disastrous fall in the price level of commodities All industries in Canada are suffering today and it would be just to reasonably inflate prices now as a corrective to excessive deflation of values"

Mr. Coote contended that a 30 per cent. depreciation of the dollars in the Argentine and Urguay had resulted in those countries taking the Canadian wheat market in Great Britain

ASK STATEMENT OF POLICY ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Ottawa.—A demand from different parts of the House of Commons that the government state its policy on the unemployment, and a declaration from the house minister that such a statement would be forthcoming when estimates were discussed, featured a hectic session in parliament.

The practice in British parliament, Premier R. B. Bennett declared, was to pass the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne before the government stated its policies. He proposed to continue that practice After the address was passed, the government would state its policies on several questions, particularly unemployment.

From East and West came complaints of unemployment conditions, warnings of possible riots, and demands for government action In a spirited brush with the prime minister, Rt. Hon Mackenzie King opposition leader asked for a statement of the government's unemployment policy. What had the prime minister meant during the last election campaign when he said he would end unemployment?

I do not propose at this moment to answer a gentleman's question other than to say this I never expected to undo in a day by remedial legislation the wrongs that have been done in this country in the past It never entered the prime minister's head that by any act he could make it impossible for these things to happen again.

J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre asked for a statement from the government on unemployment insurance He did not regard it as a cure for unemployment what was needed was work But it would be of some assistance in alleviating conditions

A resolution by Mr Woodsworth that there would be more unemployment when ships were diverted to unemployment conditions was defeated by a vote of 78 to 39

Finally, after further discussion, in the interim supply bill an introduced was put through all stages and passed by the House.

BANKER STATES NO DESIRE TO RESTRICT CREDIT

Montreal —"The banks desire to state that there has been no general withholding of credit and that they are today, as in the past, considering demands from their Western farmer clients and granting advances which appear justified, that is, advances which do not place the principal of loans in jeopardy, upon which there is a fair prospect of receiving interest and which may be repaid within a reasonable time," Beaudry Leman, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and general manager of the Banque Canadienne Nationale said in a formal statement issued recently

Interest rates charged were based upon expenses incurred in the loan business Mr Leman said His declaration was inspired by complaints made lately in and out of parliament that banks had closed down on farmers' loans or were charging exorbitant interest rates where loans were unpaid

So far as loans were concerned he pointed out that banks' functions did not permit them indiscriminately to assume the parts of the farmer, that the Bank Act limited loans operations and rightly so, for deposits loaned was but bank or public funds but the savings of depositors. Loans were available where interest and repayment in a reasonable time were apparent Mr. Leman said. Intermingling of aliens illegally residing in this section

"At least 30 000 French-Canadians will either be deported or returned to their native province of Quebec before the middle of next month, it is estimated. The drive is instituted to protect native labor.

"The immigration officials point out that the coming drive against aliens is not directed in any sense at any particular nationality or class."

COMMUNICATION

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

The Editor, "Vermilion Standard."

Dear Sir,—

On several occasions during the past few years I have felt it my duty to take up the cudgels on behalf or my fellow-citizens, and to admonish the members of our Town Council for their negligence in matters pertaining to the welfare of the community. In the majority of these cases I have been inclined toward leniency, but at the present time there exists in our midst here a condition of affairs of such a scandalous nature that nothing short of a public indignation meeting is likely to awaken these timid councillors from their lethargy.

May I suggest that the intelligent electorate of Vermilion placed these gentlemen in office to do something more than bill in luxurious armchairs in the royal magnificence of the town hall and decorate idle platitudes about artificial lakes and realistic "dams."

These matters may be entitled to a little of their attention, but not when affairs of supreme importance are allowed to stagnate.

Can it be that the prestige gained by municipal honors has placed these gentlemen so far above the "common herd" that they are ignorant of the scandal which is being discussed openly on every street corner and in the beer parlors to the topic of conversation at every "afternoon tea"?

No, Mr Editor, a plea of ignorance cannot be accepted, since I have ample proof that the facts of the case are in the possession of the members of our Council. Are all hard-complacently and refuse to raise a finger to protect the town's interests.

It will be generally admitted, I think, that our town's greatest asset is its wealth of musical and dramatic talent, and yet the elected representatives of our citizens ignored these assets in the mill rate and the price of asphalt side-walks, while at tempts are made to fob this talent from the town under their very noses. To find such an example of cold-blooded indifference one needs to go to some into Roman history when Nero did his fiddling stunt.

I maintain, Mr. Editor, that when a band of strangers make a prolonged stay in our town for no apparent reason, it is the duty of the Town Council to institute inquiries regarding the object of their visit; and, if that object is found to be detrimental to the town's interests, then steps should be taken to eject such strangers from the town limits.

For the past few weeks the streets of our town have been infested by a number of fashionably-dressed, gilt-tongued gentlemen who appear to have nothing to do other than take life easy, and it was by a mere chance that the writer discovered the fact that they hail from Hollywood, and are, in fact, "scouts" sent out by the big film corporations to hook up promising talent for the "talkies." It is small wonder that people on such a mission should make a bee-line for Vermilion, and is highly flattering to our local artists, but that does not help matters.

The credit for the discovery of the true character of these prospectors belongs to the Executive of the Vermilion Citizens' Band, who are planning to produce a musical comedy in the near future.

It appears that the Executive met with considerable difficulty in assembling a cast to take part in the production, and it was only after some pin later influence was at work.

Exhaustive inquiries brought to light the fact that practically every local artist had been offered a tempting contract to appear in a leading role in forthcoming film productions. Fortunately the discovery was made before any of them had "signed on the dotted line"; and, to their lasting credit, it must be said that every one of those local artists shall ingly tore up the contract which would have meant fame and fortune when it was pointed out to them that the Vermilion Citizens' Band was in danger of becoming defunct unless they gave their services for the Band's musical production.

It is due, then, Mr. Editor, to the loyalty of many of our citizens that a grave disaster to the future of Vermilion has been averted, and the Band is now able to go ahead with preparations for the production of Lionel Monckton's famous musical comedy, "The Cingalee."

Full of tuneful music, interspersed with scintillating dialogue and hilarious comedy, this musical play, which delighted London and New York each season for many months, will be presented by a local cast of forty artists comprising the cream of Vermilion's vocal and dramatic talent.

May I conclude by suggesting that the Town Councillors can partly redeem themselves of their before-mentioned sins by boosting the show to the utmost, and attending the performance in a body.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I am, Mr. Editor,

Yours truly,

CIVIC PRIDE.

Two Extra Features in the NEW HI-SPEED

Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES

FIRESTONE, pioneers of balloon tires, announces a new tire which surpasses in strength, in safety and in wear-resisting qualities, any tire that has ever been built. This new tire, at no extra cost, incorporates two new added features—

Balanced Construction—which eliminates "loping" or "shimmy" and is the only way of building Gum-Dipped Tires to Balloon Size.

The Double-cord Breaker—which increases adhesion between the tire body and tread by 60%. It lessens that absolutely no road shock can reach the body of the tire and causes a blowout, and, no matter what the speed or the weight, the tread simply cannot be torn off—The tire is safe at any speed.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have won and hold all official records for mileage and endurance. You cannot afford to do without the extra strength and safety that only Firestone can give you. See your nearest Firestone Dealer today—he saves you better and saves you money.

REFLECTION

Do we need God?
And, oft we hear the cry.
Yes, and the need
In this distressful hour;
Yet, when the lure
Of Mammon calls of old,
We cruelly ourselves
Upon his crum of gold.

Oft in our triumphs,
Raised by our own might,
Then have we felt ourselves sufficient for the fight.
But when our greed
Has burned our gold to dross,
We search for God
Through Christ upon the Cross.

TO BEAUTIFY HOSPITAL GROUNDS?

The Standard notes with interest that the matter of beautification of the hospital grounds was discussed at the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society Tuesday evening. The Society is offering for the consideration of the board, a plan of tree planting which they will supervise, providing the hospital board see fit to sponsor a program for beautification of the grounds in connection with the municipal hospital.

No doubt is felt as to the ultimate outcome of the proposal, and as a start is half the battle, people may confidently expect to see grounds surrounding the hospital which they can at least look upon with some pride, instead of what are very aptly described elsewhere as barren and bleak. It is to be generally regretted that such a program of laying out these premises was not launched a number of years ago. It is a project upon which several hundreds of dollars could be very profitably expended.

Midnight Fire Razes Business Block

Oldest Store in Town Destroyed — Flames Kept from Spreading In Spite of High Wind

Fire, from an unknown origin and which was already burning fiercely when discovered, destroyed the two-storied building and contents of Schwartz & Co., general merchandising business, in the small hours of Sunday morning. The first alarm was turned in from the C.N.R. station at 1:45 a.m., the direction from the windows of the depot, of the flames attracting attention.

The fire already had a strangle-hold on the building and in the teeth of the high wind blowing no hope was held out for saving the block, and efforts were confined to keeping the fire from spreading to other nearby buildings. In this the firemen were greatly aided by the direction of the wind, which was from the north west and blowing towards the park, and by the covering of sheet metal on the building, which kept the flames down and the embers from flying.

John Hakewal, the manager of the store, had rooms on the second floor with his family. Miss Stapchuk, an employe of the firm, had living rooms there also. These people escaped with very little but a few clothes.

Absolutely nothing was saved from the building. The loss is estimated on the building at $2000 and fixtures and contents at the time of fire the building was owned by A. J. Chmielnitsky of Redina. The contents were owned by Schwartz & Cowper. This building is one that escaped the big conflagration of 1918 and was one of the oldest buildings in the town being built by W. J. Macnab back in the early days, and was used as store and the upper storey as a hall for some time. It is understood that both building and contents were insured, it is not likely that the block will be rebuilt.

Long, Cold Night for Firemen

The firemen were on the scene at 1.45 a.m on a cold blizzard night and never got off duty until some six hours later when all danger of the fire spreading was passed.

Ah Hall, Mah Hong!

Mah Hong, genial and kind hearted manager of the Union Cafe served the fire boys with steaming hot coffee on the street after they had put in some two hours of work and then later had them all into the warm kitchen of the cafe in relays where the coffee was a hot lunch for which he would take no remuneration. Needless to say this was tremendously appreciated and many thanks to you, Mr. Hong.

HOW TO PRAY

Golden Text: "Lord, teach us how to pray."—Luke 11:1.
Lesson: Luke 18.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 61.

Explanations and Comments

Prayer Should Be Earnest, verses 1-8.—For the purpose of teaching His disciples that they should always pray, and should pray without discouragement, Jesus gave them a parable. The word "always" should be taken literally, for, "the whole lives of the faithful should be, in Origen's words, 'one great connected prayer.'"

Men ought always to pray and not to faint; suppose we turn the counsel into a precept: "Men ought always to pray and they will not faint."

Dr. J. H. Jowett suggests. "When a man faints in the day of adversity it is because a line of communication has somehow been cut, and he has lost touch with his base of supplies. He has become separated from his spiritual resources, and in the hours of wounds of the campaign he has begun to lose heart."

There was in a city a judge, as man the parable, who feared not God and regarded not man. It is thought that such a judge must stand for a heathen judge, since, in the time of Christ, the Jewish judges were required "prudence, gentleness, piety, hatred of mammon, love of truth, that they may be beloved and of good report." To such a judge there came often a widow bemoaning her wrongs at her adversary, to give her justice. Her adversary was probably a rich neighbor who, taking advantage of the death of her husband, had stolen her land. The silence of violently appropriating the property of widows and orphans is often alluded to in the Old Testament. Finally, overcome with throats of divine vengeance, Ex. 22:22-24, etc.—Dummelow.

For a long time the judge would not listen to her claim, but finally he became weary and it would take the matter off with her continual coming literally, give her justice, lest when he then yielded to her entreaty and gave her justice.

And shall not God avenge His elect? (Revised Version, "maketh good cause of Israelites and then of Christians), question of Jesus. The argument is, if a man who is an unjust judge will thus yield to importunity, will not God, who is the righteous Judge, answer the prayers of His people? "They cry to Him day and night and yet He is long suffering over them."

Nevertheless when Jesus dips into the future), when the Son of Man cometh, will He find faith on the earth?" The note of encouragement is followed by one of warning. "It is not enough to pray for the Church; see that you are ready for it. There is no doubt about the "Coming"; there is grave doubt about the state of the world at the "Coming."—A. R. Fausset.

The Lamb Slaughtered

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE

"There we were! Standing on the edge of the lake, Scottie and I. Five to ten feet of water in front of us, and behind us. Then we heard that strange crash coming through the undergrowth.

Scottie stood bristling and growling—his hair on end, his tail stiff. I picked up a heavy stick and stood with my back to the edge of the lake. They passed on either side of us, and we breathed again.

Then words seemed to be alive with

It was quite useless. Scottie would have a fight, and there was plenty more time to reach us from any direction. We just stood, getting more and more frightened.

It's a sudden 8-mile rushed her way. I remember that she weighed 8 tons and was a mere 2 ft. high. Before long we could see the dust rising in the air, and then we heard the roar of the engine. Then we saw it, it was an amphibian plane that lands either on the ground or on the water.

It came down water with a "splash-splash" and taxied right up to us. (Scottie and I knew a thing or two about planes, for Uncle Jim was in the Royal Air Force in the war.) "Hello," said Jim, "you don't look exactly happy. Where's the rest of the party?" Then we told him what had happened, and he said, "Well, I'm glad I happened to be flying over this part of the country. I'll take you back to camp."

So we got in and Scottie was very glad to be back with Uncle Jim. He's a real sport, and he always has things. I suppose he's the only man who has a dog-proof aeroplane.

Then we flew back to camp and told the others about our adventure. Right into some wretch person was handing out the letters and there was one for me. I opened it and found it was from Uncle Jim. He said that he had found a fine place for a week's fishing next week. The motor is a hummer—it's a real "flivver," mastered Jim, "and whenever anything that announces it's "gone out they just screw in a new one. I've been making a new wagon for the week's end, or a good boat for it doesn't hold, but it acts like a flying rooster in the air, and it runs but no fuel."

"I don't know what a ransom is Mis' Maxwell, and you don't need to tell me anything about Nick. Most ways he's good as gold, but he always did like a change now and then, and when a cold-blooded vamp like Mis' Halliday gets hold of him, there's no knowin' what'll happen. Why at the movies last Saturday I see a young feller with a wife and baby, just laid round by the nose by a woman no wichsoever than her. And he sell a lot o' stock by his wife too. The best o' men is children in the hands of a woman, you can bank on that. Of course I ain't meanin' anything personal about Mr. Maxwell."

Mary smiled. She tried to switch her self onto another subject by mentioning little Martha, but, as Cap'ens told Nick, no one could stop Julie when she got started. In fact Mary's choice of subject was unfortunate, for Julie said:

CUNARD
ANCHOR DONALDSON

I wasn't coming home this noon anyway, you know, and I had much later in order to take in her trash. However she got it, I'm glad she's gone. Now I can smoke my pipe in peace without the fear of some thing flying past my head. Now I can come home to check those trunks. Say, Mary, I'm going to have a party. How can one woman have such a wardrobe?"

Nick threw an amused glance across the table.

"What's the matter, old girl? Upset about anything? Your remarks sound just the least bit feline."

"Yes, I am upset." Cay confessed honestly, her color rising. "I don't think Mrs. Halliday should have asked you to see her off, nor do I think you should have gone. It's been a different woman I wouldn't care; but she's the sort people notice and speak of. Most of our friends knew you were out all night with her the time you came down with pneumonia — and you know how Bahrenville can gossip. I don't care for their gabbut if we're to live here——"

"Why, dear little home girl," Nick interrupted, "what do you mean? I never thought——"

"You don't think enough, Nick. That's the trouble. Because you love me you can't imagine that anyone could misconstrue your actions. But they do. Why even Julie——"

"Julie Nipps is a confirmed scandal monger. Nick was angry. I am ashamed that my wife should listen to anything she says. I believe it's she who's responsible for your unwarranted attitude toward Mrs. Halliday. She needs it, too. She said last night that you wished you'd let her get nearer to you."

Cay lowered her eyes.

"Nick, were you ashamed of me," she said coldly, and at her voice Nick's good-humor, never long absent, returned. He threw his arm around the table, sat down on the arm of her chair.

"Cay, you sin. Let's not get ruffled over a thing like this. Of course I'm not ashamed of you. That was just simple. You're all I have to be proud of, Cay—you and the kiddies. If I'd known you'd mind my going to the station I wouldn't have gone, of course. Personally if I don't care what people say; but if you do, I'll be more careful. Here, kiss me. I believe we almost quarrelled. It's ridiculous. Don't you know that there's only one girl in the world for me?"

He sang the last words, and Cay had to smile, even though the tears were not far off. It was seldom that they came even as near as this to having words, and such things hurt her. Nick would forget, but Cay, woman-like, would feel the scars for a long time. She winked back the tears, but the eyes she lifted were very bright, and Nick understood. He put an arm about her, and said, kissing her gently: "There! that's better. Not mad, are you?"

To his surprise she didn't smile, but arose quickly, as if to clear the table.

"Not mad," she answered. "Just—just a wee bit frightened—that's all."

"Frightened? At what?"

His tone was fraught with astonishment; but Cay, managing something that was an excellent imitation of a laugh, refused an answer.

Hospital Costs Advance

Charges Have Been Increasing Since 1913 and 1929 Are Shown

An almost unbroken advance in hospital costs and charges between 1913 and 1929 are shown in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The report is based on returns received from 84 hospitals in Canada. The rates charged in 1929 were 6.6 per cent. higher than in 1928.

A general survey of the changes which occurred in 1929 indicates that the greatest increases in rates were for public wards. Semi-private room rates moved upward very slightly, while private room rates were shown as a little lower for the first time since 1913. Operating room charges remained almost stationary. The average cost of maintenance per patient per day advanced again, and was 110.4 per cent. above the figure given for 1913. It is interesting to compare this advance with that registered by rates, which have apparently risen only by about 85 per cent. according to the movement of a weighted average for the rate figures which follow.

The number of the public ward charges made in 1929 amounted to $2.03, as compared with $1.96 in 1928. This item was $1.65 in 1926, and $1.02 in 1913, an almost uninterrupted increase having occurred at that time. Provincial average rates in 1929 ranged between $1.50 for Prince Edward Island, and $2.33 for British Columbia.

Canada's Poultry Industry

Poultry Population Now Five Times More Than It Was Forty Years Ago

Canada's poultry industry is forging steadily ahead. The poultry population of hens and chickens for 1930 numbered 36,347,000. This represents an increase of one million birds over 1929, and is in marked contrast with the total of 12,686,701 of 1891. Present indications are that Canada's poultry population for the present year will be practically five times what it was forty years ago.

The tea under the auspices of Queen Esther Chapter, O. E. S. which was held at the home of Mrs. A. V. Lee was a decided success. The room was beautifully decorated with daffodils and cowslips. Mrs. Liddiatt and her committee had charge of the afternoon. Mrs. Law received at the door and Mrs. West, Worthy Matron, poured tea at a table prettily decorated with a large five-pointed star, candle tapers and a basket of snapdragon. A pleasing sum was realized which goes to the benevolent fund. We wish to thank those who helped to make it such a success.

LITTLE THEATRE CLUB HELD ENJOYABLE RALLY

The Little Theatre Club held an enthusiastic rally on Thursday last in the Britannia Cafe Hall. Nearly all the members were present and extraordinary enthusiasm marked the evening's proceedings.

The president, M. A. Brimacombe, presided at the business session. The secretary's report showed that the receipts from the two productions of "Barbarossa of Seabury" were $264.50 and that the expenses were $208.17, leaving $56.33. This was duly put in the bank and to donate the remainder to the Associated Societies of Vermilion. Accordingly a cheque for $60.00 has been mailed to Mr. R. E. Kaiser secretary of that organization.

Plans for the future were discussed and it was decided to put on a play very soon. Arrangements are now being made.

After "Barbarossa of Seabury" had been sung and cheered from cover to cover the ladies served a delicious lunch and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

June 3rd. Town's Annual Sports' Day

Falls On Wednesday This Year

Vermilion's annual day of sports this year will be held on June third as usual, but this falls on a Wednesday and should prove greatly beneficial to the attendance that day, as it is a half holiday. It is altogether probable that should the attendance show a decided increase over former years that Vermilion's sports will be held on the Wednesday closest to the 24th each year, in order to have it on a half holiday. As it is now, the sports fall on no holiday and the gate suffers as a result.

Fire Calls Of The Last Week

Another Saturday Night Blaze

The week-end continues to be Vermilion's pet fire period, the shrill siren calling forth the firemen and many others at 12 midnight Saturday when a chicken house situated at the rear of D. Maskell's house in the extreme east end of town, burned clean by to the ground. Being a straw and log building it burned brilliantly for short time.

Call to Barber Shop Monday Noon

Mack's barber shop and residence on First Street south was at most the scene of a disastrous fire Monday at 1:25 p.m. when an explosion occurred in the kitchen, igniting some clothes, which were thrown outside before the building caught. Jack Ryley, a boarder at the Backock house received severe burns to his face and hands in helping to throw out the flaming garments. A good suit of clothes and a dress were destroyed.

CHANEL VANI

When an old time like Bill Steele steals a march on his friends there is bound to be an accounting So on Monday night April 24th the peaceful quiet of Clandonald was shattered all to bits when a large and well organized army of these friends steal thly surrounded his home, cutting off all escape for and all and then proceeded with all the devices of an old time chari vari. Every known brand of noise-making instruments was pressed artfully operated by willing artists. A run in the hands of an expert marks was delivered the telephone wires incidentally thereby making doubly sure of no outside interference. The din was deafening. However all this failed to draw the blushing groom, whereupon several brass and dolcimined scouts formed an entrance and after an exciting hunt found the object of the search in the basement disrupting valiantly but eventually overpowered, he was brought to the surface. Then demands were made for the bride to be. Very soon the newlyweds were in the midst of the crowd graciously greeting (felt many boss) assorted guests. Finally Bill was called upon for a speech and although shock and surprise had somewhat damaged his aplomb, manage to give a very appropriate response to the request Mr. Watling very ably expressed the hearty good wishes of the invaders, who after joining hands and singing For they are jolly good fellows," with much good-natured raillery some sound advice to newlyweds, and happy goodnights with

Abolition of the Soldier Settlement Board and its replacement by a director of soldier settlement has been decided upon "in the interests of economy and efficiency," Hon. W. J. The Common Cold

A Few Simple Rules That Will Assist In Avoiding This Disease

(By John Burke Ingram.)

When you catch a cold from another person you do no because germs from his nose or throat have been thrown out by a cough or a sneeze and have found their way to you. If everyone would remember to be very careful to cough or sneeze into a handkerchief when suffering from a cold there would be a rapid decline in the incidence of this ailment

But it is possible through our own neglect and stupidity to develop a cold quite spontaneously. Going around with wet feet instead of taking the slight trouble of changing shoes and hose, running out of a warm house or office into a cold damp raw spring day are illustrations of two common causes of the too-common cold

Do not make the mistake of thinking little of the common cold. It keeps more people away from work all the time, than any other disease, and it very often develops into other ailments. It can cause heart disease, rheumatism, nose, throat and sinus trouble, deafness and last but by no means least, pneumonia which I shall mention later.

Now the question of prevention Here are a few simple rules. First, always sleep with your window open. If you get used to fresh air, even cold air, it won't cause your system such a shock If you happen to encounter a hot suddenly when leaving warm build ngs. Many people have the mistaken notion that the best way to avoid a cold is to shut oneself up in warm rooms and to enclose the body in thick heavy clothes. This, on the contrary, is one of the best ways of catching it. One should carry a bow of fresh air even further than formerly and that is by sleeping with open windows. One should exercise as much as possible in the fresh air in any time. And as to clothing, it is much better to slip on a coat whenever you leave a warm building, so easier for how short a time, than to rely upon thick woollens. Protection against sudden changes of temperature, not heavy clothing, is important Wear for the question of general physical condition. Naturally the less the condition that you are in, the less likelihood there is that you will develop a cold, and there are many d to go about physical condition which the average person neglects. Did you know for instance that defective teeth, diseased tonsils and the presence of adenoids all bo'p to lower your body's resistance to the common cold? A thorough physical examination by your family physician and by your dentist will reveal the possible existence of any of these things. Many a man has been able to think a timely visit to his dentist for a cold free winter.

Stay away from crowds during the treacherous weather of autumn and spring. Support your Medical Officer of Health, so that he may enforce health rules in restaurants etc. In a word that these may be kept scrupulously clean and free from germs Wash your hands before each meal.

It is safe to say that every case of pneumonia starts from a common cold. This frequently fatal disease is "catching" and those suffering from it should be isolated. 121,000 people in the United States and Canada die from it every year. One out of every five who contract it dies of it, yet if pneumonia attacks you. This disease places a great strain on the heart and lungs and often slight exertion may bring about the death of the patient. Anyone suffering from it should not get out of bed for any reason whatever, and all arrangements should be made for the comfort of the patient.

Will Breathe Life

The Saskatoon Horticultural Society is receiving this spring from the Dominion experimental farm at Rosthern, 1,000 Scotch pines and 500 birch trees to be used in the beautification of city gardens.

Don't be without Dangles' Egyptian Liniment! Keep it always handy! Relieves toothache, neuralgia sore throat, quinsy, and croup. Invaluable for burns, sores, Barber's Itch and Ringworm.

Excursion Rates For Air Trips

Week-end excursion rates are to be put into effect by a London-Paris air service. The round-trip rate between the two cities will be $30, as compared with $300 in 1919, and making it cheaper to travel by air than by first-class train or boat.

JESUS IN THE HOME OF ZACCHAEUS

Golden Text: "The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost."— Luke 19:10.

Lesson: Luke 19:1-10.

Devotional Reading. Psalm 103. 8-22

Expansions and Contraction

The Call of Zacchaeus, verses 1-6.— It was on His way to Jerusalem that Jesus passed through the chief publican—a commissioner of taxes, or internal revenue officer, we might call him. The office of chief publican was usually held by a Roman knight, but the office of publicans being given to Jews Zacchaeus must have been a man of considerable wealth to have gained this office. Love of gain had led him to accept the office, and as publican he had amassed a fortune at the expense of his brethren.

Zacchaeus had learned that Jesus had become a friend of publicans in Jericho, and made up his mind that he would see Him. Curiosity his handicap of small stature. Perhaps he had heard of Jesus as the friend of little children and sinners, and no doubt the publican was conscious of needing the restored the sight of blind Bartimaeus just outside of Jericho. In a crowd a man of small stature has little chance of see ng what is going on. Zacchaeus overcame this difficulty, and of course no one would make way for a publican.

Zacchaeus was determined, and he was resourceful. He ran on ahead of the crowd and climbed up into a sycamore tree. A sycamore tree with a leaf like the mulberry tree, and a fruit like the purplish, with a red tint low, horizontal branches. From this point of vantage he could look for the one the Great Prophet when He passed that way.

The Interview Of Jesus and Zacchaeus.—Jesus came to Zacchaeus, verse 5-10

No wonder Zacchaeus made haste to come down and receive Jesus joyfully. Probably no one couldn't have his own close and ever held out his hand to Zacchaeus in all his business life, and the kindness was so sweet as it was unexpected.

The conversation which took place between Jesus and the publican is not recorded, but the wonderful proof of the power of Christ to transform the heart of Zacchaeus and changed his life. If Jesus thought him worthy he would make himself worthy He became a new man with a new purpose. He committed himself completely to Jesus and His way of life. "Here and now, Master," he said in his Weymouth's translation, "I give half of my property to the poor; and if I have unjustly exacted money from any I will pay back four times the amount."

"Today is salvation come to this home," said Jesus to Zacchaeus, and then, quoting the words of the others present, he added, "forasmuch as he is a son of Abraham by faith, and now also 'a true son of Abraham ; ye to be called a true son of the great Hebrew father. "Christ met him with the spirit of sympathy and not in the spirit of justice. He discovered the good man in him, but never, not for a moment, condoned the unjust sin. He did not declare pardon for the wrongs done to the poor men of Jericho. He pardoned in a sense of justice through personal sympathy, and the publican offered to make restitution. Jesus was the one willing to do justice to right the great wrongs of the past, Jesus said, Salvation is come to this house "

Very beautifully does Archbishop Trench say, "Each had found what he had long sought for, the Saviour and sinner The Shepherd had found His sheep, and the sheep the Shepherd."

Edmonton Industries

Half a Million Dollars Of Private Funds Invested During 1929

A report of the joint industries committee of the City of Edmonton, covering the year 1929, shows that about half a million dollars of private funds were invested during that year in industrial enterprises in that city. And, as one means of advertising its industries, the committee has plans for placing in every home in central and southern Alberta an illustrated directory of the 200 odd firms manufacturing within the city, with a list of the products made. The committee is made up of three members of each of the following: Edmonton City Council, Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Edmonton Industrial Association and the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

Federal Assistance In Cutting With Spots Grasshoppers

One of the outstanding advantages of Rust Grading in connection with Federal assistance to sharp hoppers through the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, in the fact that individual farmers, clubs or associations can now either buy by small order, by individual selection at the breeder's farm, or in the sale ring with greater assurance that the graded animal possesses most of the essentials of a good sire. The value of rate grading to the industry is reflected in the steady improvement which is noted in purebred flocks throughout the Dominion.

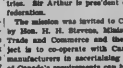
The ADVENTURES of CHICAIN Jimmy and his Dog SCOTTIE

There is a race of men who are born with a gift of roving, and a thought that all lands are home. They'll hang their hats in Kenosaurus Lake, or Chinook, emperor's palace, and settle down as contentedly as you please. But scratch beneath that, and you'll find a quiet soul of adobe and a new highway, or an odd land and a salt wind to push the call, and they'll find their way into the queerest corners of the earth, and they'll be the last ones you might call home.

If you asked the men how they got that way, or why, they might tell you that this is just because they have found that they have to be that way. Jimmy Lamont was one that was born in India—in Africa and the brown boys in India—



Jimmy in China—the Yellow Peril, for he was a child of power and he could do, and that which he could not people. Mostly it was because he was a child of power and he could do, and that which he could not people. Mostly it was because he was a child of power and he could do, and that which he could not people. High School Field Meet To Be Held Here Next Fall

V. A. A. A. To Sponsor — Lloydminster and Many Other Schools Will Compete

The meeting of the Vermilion Amateur Athletic Association held last Thursday night in the Orange hall decided to hold a big high school field meet here this fall, and to invite Lloydminster, where the meet has been held in the past, and all schools attending there to participate in the local meet. Invitations will be extended to many other high schools all the way from Vegreville to Lloydminster and also on the lines to the north and south of Vermilion. What day this will be held has not yet been decided; mainly the meet is held during the early part of the fall term. Strong favor has been expressed for the holding of the field meet in connection with the schools fair day in September, the argument in favor being that it would give the country children attending a chance to see first-class athletics in action. The only argument against this is the matter of time, as the meet itself is usually started at 12 and continues till 6. With more high schools competing reaching extra heats, etc., as is probable this year, more time will be required than formerly. At time of going to press, Principal Lloydminster high school had already accepted the invitation to attend.

Athletics to Complete Gymnasium

Another important item brought forth at the meeting, which was a stormy one throughout and drew a large attendance, was the matter of completing the rink gymnasium this year. Estimates of required amounts were given and a drive to collect the necessary two thousand dollars is being instituted. Some $900.00 of this is already on hand. Considerable argument regarding this took place but finally resulted in deciding to make a determined attempt to make the gymnasium a reality this year.

Civic Baseball League

The matter of forming a Civic baseball league was brought to the attention of the meeting with the idea that the Association take over the handling of it. It was pointed out that this club would have to be formed outside of the Association and then only itself by affiliating. This is according to the constitution, as it would be impossible for the one body to govern every branch of sport in the town, as this would branch out into baseball, tennis, baseball, etc.

High School Notes

Wednesday morning Major L. Mills of Calgary, District Cadet Officer, arrived to inspect the Cadet Corps. The sun was extremely hot but the boys did their work (at least the girls thought so). After the inspection was over school was dismissed until 1:30. Many of the students then made for the "ole swimming hole" where they relieved their hot feelings in extremely cold water.

The High School girls played the public school girls at softball this day after school. The High School girls received a severe beating from their rivals but we hope to do better on Friday when the public school girls will play at the High School Diamond.

Germany and France Really Good Friends

If Recent Soccer Game Could Be Here is some evidence that the war between France and Germany is more than officially over. A few weeks ago soccer teams representing all Germany and all France, played in Paris for the first time since the war ended, and before the biggest crowd assembled there since the Olympic games of 1924. More than 12,000 Germans attended from the fatherland, and large numbers of them visited the monument to the Unknown Soldier.

The only goal was scored accidentally for France by a German player. That makes the contest an even break between these two ancient enemies, and it ought to be a good omen for the future. But we don't think so, remember that a French band celebrated the performance with Deutschland Uber Alles.

CHAPTER XVI.

Winters are long in Bakersville. The hills which shelter it from the wind, cut off the sun, too, and in winter, where the first snow stays till the ice on the river breaks with the spring thaws.

Looking from her window on a day in February, Gay wondered, as she watched the new-fallen snow drifting against the hedge, if spring would ever come. The street was deserted of human kind, but in the garden opposite, her bobbed hair protected by a scarf of crimson worsted, Julia Nipps was battling with frozen garments on the clothes line, and from an upper window small Martha's face peered wistfully.

Gay waved a greeting. Probably the child was longing to cross the garden and play with the boys — poor little mite!—and Julia was doubtless too busy to button buggins and fasten overshoes, even if the wind had not been almost strong enough to lift the youngster from her feet.

Gay herself was rather weary of buttoning buggins. She longed for spring, for the pushing away of overshoes and mittens—for pussy willows, and the note of the first bluebird. She wanted those things even as she dreaded them because of the restlessness they brought to Nick. And she was worried about Nick. Gay would have said that he lacked "pep." He had certainly grown quiet this winter. He seemed older—less eager about everything. There were times when Gay cursed Dr. Bennett as the man who had stolen Nick's youth.

Nick, she had said the night before, when he finished reading the magazine he was reading to stare into the fire, "what is the matter? Aren't you feeling well?"

He started, as if his thoughts were far away; then smiled, and patted his knee by way of invitation.

"Come and sit here, Gay, so I'll be sure there's a reason for my existence. There have been times this winter when I've wondered why some of us were born."

This was an utterly un-Nick-like thing that Gay felt frightened. She sat on his knee, slipping an arm about his neck.

"You mustn't have thoughts like that, dear old boy. I believe you're tired; or perhaps you've struck one of those dusty stretches along life's highway."

"There shouldn't be any dusty stretches when a man has a wife like you, and two splendid little boys. I don't understand my feelings. I despise myself for having them."

"Have we—got on your nerves?"

She tried to speak calmly, but her voice trembled, and Nick rested his head against her shoulder for a moment before he answered.

"You're about the only thing that doesn't get on my nerves, darling. I'm a beast at the bank. I should think they'd bounce me. Every time Hattie Williams comes down with one of her beastly colds and infects the place, I could commit murder. I did go so far as to tell her that she'd have fewer of them if she'd sleep with her windows open, and she told Johnny Simmons I was "no gentleman." I suppose I wasn't either, but Johnny thought it an awful joke."

Gay laughed softly.

"It was funny, dear. How should you know how much Miss Hattie considers her own?"

"I can tell by looking at her; and if anyone opens a window for fifteen minutes she has a fit. But nobody else seems to mind, so I must be the cranky one. I think you're a wonder to have turned me out again ages ago."

"I shall certainly turn you out to grass if you continue to feel like this. You can't be well, Nick. I wish you'd let Dr. Bennett look you over."

"Well, I shan't." He spoke irritably. "Do you think I'll contract any more bills till I've paid what I owe now? If it wasn't for Uncle Jim I'd be ashamed to meet the doctor on the street. I tell you, Gay, the thought of another sickness for any of us would be the straw that broke the camel's back. We've got to keep well —all of us, for the next year."

His voice was strained. Gay stirred uneasily, and her arm tightened about his neck.

"You mustn't cross your bridges till you reach them," she said gently. "Haven't you told me not to worry, many and many a time? You act like a man who doesn't slept, Nick. You are sleeping, aren't you?"

"Yes; but remember I don't feel rested in the morning. Oh, look here, Gay, forget it! You have enough to feel poorly about without me."

She smiled, and suggested a game of checkers, inwardly resolving to see Dr. Bennett herself next day, and tell him how Nick was feeling.

She was thinking of this as she looked out at the drifting snow, and wondering if she had courage to walk to the doctor's office. She could leave the babies with Julia, who would be glad to have company for little Martha; but it was a bitter day, and she would have to face the wind for nearly a mile. As she hesitated, someone turned in at the gate, his neck swathed in a grey muffler.

"Why, Mr. Maxwell," exclaimed Gay, running to the door, "what brings you out on such a day?"

"The knowledge that in all probability I shall be at home," he said.

He was unwinding the muffler, and kicking the snow from his overshoes.

"Take them off," said Gay. "I've a fire on the hearth, and I'll make you a cup of tea."

"Don't bother. I had a late luncheon; and I never was much of a one for snacks between meals. But I'll take off my things. I've a good deal to say. My dear, this room is delightful, and so is your fire."

He stood for a minute looking down at the blazing log, then at the two boys, quietly at play over their blocks. They had not noticed his entrance until now, when Sonny looked up and grinned in friendly fashion, saying: "This is a depot station. You want a ticket in Uncle Sim's?"

"I'll take two," answered John Maxwell soberly, and produced imaginary payment as the little boy delivered two strips of bright green paper. Then he turned to Gay and smiled himself beside her on the divan couch. It was not John Maxwell's habit to beat about the bush. He said: "My child, I've come to see you about Nick. Has it struck you that he isn't quite himself?"

Gay's heart-beats quickened.

"I have. He acknowledged as much last evening. I was just thinking I'd run down and talk him over with Dr. Bennett. He refuses to go himself—says he won't run up any bills."

"H—m," came from John Maxwell thoughtfully. Then he said: "How did Nick tell you about himself, Gay?"

Very little, except that everything gets on his nerves. And he has morbid thoughts—wonders why he was born, and things like that. I think perhaps he went to work too soon after his illness."

"I'd thought of that; and it's been a severe winter. What he needs is a complete change. That's why I wanted to talk with you before I spoke to Nick. You see, Gay, I can supply that change. Some business connected with settling old Georgy Fleming-Lewis's affairs necessitates a trip to Montreal. I have always rejoiced in sugar, you know, and owned a good deal of property not far from Kingsmere also has a S.C. But nobody else seems to mind, so I must be the cranky one. I think you're a wonder to have turned me out again ages ago."

"I shall certainly turn you out to grass if you continue to feel like this. You can't be well, Nick. I wish you'd let Dr. Bennett look you over."

"Well, I shan't." He spoke irritably. "Do you think I'll contract any more bills till I've paid what I owe now? If it wasn't for Uncle Jim I'd be ashamed to meet the doctor on the street. Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion that may call it by nervally excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 90 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms, such as headache, gas, heartburn, etc., will disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do this!—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. Look for the name Phillips' and the word "genuine" in red.

Marking An Important Epoch

Centenary Of First Steamship To Cross the Atlantic By Steam Power

Marking the centenary of the launching of the famous steamship "Royal William," at Quebec, in the year 1831, the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire embarked on a campaign to remind the Canadian public at this historic landmark. On April 20th it was exactly a hundred years since this celebrated steam vessel, the first to cross the Atlantic by steam power, was launched from the yards of Quebec which in those days made Canada the most important shipbuilding country in the world.

In an interview on the celebration of the centenary Mrs. J. J. Breslaur Municipal Regent of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, in Montreal, stated that, "Canadians are so accustomed to the idea of celebrating centuries in other countries that they are likely to forget that Canada has her own great occasions for these celebrations. Although the importance of Canada as a shipbuilding country has diminished since the early days of the nineteenth century, Canadians may now take pride in the fact that April 30, 1931, marks the inauguration of a truly wonderful ocean era of steam navigation, an era which has produced such vessels as the "Aquitania" and Mauretania" with even larger steamers under construction. It has remained for the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire to remind a public too ready to forget Canadian historic landmarks, of the interesting centenary of the launching of the "Royal William." By radio and through the press the Montreal chapter of the Order are seeking to disseminate as much information as possible concerning the launching of the great ship.

The "Royal William" cost nineteen thousand pounds, and was launched amid most enthusiastic scenes in the historic city of Quebec. After a successful career on this side of the Atlantic, she made her historic crossing under her own steam and served successively under various foreign flags. Her length was 178 feet and her breadth including paddle-boxes 45 feet. The depth of hold was 17 feet nine inches. The rig was that of a three-masted topsail schooner. All these are in tremendous contrast to the great steamships of today the "Berengaria," and the immense new 73,000 ton Cunarder now under construction.

Few of the original shareholders of the company which financed the Royal William" may be traced today through their descendants, but among them were the three Canard brothers of Halifax including Samuel Cunard, afterwards knighted, and founder of the great steamship company which bears his name.

The Cunard Line through their indirect contact with the "Royal William" co-operated with the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in arranging for the centenary celebrations. The Cunard Line offered a series of prizes to winners of a contest available for school children in Verdun High School, in which essays on the subject of navigation on the Atlantic between the years 1830 and 1840 are being submitted. Verdun has been chosen because this is the district in which the newly-formed Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire chapter called the "Royal William" is located. Two of the prizes will be a free trip to Quebec and back on Cunard ships this summer, and six other prizes offered are luncheon entertainments on board a Cunarder in port.

Little Helps For This Week

"God is with thee in all that thou dost."—Genesis xxi. 22.

Daily firm, to conscience true,
However tried and pressed:
In God's dear sight high work we do,
If we but do our best.

Let this day's performance of the meanest duty be thy religion.

Follow duty if you would know the Christ-like calm in the presence of temptation. Follow duty if you would change resentment into patience, repentance into forgiveness. Duty is the great mountain road to God.

Women To Be Used In Far North and Survey Of Eskimo Population

"The aeroplane will be used for the first time in the history of Canada to count the population in the wastes of the Far North," stated E. S. MacPhail, chief of the division of census and vital statistics, Ottawa. Arrangements have also been made for a complete survey of the Eskimo population. This is being done for the first time also.

The actual count will start on June 1. It being expected that the entire enumeration will be completed before the end of June. The unorganized portions of the great north lands will be enumerated by members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, while aeroplanes will be used for the taking of the census along the west coast of the Hudson Bay.

Will Limit Pupils Of Normal Schools

More Teachers being Trained than Are at Present Required

Enrolment at the three normal schools in Alberta is to be restricted, Hon. Perren Baker, minister of education, announces that the number of students to be admitted for the year 1931-32 will be 700, allotted as follows: Edmonton, 300; Camrose, 100; Calgary, 300. The total in attendance at the three schools for this past year was 956.

The reductions thus to be made are explained as due to the fact that it has become apparent during the present year that there are more trained teachers available than are required to fill the schools of the province.

Under the new ruling no students will be admitted who will not be 18 years of age by December 31 next. The existing ratio between city studelts and the total enrolment will be maintained, the minister states, in order that the available places may not be filled in disproportionately large numbers from Edmonton and Calgary. As in former years, applicants will be required to measure up to accepted standards as to character, fitness for teaching and physical qualifications.

Applicants holding the grade XII certificate, its equivalent or higher standing, will be given first consideration. Next will come those holding the Grade XI certificate and standing in four or more units of the fourth high school year. It is expected that successful applicants from these two groups will fill about half the places. Some remaining will be filled from the holders of the Grade XI certificate in the order of their standing in the departmental examinations. All applications must be in before August 15.—Edmonton Journal.

War News: The Germans are pouring troops into Flanders to press the attack, which at the beginning has forced the Allies back to the Yser canal to the north of Ypres. Ypres is the key to the French coast ports and the Germans who hold the extreme left of the line and were forced to retire when the rest of the front was pressed back, made a belated counter attack, retaking four guns which they had left in the hands of the Germans. In the words of Sir John French, they saved the situation.

Then you fold it carefully, enclosing in the fold a cheque or money order sufficient to pay your paper up to date and head or mail it to the editor. If possible, keep an eye on him and if a smile adorns his face the trick works fine. And, by Heck, RIGHT NOW is the time to play it.

THE VICE-REGAL FAMILY

Fellow passengers on the liner said the Vice-regal party took part very democratically in the ordinary shipboard life, Mr. Bennett presiding at the concert in aid of Seamen's Charities and Viscount Duncannon and his 13 year old sister, Lady Moyra, taking their parts on the programme as elocutionist and pianist respectively.

Flowers And Lilacs

A very large number of people took advantage of the offer made by the School of Agriculture last Saturday to the discretion of flowers and shrubs secured from the beds when same were cleaned up. In all some 2,000 lilac plants were distributed and about 300 each of Blue Pikinx, Bonaning Deity and Ribbon Grass.

We would just like to say a word about these plants, as it may help some of those who will endeavor to grow same. The 2,000 lilacs were all of the blue variety and this particular species is one that is noted for the large number of suckers that will be thrown up during the season. This lilac may be grown in either of two ways. It may be used as a clump or the small stalks may be planted in a row to make a hedge. If they are grown in clumps it would be well to allow only from 5 to 7 of the shoots to grow. Because of the habit it has of sending out suckers, the grower will have to be very ruthless in cutting out all new shoots that appear after the first season. This will have to be done possibly two or three times during the season. If grown in a hedge they should be planted about 1 inch apart and in a season or two will thicken the hedge row completely. When grown as a hedge, and after the row has become thick, care will have to be taken to trim out all of the suckers beyond the width of the hedge that you wish to maintain. You could either cut these out, or you could dig them out and add to the length of your hedge. In planting the lilacs either as a clump or as a row be sure to leave the earth depressed around the plants so that you can very readily pour in a pail or half pail of water whenever desired.

It will be necessary to remember two things about this particular lilac and that is that it will not prune itself and will not water itself. These are two things that the grower will have to attend to and if you want bloom in another year or two be very severe in the trimming out of the suckers, and if you want a hedge do the same thing along the side of the hedge and thus keep the plants in a narrow row. For the next six weeks the lilacs should be watered at least twice a week.

With the Blue Pikinx, the plants should be set out as a third or fourth line border of a bed or as single clumps in the bed, because the plant will grow to perhaps 3ft. to 3½ft. in height. It is a profuse bloomer and should be watered just as frequently as the lilacs. Leave the earth in the shape of a basin around the plant so that the watering may be done quickly and so that the water may be held where it is wanted. Probably from the first to the middle of August the lower blooms on the spike may begin to form seed pods. If the plant is cut down within 2" of the ground at that time and watered liberally it is very probable that it will grow up and bloom again during the same season.

The various roots of the Bonaning Betty should be planted so as to form clumps. The plants form a very symmetrical round shaped growth of about 2' in height. It, of course, will not come to its full maturity during the present season but if watered liberally in the same manner as for the Blue Pikinx you will very likely get some bloom this year and then the plant will really show itself during next season.

With the Ribbon Grass the simple thing will be to plant it slightly below the surface of the ground so as to make a basin for water and you will find that as this plant grows the roots will gradually raise the plant so that it will stand above the surface of the ground. This, of course, will not happen for a year or two.

We hope the friends who got the plants may have every success with them but please remember that 90 per cent of the success you have with your flowers this year will be due to the regularity with which you water them for the next six weeks.

W. J. ELLIOTT, Principal.

Developments In Transportation

(Second Article)

In a previous article under the above heading the fact was emphasized that the motor bus and freight and express truck was offering increasingly serious competition to the steam railways with the inevitable outcome that the losses in revenue sustained by the railways would render impossible any reduction in freight rates now so generally demanded by farmers who must rely upon the railways to transport their products and supplies.

The railways are required to spend enormous sums every year in the upkeep of their systems, in additions and betterment to property, rolling stock, etc. For such purposes they expend large sums annually of both current revenues and borrowed capital. As a result they are large employers of labor. Their aggregate tax bills to the Dominion, the Province, and scenic publics run into millions of dollars.

The ability of the railways to finance such expenditures and to continue programmes of improvement in future must always be determined by the public. That fact surely is recognized.

The motor passenger buses and freight and express trucks, on the other hand, are not required to keep up the highways over which they operate. The people do that by way of the taxes on gasoline and motor vehicles, a contribution in an annual license fee and the regular tax on gasoline. In return the highways are provided and maintained for them. Yet it must be admitted that these heavy motor trucks are more destructive of the highways than countless numbers of ordinary automobiles.

Buses and trucks operate on schedule. Notwithstanding heavy rains, melting snows and frost, they continue to run, and as a result do damage to the highways costing hundreds of dollars to repair,—and the people foot the bill. The question may well be asked by the people who pay these bills whether this is fair competition to the railways who are called upon to maintain their own highways?

Railways are precluded by law from operating local freight trains on Sundays. But motor trucks are free to operate on the highways on Sundays, if not hauling loads of freight or express, at least making Sunday trips to business centres in readiness to start out early Monday morning with a paying load.

These trucks, too, operating over a fixed route, pick up orders from merchants along the line on their way to wholesale centres, turn these orders over to the wholesale houses on arrival, and later pick up the goods and deliver them along their route on the return trip. It means a fast and convenient service. It is even eliminating the need for commercial travellers. It is a service which the railways cannot supply, but it is taking substantial revenues from the railways, and making it more and more difficult for the latter to maintain their other services which neither motor busses nor trucks can supply, but which, after all, are still the backbone of the transportation systems of the country.

Already the people are beginning to pay in other ways. Local train services are being cut down. Daily trains are being replaced with tri-weekly services, mails formerly received daily are coming only every other day. In the next step to be the transfer of the mail service from the railways to the motor busses and trucks? Drafts of railway stations are being reduced to the minimum.

Nevertheless the people, and particularly the farmer producers, must continue to depend upon the railways, crippled though they be by these losses of revenue, for their major services.

What is the solution? Frankly we do not know. As stated in our previous article we are not an apologist for the railways. We hold no brief for them. Rather we are stating what is becoming an increasingly grave question for the people who, in the final analysis, pay the bills either as motorists, or collectively as taxpayers.

Are the gains in service and possibly lower rates on the lighter classes of freight and express over the railways resulting from these commercial operations over the highways more than sufficient to compensate for the losses which ultimately the people must sustain in connection with all heavier traffic and long haul traffic both light and heavy? That is the problem, not only for the railway managements, but for the taxpayers of Canada. In other words, will the gains offset, or counter-balance, the losses?

Another question is: Should not these commercial enterprises, motor passenger busses and freight and express trucks, be made subject in a greater measure of governmental control? Should they not be called upon to pay something more than a nominal license fee and the regular gasoline tax for the use they make of the public highways? Should they not be adequately assist in meeting the cost of maintenance of these highways? Should not a per ton per mile tax be imposed on trucks, or a mileage tax on passenger fares?

That is, should the taxpayers continue to pay for the construction and upkeep of these all-weather highways and grant what is practically free use of them to commercial enterprises operating for private profit and who in one operating do more damage to the highways than do the taxpayers who build and maintain them? And does the present more or less unrestricted commercial traffic on the highways, under the conditions outlined above, constitute unfair competition to the railways? Do the advantages of service provided over short distances by these commercialized highway companies compensate for the losses to railway service being sustained? In the long run, will the country be the gainer or the loser?

Argentine May Visit Canada

The Canadian delegates who visited South America to attend the British Empire Trade Fair at Buenos Aires, recently announced that farmers in that district will now approximately the same acreage in grain as in former years, the reason that the soil is in good condition so far as moisture is concerned having thirty per cent. more reserve than at this time a year ago.

Bombrook's Old Home To British Columbia

Boy Of Johnstown Strait Named After Ancient British Property

Bombrough, the name which has been on all Canadian Spe since the appointment of the Earl of Bombrough, as Governor-General of Canada, has been known to British Columbia, particularly those who have travelled the famed inside passage to Alaska for 66 years. The province's association with the name goes back to 1865, according to Henry W. Schofield, district passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway and well-known historian. In that year Bombrough Bay in Sunderland Channel, off Johnston Strait, which forms part of the inside passage, was so named in honor of the ancient British family.

According to Mr. Schofield, who traced the origin of the name in Capt. John W. Buckham's "British Columbia Coast Names," the bay was named after the Baron Bombrough.

The holder of the title at the time the reference states, was John Brabazon Aylmer, fourth Earl of Bombrough and Baron Dunconnon. His nephew, Rupert Brabazon, was a midshipman in the Royal Navy, serving then on the B.C. coast.

Education In Education

Imperial Encyclopedia Should Be Given To Immigrant Students In Canada

Under the leadership of Dame Muriel Talbot, a party of 12 British headmistresses of girls' schools in the Old Country, have arrived in Canada. "We are sunpioneers in the real sense of the term," said Dame Muriel Talbot in an interview before she left the Duchess of Bedford, "We are going to explore the educational system as far as it relates to girls in Canada, so that we can study parents on the wisdom of sending their girls to Canada to complete their education.

"Nowadays, the girl going to school thinks of the future and maps out a career for herself. There is not much scope in the Old Country and like her brothers, she must cast around for some other country where she can earn a living.

"Canada is a young country and girls' educational facilities have been brought up to a high standard and therefore we are also here in the capacity of learners.

"If a girl is coming to Canada to earn her living then she should fit herself for that purpose by completing her education here on the ground.

"For that reason we wish to see what the universities have to offer. We are also going to interview commercial men, examine and also to study the educational standards. In addition to that we shall be able to address parents on the subject.

BENNETT MAY REDUCE THE SIZE OF HIS CABINET

Ottawa, Ont.—Establishment of a new department of communications in the Dominion government to have jurisdiction over all services, radio, wireless, canals, wireless and other matters is contemplated by the government, Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons.

"And post office?" some member interjected.

"Yes, and post office," the prime minister replied.

The government has also been giving serious consideration to reducing the size of the cabinet by consolidating some of the existing departments, but so far has not been able to decide whether this step would result in an improvement in efficiency, he said.

Mr. Bennett made his statement recently when the House was considering a resolution to increase the salary of the solicitor-general from $7,000 to $10,000 a year. The resolution was opposed by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, who pointed that since 1877 the salary of the post had been receiving $10,000 through a statutory vote. It was now thought advisable to provide for it by an amendment to the Salaries Act.

No objection to the measure was offered by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, but he suggested it might be a good time to reduce the number of portfolios in the government. He complimented Premier Bennett on his success in reducing expenses in the civil service.

"I think the prime minister will agree," he said, "that a small cabinet, particularly when it is a business cabinet, would be quite as efficient as a larger one. He seems to be getting on very well. Sir William Mulk Help from his minister."

Reorganization Plan Means Many Changes

Western Officers Of Soldiers Settlement Board May Be Amalgamated

Ottawa, Ont.—Amalgamation of western offices, early retirement of a two score and more of employees—these results will follow from the reorganization of the Soldiers Settlement Board, which was announced by Hon. Wesley Gordon, Minister of Immigration. Offices at Regina and Prince Albert will be closed down, and the work of the board will be concentrated at Saskatoon.

The board at Ottawa, consisting of three members, of whom the chairman is Col. J. G. Rattray, of Manitoba, is to be abolished, and the work done by my man to be appointed hither, there will, also, be a large cut in the Ottawa staff.

The plan of reorganization seems to have been worked out by Tom McGillery of northern Ontario. Mr. McGillery, said to be a close political associate of Hon. Wesley Gordon, was appointed some time ago to make an investigation of the department. His was paid, it is said, $35 per day, plus expenses. He had had many experiences in farm matters, having been associated with the Massey Harris Company. He has made an exhaustive study of the department's supervised futures trading. At its last session in Canada, the committee heard A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Pool's Central Selling Agency, and Andrew Calrns, Pool statistician.

Also among the witnesses who testified at slight sessions in three prairie cities, Mr. McPhail represented the Grain Growers' Grain Company, beside half of Canada's wheat crop for 150,000 farmers. Other members of the Central Selling Agency attended the hearings at Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary, but none took the stand. Pool members and directors were of the co-operative, testified—but the Central Selling committee went unrepresented until last week.

A great majority of the West's farmers, claimed Mr. McPhail, who speaks on behalf of 84,000 producers and 1,500 of the 6,000 members of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, are opposed to futures. They are strongly of the opinion that the futures' effect on the price they receive is detrimental, though they have definite proof. Government supervision of the Winnipeg Exchange, thought Mr. McPhail, would offer data to show whether or not complaints against the options system are justified.

Suspicion in farmers' minds would be dispelled, said the Pool man, if an unbiased study of statistics and records secured under government supervision showed the complaints against futures trading as unfounded. On the other hand, if the Pool's charges are weaknesses and abuses, the sooner they are exposed and corrected, the better for the producer, Mr. McPhail returned to the United States plan of futures market supervision which requires that speculators, desirous of trading in the future and relief of legislation necessary."

Failure of the futures market to abolish "anything like the risk-carrying function so commonly attributed to it," was the finding of Statistician Cairns as an additional contributory factor to present low prices. He stated that speculators, interested in the 1929-30 debacle, were hesitant to come into the market now, with the basis set by large farms of the so-called "hedging" sales was not present. price-recessions following.

New School Readers

New Readers For Western Provinces To Be Introduced Shortly

Edmonton, Alberta.—An inter-provincial committee of educationalists met here this week for a two-day session on the school reader question. With Alberta represented by Dr. John Scott, Saskatchewan by Dr. Latchford and the other committee men were, Dr. S. J. Willis, superintendent of education for British Columbia; Dr. W. J. Fletcher, deputy minister of education for Manitoba, and Dr. J. S. Thompson, deputy minister of education for Saskatchewan.

To this committee had been submitted the report of an inter-provincial readers' committee that had met in Edmonton in January last, and the two days' consideration of the report and of other information that may be required as to suiting the specifications to be furnished publishers for the proposed new set of school readers. The publishers will be expected to follow the general requirements these laid down and will submit their manuscripts for approval by the authorized tests in the four provinces.

The new readers are to be for the year introduction in the fall of 1933.

SAYS FARMERS ARE OPPOSED TO FUTURE TRADING

Winnipeg, Man.—The curtain was rung down on the public hearings before Sir Josiah Stamp's Royal Commission on futures trading here before the Canadian Wheat Pool made a dramatic, last minute dash into the witness chair to give the government supervised futures trading. At its last session in Canada, the committee heard A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Pool's Central Selling Agency, and Andrew Calrns, Pool statistician.

Thousands Deported

Total Of 4,395 People Deported From Canada During Year 1926

Ottawa, Ont.—A total of 4,395 people were deported from Canada during the year 1926, it was stated in the House of Commons by Hon. Wesley Gordon, Minister of Immigration, in answer to a series of questions by H. Lacroix (U.F.A., Battle River).

Mr. Gordon stated that 2,864 of the total were deported to the British Isles; 156 to Poland; 116 to Germany; 237 to the United States, and the remainder were divided among various European countries. New Zealand, Newfoundland China, Japan, and so on.

The reasons for deportations were many. Of the total number sent back from Canada, 1,808 were deported as public charges, 701 because of convictions for criminal offence and 445 as vagrial defective. Physical defects were responsible for the deportation of 1,259

Mr. Spencer was informed that the cost of deporting these people was $111,611.

May Hold Conference On Unemployment

Federal and Provincial Members Likely To Meet When Session Closes

Ottawa, Ont.—Little doubt exists in political circles that representatives of the Dominion government and the provincial governments will forgather after the session closes to make provision for unemployment winter. It is also probable that during this conference the deportation question will be brought up.

The government is understood to be well disposed to consider a proposal that a time limit be fixed in regard to deportations so that no immigrant who came to Canada could be deported after that time. There is also a number of years. This would necessitate changes in the immigration laws.

The department of immigration claims to have good cause for the deportations questioned in the British House it was stated emphatically here that Canada would never relinquish her exclusive right to regulate immigration into this country from any source.

Better For Export

No Immediate Expectation For Higher Prices In View Of Heavy Production

Ottawa, Ont.—Enormous increases in better production have placed Canada on the export market, and there is no immediate expectation of higher prices, Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, was told by representatives of the Montreal Produce Dealers' Association.

The continued reduction in butter prices led to the minister calling a conference, attended by T. W. Grieve, A. McKergow, K. D. Olive and John Charest, all of Montreal. One line of discussion was as to whether it would be advisable to withdraw part of the production into storage, to be held for next winter, when Canada might be again in an importing position. The produce men said, however, that production was increasing so rapidly that it would be hazardous to hold butter, particularly as milch cows being turned into the fields the later chrusings would be of better quality than stocks now on hand.

REDUCED SERVICE ON RAILWAYS IS DISCUSSED

Ottawa, Ont.—The question of railway rates and of reductions in railway services is one primarily for the Board of Railway Commissioners, and the government has no authority to intervene in respect of such matters, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, told the House of Commons.

The Commons was considering a resolution sponsored by Oscar Bourinot (Lib., Bellechasse). This resolution asked that in order to relieve unemployment the government should instruct the railways to re-establish reduced passenger rates in favor of colonists, and that grants from public funds be made to help the railways in so doing.

In support of his motion, Mr Bourinot said a better distribution of people between cities and rural parts was necessary in Canada. There were too many people in the cities, where in these hard times, they were finding it impossible to find employment. A "back to the land movement" would clear this situation and the government should lead the way by assisting the railways to grant lower colonization fares. During the past five or six years, great numbers of farmers abandoned the country in favor of the city, said they formed. Mr. Boulanger believed, the vast majority of the unemployed at present.

Canada assisted immigration until a short time ago, why not assist colonization, the member for Bellechasse asked.

From Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. leader, came the opposite contention. "Under present agricultural conditions not one dollar of public money should be spent to take one person back to the land." In some sections of the west, rather than open up new farming areas, they should be closed to colonization until consumption of agricultural products equalled production.

This would be a very difficult time for Canadian railways to be asked to give special considerations, asserted Dr Manion Passenger receipts of the Canadian National and the privately owned Canadian Pacific, had been falling steadily in the last five years While he did not give the exact figures to the House he said he had been staggered" when they were shown to him. Competition from automobiles and buses were two contributing factors to the decline in passenger traffic.

In many parts of Canada control of the export of certain fruits and vegetables instructs na have accordingly gone forward to customs officials throughout the country The commodities affected are asparagus, lettuce, green onions and shallot, tomatoes, new potatoes, rhubarb and spinach.

In a memorandum containing the instructions, it is made clear that these products, when entered under the intermediate and general tariff will have the value fixed on their weight, the weight of the pa kage to be included The values were

Asparagus 15 cents per lb; lettuce 5 cents per lb; potatoes 6 cents per lb; rhubarb 6 cents per lb and wild arch 3 cents per lb

SEES CANADA TO THE FORE IN ECONOMIC WORLD

London, England.—"Unless you are very careful how you treat us it will be only another generation before we take your place as leaders in industry and as economic leaders of the world." With these words, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, high commissioner in London, England, concluded an appeal to Great Britain to "take the Dominions by the hand and negotiate with them." Mr. Ferguson was speaking at the annual dinner of the Association of the British Chambers of Commerce in Sssi.

He sometimes thought, he declared, that owing to Great Britain's tremendous success through the centuries, when the world came to her as to the financial centre and commercial leader, Britain had built up through the generations a feeling that she was more or less self-sufficient. It had not been realized that with the rumbling of war and destruction of the world's economic fabric, other nations had been rapidly growing in power and become powerful competitors of Britain

"Where are you going to look for support if you are not to turn to members of your own family?" he asked. "They are pressing to be permitted to sit down at the family table and work out problems on which your prosperity and happiness depend. Unless you are very careful how you treat us it will be only another generation before we take your place as leaders in industry and economic leaders of the world.

"Canada has the territory, the natural wealth and the right spirit, but we want from Great Britain today more capital and a helping hand. We look for personal visits of stories if you will take the Dominions by the hand and negotiate with them. The hand and negotiate with them. The people of Britain and Canada want to come closer together and no government will stop them." Mr. Fergusson said.

FIRST GAME OF CIVIC LEAGUE BALL

Firemen Triumph By 5-2 Score Over C. N. R.

The old lid was pried off the Civic Ball League in a hurry Tuesday evening when the Firemen won from the C.N.R. nine 5 runs to 2. Four of the regular players of the C. M. didn't turn up and errors in the infield accounted for the score being against them. Young Leveille, who twirled for the Firemen, turned in a nifty brand of hurling and certainly surprised the onlookers, having the opposing batsmen baffleded most of the time.

The railway men's twirlers also found a wide bend of ball, Ernest spelling off Ken Corson.

The batteries were:

Annual Clean-Up DAY

The Council has arranged for a general clean-up of the Town on Wednesday, May 13th. During the morning the teams will clean up ashes and other rubbish from the lanes. During the afternoon a systematic clean-up will be made throughout the Town. May we expect your whole-hearted co-operation so in past years. It is most encouraging to know that Vermilion has the reputation of being the cleanest town on the line. Let us keep it that way.

I am also asked to advise all who are using town property for the storage of old machinery and other articles that everything must be put in a neat and tidy condition or be removed from the premises.

Roosing Time At Claysmore School

The Claysmore school was a rousing scene of activity on Friday evening, May 1st when friends, both young and old, gathered to extend their congratulations and felicitations to the newly wedded couple, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steele. The first part of the evening was given to timate, etc. under the guardianship of Mr. Crandell of Manville as toast master. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Billie Williams and to the groom by Mr. George Law of Vermilion. Following this were a number of speeches by friends of long standing, some dating back as far as 1902, when Mr. Norman Tucker brought up reminiscences of those days of true hospitality. Following this were speeches by Messrs. Jack Tucker, Ray Lynch, Joe Foster, Jas. Barr, Mrs. M. Robinson, Mrs. Sam Walker, Messrs. Phil McDonald, Bob Watts, Mrs. Jack Saw, Messrs. Melvin Hill, Harold Muncer, H. B. Kirkpatrick, Lyle Robinson, B. Meade and Jim Duncan. During the course of the evening a presentation of a beautiful nine-piece pipe dining set was made by the Claysmore community, as well as many useful gifts from friends outside of the club. A bountiful repast was provided by the bride and groom with true Steele hospitality. The evening finished off with dancing, the Mead orchestra being in attendance.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the phonographing of the bride and groom, resulting in consternation and showers of confetti for the two as the record shorts of laughter from the crowd. If Mr and Mrs Steele have half the happiness and good wishes in their married life that were wished on them there theirs is indeed an enviable future May it no be!

The Canadian Constitution

In the constitution of the Dominion of Canada, being the British North America Act 1867, out of date?

Recent decisions by the higher Provincial courts of law, the Supreme Court of Canada, and the Privy Council all give point to the question.

In others words, in a hard and fast written constitution drafted in the eighteen-sixties of the nineteenth century, long before the days of the automobile, the airplane and radio, is there any business suitable to our present twentieth century needs? May more, is the present distribution of powers and authority as between the Dominion Parliament on the one hand, and the various Provincial Legislatures on the other, the best arrangement under which to carry on our public business today, not to mention possibly even more complicated developments in the years to come?

Unlike Great Britain, which has no written constitution but is governed by a Parliament guided by precedent built upon precedent down through the ages, and which is, therefore, free to meet changing conditions as they change, Canada is bound by a formal document.

Furthermore, among all the self-governing Dominions of the Empire Canada alone does not possess the power to amend its own constitution That power remains solely vested in the Parliament of Great Britain

The constitution of Canada was drafted just as the great American civil war was drawing to a close, and the Fathers of Confederation had ever in mind the conflict which ensues in the case of a clash between the rights of Federal authority and the advocates of State rights. The constitution of the United States is founded in the principle of State rights, and the Federal Government has authority to deal only with those matters specifically delegated to that Government. Where no specific delegation of authority as between the Federal and State authorities is made, then the authority automatically rests with the State. The Civil War resulted from the contention of the southern states that the Federal authority was interfering with and usurping certain of their State rights.

The Fathers of Confederation consequently drafted the B.N.A. Act on exactly the opposite principle. In Canada, the rights and powers of the Provinces are distinctly set forth and limited, and all matters not so specifically stated belong of right to the Dominion.

There are, however, certain subjects in regard to which authority is divided, as, for example incorporation of companies. The Provinces possess the power to incorporate companies for purely Provincial purposes, while the Dominion can incorporate for Dominion purposes. Both are intensely jealous of their rights in this respect, and, as a result, there is continual dispute. For example, most Provinces are making an annual levy on the capital stock of corporations, and to bring them under strict government supervision and control. They have, therefore, enacted what are commonly termed "blue sky" laws. But the Dominion has contended that such laws cannot apply to Dominion incorporated companies. The result is that any company desirous of evading such Provincial restrictions takes out a Dominion charter.

There has now arisen a dispute between the Dominion and the Provinces as to which authority can exercise control over radio broadcasting and reception. The Dominion has not attempted to do so to date, but it is now challenged by the Provinces. Suppose it should be established by a Privy Council decision that the Provinces are in the right and the Dominion wrong, under the old B.N.A. Act, control of radio would in Canada to have radio control cut up into nine pieces"

As a matter of fact, in a country of immense distances, divided by natural and geographical barriers, it is not one of the handicaps of our national life that, in regard to many matters, lack of unity results because of Provincial jurisdiction in such matters which would be overcome through a unified Dominion control."

On the other hand, there is the tendency on the part of Ottawa to take control over, or interfere with, subjects which are distinctly those of the Provinces Constitutionally speaking, such a matter as Old Age Pensions belongs to the Provinces, but by enactment the Dominion Parliament decreed that it would contribute a certain proportion of such pensions if the Provinces adopted the plan Some of the Provinces have done so; others have not. Such a pension system once established by a Province cannot easily be done away with, but there is nothing to prevent the Dominion Government from repealing its enactment at any time thus leaving the Provinces to face the whole of the financial burden. Similar action has been taken at times by the Dominion in such matters as highways construction, technical education, and grants for this and that Provinces have embarked on these enterprises only to have Dominion assistance withdrawn later, to the financial embarrassment of the Provinces.

The question that naturally arises is Has the time not arrived when the constitution of Canada should be overhauled and brought up-to-date? Should not representatives of the Dominion and of the nine Provinces meet in conference and consider the whole subject with a view to clarifying the atmosphere and removing so many of the causes of present constitutional cases before the courts" And to Canada not just be capable of amending its own constitution as is Australia, South Africa, or the Irish Free State" Or must we remain in the eyes of the rest of the world as "an inferior Dominion."

The Caterpillars Blessing

Pale Western Cutworms Eggs Are Hatching In Infested Areas

A recent examination of fields in the area expected to be infested with pale western cutworm has shown that in some cases the eggs are beginning to hatch. This is especially true in the areas that have recently been visited with light rains or snow followed by warm weather.

The hatching of these eggs at this time will answer the question that has been in the minds of many farmers regarding the effect of the open winter on the pale western cutworm. There seems to have been a general impression among the people in the infested areas that the peculiar winter would effectively control the cutworm. This was to be accomplished either by the eggs being killed or the eggs hatching during the winter and the cutworms being killed. There is very little evidence from experiments at work to show that either is possible.

The presence of pale western cutworms in the field can be easily determined in those fields which have some vegetation such as wild oats volunteer grains, grasses or weeds present. Last year cutworms feeding on this vegetation will eat holes in the leaves and sometimes leaves may be cut off close to the ground. The evidence of feeding is much easier to find than the cutworms themselves. There seems to have been a general interest in this insect very small and inconspicuous.

Fields which have such vegetation showing signs of cutworm feeding can not be seeded to crop with any hope of having it grow unless cultivated. This has turned out to be exceptionally wet. Such fields might better be cultivated thoroughly and summer fallowed for first class seeding next year for next season. Where this land cannot possibly be spared for summer fallowing it should be cultivated thoroughly throughout the early spring and seeded to late barley or flax. Wheat is considered poor. The date of this seeding will depend on whether or not cutworms are still active in numbers then.

Information regarding the pale western cutworm may be obtained by writing to the Dominion Entomological Laboratories at Lethbridge, Alberta; Saskatoon; Treesbank, Manitoba; to the University of Alberta at Edmonton; the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon; or the Provincial Departments of Agriculture at Regina or Edmonton.

A cable to this effect, received at the Department of Trade and Commerce from Buenos Aires, does not mean known the donor of this munificent gift but it is believed the eight horses were presented by the Argentine government.

The four members of the R.C.M.P. sent to the trade fair are: Sergt. J. R. Paton, M.C., of Victoria, B.C.; Constable Carstairs, of Medicine Hat, Alberta; Constable Carmichael, and Constable C. G. Fairman, both of Ottawa.

Development Of Canada's Water Power

Figures Show Capital Invested Runs Into Millions

The capital investment in water power development in Canada was estimated by the Dominion Water Power and Hydrometric Department of the Interior, to amount to over 1,200 million dollars on January 1, 1931. The last year for which official figures are complete for all industries is 1928, and those show that the amount of capital invested in water power was exceeded only by that in agriculture and in steam railways.

Duplexes Child Labor

Says Canada Not Fulfilling Provisions Of Versailles Treaty

Charges that Canada was not fulfilling provisions to protect labor, as laid down in the Versailles treaty, were made last night by J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre, at the annual meeting of the League of Nations Society at Toronto.

Causes covering an eight-hour day, minimum wages commensurate with the standard of living, unemployment, which the worker lives, elimination of child labor and the right of labor to organize, had not been lived up to, he claimed.

According to the census, he said, Canada employed almost twice as many children as the United States. Of every 1,000 persons engaging in gainful occupations, 23 were under the age of 16, while in the United States only 13 under 16 years were employed per 1,000.

Third reading was given in the House of Commons to a bill respecting the Northern Alberta Railways Act.

The object of the measure is to extend the time for two years for the completion and completion of the main line of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railway from Spirit River, Alberta, "by the most feasible route and in a generally westerly direction of a distance of 102 miles, more or less, to a point in township 78 or 79, range 24, west of the 6th meridian in British Columbia"; and for a branch line of the Central Canada Railway from near Grimsmer, Alberta, in a northerly direction to the northern boundary of Alberta.

OTTAWA PASSES ESTIMATES FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons went into committee of supply one day discussing and voting supply. Public Works Department estimates were under consideration, with preliminary reference to votes for public buildings in Ontario and the West. While there was plenty of criticism from varying angles, fair progress was made. When the House rose a total of $2,338,150 had been voted, covering appropriations for the provinces of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. When adjournment came the House had under consideration the general appropriation of $962,200 for buildings in different parts of the Dominion.

Estimates for public buildings in Ontario, totalling $1,879,600 were passed. The corresponding vote a year ago was $2,616,833 and of this, $179,000 was received. The estimates include $670,000 for the Toronto customs building.

A. L. Beaubien (Lib., Provencher), aired a grievance when the Manitoba vote was called. The 1930 estimates passed by the King administration contained $12,000 for a post office at Dominion City, Man. After the change in governments, the work was not proceeded with.

Hon. H. A. Stewart, minister of public works, stated that the course followed in this instance had been sound. The member himself had said that the Dominion revenue would be $1,300. The salary of the postmaster would absorb this sum and the post office would not pay and be maintained, interest paid on the money, repairs made and there would be a general debit against the building.

A. A. Heaps (Labor, Winnipeg North), agreed with the minister of public works, but criticized the selection of public buildings which did not produce revenue.

The House has approved the appropriation for public buildings in the province of Manitoba which totals $91,700.

Proceeding to the Saskatchewan appropriations which total $174,000, the House public was told that the individual items. They include, $38,000 for a public building at Wetrose, $28,000 for public buildings at Swift Current, $23,000 for one at Lumsden, and $31,000 to pay the third instalment on the purchase of the Regina armories.

A protest against reduced estimates in the provinces, as compared with amounts provided in Eastern Canada, was voiced by T. F. Donnelly (Lib., Wright). He said that unemployment was worse in the western provinces, he asserted, and the provisions for relief should be increased for greater reduction there than in the East.

Mr. Stewart stressed the large number of claims which had been made upon the department of public works. He had to be very careful in view of the many demands. Mr. Stewart referred to the construction under the previous government of an immigration hall in Mr. McIntosh's constituency. Today this building was not needed, but the only use it could be put to was possibly occupation by the Mounted Police. Discretion apparently must be exercised so that no mistakes would be made.

The estimates for Saskatchewan and Alberta were then passed.

Believed That Lord Willingdon Will Inaugurate Stiffer Policy

London, England Lord Willingdon takes up residence at the summer capital of India this week-end and it is generally believed he will inaugurate a policy somewhat stiffer than that of Lord Irwin.

The Punjab government, he said, would no longer stay their hand, but would deal properly with breaches of the law. The situation in the other Indian provinces is similar to that in Punjab.

Heavy Grain Shipments

Nearly 50 Million Bushels Sold For Immediate Export

Montreal, Que.—Nearly thirty million bushels of grain have been sold for export during the next four weeks, and nearly 50 tramp steamers are chartered to carry it across the Atlantic, together with the regular liners. Reports of conditions prevailing during the early part of the St. Lawrence season are steadily improving.

Grain freighters have improved and one steamer was booked last week to carry 20,000 quarters of grain to Dunkirk. Rates for the first half of May at 13 cents a hundred pounds. The rates are below what prevailed during the corresponding period last season.

Preparing For Flight

Bert Hinkler, Australia Flyer, Interviewed In London

Toronto, Ont.—Bert Hinkler, skilled Australian flyer, who set the first record for London-Australia flight in a light machine in 1928, is now at a local airport here, and much conjecturing as to his immediate plans is being indulged in by local airmen.

Interviewed by a local newspaper, Hinkler stated that he was not planning somewhere, but refused to discuss the matter of a flight.

It is believed, however, that he will suddenly decide to fly to South America, thence across the South Atlantic, or perhaps fly to the Orient via Asia.

A North Atlantic hop via the northern route is also suggested as a possibility.

Saskatoon, Sask.—Threshing will be completed in the territory covered by Prince Albert this week, according to T. F. Mollard, travelling superintendent for the Pool Elevators, who has returned from an inspection trip in that area. War Claims Heard

Ottawa, Ont.—A total of 457 cases have yet to be reported by the war claims commissioner, Errol Mc-Dougall, Montreal, of which 300 claims have already been heard, leaving a balance of 149 cases. If, however, jurisdiction is admitted in the claims arising out of the Armenian massacres, which were filed in 1920-21, there will be an additional 971 cases yet to be reported on.

Ottawa, Ont.—Of those who came to Canada under the 3,000-family scheme, 986 persons, including men, women and children have been deported. Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Mines, gave this reply in the House of Commons to a question by H. H. Spencer (U.F.A., Battle River.)

Prospects Good For Cattle Shipments

Increased Demand From Great Britain Is Indicated

Montreal, Que.—Shipments of Canadian cattle to Great Britain are being well maintained and evidence indicates that there will be an increased demand from Great Britain as the season progresses. The first shipment from Montreal, 124 cattle, sailed April 30, aboard the "Manchester Commerce," taking 442 head, while another lot is booked for May 7 and June. All shipments will average around 400 head.

ACTION TAKEN BY FRANCE WILL AID SALE OF WHEAT

Winnipeg, Man.—France's increase in the preferential duty on wheat to be mined with the domestic product will "help a little" in improving exportations of Canadian wheat to France, is the view of Peter White, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. France, one of the largest importers of the cereal, several weeks ago, had caused any undue jump in Canadian shipments to that country, but believes the 75 jump to 25 per cent. was bound to relieve the situation in this country slightly.

"Germany," Mr. White revealed "is at present contemplating the lowering of its tariff against foreign wheat which would add further to the clearing of Canada's surplus in the European market," he said, will shortly come into the market for wheat, resulting in a lowering of all tariffs. Germany's normal demand is the Dominion's product.

John I. McFarland, general manager of the Canada Northwestern Mill of the Wheat Pool, believed France's action gave a brighter outlook for the European wheat situation. "Several weeks ago, he said, France increased the percentage and it increased the percentage and it increased the volume. Today's action was expected, will soon be tabled in the House of Commons.

"The raise to 25 per cent," he added "will be welcomed."

Steamer Beothic Will Make Annual Expedition

May Again Make Attempt To Reach Winter Harbor, Melville Island

Ottawa, Ont.—The annual expedition of the steamer "Beothic" to the Canadian Arctic archipelago will be carried out as usual this year by officials of the Northwest Territories branch of the Department of Interior and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The "Beothic" will leave for the Arctic about the end of July and will visit all the northern police posts as well as the various points where "N.W.T." men are stationed.

It is understood there will be another attempt to reach Winter Harbor, Melville Island, to inspect the cache there. This cache was put in over 20 years ago, and while it has been visited by travellers during that time, it has not been called in there since it was established.

Last year an attempt to reach the cache was unsuccessful, due to ice conditions

Value Of Corn Imports

Runs Into Millions and Duty May Be Demanded

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada is importing, for purposes other than distillation, about 12,000,000 bushels of corn worth in excess of $10,000,000 yearly, it is.

This information, given to the House of Commons in answer to questions by Agnes Macphail, may be the basis of a demand for a duty on imported corn, which now enters the Dominion free.

The corn, brought from the United States, and even from the Argentine and Chile, is used for feeding livestock in the central provinces It is the claim of some western M.P.'s that the eastern market for feed should be belong to prairie growers of barley and other coarse grains A demand for the reduction of freight rates on these grains, when shipped for domestic consumption has already been voiced, as a stiff duty on foreign corn may now be asked

Fatal Plane Crash

Two Lives Lost When Machine Crashes At Brandon

Brandon, Man.—The first major plane crash in the history of Brandon brought death to two young airmen when their machine crashed from a height of 1,000 feet and burst into flames near the local aerodrome

The victims were: William Clark 21, owner of the plane, and son of Col. and Mrs F. J. Clark, Brandon, and William Britten, 27, pilot of Wawanesa, Man.

Returning from a flight to Wawanesa, the airmen were preparing to land at the aerodrome when the plane swerved into a spin, exploded and burst into flames

Like a rocket, it dived to earth bringing instant death to the pilot and owner.

It was some three before the flaming wreckage could be approached by airport attendants, and the bodies, entangled in the debris were charred beyond recognition Nothing was left of the 'plane but the bare, twisted steel work

Hundreds of persons flocked to the scene of the crash and police had great difficulty in keeping the crowds away from the fire-strewn wreckage

British Economist Gives Opinion On Depression

Might End In Three Months Says Sir Josiah Stamp

New York.—The end of the present economic depression in Canada and the United States will not be long delayed, before the end of the next three months, Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, told the American Press. The depression will probably come to an end in both countries simultaneously, he said, although recovery in the United States might be slightly more rapid than in Canada.

"I do not want to say the depression will end in three months," he said, "but I will say it can't end before that time. Some time ago I said it would not end before May 31 has not ended and I now believe it cannot do so before the end of another three months."

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN IS FORTHCOMING

Ottawa, Ont.—The government hopes to submit to parliament in the earliest possible moment" legislation providing for some form of unemployment insurance. A statement to this effect was made by Premier R. B Bennett in the House of Commons

The prime minister, however, made it clear that such legislation can only be submitted after careful inquiry into the gathering of the facts and information. The department of finance will not act without preliminary investigation. "That course, he said, would spell disaster. It would bring suffering, not happiness to those concerned

The prime minister made one definite declaration. He would never support a system of unemployment insurance Canada could not stand a system such as that in operation in Great Britain with its tremendous drain on the exchequer

The question of unemployment insurance came before the House in the form of a motion placed in the order paper by A. A. Heaps (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) which called upon the government to take into consideration the necessity of establishing a system of unemployment insurance, and to submit a measure to parliament at the present session. Mr. Heaps moved the motion when the order paper was reached on Monday. He said that the government should immediately deal with a matter which might require months of research and actuarial work and Canada was about to take a census and the information then gathered might be of great value in reaching conclusions as to the extent of the problem. He thought that the premises would be necessary.

Support for the motion was voiced by Mr. King Modern conditions involving the use of experts is resulted in men being thrown out of work and countries were faced with the necessity of providing unemployment relief or unemployment insurance He favored the latter If a Dominion old age pension scheme could be devised, he saw no reason why a scheme of unemployment relief should not also be evolved.

'QUAKE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN SOUTHERN RUSSIA

Moscow, Russia - Further earthquakes in the Soviet Republic of Azerbaijan in Transcaucasia caused fear that the total number of deaths in the widespread disturbances, which started Monday, April 27, may mount to more than 500 already unofficially estimated

More than 2,000 persons were injured in the original quake Monday April 27, which wrought great damage in the southern Transcaucasian states of the Soviet republics and in the widespread disturbances.

Today's renewal of shocks occurred in the Zangueur district of Azerbaijan

Great suffering is reported in many sections and in some places residents have deserted their stricken villages and are living in the open. All communication was disrupted at certain points and authorities are having difficulty determining the exact number of casualties.

The government has launched relief work and provided 500 000 rubles (about $250,000) for immediate use among the sufferers. Food and medical supplies are being rushed to the devastated areas, money hospitals and clinics are being erected to care for the most seriously injured.

While no definite estimate of the amount of damage has been made, it is certain to run well over $1,000,-

Lt.-Col. J. Broadbent, Conservative, won the seat from J. Gordon, Labor, and A. Young, Mosley's New Party candidate—but had it not been for the Mosley candidate, it appears Labor would not have lost the seat.

Broadbent polled 12,420 votes; Gordon, 11,008; and Young, 4,472. Given a three two-cornered fight a vote, which could be normally expected, Gordon would have won the seat by a slight majority. As it was, the split in the Labor vote was too great a handicap for Gordon

The constituency has ever been a stormy rock in the political sea. Sir Oswald with Gordon and Broadbent, were in the town last awaiting for the result With Mosley were several women. When the result bedame known an angry crowd gathered outside Gordon was taken out of the building by a side door, under a strong guard. Mosley however, went to the front door. He paused at the top of the stairs and the hostility of the raging crowd, who hooted and jeered him.

With hands in his pockets, and a slight sneer on his face Mosley walked slowly down the steps into the street The crowd rushed around him but he continued walking slowly. Police closed around him and escorted him to the hotel headquarters Despite the hooting and the threatening appearance of the mob Mosley refused to show any faster than he slowly, he raised walk

For Mental Health In Canada

Increased Facilities For Care Of Subnormal People In Urgently

(By John Burke Ingram)

If all the insane people of Canada were brought together in one place they would form a city larger than Kingston or Kitchener. According to recently compiled figures, there are 29,339 patients in Canada's mental hospitals. These figures include, of course, those suffering from mental disease. Year by year their numbers increase The Canadian people have invested nearly $75,000,000 in buildings and equipment, and spend about $10,000,000 each year in maintenance costs In every province the hospitals are crowded to capacity, and it is safe to say that there are as many persons attempting to carry on in the community who are in need of treatment as there are in the hospitals at present There is a crying need in Canada for the establishment of psychopathic hospitals and outpatient clinics to deal with these cases before they become chronic and beyond hope of improvement

"Many people are more or less mentally unstable, but comparatively few realize the difference between the insane and those persons who are known as mental defectives A sufficient definition for the present purpose is that insanity may be termed a "provoked departure from the individ ual's normal standard of thinking feeling and acting, while a mental defect is a person who has a mind, through hereditary causes, or through pre-natal or infantile misadventure has failed to develop normally

Mental defectives, or defectives. as they are commonly called, include all the imbeciles, familiar to all, to the more nearly normal morons, or feebleminded persons whose presence in the community is not so readily detected

These latter are the great social menace They contribute out of all numerical proportion to pauperism, Salvation Army presented the Queen Mary of England, a handkerchief more than 100 years old

Village Of Blind People

Nine Hundred Live Hidden Away in Mountains Of Mexico

A village of 900 people, all totally or partially blind, who never venture from their huts until after sunset, was described by Dr. Miguel Othon de mente, Mexican delegate, to the second Pan-American Conference of Ophthalmologists and Oculists, at Washington

The village is Tilipec, in the state of Oaxaca, Mexico. Hidden away in the mountains, it is reached only by a few horse trails. The malady which blinded the inhabitants is known in the medical world as onchocercocia.

Tests have shown, Dr. Rustamente in his speech, that an insect is the cause of the blindness. Eradication of this insect, he added, has given hope in the fight on the malady, of which little is known. There are 30,000 such cases in Mexico

A Magic Soap

How the Fairy Queen's Clothesline Gift Was Found

Once upon a time the Fairy Queen was very busy. She had thousands of very important Baby Princes and Princesses to christen with her Wishing Gift. So she sent her five clever Elves to go all over the world in search of wonderful scents and rare perfumes, and to bring back a magic soap that would make the Baby Princes as lovely as Elf Gay to long.

Well and good. But the Elves, Ann and Algeria and Bulgaria, where the Princesses were to be born, and they went to give their pretty frocks for the Baby Princes a last airing, showering their sweet petals into a big sack the Fairy Queen brought with her, all ready to be scrunched up and give to every Baby Princess.

The second Elf flew to Africa, and there she made friends with the King's daughter, who gave her cloves and Cayenne—that's a scented root or rather bulb, you know.

And the third Elf went to India, and Ceylon and China, and there she discovered smell something Fire mint, and the pretty yellow wood of the sandalwood tree, which is very fragrant.

But the fourth Elf, Lavinia, went dangerous time, for she daringly flew to an island far away in the Indian Ocean where there lived some fierce fruit bats. These bats were big, and very nasty and disagreeable, but who nevertheless were exquisitely perfumed. And when Lavinia had taken the animal treefull musk sandal and myrrh from the backs of these bats and there where it would not be noticed, in case the bats should wake up, she had far Bergamot scents and Lemon Verbena, all prepared in the bat's hair and crush her. But the Elf called to the bats politely to help her, and they setzed her quickly and held her down with a loud shout. The Peruvian bats had gone to asleep again when she scampered off home with her treasure.

On her way she met the fifth Elf who had been to Arabia, and exploring on from Cochin China, and sticky scented flowers from Java and Indies.

And when they all arrived back the Fairy Queen had the Elves' Magic C... who wanted to help his mistress and been all the way to Abyssinia (that is Bible Story Land), to see a Wise Man. And the Wise Man had given her a delicious perfume with him in a tiny bag and had kindly given it to the Fairy Queen. Evil had kindly produced the Fairy est to a Chinese Wizard of the Land of Indies. And he had some rare scent in a secret sack which he had in his memory which he gave for the Christening Gift.

And then the Fairy Queen was! beautiful she married the prince best and handsomest Prince that ever was and on her wedding day when the Fairy Queen came to see her, she said "Dear God-Mother couldn't you ask your friend the Soap Maker, to make bags and heaps of my wonderful soap and give it to all the little folk and all the big folk in the world I feel so selfish enjoying it all myself."

"That is a good kind God Daughter," said the Fairy Queen and she told the soap maker who promised to do as the Princess wished.

And he went on making the Magic Soap all his life, and after that his son and his grandsons went on making it. And do you know it is really your Baby's Own Soap, and it is because it is made of the perfume oils from all the wonderful things that the five Elves found all over the world that it smells so sweet and makes such heaps of fluffy creamy bubbles and helps little Elves and Fairies to grow so lovely as the day is long.

Planning Bacon Plant For Saskatchewan

Equipment Has Been Secured and Foundation Stock Purchased

Recent press despatches indicate that ambitious plans are under way for the establishment of a bacon curing plant in Saskatchewan. A Prince Edward Island syndicate has purchased a three-storey premises from Messrs Lea Long Lake, Strasbourg, Sask., for the purpose of producing, raising, and manufacturing bacon, curing and shipping bacon to England. It is stated that buildings capable of holding 6,000 hogs are being erected. The necessary machinery and equipment has been secured, and foundation hog stock from Prince Albert hogs has been purchased and shipped to Long Lake. It is expected that Fall 2,500 bacon hogs of Wiltshire bacon will be available for shipment. A native of Denmark, thoroughly conversant with hog production and marketing as finished out in that country, has been placed in charge of the plant.

Sugar From Weeds

Scientists Find That Dandelions, Golden Rod and Other Plants Yield

Weeds like dandelions and golden rod contain these newly-discovered sugars, stated by government chemists at $50,000 a pound.

The Bureau of Standards in announcing this discovery recently, said the sugars were not previously known to science. They were found by Dr. R. F. Jackson, of the bureau of standards, and Miss Irene McFarland, while studying the amount of sucrose or fruit sugar that can be obtained from plants. Inulin is a white starch—like substance. Some of the leaves of genial root dandelion, Jerusalem artichokes, wild chicory and chicory. Eli Jackson found that inulin is 10 per cent. levulose, a sugar three times sweeter than ordinary cane or table sugar, three per cent. glucose, like corn sugar, and the remainder dextrose, found in honey and the new triplets of the sugar family.

Pine forests that were a rich source of rosin once spread over northern Europe.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE PARABLE OF THE POUNDS

Golden Text: "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." I Corinthians 4:2.

Lesson: Luke 19:11-26.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 103:15-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Reason For Giving the Parable, verse 11.—Jesus and His disciples were approaching Jerusalem, and many were expecting that His entry into the city would be the inauguration of the Messianic Kingdom. Jesus knew that He was going to a far country, but they supposed that the kingdom was immediately to appear. They looked for it to appear suddenly from the outside instead of gradually from within. They formed their attention on the fact that they were about to enter into a reward, while Jesus put the emphasis on the fact that they were about to enter a trust." Jesus gave this parable to warn those who wished to bring about a revolution and establish His kingdom by force that it would come only by patient faithfulness.

The Parable Of the Pounds, verses 12-26.—Jesus drew the parable from the statement that a certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. Before his servants, he gave each a pound and told them to occupy therewith till he returned. A mina, translated a pound, is equal to one hundred drachmas; a drachma was a coin worth about eight pence, or fifteen cents, RVm. The sum was small, about sixteen dollars, but it would test their faithfulness in the smaller parable of the talents. Different sums were entrusted to three servants.

The three servants Jesus said, "Occupy till I come." Compare Wycliffe's Version reads "Merchandise till I come." The word "occupy" in the King James' Version at the time the translation was made had the meaning "trade."

On His return to judge the world (in the interpretation of the parable) the nobleman is Jesus Himself), he will call His servants to Him. The servants, to learn how faithful they have been to their trust. The one who gained two, two faithful, and one unfaithful, is taken as typical of all. The first had gained ten pounds and was rewarded by being given authority over ten cities. The second had gained five pounds, and is placed over five cities. The third had done nothing.

"Life is God's sacramental gift
To man for his short earthly stay.
The talent given into his care
For his soul's everlasting—
A sacred trust bestowed on him
For his immortality.
And he who lends will one day ask
His own gift with interest, and
Woe to it then, lest thou be found
Of those who failed Him in the test."

—John Oxenham.

"Lord, here is thy pound," the third one said, "which I kept laid up in a napkin." Verse 20, RVm. He excused himself by accusing his lord of being an austere man who would require of him to make up whatever loss there might be and would keep whatever profit he might make, so that he himself would be no better off for all his toil. Verse 21, RVm. He failed to see that which thou layest not down, and reapest not that which thou didst not sow": these were proverbial sayings applied to grasping persons.

Vaccine For Common Colds

Report Of Investigation Being Conducted At Columbia University

Hope for a vaccine to prevent the common cold has been found at the Presbyterian hospital of Columbia University medical centre.

The vaccine-making stage has been approached through use of an artificial cold produced in the laboratories —a real cold purified so as to be stripped of many uncertainties that ordinarily hinder the making of discoveries.

The work and the research leading up to it are financed in a paper by Doctors A. B. Dochez, H. C. Mills, G. S. Shirley, and Yale Kneeland, Jr., in the Courier, official publication of the International Conjunctivitis Federation of Nurses. The research is financed by the Nurses Foundation, Inc.

At first real colds were given to chimpanzees until Dr. Dochez and his associates felt quite sure that no known ordinary bacteria caused colds, but that they only become aggravated, active and often dangerous as a result of a virus which is the real cause.

The synthetic colds were produced by infecting the "chimps" with nasal washings completely purified of disease bacteria, and which presumably contained only the filterable virus.

Exposure of these synthetic infections produced in 50 per cent. of the chimpanzees colds "exactly similar in every way to the real cold" on the human beings the artificial cold performed with precisely the same performance and effects in all cases.

"The experiments lead us to certain definite conclusions," says the paper. "The cause of colds must be human beings is due to an invisible agent which passes readily through porcelain filters which will not pass bacteria, and, in all likelihood, belongs to the group of so-called submicroscopic viruses.

"The next step in the investigation is to try to grow the virus of the common cold in the test tube outside the human body. Should this be successful, and there is already reason to think that it may be, trials will be opened for the preparation of a vaccine which may prove useful in prevention of common colds."

"So that case he needn't know anything about it—circumstantially," he haven't told him. I confided in Mrs. Maxwell because I just had to talk to someone; but if Nick hears, he might refuse to go. And you mustn't misunderstand me, either. Nick's the best one and to be glad about such news; but just now he isn't well, and the thought of the expense to come could be a real worry to him. I decided as I was when little Nick was born it will mean putting us in debt again. But I shan't be. I can't be, that's all; but somehow I feel that everything will be all right. I meant not to tell Nick till I had to; and if he goes away at once he needn't know till he comes home. I'm tremendously grateful to you, Mr. Maxwell. It will be a dream come true for him to see the tropics."

John Maxwell met her eyes with a look of unveiled admiration and affection.

"You're a plucky girl, Clay."

She laughed, tremulously.

"Oh, no I'm not! Inside I'm just despairing at the thought of having him away just now! Nick's been over on our honeymoon Uncle Sim gave me some advice that I've never forgotten. He said that I'd have to be a pal to Nick as well as a wife, and a mother, and that I'd have to be understood. Nick thinks I'm a real pal, but I'm not always. He was just a—well, a kid when he married me, Mr. Maxwell, and I've brought him a lot of worries. I don't know that he's ever even felt like complaining; but I know there've been times when he craved a taste of the freedom he's never really had. That's why I'm so glad to let him go—and why he mustn't know what I'm facing. The trip will make a boy of him again—and that's the way I want to keep him. A mature like Nick's ought not to be laden down with cares."

"My child, Nick's cares have been the making of him. What we must do is to lighten them now and then, and give that responsibility a load of a chance to resist. And now, we've settled his difficulties, I've something else to speak to you about. It will stay alone in this old house. Mrs. Maxwell wants you to bring the babies and come to us. It will seem good to have some of the empty rooms in use. That's the worst of a big family, Clay. Nothing seems to fill up the house. Will you?"

Clay lifted eyes that were very bright.

"That's beautiful of you both; but really, there's no place like home when you're worried. I feel quite well. Perhaps Uncle Sim would come and stay with me. I'm sure he would; and he's a real help with the children."

He's getting old, Clay Wouldn't he add to your cares?"

"Not a bit. Besides, his unfailing good spirits are a tonic. Mrs. Maxwell will understand. I know. It's hard visiting with babies—even such dear friends as you. I'll write Uncle Sim today."

"Well," said John Maxwell, rising, "you must do what makes you happiest, my dear. But our house is always open to you and yours. You won't forget that?"

"I shall never forget any of your kindnesses," Clay answered. "I've stored them all safely in my house of memories. Do tell Nick as soon as you reach the bank, Mr. Maxwell. I can't wait for him to know what's in store for him."

A rejuvenated Nick came home that night. He caught his wife in a bear-like hug, and frolicked with his boys as he hadn't for many a week.

"I can hardly believe it!" he said when the babies were in bed—the dishes washed—and he and Clay were seated before the fire. "I've been feeling so seedy that this trip is a regular godsend. You know how crazy I've been to see Jamaica ever since old Bensington told me so much about it; and to have it come like this !—not costing us a penny—Well, it's one of the things that seem too good to be true. If only I could take you with me—"

His eyes looked troubled, and Clay laughed.

"You'll be four without me, dear. You can pretend that you're starting off on a long cruise. Many months ago, before your kind heart took pity on the lone, lorn damsel you were having."

"I'll become mighty contented to be left this time," he replied: then catching a wistful look in her eyes he added: "Clay, is it mean of me to go without you?"

"Mean!"

"What a ridiculous idea, since I couldn't go in any case. And you mustn't hurry back, Nick. You must let all you can because you may not get over such a chance again. All I ask is that you write by every boat. I won't pretend that I shan't miss you, for you know better; but to get your letters and hear you tell about the trip myself."

Nick leaned forward to straighten a smoldering log, and gazed into the fire for a long moment.

"It'll be spring when I get back," he said slowly. "Perhaps the apple trees will be in bloom. I never see one, dear, without remembering the spring I got started out together. You've been a bully good comrade along the way, Clay. When I stop to think about it I almost hate to take this detour without you."

"Then don't think about it," she said, "or if you must, just remember that I'm keeping in the straight and narrow way, and will be there to greet you at the cross-roads."

She laughed at her own fancies, and added apologetically: "I seem to be very poetical. It's the result of our prospective parting. If you stay too long I may take to writing verses to you!"

"I'd make a rather cold target for the muse," Nick answered. "I can't imagine getting practical about anything so substantial." Then he broke off suddenly, his eyes searching: "Clay! Do you realize where I'll be a month from now? I'm dizzy at the thought!"

And for two days later—a cold, raw day of February—he stood with a case, innumerable snapshots of his wife and babies, and his old, boyish face aglow, "conquer the universe," Nick stood on the deck of the big, white fruit steamer, and watched the Statue of Liberty drop behind the horizon.

"I'll succeed," he mused aloud, "I can't help wondering, what adventures I'll live through before I see the good old U.S.A. again.

He turned at a light touch upon his arm.

CHAPTER XVII.

There is no place like the deck of a steamer for forcing the barriers of intimacy. Angela Halliday was alone, bound for Port Antonio where she was to join the Myers. Nick was being alone, it was not unnatural that the greater part of their time was spent together. Both were good sailors, and on the days when most of the passengers were in their berths, they enjoyed a "solitude a deux" in which their friendship ripened quickly.

Angela had never met his type before, and the novelty pleased her. Besides she had not forgotten her husband's taunt regarding this special victim.

A word in a note from Julie, written in thanks for a discarded sweater, had given news of Nick's proposed trip to the tropics—a little clever detective work as to possible boats, and her plans were made. The fact that the liners were at Port Antonio made everything plausible. A hurried trip to New York was no unusual thing for Angela to indulge in; and her unsuspecting husband had no inkling of her plans until she was safely in the water. Angela smiled at the thought of his baffled rage when he should receive her note.

Nick was unconscious was simply an amazing coincidence. He wrote to Clay:

You could have knocked me down with a feather when I saw her; but really, it's rather pleasant having a friend aboard—even one of whom my wife doesn't approve! I wonder what the reason is? I think a little upon that subject. I feel sure there's a tragedy somewhere in the background; yet Halliday is surely no bounder, but if Nick hates, he his Martha is something wonderful. I like Angela's mixed sweetness and no see her every week this entire winter—but his wife's not happy with him. I don't know much about the unhappy meet. Which would be worst, to be tied to a man you disliked, or to know you'd failed in making anyone loving."

So it was in a spirit of pity that Nick drank in Angela Halliday's skilful catching a wistful look in her eyes when she spoke of her husband, and he got the impression that the subject was a painful one between them. He was careful to be touched upon. Thus her careless laughter struck him as both fine and pathetic. He thought of Clay, that he understood and sympathized, but something intangible, possibly the arrogance of Gay's warning, kept back the words.

Projectiles To Cross Atlantic

German Plan To Use Rockets For Mail Service

Half-hour trans-Atlantic mail service, with commercial rockets as the carriers.

That was the prediction discussed by Dr. S. Pendray, vice-president of the American Interplanetary Society, who has just returned after conferences in Germany with leaders of the fascinated rays and produced a clear view of the race.

Then Astabaria tinted faces and objects placed before the close-up lens Green on the label of a water and was clearly apparent. Other colours, also were faintly tinted into the television

The color work was done with neon-mercury gas and the black and white pictures with helium gas tubes. Plans for practical television are designed by Warren B. Taylor, collaborator with Sanabria. Neither is getting practical advice on his work in television but only the ability to achieve mixe effects

Dr. Pendray's lecture however with only one light channel for the three primary colors, red, blue and green

"Color in television we still call embryonic stage," he said "So is much of our work in sound effects Many owners of radios trust their sets will be rendered obsolete by the immediate introduction of television That is not true. "A parachute will be used for the landing. The same rocket will then be shot back across the Atlantic over another convoy with a different cargo."

Used On the "Journalist"

A few days ago an item appeared in a St. Joseph newspaper, evidently the work of a "journalist," and not of a reporter or newspaper man, "that a young man of that city was fatally killed in a motor mixup that morning, and that the young lady who was with him was severely damaged."

Clear Television Pictures Are Produced By Young Inventor

Television is approaching motion pictures in clearness of images it can produce

A small group of spectators in the back room of a machine shop on the West side of Chicago, looked at black and white pictures of nearby persons reproduced at the other end of the same room. The images on the receiving screen were two feet square and move synchronistically with motions of the person before the transmitting apparatus.

These "close-ups" were nearly as clear as movie films. Their producer, Ulysses A Sanabria, said he believed they were the largest and clearest that had been made. They were put down through television to the panels

Harold Hayes, federal radio supervisor for the middle western states, said he was "astonished" at the clearness of the images. He said he knew of no other instance of watching the growth of television."

Then the young inventor—he is 24 engaged a big set of tricks.

He gave one of his assistants a figurative shave, manipulating the light rays through a series of lenses and mirrors. Cabinet Ministers Look Into Road Matters

Hon. R. G. Reid and Hon. O. L. McPherson Guests of Chamber of Commerce — Look Over Proposed Highway Routes.

The Hon. R. G. Reid, member for the Vermilion constituency, in charge of provincial treasurer and minister of lands and mines, and the Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works of the Alberta legislature, were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday afternoon and evening. The visit was closely related to the proposed change in the Jasper highway and during the afternoon, the Cabinet ministers, in company with officials of the Chamber of Commerce, went thoroughly over the proposed routes.

It had been intimated that the highway route would be slightly changed this summer to follow directly east from the college till the crossroads is reached, then to follow that road north until the present highway was struck a mile or so east of town, thus eliminating the town proper from the course of the road. The alternative proposal of the Chamber of Commerce was to swing the road north at the College, cross the railroad track west of the town and bring the highway in past the hospital and high school and down the main street and out the present course. This route was apparently regarded favorably by the ministers with the suggestion that the hill in the road a mile east might be eliminated.

Guests at Luncheon

The two ministers were the guests of honor at a sumptuous banquet served in the evening by Host Culford at the Brunswick hotel. Following this, President Scott of the Chamber of Commerce called upon His Worship Mayor Pollon to speak. The mayor stated in a few remarks that the town of Vermilion had been the first one to accept the government's proposal several years ago for the gravel

District Court

Echoes of the last election in the municipal district of Kitscoty were heard in the District Court here on Tuesday last when Edward Christian established an undoubted right to sit as the representative for Division 3. At the election in February, Christian defeated Chas Thompson by a small majority. Shortly after Lawrence Mayhew launched proceedings to have the election vacated by reason that Christian's nomination papers did not quite harmonize with the provisions of the Municipal act; he contended that some of the nominators were not an elector. So they went to the mat. After hearing the evidence at several sittings of the court, the judge decided, the application was dismissed with costs and Christian's right to sit as councillor affirmed. J. D. Macdonald for the applicant while J. W. Morrison K.C. conducted the defence.

Another suit like proceeding was heard from the Minburn district where R. H. Bruce sought to oust A. F. Powell and Leslie Lawrence from the board of trustees of the Dunlop Creek school district on account of having taken pecuniary interest in profit from the district contracts. The school act which prohibits a trustee taking any contracts or a trustee or partner in a firm. Exception was received was quite small in both cases but the principle was the same. It is marked the case of Powell that the infraction had taken place in a previous term while Leslie Lawrence's offence was allowed and the court declared him unseated from that office. J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. appeared for the applicant while J. J. Jones acted for Cowell, Lawrence conducting his own defence.

Under a further judgment given at this court two months ago Bruce filed by the Superior Lumber Company on a piece of property in the hamlet of Clandonald and now owned by Geo J. Mazza was affirmed. Mazza while not a party to the proceedings contested the application as owner claiming he had no notice of the improvements and had not purchased the materials which as a fact had been purchased by Charles Armstrong and Claire Dyer and against whom the action was taken. The court held the liens could not be disturbed. F. J. Richardson was counsel for the Lumber Company and J. W. G. Morrison, K.C. for Mazza.

The sittings of the Court were concluded over by Mr. Macdonald of Mr. Loud.

Many V.H.S. Graduates Obtain U. Of A. Degrees

Familiar Names Appear in the Pass Lists

Stewart Bothwell, son of Mr and Mrs Tom Bothwell of Islay received the degree of B.Sc in mining engineering at the recent convocation of the University of Alberta. Stewart will be well remembered here having taken his matriculation and eleven at the local high school graduating in 1927. For two years after graduation from high school he spent a year at varsity and then took the National course at Ottawa after which he spent two years in Saskatchewan returning to varsity and has now been successful in obtaining his set objective degree. Stewart will go to the Lethbridge district where he has obtained a position.

Another Vermilion name in the convocation lists is that of Ed J. Kibblewhite, son of E. J. Kibblewhite, who received the degree of Master of Arts. Ed as he is familiarly known received both his public and high school education here and was also on the teaching staff of the public school. He has climbed steadily upward in the teaching profession and after leaving it to attend varsity was then put of the Stony Plain high school. He is also being granted the Diploma of the School of Education.

Vernon Newhouse although not receiving any on his primary education here has called Vermilion home for several years past. He is a son of Mr and Mrs J. W. Newhouse and while he does not in the ordinary sense attended varsity. He now graduates with a B.Sc (Bachelor of Science) degree. He took up a business course, while at varsity, as was evidenced by his holding offices in many different societies at varsity. A few of these are: President year book staff, member senate committee of literary society, secretary-treasurer of the engineering society, member of the Interfaculty debating committee, and numerous positions on the University hockey, holding a variety of executive offices.

Taking Canada's Census

The decennial task of "counting noses" in Canada, or, in other words, the enumeration of the census of the Canadian people, takes place in the month of June. It is a big and [illegible] operation job requiring the services of a small army of men, and after their initial work is completed hundreds of [illegible] and expert statisticians will be engaged for months compiling, tabulating and analyzing the returns sent in to Ottawa by these thousands of enumerators.

The question may naturally arise in the minds of some people: Is it all worth while? In such a large economy-justified especially in these times of declining revenues and rising expenditures—merely to ascertain how many people there are in Canada, and an array of facts relative to each individual?

There can be only one answer—an emphatic one. It is very much worth while. Facts and figures, information, that, in itself, is of importance and value to a citizen or to a business, is obtained; and it may be produced from a given number of names, the number of items to be possessed, how many pounds of flour and cream, for example, are used by a business man, and how great his annual turnover has been, so is the question of the census information of importance and value; the fact is as a whole. It is a form of national stocktaking.

But that is not all. Under our Canadian system of government and the relationships existing and otherwise which exist between the Federal and Provincial governments population is the most important factor. In many respects it is the all-important, the leading factor.

First and foremost, the representation of the people in Parliament is based on population. Let us take Quebec, for example: the census shows a population of [illegible] people in the Province of Quebec. Under the constitution those 3,000,000 people are entitled to 65 members in the House of Commons; that is, one member for each 46,154 people. Therefore each group of 46,154 people in every other Province is entitled to a member. After each decennial census there is a redistribution of representation in the House of Commons based on the figures supplied by the census. In this way the representation of all parts of the Dominion is made and kept uniform and equitable.

Furthermore the financial relations between the Dominion and the Provinces is based on population. The Dominion pays cash grants to the Provinces of so much per head of population, and in the case of the three prairie provinces it pays increasing amounts annually as population increases until a certain maximum amount is reached. Unless there was a census-taking these amounts could not be accurately ascertained.

Again, only by knowing the population is it possible to arrive at such facts as the amount of the per capita debt, per capita taxation, volume of trade and commerce per capita, and a volume of other statistical matter upon which both national and Provincial policies of finance and taxation are founded.

While the enumerators are thus "counting noses" they are also gathering other important information. The wealth of the Dominion, its productive capacity, the social condition of its people their racial antecedents, the extent of their illiteracy, how many males and how many females, how many children, middle-aged, and aged people, information all having a direct bearing on future policies for the development and well-being of the Canadian nation.

This year for the first time complete information is to be obtained on the subject of unemployment, how many are out of work, the nature of their usual employment, what caused their state of unemployment, etc., etc. —All with a view to finding out the actual extent and causes of unemployment as a guide to finding out and applying the necessary remedies, and developing policies to represent a recurrence of such an unsatisfactory and deplorable condition.

It will be seen therefore that the census-taking is a vitally important national undertaking. It is clearly the duty of every citizen to co-operate with and assist the census enumerator in his work. His questions should not be resented but on the contrary should be welcomed and full information freely and gladly given to him. He will be discharging his patriotic and duty at that. In like manner the citizen will be discharging a national duty by extending every assistance in his power.

Nurse Leaves For Northland

Winnipeg Lady Will Remain In Far North For Five Years

Miss Prudence Hoskin, of Winnipeg, formerly of Oak Lake, Manitoba, leaves shortly for Baffin Land as superintendent of a new Anglican hospital at Pangnirtung. She will make the trip to the far north by the Hudson's Bay boat leaving Montreal early in the summer, the only ship of the year to navigate the passage. It will take two months to complete the trip to Pangnirtung and Miss Hoskin has undertaken to remain at the new hospital there for five years.

The new hospital, which is the most eastern of the Anglican missionary hospitals in the world, is now under the management of Miss Hoskin. She has been in charge of the Pangnirtung hospital for the past two years.

Easy Work For Blind

Profession Of Masseur Is Very Popular Among Sightless In Japan

The profession of the masseur is the one in which a blind person is the equal if not superior to the person with sight. W. Mctt Enger, Secretary General of the National Institute for the Blind, with offices at London, said at the world conference for the blind.

"I am surprised that in America the profession of masseur has not been more popular among the blind," Enger said. "In Japan almost all of the masseurs are blind. In fact, it has become so much a custom that the Japanese words for blind man and masseur are the same.

Heart and Nerves So Bad

Was Unable To Sleep For Hours

Miss Theresa M Hussey, Gull agent town, Ont., writes—"I was troubled, for almost a year with my heart and nerves, especially on retiring at night when I would be unable to sleep for hours. I was easily fatigued, and became very excitable and irritable. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking them for a few weeks I could enjoy a good night's rest, and rapidly regained my former state of health."

Soviets Could Mobilize Large Army Quickly

National Leaders Have Made Provision For Any Emergency

Despite protests from the Soviet that the Russians are working for peace it is estimated that the nation could mobilize an army of 17,000,000 men within three months of the outbreak of war. Of these, some 10,000,000 would be members of line regiments and provide a rifle strength of that number.

Within three weeks of the start, the Soviet is believed capable of throwing 3,000,000 fighting men into action. In addition, the national leaders have been concentrating on supplies and they keep permanently in reserve enough coal to last three months. They are also building up the air wing of the fighting corps.

Besides treating bushels of wheat on the world markets, the Soviet is evidently ready to throw in quite a supply of cannon fodder when the time comes.

MOURNING WARDROBE

A death occurred in our family and I had to go in mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black dresses. I tried another way and had I consulted our druggist and [illegible] advised Diamond Dyes. Everything came out beautifully fast, wool dresses, stockings and all. I have since learned to appreciate the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. I tried another black dye and the results were impossible. I had to use Diamond Dyes and did not regret it. Recently I have tinted my curtains a beautiful raspberry shade and dyed a rug a lovely garnet with Diamond Dyes. These Diamond Dyes are the finest dyes money can buy—I truly believe.

"As chairman of the national battlefields commission, I am going to meet General Hughes, who is now in England, and one of the things I will do is try and expedite the completion of the Vimy memorial. Largest For Shipment

The largest single shipment of apples in the early years received in Winnipeg reached the city recently by Canadian National express. This shipment was forwarded from the shores of Hudson Bay by the Hudson Bay Railway. The shipment, which was billed independently of the large fur companies included 431 white fox pelts and a dozen red fox pelts, all of which were trapped in the high north during the past winter.

How Women Lose Fat In England

How would you like to lose unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want, and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen, and at the same time make your skin as clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal, and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts. Take one-half teaspoonful every morning in a glass of hot water, and when you have finished the first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat, and you'll also know that the six vitalizing salts of Kruschen have prevented you with glorious health.

That's the way Englishwomen keep slim—why not you?

Does Not Include Churchill

British Engineer Will Not Survey Hudson Bay Port

The Port of Churchill will not be included in the survey to be conducted by Sir Alexander Gibb, noted British harbor engineer, Premier Bennett has announced in the House of Commons.

The Hudson Bay port was designed from recent plans, and the premier did not believe Sir Alexander Gibb should be forced to pass on plans designed by a "fellow engineer" from London.

Three of Sir Alexander Gibb's men are now in Ottawa, preparing preliminary plans, the premier explained, but he did not announce when the engineer, himself, would leave England. The survey will be confined to Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal and Vancouver.

Study Economic Conditions

Urge Appointment Of A Permanent National Committee For This Purpose

Appointment of a permanent national committee to study all phases of social and economic conditions with a view of making plans to prevent recurring cycles of unemployment is urged on the Dominion government by a round-table conference on unemployment which met in Ottawa. The conference, convened by the Canadian Council of Child Welfare, was representative of social welfare organizations in all parts of Canada.

The recommendation was one of many contained in a report which was drawn up and presented to Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, for submission to the Dominion government. Senator Robertson attended a dinner which brought the conference to a close. The report will be submitted to the provincial governments.

The proposed committee, it is suggested, would study the economic and social structure of Canada "with the purpose of pooling the best knowledge of governments, industrial, agricultural, and financial interests, social and health agencies, in order to formulate a more stabilized system of production and distribution and of supply and demand."

Toronto Police Force Being Trained To Handle Deadly Weapons

Detectives of the Toronto police department are being trained to handle machine guns if the occasion ever arises to use these deadly weapons, the Toronto Star says. The guns that fire 1,000 rounds in a minute and bullets that travel 930 feet a second, are being experimented with by Inspector Robert Alexander, aide to Chief Draper, and officer in charge of training.

Officers of the motorcycle squad, the Star further says, are also taking part in the training which will be extended to other ranks after all detectives are thoroughly schooled.

There's no doubt but what this particular nucleus of ladies is the most optimistic group miles around, for they are making extensive plans for a banner, dance and lunch supper to be held in the hall early in the fall. They contend that one has to eat anyway, even though they take it with them and share up with the other fellow.

This unit, not having planned a yearly program will elect a committee at their next meeting to plan the program for the following meeting. Mesdames Connaughton, J Rankin, and Funnell were chosen on the date and they appointed Mrs J Brown to write a paper on "Hosts to be later discussed by all. Then each member is to make an "after-dinner speech" though it will be a "Before Lunch" one instead, on the topic "The most annoying noise I hear." A questionbox will be conducted and each lady is to choose a white elephant toward the bazaar.

Owing to the fact that our regular date falls on a Sunday, the next meeting will be held on June 10th at the home of Mrs Hobbis

Hot Time At Wedding Celebration

A. E. Kainer, Police Magistrate, Hears Amusing Story

It was a real wedding celebration at the home of Mike Hymonyk, near Vermilion, on April 26, according to A.P.P. reports at a court hearing before Magistrate A. E. Kainer in Dewent on May 8th.

Hymonyk pointed to Mike Zalaski Steve Malkowski, William Strenk, Harry Kurash and George Yarmouth as the real ring-leaders, and Magistrate Kainer agreed and fined them costs of the court.

The five, Mike said, had offered to fight, invited other persons to fight, had shouted bad swear words and had caused a general disturbance. Peter Semenoz, said Mike, they had broken two windows a gate and a fence and had topped the celebration by throwing a rotten plank down the well, decreasing the sweetness of the drinking water.

The accused pleaded not guilty but were convicted on two charges, one of disturbance and the other of mischief. "The usual trouble developed" is the way Constable Olson reported in explaining the disturbance to head quarters.

In addition William Strenk was fined $5.00 and costs for assaulting Mrs Hymonyk while the celebration was at its height. Mrs Hymonyk claimed Bill hit her in the breast and on the lip with a piece of stick. J. W. G. Morrison prosecuted for Hymonyk while J. D. Adam appeared for Strenk. The others were not represented. The court was held in the hall and over a hundred people were present. The district took a day off.

Pontiac Stolen From Law's Garage

A 1925 Pontiac sedan was stolen from Law's Garage last Friday night, but was back in its rightful hands by Tuesday this week. The car is owned by Mr. G. W. Whitsell, who is at present en route from his winter home in Florida to Vermilion.

The car had been stored in the garage of George Law all winter and had just been tuned up for the summer driving at the request of its owner who expected shortly to be home Saturday morning the car had been removed from the garage and subsequent investigations showed that the building had been entered by means of the skylight—the ladder finds now lowered and the car had been filled with gas drained from another car. A spare tire was also gone. The car had a 1930 license on when taken. The garage had a night latch, hence the large doors could be safely left from the inside.

SEQUEL TO CAR STEALING EPISODE

(From The Edmonton Journal)

Sharp eyes of Constable H. Nelson of the city police force sent Robert Armstrong, alleged to have stolen a car at Vermilion, to the city jail early Tuesday.

Police have reports that a car had been stolen at Vermilion, even a fiver was on the hook for it and it was stated to be headed for Edmonton. Constable Nelson found the machine in a lane near the police station and arrested the driver in return. He and Percy Ray Ingram took him into custody.

It is alleged that Armstrong after arriving in the city sent the number plates from a car owned by Inspector Sergeant Bert Pocheron and substituted them for those on the stolen car.

The accused was turned over to the A.P.P.

Mr. Law was in the city Tuesday and brought the car back to town.

Dominion Of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan

Official announcement is made today of the terms of the Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan. This issue extends the opportunity to holders of Dominion of Canada War Loan and Victory Bonds now approaching maturity to convert their holdings in to bonds extending over a further period of from 15 to 25 years, and marks what may eventually prove to be the largest financial operation in the history of Canada — the refunding of the heavy volume of financial obligations incurred during the War period.

The offer does not involve the raising of any new money.

It will be added to the national debt of Canada in consequence of the 1931 Conversion Loan. It is entirely a matter of exchanging existing bonds for other bonds of the Dominion. A total of more than one billion dollars of bonds is maturing within the next 24 years. This total is made up of about $72,000,000 War Loan 5 p.c. Bonds due October 1, 1931; $73,300,000 Second War Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds due November 1, 1931; $116,000,000 Victory Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds due November 1, 1933; and $351,000,000 Victory Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds due November 1, 1934.

Holders of bonds of these issues are being given the opportunity of continuing their investment over a longer term in the future obligations of the Dominion Government. They will not lose anything in the way of interest payments or income tax exemption by exchanging into bonds of the 1931 Conversion Loan. It is explained that the new bonds will carry coupons entitling holders to receive up to the date of the maturity of their old bonds, the same interest payments and tax free privileges as they would enjoy if they held the War Loan or Victory Bonds until the actual date of maturity in each case. This is a notable feature of the term of the 1931 Conversion Loan that holders will get interest at the rate of 4½ p.c. per annum, which, in the opinion of leading investment dealers, is a very favorable return in view of the interest rates now prevailing in the London and New York markets.

The terms applicable are now being invited up to a total of $150,000,000 of the new bonds. It is announced, however, that the Minister of Finance reserves the right to increase or decrease this amount, in his discretion. Subscription lists will open next May 1st, and close on the 22nd of May, as may be decided by the Government.

Holders of the War Loan 5 p.c. Bonds maturing 1st of October, 1931 may exchange their bonds for Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan Bonds maturing November 1, 1946. The new bonds will not be subject to redemption before November 1, 1936, but from that date until maturity they may be called by the Government on any interest date on 60 days' notice, at 101 and accrued interest. The first coupon on these bonds will be for six months' tax free interest at 5 p.c. per annum, payable May 1, 1932. The second coupon will be for seven months' tax free interest at 4½ p.c. per annum, payable May 1, 1932. All other coupons will carry interest at the rate of 4½ p.c. per annum payable half yearly on the 1st of May and the 1st of November.

Holders of the Second War Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds maturing 1st of November, 1931, may exchange their bonds for Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan Bonds, maturing November 1, 1947. The bonds will not be subject to redemption before November 1st, 1937, but on or after that date they may be redeemed by the Government on any interest date on 60 days' notice, at 101 and accrued interest. The new bonds will carry regular coupons covering interest at the rate of 4½ p.c. per annum payable half-yearly on the 1st of May and the 1st of November in addition to the regular coupons, there will be two adjustment coupons payable, respectively, by, on the 1st of November, 1931, and the 1st of November 1932, for additional interest at the rate of 1 p.c. per annum.

Holders of the Victory Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds maturing the 1st of November 1933 are being offered the opportunity of exchanging their bonds for Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan Bonds maturing November 1, 1956. These new bonds will carry interest at the rate of 4½ p.c. per annum from May 1, 1931, payable half yearly on May 1st and November 1st. The first interest coupon—that is, those due to be paid each six months up to November 1, 1933, will be tax free. In addition to the regular coupons, these bonds will carry five tax free adjustment coupons for additional interest at the rate of 1 p.c. per annum payable, respectively, November 1, 1931, May 1, 1932, November 1, 1932, May 1, 1932, and November 1, 1933. The Conversion Loan Bonds maturing in 1956 will not be subject to redemption before November 1, 1946, but will on after that date they may be called at the option of the Government on any interest date on 60 days' notice and accrued interest.

Holders of the Victory Loan 5½ p.c. Bonds maturing 1st November 1934 are being offered the opportunity to exchange their bonds for bonds of the Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan maturing November 1, 1959, which will carry coupons entitling the owner to interest at the rate of 4½ p.c. per annum, payable half-yearly May 1 and November 1, commencing May 1, 1931. In addition to the regular coupons these bonds will carry seven adjustment coupons for further interest at the rate of 1 p.c. per annum, payable, respectively, November 1, 1931; May 1, 1932; November 1, 1932; May 1, 1933, November 1, 1933; May 1, 1934, and November 1, 1934. The Conversion Loan Bonds due December 1, 1959 will not be redeemable before November 1, 1949, but after that date they may be redeemed by the Government on any interest date on 60 days' notice at 100 and accrued interest.

The issue of bonds of the 1931 Conversion Loan is authorized by Act of Parliament, which provides that both principal and interest on all of the bonds to be a charge on the consolidated revenue fund of Canada, and that all interest on the new bonds will be payable without charge in lawful money of Canada at the office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, Saint John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, or Victoria. Interest coupons will be payable without charge as they fall due at any branch in Canada of any of the Chartered Banks.

The Department of Finance announces that interim certificates in bearer form will be delivered in the first instance in exchange for all War Loan and Victory Bonds accepted for conversion. Definitive bonds in bearer form will be delivered in due course in exchange for the interim certificates. The Finance Department expects that the definitive bonds will be ready on or about the 15th of August 1931.

When the definitive bonds are ready it will be possible for holders to obtain delivery of coupon bonds in bearer form or of registered bonds as to principal as to principal. These bonds will be issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000. Fully registered bonds, as to which the interest will be paid direct to the owner by Government cheque, will also be obtainable in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000.

Applications to convert bonds will be received and receipts issued by any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank and by recognized Canadian Bond Dealers and Brokers, from whom application forms and copies of the prospectus containing complete details of the new bonds may be obtained. They will arrange for the conversion of bonds without expense to bond-holders

The public school girls played us at baseball on Friday afternoon. The game was a fine one and was much appreciated by the admiring onlookers. The score was very close, being 15-12 in the high school's favor. Better luck next time, public school.

The boys' baseball team went to Lloydminster last Wednesday to play the Lloyd boys. If all reports are true Lloydminster, Mr. Addison and Hays were rather badly beaten. A return game was played this Wednesday, but no score was available.

The Literary meeting was held on Friday afternoon in the Assembly Hall. Grade X was responsible for it and indeed they did a fine job. The selections by Muriel Curry, Cliff Gates and Mr. Markle were greatly appreciated and we must not forget Miss Tate's selection at the piano. Art Wiebe gave a very funny stump speech for everybody laughed until his sides were sore). Mr. Addison gave an interesting report of the basketball game at Lloydminster.

HON. ROBT. WEIR REFERS TO CREDIT PLAN FOR WEST

Ottawa, Ont.—In a speech recording the present agricultural and agrimarket since he took over that portfolio, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, accused the Liberal standbearers of Conservative supporters in the House of Commons. It was the minister's long-awaited maiden speech.

No question members have been demanding that the government declare its agricultural policy. Finally, through the medium of an amendment to supply asserting the government failure to enunciate an agricultural policy, the opposition brought the demand to a head. Mr. Weir, Minister of Agriculture, then bowed gracefully and ponderously from the crowded galleries and chamber, to Conservative benches which cheered him again and again, and a new composition which protested at times the statements which he made.

The minister declared what had been done since he assumed office rather than what he proposed to do. His list of steps taken to develop the British market for Canadian products. The eight-cent duty on importations under the British preference and agreements negotiated with Australia and New Zealand had helped to hold the market, he claimed. The negotiations now going on with a view to enable western farmers to obtain banking credit, were described. These had culminated in the offer of assistance by the Dominion Government, Mr. Weir asserted. "When the offer is known," he said, "I am certain that even the most captious opponent will admit gentlemen opposite will think for having discussed this question in the way they have done."

He realized, said Mr. Weir, that the policies which he had enunciated would not bring immediate relief to the farmer. He knew the load of mortgages and debt that the western farmer was carrying. He knew that it required immediate relief, but that load was not put on the farmer since last August, he contended. Mr. Weir said:

The minister directed some scorching shots across the floor. His particularly sleighted one was Hon. W. R. Motherwell, his predecessor in office, and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King.

After the thundering, clapping and cheering had subsided when Mr. Weir sat down, it was succeeded by an outburst from Conservative leaders as John Vallance, Liberal member for South Battleford, rose to reply.

"After listening to the speech of the minister, I am convinced that he is a better politician than he is an agriculturist," commenced Mr. Vallance. "The most important matter for the western farmer today is markets for the stress of which seems never touched on it."

Establishment of a 100 per cent. wheat pool, and the reforestation of the Wheat Board was urged by Mr. Vallance.

In earlier debate, Dr. T. F. Donnelly, Liberal member for Willow Bunch, had criticized strongly the activities of Hon. Edward Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner to London, England, in connection with the Imperial Economic Conference.

Mr. Ferguson, he alleged, had succeeded in dividing buyers and sellers.

B.C. Cattle For Russia

Negotiations Opened Up For Purchase Of Pure Bred Stock

Vancouver, B.C.—It is understood that Soviet Russia may buy a number of purebred dairy cattle from British Columbia farms to strengthen the herds of Eastern Siberia. Negotiations were opened some months ago and steps are now being taken to arrange the best means of handling them. They will go from here to Japan by rail and will be trans-shipped from there either to Harbin or Vladivostok. It is understood that the first shipment will consist of 40 head.

Another movement of dairy stock from this province is that to Shanghai, and it is becoming a regular one. A dairy farm at Shanghai is taking from here a number of pure bred dairy herds at Shanghai is fairly heavy.

Calgary, Alberta. — The Alberta Wheat Pool will carry out its usual polices and members will be bound by contracts which they have signed, said Henry Wise Wood, chairman of the Alberta Pool, when informed that the Manitoba Wheat Pool will submit the opinion of members as to whether they wish the privilege of selling wheat on the open market after June 1, through the Pool elevator system.

Buy Times Ahead

Prophecy Is Made That Canada Will Soon Need Immigrants To Meet The Demand For Workers

Toronto, Ont.—Prophecy that Canada would be needing immigrants to meet the demand for workers within two years, was made by Col. R. H. Smythe, director of the Technical Service Council at the 10th annual convention here of the Ontario office superintendents of the Employment Service of Canada.

It was urged that a clause requiring that 75 per cent. of the help needed in construction of public works be secured through the Employment Service of Canada, should be included in government contracts. The Federal Government will be approached to ensure the inclusion of a clause to this effect.

It was resolved to request the department of labor to take additional means to discourage importation requests and that the immigration department be asked to check carefully all skilled workers seeking admittance to Canada.

Leads In Wheat Production

States That Russia Is World's Leading Producer Of Wheat

Washington, D.C.—Russia again is the world's leading producer of wheat. Figures supporting that unexpected and highly significant statement were expected to be released about May 20, by the United States Department of Agriculture.

It was said that Russian production for 1930 likely would be announced as 1,087,000,000 bushels, which is 366,000,000 bushels more than was produced by the United States—largest wheat producers since Russia left the import picture during the war.

Senate Craves Work

Lack Of Legislation Gives An Reason For Slack Hours

Ottawa, Ont.—Restless because of lack of legislation, senators are desirous of work. Since the present session opened, the Upper House has deliberated only about 10 hours altogether, because of lack of legislation originating in the House of Commons. Thursday, during which a verbose discussion on the sims and achievements of the League of Nations.

Rising at the conclusion of the informal debate, Senator John Lewis pointed to the lack of legislation to be considered by the senate at the present time. It was generally supposed the Upper House was deliberating on the Old Age Pensions Act, but it could see no reason why speed and direction of public thought could not be influenced also by the Senate.

Ottawa, Ont.—"We are fully assured that there is a strong pro-British sentiment in Canada and that the manufacturers in this country are willing to co-operate with English industrialists along lines that are complementary, and supplementary," Sir Alfred Lithgow, president of the Federation of British Industries, said in an interview here. "We are fully assured that there is every precaution in the empire and throughout the world, for the relief of which British industrialists are willing to do their part, and we believe that there are openings and directions in which Canada's advantage at present to buy in England."

Sir Jerome is leading a trade delegation which has come to Canada upon the invitation of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, to study economic conditions and to discuss with the government and business interests the Dominion ways and means of extending British trade in Canada. The other members of the delegation are Sir Arthur Duckham and Moir MacKenzie They interviewed Mr. Stevens, but no statement was given out regarding the conference.

MANITOBA POOL MAY ADOPT A NEW SYSTEM

Winnipeg, Man.—Manitoba Wheat Pool members will be given the right to choose between pooling their grain voluntarily, or selling it on the open market, if proposals announced recently by Manitoba Pool directors are approved by members. If the proposals are adopted, they will come into force June 1, 1931.

Contained in a letter signed by President Colin H. Burnell and forwarded to all Pool members, the proposals will be discussed at special meetings of 94 Pool locals in Manitoba, to be held during the last week in May. Under the suggested changes, all open-market sales would be handled by Manitoba Pool Elevators Ltd., the Pool's elevator system.

Decision to pave the way for alteration of the principle of the Pool contract, should members so desire, was reached at a meeting of the board of directors at Winnipeg May April 10-13, at which consideration of the annual Pool delegates meeting last November asking directors to call a 1931 summer meeting to consider the question of handling the 1931 crop.

If members of the Manitoba Pool approve the proposals — and it is expected that adoption will be unanimous — the grain handling of Manitoba Pool Elevators, Limited will be hedged immediately on the futures market. Hedging is a form of grain on futures contract to guard against a price-drop Decision to hedge grain would mark a drastic change in Pool policy, which has been principle spurned the use of "hedging."

Mr Burnell lists the directors proposals as follows:

1. The pooling of grain to be placed on a purely voluntary basis.

2. All grain not pooled to be sold through Manitoba Pool Elevators Limited on the open market

3. That the proposed changes be submitted to the 94 Pool locals at meetings which will be held in the last week of May in order that every member may have an opportunity to become acquainted with them

4. That the plan come into force on June 1, 1931.

Every Pool member is urged in the Burnell letter to attend his local meeting and give his personal support to this endeavor to carry co-operative marketing through a critical time."

British Firm May Enter the Production Field Here

New York - Possibility that the Gaumont-British Film Corporation, one of the largest motion picture organizations in Great Britain, might enter the production field in Canada, was seen in the statement by Arthur Lee, of the American-Anglo Corporation, that preliminary negotiations were under way which might lead to the establishment by Gaumont-British of studios at Windsor, Ont., and Victoria, B.C.

While these negotiations were in a very vague stage and might not materialize at anytime, Mr Lee said Gaumont-British this summer would make a determined effort to place more pictures in Canadian theatres. He said he would interview heads of Canadian theatrical syndicates within a few days with the object of securing increased distribution for Gaumont-British pictures.

Mr. Lee denied rumors that Gaumont-British entertained the idea of founding a theatre chain in Canada.

Establishment Of New Tariff Board Asked

Notice Of Resolution From Premier Bennett Appears On Order Paper

Ottawa, Ont. Notice of a resolution calling for the appointment of the new tariff board appears on the order paper of the House of Commons in the name of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister and minister of finance. The motion reads as follows:

Resolved that it is expedient to bring in a measure for the appointment of a tariff board, to prescribe the constitution, functions and duties of the board, and to provide for the salary to be paid the members, officers and employees of the board."

The resolution will form the basis for a bill to be introduced later.

WHEAT PRICES THE MAIN CAUSE OF DEPRESSION

Ottawa, Ont.—Reduction in salaries of civil servants made necessary during the present depression, suggested Senator J. J. Hughes of Prince Edward Island, rising in the Senate. The reduction should be general and include the governor-general as well as the lowest-paid office boy. The president and employees of the nationally-owned railway also should be lessened

Hon W A Buchanan, Lethbridge, Alberta, said the one word indicative of Canadian conditions was "wheat." If wheat prices could be restored to normal rates, the solution of Canada's economic problems would be possible. The economic welfare of Canada depended upon the purchasing power of the farmer. Unless steps were not taken to increase that power conditions would become serious

Irrigated lands in the West might be changed from wheat production to that of commodities and in competition with general agricultural production in the West. Senator Buchanan suggested that larger markets might be developed running factories established and an incentive given to the production of wool

Unless new markets were found for Western coal, the mines would have to be permanently closed, Senator Buchanan predicted. The industry there was in as acute distress as in the wheat fields, and the mines in Alberta during the past year averaged two days work a week

Senator Beaubien was given a government bill to appoint two additional directors for the Canadian National Railway

Important Local Event On June 8

The Vermilion Standard has received so many letters of appreciation from readers regarding the interesting items appearing in its columns every week under the heading "Fifteen Years Ago Today," that the Editor has been encouraged to devote another column to this type of journalism.

For some time past the Editorial staff has realized that a valuable service could be rendered the subscribers of this widely-circulated newspaper if detailed reports of future events were published week by week.

An experiment in this journalistic innovation appears below

"SEVENTY YEARS AHEAD"
"Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard

June 8th, 2001 A.D."

"At the regular monthly meeting of the School Board held on Monday evening it was decided to petition the Minister of Education to make drastic changes in the curriculum of the High School. It was unanimously agreed that too much time was being spent on such unnecessary subjects as chemistry, mathematics and languages, while other studies of vital necessity received practically no attention.

Miss Heina, instructress in physical training, who attended the meeting, pointed out that no regular periods were allotted for yo-yo exercises, and in this respect the local High School was far behind other educational centres. She explained that, under the existing arrangements, the only time available to the high school students for yo-yo practice was after school hours and on Saturdays and it was impossible for the average pupil to attain a high standard of proficiency in yo-yoing unless more attention was given to the art.

It was small wonder she argued, that all the highly remunerative jobs were being obtained by graduates of other educational institutions and personally thought it was unfair to the Vermilion High School students to place them under this very serious handicap.

In thanking Miss Heina for her valuable suggestions, the Chairman promised to bring the matter to the notice of the Minister of Education and expressed the hope that the time was not far distant when at least half the regular school hours would be devoted to yo-yoing under the supervision of an experienced instructor.

Other business of the meeting included the appointment of a teacher of commercial subjects at a salary of $150 per annum, and the appointments of two dancing instructors at a salary of $90.00 per annum.

"Today (June 8th) will be observed as a public holiday by the people of Vermilion and district, it being the seventieth anniversary of the first production in Vermilion of "The Climber," the musical comedy which was performed under the auspices of the Vermilion Citizens Band on Monday, June 8th, 1931, at the Columbia theatre. The occasion will be marked by the laying of the foundation stone for the huge monument which is to be erected on Main Street in memory of the members of the cast whose talented work in the musical production has made the town of Vermilion famous throughout the world.

"The mayoral parlours in the Town Hall were literally besieged on Tuesday last when thousands of citizens gathered to offer their congratulations to His Worship Mayor Fulton on his election to the office of Mayor for the eighteenth consecutive year. The venerable old gentleman, long since past the centennial age, arrived in his 1999 model Baby Austin aeroplane at 10.30 a.m., and was cheered enthusiastically as he noisily skipped up the steps of the town hall. He was obviously delighted with his reception, and chatted amiably with one and all

An ardent golf enthusiast, he had evidently just flown from the Claymore Golf and Country Club, as he was still attired in plus fours, and his golf clubs had been hurriedly thrust into his vest pocket. Cries of "Speech" brought forth a few well chosen words from His Worship who looked the personification of dignity his long, flowing beard (which had been immaculately marcelled for the occasion) adding that picturesque touch to his appearance which he had lacked in his younger days.

Briefly reviewing the wonderful progress of the town during his long term of office, he told the assembly that he looked forward to a still greater development in the future.

He stated that he was glad to see the present occasion to inform the citizens that the plank in the sidewalk on Second Street North which was broken in the year 1931, was to be repaired in the near future, and debentures would be issued immediately to take care of the necessary cost.

"Walking into the Standard office on Saturday morning to pay his subscription, Mr. Hiram Lowman, one of the early pioneers of the district, gave the editor some interesting details regarding the original Vermilion production of the musical comedy "The Claquino," which he was privileged to attend on June 8, 1931

He stated that never in the history of the town had a local production reached such a high standard of excellence. The splendid singing in the choruses, the exceptionally fine acting of the principals, the beautiful costumes and the elaborate scenic effects would, he asserted, never be forgotten by him even if he lived to be an old man."

ANNUAL SPORTS DAY AT MARWAYNE ON JULY 22nd.

The annual Marwayne sports day, which usually attracts many people from Vermilion, is set for Wednesday July 22nd. No doubt a few of the teams in various athletics from the town will be represented in the competitions in Marwayne on that day.

BIG SHIPMENT OF EGGS FROM M. WEBER & SON

Six Hundred Dozen Hot $84.00

M. Weber & Sons recently put thru a big shipment of eggs to Edmonton. Six hundred dozen eggs made up the shipment and a net amount of $84.30 was received for the lot — a little better than 5 and 7/10 cents dozen. Hardly a record high price!

So far this season the district has not been blessed with any appreciable rainfall.

Leigh Tyner, son of the Rev. J. E. Tyner, formerly of Vermilion, was married on May 1st to Miss Lucile Forbes of Two Hills. Leigh had been manager of the lumber yard at that point but will now take up residence at Marwayne and manage a new lumber yard there. The young couple left on a trip to Vancouver and Seattle after the wedding. It is also interesting to note that the ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. Comb, formerly of Islay and now of Warwick.

HORSE SHOES

The horse-shoe courts had a great day last Saturday—a (tie) match in the Walsworight Club in quest of the Hinton cup and a tournament in the evening for the local players. Every item on the program went off well. The Vermilion team took the Walsworight team into camp by a very large margin and dished up a brand of horse-shoe pitching that makes the local club look like the best bet on the circuit this year. The Vermilion team hasn't been beaten yet; they have played Vegreville, Viking, and Walsworight and have beat them all by large margins. The local boys are improving every time out, especially the young ones. It looks like a banner year for the Horse-shoe club.

The result of the tournament in the evening, in which 20 players took part, went over with a bang. The old stalwarts, Dave & K. R., took first, while Sammy & F. Brimacombe took second.

"RINGERS"

Dan Loveille and Sammy Draganuik looked like real champions, going through the five games without a loss. The games between the Marrays from Walsworight and the local boys was the tit-bit of the afternoon and the four players gave a real display.

To Detect Intoxication

Chemical Detection Invented By University Professor

A chemical detector of intoxication has been invented by Dr. Rollo W. Harger, of Indiana University. It makes possible an unerring detection of intoxication by taking a sample of the human breath and subjecting it to simple chemical tests. The device may serve police authorities to convict persons of driving motor cars under the influence of liquor if there is alcohol in the breath the solution changes color from red to white even when the breath has no odor of alcohol.

The Newest Invention

Device For Counting Words Written On Typewriter Has Been

One might think there is nothing left to invent, but according to Popular Science Monthly, a firm in Hartford, Conn., has taken out papers patenting a counting device for a typewriter. By this device a person knows how many words have been written. Counting words, or estimating them, has always been a problem. A good many city editors have told reporters they would take 500 words on a certain story, and the reporter has simply had to guess at it by knowing the number of words he can put on a sheet.

It might be quite a help in checking too many words in editorials, too. The writer would gaze now and then on that little counting device and it would warn him to quit, and editorial writers are often in need of such admonition.

The field is still open for such a contraption to be fastened to the jaw of public speakers.

Depends On Electricity

California Man Uses It Exclusively For Drying Fruit

One enterprising fruit grower in the fertile Santa Clara Valley of California has replaced "Old Sol," with electricity. Prunes, apricots and walnuts grown on his ranch are dried in two electric dehydrators 36 hours a day, instead of less than half that time previously. The dehydrators produce a uniform output with less work and without the problem of sudden changes in weather.

The prune-apricot dehydrator is long and square with trays that hold about 3,000 pounds of fruit. The walnut drier is a large cylinder with a capacity of 2,000 pounds. In each, the electric heat is evenly distributed by means of fans. The walnuts after being electrically hulled and washed are kept in the drier for a period of from 24 to 70 hours under a temperature of from 90 to 110 de-

Good Business For Canada

If Loan Proposal Meets With Anything Like Success

In an editorial on the Canadian Government's conversion project, the London Financial Times, England, says the varying nature of the bonds to which the offer is applicable prevents any close estimation of the saving. Broadly speaking, it will certainly be several million dollars per annum if the loans is attended with anything like success.

The Financial Times adds that the outcome of the impending operations will depend on the management of the manner in which the public in the Dominion view future prospects, and thus provide a good dealing with the balance of the loans concerned.

New Cunard Liner

Seventy-Three Thousand Ton Vessel Being Built In Scotland For Trans-Atlantic Travel

Practically the whole world will take some part or other in the construction of the new 73,000-ton Cunard liner at present being built at the yards of the John Brown Company, Clydebank, Scotland.

This liner, which when finished will be the finest liner ever constructed for trans-Atlantic travel, is the result of four years' intensive planning on the part of the best marine minds that could be brought together.

For several years before the ship was ordered, intricate tanks were carried out in the laboratories of John Brown and Company, for which models—exact replicas of the new liner—were constructed. These models were placed in specially-designed tanks and submitted to every condition of wave and current that might possibly be encountered on the Atlantic route.

When the final model was approved and the plans for the docking facilities completed at Southampton, work was commenced on the same yards in which the world famous "Aquitania" was constructed.

Right from the Clyde from where the new Cunarder is being built is the River Cart. It will be necessary to cut a very large part of the bank of this river away as well as deepen it, as the launching of such a huge vessel is without precedent; launching preparations are at present demanding a great deal of care in the working out of the problems of constructing the giant vessel to the water.

The recalls to mind the great care and attention which was paid to the launching of the "Aquitania" when she was launched on the Clyde, and at that time a huge cradle was built to make a large cut in the bank of the river to allow for the ship to be launched.

The household equipment for the new "Queen of the Seas" will include 800,000 pieces of silver, 2,000,000 pieces of china, pottery and glass, and an incredible quantity of linen and furnishings of every conceivable sort.

Indications at present point to a launching early in 1932—considerably in advance of the date originally set for last year when the order was given to John Brown and Company.

The fine work that the general public will have to view the construction of this new Cunarder will be when the yards of John Brown and Company are opened for public inspection during Glasgow Week, and preparations are being made for thousands of visitors to be taken care of who are anxious to get a glimpse of this ocean giant in the making.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS ENTERING JERUSALEM AS KING

Golden Text: "He is Lord of lords, and King of kings."—Revelation 17, 14.

Lesson: Luke 19.36 to 20.47.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 24.

Explanations and Comments

Practicing For Christ's Triumphal Entry, 19.29-35.—And when he had thus spoken (his account follows immediately the giving of the "Parable of the Pounds"), Jesus went before His disciples on their way to Jerusalem. The Jerusalem road is no Appian way lined with the tombs of dead gallantries; it is the ancient road running through the hills and over the moorland to the city of the sea. It is rather the direction of derive, a purpose pursued, a quest adopted and a conquest won. It reveals the Christ of the sacrificial purpose."

The triumphal entry was deliberately planned. It was Jesus' last appeal to the people to accept Him as the kind of King He was. He would exhaust the possibilities of the situation. Though He could not have expected to turn the people's mind away from the kind of king they wanted—an earthly rather than a spiritual sovereign.

In the neighborhood of Bethphage and Bethany, a small town of Olivet, He met two of His disciples in a near-by village to secure for Him a colt that had never been ridden, they were told to bring it to Him. If the owner objected, they had only to say, "The Lord hath need of him." These words may have been the password which Jesus had arranged with the owner of the colt. From John 12.1 we know that he had stopped for at least a night at Bethany, when He would have had time to make such an arrangement. As previously, the beast of burden would be an entirely suitable for a distinguished rider, whereas the ass that had never served any one but the proprietors of it all happened in just that way the colt was found, the question of the owner and the answer of the disciples were given, and the latter returned to Jesus with the animal.

By choosing an ass to ride upon, Jesus plainly showed the character of His was not to be thought of as a military leader, for the horse was used in warfare, while the ass was the living animal for the work of Peace. The people threw garments on the colt for the Master to ride upon the roadway to make a carpeted passage for Him, all to honor Jesus as King, just as they did Jehu's disciples have strewn the roadway with flowers to honor a President.

The King's Royal Progress, 19.36-38.—As they went down the Mount of Olives toward the city, the joyous crowd shouted and praised God for all the mighty works which they had seen, and called Him "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord." Compare Isaiah 40.11; Zechariah 9.9; Psalm 118.26.

"Peace in heaven and glory in the highest," they sang. These words were taken from Psalm 118, the Messianic Psalm. "Why are its lessons?" Perhaps they meant that peace in heaven was prophetic of that peace He was bringing to earth that He was the Unconquered One, before whom all enemies would lay down their arms without daring to fight."—R. C. Chillie.

On the day when the boat dropped anchor in Port Antonio, Nick was up with the dawn. One glance through his porthole had driven him out of bed, in order not to miss a moment of the miracle of the Mountains, purple and hazy in the background—palm-covered hillsides dotted with white cottages, great bougets of flaming hibiscus—sapphire skies, and water as blue as turquoise. The tempter!

Early though it was, boys with shining black bodies were swimming about in the water, as much at home there as on the land they left behind them company. On shore were women, carrying huge baskets on their heads, or busy with their colored beads to sell to the tourists who would soon land.

The warm air—the rich coloring of the landscape—its very difference from the ice-clad New England he had left behind, caught Nick's imagination, and held it spellbound. If Gay were only with him! Sudden regret flooded through him—regret that she could not see it—that she was not here to share his joy in these strange, new sights. Share it he must with someone, or—

"It's fairyland, isn't it?" said Angela, her shoulder touching his as she joined him at the rail.

She had approached so quietly that Nick heard no footstep, but he turned, throwing her a glance of unadulterated rapture—not rapture at her own charms, which she expected to see at the scene before them, and at "Life," which had given him this chance to drink of it.

"It's a dream come true," he answered. "I feel inclined to pinch myself, just to be sure that I am 'I.' I am sorry you the weeks you'll have here, Angela." (It had become "Nick" and "Angela" during those days of intimacy on the boat—"Kingston, I believe, is more of a city. However, I've got today to revel in it."

"Will you let me revel with you?" "That will be holy, if your friends will let you off."

She laughed softly, not thinking it necessary to explain that her friends were wholly innocent of her arrival.

"They'll have to. We'll go for a drive, Nick dire one of those ridiculous darkeys to take us you know. It's not as new to me as it is to you. I came here with Mr. Halliday five years ago. Shall we wait for breakfast on the boat, or go ashore and get it at the hotel?"

"Let's go ashore. I can't wait another minute to begin exploring."

It's all too wonderful to be true, (he wrote Gay in his first letter after getting settled). Imagine a creek meeting Mrs. Halliday, for she knew the road and just what I ought to do in the few hours I had at Port Antonio. We took a marvelous drive to Blue Hole, seeing strange and unbelievable things on every side; she knew the history of every one, too, and looked a peach, as she always does. I felt quite proud to be known as chaperoned by such a lovely lady. Tell Halliday that I may make him sit up and take notice of her.

"But you needn't let it trouble your wife-of-mine. I know how you feel about Mrs. Halliday, so for your comfort I'll say that we've parted company. It was a queer coincidence our taking the same boat; but she's stopping at Port Antonio, and my work will keep me at Kingston for the present. So don't worry about your jealous wife. You wouldn't if you knew how constantly he thinks of her. What a silence as he tries to enjoy things so tremendously when one's with him.

"I'm only half alive without you, Gay. I'm like a man going about minus an arm or leg. That may not sound romantic, but it's true. I can analyze it you'll see how necessary you are to me—you and our precious little boys. I'm conscious of missing something all the time. . . . . .

"I'm now doing him good — the change. Gay saw that in his letters, which breathed of his old buoyancy. He wrote a page or two each day, and mailed them whenever a boat was going. Gay did the same, relating all the home doings with the skill of a real story-teller, repeating the funny sayings of the children, and giving comical remarks of Uncle Ben in a way that brought them very near to the absent one.

But she did not mention Angela Halliday. Nick noticed the omission, and put it down to forgetfulness until the letter came which showed that Gay ignoring. He knew them that Gay had purposely refrained from writing of it.

"She didn't like it," he pondered, "yet she can't be jealous. That would be too absurd. Perhaps she just doesn't care anything pleasant on the subject so she said nothing. That would be like Gay bless her dear heart! Still, I wish she'd spoken of it. Makes me feel sort of uncomfortable. She might at least have mentioned the coincidence of our meeting."

As for Halliday, he had turned the key on the Reston apartment and gone back to Bakerville. Only on Thursdays and Sundays, when Julie was out duty, he and little Martha had supper with the household across the hedge. To him, at least, Gay had not been silent regarding that unexpected meeting.

"It was so nice that Nick should find a friend aboard the boat," she said; while Halliday answered: "And equally nice for Mrs. Halliday."

Each was almost too obviously saying the correct thing. Uncle Ben's shrewd old eyes watching them, grunted, and taking out his pipe asked Halliday for a light.

Things were going through Uncle Sim's mind these days which vaguely troubled him. One was the look in James Halliday's eyes as they watched Gay mothering little Martha. It had become a habit for the child to run over after her early supper, and share the bedtime story Gay told her boys. They made a pretty picture, thought Uncle Sim. No wonder Halliday liked to see it. Gay looked a real madonna with baby Nick cuddled in her arms, while Sonny and the little girl leaned lovingly against her on either side.

"That's something' they ain't any of 'em ever goin' to forget," he said to Halliday, who had come over to take his small charge home to bed. They stood in the doorway of the living-room, which was lighted only by the blazing logs upon the hearth. Deep in her story, Gay was wholly unaware of any audience save the youthful one beside her. Little Nick was in his nightly, his small, bare feet stretched out to the welcome warmth. A big log burst apart, sending a shower of sparks into the dark above, and casting a veritable halo about Gay's head.

James Halliday breathed deeply at the words.

"Ma," he responded, "they will never forget it. I wonder if it isn't memories such as this, that keep us from falling when the way seems hard. I can remember—"

He broke off suddenly, as if his thoughts had betrayed him into an indiscretion. And in that moment Uncle Martin turned and saw them. He slipped from Gay's encircling arm, and ran to him.

"I love you best," she whispered, as he caught her up. "I love you best of anyone."

It was the next day that Martha forced him into a decision he had long been considering. She was watching him use his typewriter, a pursuit of which she never tired; and having become accustomed to her presence it did not disturb him, however much they spoke. But this morning as he paused, hunting an elusive word, she said: "Sonny and little Mic'—they have a daddy."

Halliday smiled.

"He sends them postcards, sa'—an letters, when he's away."

Halliday lifted the child onto his knee and pushed his machine aside, as if this interruption were more important.

"I want one," went on the little girl soberly. "Couldn't you be my daddy? I'd like you best."

He bent a little closer.

"Are you sure," he questioned with pathetic eagerness, "are you quite sure that you'd like me best?"

"You're my best favourite," answered little Martha.

In the moment's silence that followed, a small, plump hand to touch his cheek. Halliday caught and kissed it.

"Then we'll be daddy, that settles it. I believe you're my 'best favourite,' also."

But Martha, it seemed had more to say.

"They have a mother, too," she continued.

The new-made father winced.

"I know, but—wouldn't I do for you?"

"I'd like Mrs. Hastings for my mother. Please, Daddy."

The new name dropped sweetly and naturally from the child's lips, and Halliday, bending, kissed her bright head, as he pushed back his chair.

"I'll like—her," she persisted.

Had she looked up she would have seen a dark flush mount to the face above her.

"Are we one?"

Be silent.

Would Extend Silver Coinage

One Dollar and Two Dollar Pieces Suggested By Meighen

Extension of silver coinage to include, in Canada, one-dollar and two-dollar pieces and increase of silver content in subsidiary coins were suggested by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Prime Minister of Canada, as means of aiding in the cure of the present economic depression. At the 12th annual dinner of "the Daily News-paper" Publishers of Canada held in Toronto, he named the drastic decline in value of silver as a promising contributory cause to world-wide depression.

Side measure of value and wide medium of exchange for half the world, silver had dropped precipitately to little more than 50 per cent of its value five years ago, Mr. Meighen pointed out. The result, he explained, was that the purchasing power of Asia, South America and Mexico—silver medium areas — has been cut down, and the cost of products in these lands has been increasing so that the possibility of product underselling those of America, Britain and Europe is increased.

In increasing the percentage of silver in subsidiary coins, two-dollar denominations could be issued without increasing size, said the guest speaker. Further advantage would accrue, he suggested that the coinage of one-dollar and two-dollar pieces instead of the present currency unit would be a means of extending the use of silver and pressing upward its purchasing power, thereby aiding inflation to gold, medium of exchange where silver is not recognized

Coal Movement Heavy

Increase In Shown On Canadian National Lines Over Previous Year

A comparison of commercial coal loadings along the lines of the Canadian National Railways for April, 1931 and the same month of 1930, indicates a slight increase. This fact may be attributed to the more frequent shipments from Edson and Drumheller, and the commencement of activities in the Monogram mine at Estevan. Grain loadings on the C.N.R. during April showed large increases over 1930 [illegible] loadings this year totalled 2,541 cars against 2,359 cars in 1930. During the entire month 4,598 cars were delivered at the Lake Head as compared to 1,299 in April last year. Eastbound loadings totalled 1,667 as against 806 in the preceding year, and 1,805 cars were delivered in Vancouver as compared to 884 in 1930.

Central Alberta's Biggest Sports Day June 3

Will Be Held in Vermilion Agricultural Grounds

LARGE AND VARIED LIST OF EVENTS

Vermilion Sports Day this year falls on Wednesday, June 3rd, and judging by the enormous array of events, competitions, etc., bids fair to be the section of Alberta's biggest day, no other town offering the varied list of athletic events as well as the ball competitions that the V.A.A.A. have on schedule.

Of primary interest on the day's attractions is the baseball tourney with $125.00 prize money in the senior event and three different sections of junior ball. This year the senior entry list will be limited to six entries, the first six teams signifying their intention to participate will be accepted. Last year nine teams took part and it was a difficult matter to handle so many. The junior baseball is divided into the following classes: 18 and under, 16 and under and 12 and under. Substantial cash prizes are given for all these. The girls have also an open and a 15 years and under softball competition, with cash prizes for both events.

Basketball, football and horseshoe tourneys wind up the competitions on the day's schedule.

Amateur Events

A long list of athletic events will no doubt attract athletes from Lloydminster to Vegreville, as there are eight events in the open class, and 19 in the junior divisions. 12 for boys and 7 for girls. The Morrison three-mile road race always a feature of the day, will be run, as last year, on the half-mile track

West End Barn Burned To Ground

Stephaniuk's Livery Follows in Wake of Many Others

A feed and livery stable located in the west end of town, on Railway street, followed in the path of many of its kind on Sunday night when it went up in flames. It was owned by John Stephaniuk and the loss is estimated at $1,000.00, which was all on the building with no loss of contents, the barn being empty at the time.

The alarm was turned in at 10:10. The fire having then burst through the roof of the stable rendering any chance of saving the wooden structure out of the question. A heavy wind was blowing at the time. No one knows how the fire started.

This leaves only two livery and feed stables in the town, the lowest in the history of this burg for a long time.

Principal J.W.E. Markle Resigns From H.S.

Will Go To Camrose High School End of Present Term

J. W. E. Markle, principal of the Vermilion high school for the past three years, has resigned to accept the principalship of the Camrose high school, which position he has recently been offered. His resignation takes effect at the end of the present term.

J. W. G. Mervyn, K.C., chairman of the school board, interviewed by the Standard in regard to the resignation of Mr. Markle, made the following statement: "I sincerely regret the resignation of Principal Markle from our High school staff, in this I voice the sentiment of every member of the Board. At the same time I heartily congratulate him on his appointment as Principal of the Camrose High School. It is a decided move upwards and I feel his connection with the Vermilion school has been of material assistance in qualifying him for that position. The relations between Mr. Markle and the Board have always been most cordial. Personal ly I never had to deal with one as Principal, and I have dealt with several, who seemed to put himself out of the way to meet the wishes of the Board with respect to conducting the school. He gave us loyal support and the school has certainly shown much progress since his appointment as Principal. He leaves a fine record behind him. On behalf of myself and the members of the Board we can only wish him every success in his new apointment."

At a special meeting of the Board held on Monday evening the resignation of Principal Markle was regretfully accepted.

High School Notes

On Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock Rev. A. W. Banfield gave us a lecture on Central Africa. He told us of their exports, languages and little of their customs. We all appreciated Rev. Banfield's lecture very much. Many of us received a rather sudden awakening; we found out to quote Rev. Banfield, that "when the good Lord was distributing brains he didn't drop them all in North America."

We understand that the sporty members of the High School intend to go to Kitscoty Monday to take part in the sports. We wish them luck in their entries.

BROWNIE NOTES

We are settling down to work now and some of us have to hurry up and get up second class badge. We want to remain Sixers. We would like to see all of our members at the next meetings.

DISTINGUISHED MISSIONARY, TRAVELER AND LECTURER VISITS VERMILION

The United church was filled to overflowing Monday night when Rev. A. W. Banfield, F.R.G.S., travelling deputy for the British and Foreign Bible Society, gave an illustrated lecture "Across Central Africa." Mr. George Law, president of the local branch of the Society, occupied the chair and called on Rev. G. McComas for the Scripture reading and Mr. R. Chisholm for the prayer. Mr. Smith, secretary for the Northern Alberta Auxiliary, introduced Mr. Banfield, a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. Mr. Banfield has labored in Central West Africa for 30 years, has translated the entire Bible into the Nupe language, a tribe numbering a million people and in pursuance of his work has travelled several times across Africa from east to west following in the very footsteps of living stone and Stanley.

Stirred in the habit of a desert negro and with the help of beautiful lantern slides taken from his own photographs, Mr. Banfield took us on a graphic story of the country, the people and their customs. The first half of the story revealed the native in his natural state and degradation, the second half showed him uplifted and redeemed by the power of the gospel.

One of the last pictures was that of a copy of Bibles landed at Zanzibar, the work of the Bible Society and destined for the various missions situated. Already the Society has translated the Scriptures into over 200 African languages but still there are many others who have native words "Word of Life." The Rev. Mr. Banfield made appeal. At the close Rev. H. A. Boyd moved the appreciation of the Vermilion and the audience, one of the most interesting and instructive lectures it has been our privilege to hear."

The Cost Of Sickness

Unnecessary Loss Of Life Each Year From Diseases That Could Be Prevented

(By John Burke Ingram.)

One Canadian out of every three dies ahead of his time, statistics show. One death out of every three deaths that bring sorrow to Canadian communities, large and small, could be postponed. We Canadians are letting our friends and relatives die because we do not know how many diseases there are which could be prevented or because knowing, we will not take the trouble, the simple trouble to prevent them. Why are these diseases not prevented.

That is the question which every thinking Canadian should want answered' For centuries disease was inevitable because mankind had not learned how to prevent it. Doctors existed to heal the sick, but it was nobody's business to attempt to prevent sickness from occurring because in those days it could not be done

Then an English scientist named Edward Jenner, discovered vaccination against smallpox. Doctors began to vaccinate people—which meant that doctors began to treat "Healthy" people, in order to keep them from becoming ill by contracting smallpox As a result this disease, at one time the greatest scourge of the race, has been beaten down till today it occupies a negligible place among the killers of civilized men

The discovery of vaccination made medical scientists think along new lines If a substance had been discovered which would prevent smallpox, why could not other substances be evolved to prevent other diseases? The idea was sound. Today there is a substance which prevents diphtheria, another to prevent typhoid fever, another against scarlet fever, another to prevent lockjaw, another which used in infantile paralysis prevents crippling.

But though science is in a condition to prevent diseases by these and other means, we are not taking advantage of the protection which is offered to us. For centuries we regarded disease as a kind of god, and because it is hard to change the thinking habits of a people in one single generation we will, even most of our leaders, retain this medieval attitude.

And therefore today, Canada's lifeblood is flowing from wounds inflicted upon her by her enemies—disease germs. Not merely in dollars and cents alone—disease milks us unmercifully—but also in our man-power. Canada needs population. Canada is constantly bringing foreign and other immigrants to our shore, yet she permits her own sons and daughters to die of diseases which could be, and should be, and some day shall be prevented' Diphtheria and typhoid fever, both preventable, take respectively 1,360 and 1,111 lives annually, yet both diseases are preventable! The death rate from tuberculosis has been cut in two in the past 25 years, and could be even with our present incomplete knowledge halved and halved again. Cancer kills almost 8,000 Canadians every year, and despite the fact that we don't know what causes cancer, this death rate could be cut in half if adult Canadians would cultivate the habit of having themselves examined periodically and thoroughly examined by a competent physician every birthday. And so all through the painful list of diseases which now rob us of our best and fairest—heart disease, maternal mortality, infant mortality, venereal diseases, all can be cut down if men and women will realize that they get just exactly the kind of health service that they want and are willing to pay for, and that by backing their public health officer, they may, in some measure, be held responsible for the health of a nation that is too indifferent to help itself.

Divorce By Legislation

The ninth application for divorce in the last 50 years was recently before the legislative council of the Irish Free State. The island has resured of His deathless love they would not be separated from the shock of His death came. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 24

JESUS PREPARING FOR THE END

Golden Text: "This do in remembrance of Me."—Luke 22.19.

Lesson: Luke 21.1 to 22.23.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53.1-6.

(Explanations and Comments)

The Preparation For Keeping the Passover, 22.7-13.—While the city of Jerusalem was making ready to celebrate the Passover Supper, the duty of unleavened bread, and the chief priests and elders were planning how they might put Jesus to death, Jesus bade two of His disciples, Peter and John, make preparations for their keeping of the feast. "Where?" they asked Him, and Jesus directed them to enter Jerusalem, and when they met a man bearing a pitcher of water to follow him. Water was carried by women in jars upon their heads, and a man doing this work would be a solitary and unusual figure. To the owner of the house to which the man would lead them, Jesus bade them say, that the Master named where was the guest chamber in which He should eat the Passover with His disciples. The owner would show them a large upper room where they were to make ready for the Passover. The disciples followed His directions.

The Prelude To the Lord's Supper, 22.14-18.—When the hour was come (when evening was come, Matthew), Jesus sat down (reclined on a couch) with His disciples to partake of the Paschal Supper. "With desire have I desired (intensely have I longed) to eat this Passover with you before I suffer." Why? For His own sake, there was comfort for Him even then that He should be able to manifest His love. While tender, solemn thought He had looked forward to it, and He desired the support of fellowship for what lay before Him. For their sake also. The final act of suffering would be a great trial to the disciples. They were to know something of the sorrow of desolation, and Christ was eager to prepare them for the dark future. If they were assured of His deathless love they would not be separated from the shock of His death came. They could look back on this feast and on these words and gather strength to suffer and to wait. And so it is for us also who are His disciples. Our feast of love not only represents the desire of the Lord to give Himself, but represents the joy of the gift to us.

Gift For King George

Presented With Valuable Addition To Stamp Collection

King George has accepted a valuable addition to his wonderful collection of postage stamps, an album which contains a complete set of the new pictorial postage stamps for the territory of Southwest Africa, together with a series of the issued stamps in unusual, marginal blocks of four, for the royal collection. The presentation was made recently on behalf of the Union Government by the high commissioner for South Africa, C. T. Weter. These are the first stamps of definitive design to be circulated in the mandated territory, where up to now over-printed types of the Union itself have been employed. The subjects were obtained a open competition from South African artists, and the photographs, sketches and paintings selected by Colonel J. A. Venning, director of posts and telegraphs at Windhoek, while the actual engraving and printing has been carried out by Bradbury, Wilkinson and Company Limited, at New Malden, Surrey, England.

Canada and Newsprint Production

More Newsprint Made In Canada Than Any Other Country

More newsprint paper is made in Canada than in any other country. In 1930 Canada manufactured 2,504,-000 tons, 36 per cent. of the world production of newsprint paper. The tonnages was practically double that turned out in the United States, which was the nearest competitor to the Canadian mills with an output of 18 per cent. of the world total. Great Britain and Germany each manufactured about nine per cent. and Newfoundland and Japan four per cent. each. These six countries accounted for about four-fifths of the world supply of newsprint which totalled 6,-975,000 tons last year.

Though Canada's production totalled 36 per cent. of the aggregate for the upwards of 30 countries producing newsprint, the imports of the export market was even larger.

Exhibition For Charity

England's fancy mice exhibition, at St. Albans, England, had more than 1 various kinds of pinks and fancy mice shown by women fanciers. Mostly experimental, there are few limits to the combinations and crom breeds obtainable. Among the freak results are white mice with black eyes; silver and tan mice; black and tan mice, and one instance, extremely rare, a blue mouse. Proceeds from the exhibition are for charity.

A BOND FOR A BOND.

The Conversion Loan of 1931 of the Dominion Government makes an appeal to Canadian thrift by providing an opportunity to holders of maturing bonds to continue the benefits they have enjoyed as holders of Canada's premier security. They may enjoy the war-time interest rate and other privileges of the bonds for the full holding until expiration and at the same time may extend the period of their security investment for a period of fifteen to twenty-five years on the basis of yields now prevailing — yields which are reasonably high, slowly, scoring smaller and are almost certain to continue to do so; at least this is the opinion of those who are closely in touch with financial conditions and who are in position to forecast avenue trends of the next few years.

This renewal operation does not involve the raising of any additional money and therefore has no effect whatever upon the World Situation.

These uncertainties which may have been felt during the period of the world war have long since passed and even the doubts about the return of national prosperity are being diminished as various economic factors indicate not only that the bottom of the depression has been reached, but that a firm foundation is being laid for constructive development, even though the recovery may be gradual.

Any study of the price records, over the years, of British Consols or the securities of other representative governments, if related to the general trend of commodity prices and other developments of economic significance lends fortitude to the conclusion that the market for bonds of the highest grade will continue to rise for a period extending considerably beyond the issues involved in this refunding operation.

The best further logical conclusion from all the circumstances than that the Government in its program to take care of the refunding of heavy obligations created during war-times, at a time when conditions do not permit of repayment out of revenues, is safe-guarding the financial interests and at the same time providing the Canadian people with an opportunity to continue an investment which has proven its real worth during a period of unusual stress.

The investor who has held a Dominion of Canada bond can do no better than to continue to hold a Dominion of Canada bond

OFFER OF HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY ACCEPTED.

The standard is extremely pleased, no doubt in common with most of the other residents of the town and district, to note that work on the laying out and beautification of the hospital grounds has been started and is already well under way. The work is under the supervision of Messrs W J Elliott and R C Heckbert of the agricultural school, in their capacity however, of officers of the Vermilion Horticultural Society. The property is admirable for the appearance of its grounds is being greatly aided by the Vermilion Demonstration Farm which has donated some trees and shrubs. The work at present is being confined to the west side of the grounds. The hospital board may rest assured that now they have taken this forward and needed step that they will get full value for every dollar expended the work being under the surveillance of two such capable gentlemen a. Mr Elliott and Mr Heckbert.

KEEP BOSSY AT HOME OR UNDER STRICT SURVEILLANCE.

Many warnings are appearing in weekly newspapers at this time to owners of livestock, chiefly cows, that they would be wise to range them around at will, with the result that they frequently wreck havoc on the neighbors gardens, throw beds and hedges and store up a heap of trouble for their owners. While we must admit the owners deserve for allowing the cows, horses, etc. to wander at large.

An ordinary or even a poor speed man of the old school can drive a cow completely ruin in an hour or less the loving work of a good gardener for the past week and finding a cow complacently amidst one of his onions lettuce, or radish beds seems like morning is storms enough, in the aggrieved gardener's estimation — even if not permissible—to vanquish that animal to the happy hunting grounds.

This is an amusing topic and one which is easily eliminated if the town

Town Council To Conduct Local Census

The fact that a census of Canada's population is to be undertaken by the Dominion Government this summer is largely responsible for the Town Council's decision to conduct a local census in the immediate future.

The matter has been under consideration by the members of the BOARD council for some time and it was with the view of avoiding delays in connection with the census that a meeting was called on Monday evening at which suggestions as to local census methods were passed.

After much discussion many points it was decided to adopt to conduct the census in the easiest possible lake in order to get as much information as possible from local residents before the Dominion census takers got to work.

The first point in the question matter should be complied with was one of much heated debate, which at times threatened to break up the meeting.

Most of the members were strongly in favor of making the questionnaire in as much a form that it would cover the intimate details of the lives of the residents. It was pointed out by the inhabitants of Vermilion that, even with those of most social views, were sensitively shrouded of the very day lives of their fellow citizens. It was suggested that the information gleaned from the questionnaire should be placed on file at the Town Hall where any bona fide resident could gain access to it at any time.

It was unanimously agreed that some such facility should be granted to local householders as the basis of information regarding the lives of one's neighbors may give rise to an due anxiety and frequently add to serious cases of nervous breakdown.

In support of this point, one gentleman stated that he personally knew of a case in which one family failed to find out what in the advertising what the next door neighbors had for breakfast. This, he argued was an appalling state of affairs, and immediate steps should be taken to remedy such conditions.

The completion of the question naire was finally left in the hands of the following committee Mr. Bill Hight (representing the Vermilion Horse-show Club), Mr. Don Taylor (representing the Vermilion Elks), Mr. F. Glenn (representing the Little Theatre Club), and the Misses Jerry Bell and June Long (representing Mrs Elford's Kindergarten).

In order that householders may be prepared for the census-takers, a few of the questions they will be expected to answer are published below:

1.—Are you married or do you live a normally peaceful life?

2.—Are you a member of any fresh society or sect; or do you believe with the great majority, that the greatest play "The Gimpaker" which is to be produced under the auspices of the Vermilion Citizens Band on 8th of June will be the greatest show ever seen in Vermilion?

3.—Have you an electric range in your home? If so do the tiled tiles manage with the personal radio set-be-home in your kitchen?

(This questionnaire is compiled by the Town Council as vitally necessary and induce us your part to divulge it will seriously hamper the future development of the town).

4.—Do you attend your church regularly, or are you occasionally, or only once a week by means that you are unable to find a ticket for "The Gimpaker" on June 8th at the Vermilion Theatre?

5.—What is your political opinion? Do you consider it better than the Chinese? Do you consider it a good thing for Vermilion to have a town council? Do you think it a good thing for Vermilion to have a Band and if you can afford all expenses? Do you think it would be a good thing for Vermilion if Queen Mary were to visit Vermilion? Do you think it would be a good thing for Vermilion if the Band were to play the Gimpaker?

6.—Do you realize that you are entirely to blame for your dull existence? Vermilion citizens Band and you can afford all expenses? Do you think it would be a good thing for Vermilion if Queen Mary were to visit Vermilion? Do you think it would be a good thing for Vermilion if the Band were to play the Gimpaker?

7.—Have you ever been sent to the penitentiary and if not why not?

8.—Are you a Mason? If you do not go to the Vermilion Theatre on Monday June 8th you will miss the opportunity of a life time.

Drive 42,500 Tons at 25½ Knots

The largest rust bronze propellers in the world are seen above in this unique view of the after end of the new 42,500 ton Canadian Pacific Liner "Empress of Britain." These huge screws, the two larger ones each weighing 35 tons, and the smaller pair 17½ tons apiece proved their ability during recent trials to drive this new palatial ship through the water at a mean of 25.52 knots.

Another outstanding feature of the picture is the huge rudder, which weighs 87 tons. The tiller below them is the smallest in the world, measuring only 18 inches.

Lower left is an insert of the Empress of Britain as she steamed over the measured mile at the fastest speed developed by a new British liner since the war.

The Empress of Britain sails from Southampton May 27th, and is due to reach Quebec five days later.

J. J. LEE AND C.P.R. IN COUNTER CLAIMS

Sitting in the civil division of the supreme court, Mr Justice J R Boyle on Wednesday continued the hearing of the action brought by the Canadian Pacific Railway against John Joseph Lee.

The C.P.R. claims $41173 for default in payment on the purchase of a block of land in what is known as the "Lloydminster block" near Vermilion.

Lee is counter-claiming for $85,137, or alternately $83,437 and $4577 which he alleged he paid on the purchase price of the land, claiming the $85,000 as representing improvements on buildings and other properties and claiming the land had been represented to him as medium black loam soil, capable of producing, on the hay land portion two tons of hay a year and

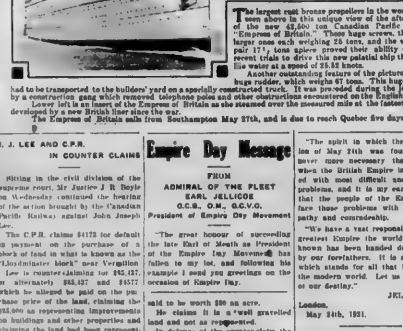
Rocky Mountains Are Ideal Holiday Land



Beauty unrivalled, health-giving attitudes, all the comforts that modern ingenuity can devise and "something to do" all the time await the array of travellers from all over the world, which annually invades the glorious Canadian Rockies through the Banff Springs Hotel and the Chateau Lake Louise. These mainly up-to-date hostelries, which open on May 15 and June 1, respectively, are not only luxury-hotels in the most beautiful mountain territory in the world, but are, themselves, located in settings of a beauty which has no parallel in the truly appreciated. On the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which owns and operates them, they are equipped not only to be "homes from home" to the travelling public and holiday-makers in the generally accepted sense, but to furnish entertainment for their guests in many and varied ways. Auto drives, trail-rides, boating, fishing, swimming, golf, tennis, hiking and mountaineering, to say nothing of the famous Indian Days and the Highland Gathering, are all part of programs which years of experience have brought to perfection. Experts in all lines are in attendance to be of service to the hotels' guests and real resorters, red-coated "Mounties" and true Stoney Indians lend color to a hundred variations of saliently picturesque scenes. There is never a dull moment at Banff or Lake Louise. There is something for every taste and the rounding off of full days by dancing in rural and opulent ball-rooms, to smart orchestras, is not the least of the attractions offered.

The pictures show: (1) the Banff Springs Hotel; (2) a typical Stoney Indian; (3) the Chateau Lake Louise.

Transplanting Evergreens

(Experimental Farms Note)

Evergreens are twelve-month trees that may be transplanted at any season with success. The season at which satisfaction is readily attained with least care is in May when the buds begin to swell. Another favored time season is during rainy periods of late August and early September. Years marked by dry and windy autumn weather are very trying even on well established evergreens and particularly so on the newly set specimens. Hence, the first two weeks of May are safest and first choice.

Conifers having resinous sap require fullest care of roots in transplanting so that drying, with resultant crystallizing of sap, is avoided. If the stock is home-grown, a spruce tree to 4 feet in height may with a good ball of earth may easily be moved successfully. Pines have less fibrous roots and the soil tends to easily fall away from them, hence pines are best moved before passing two feet in height.

Even a move of a hundred feet involves having several men to put in place about the earth and roots during the transit. For longer journeys a clay mud bath of creamy consistency is made in which the roots are bare roots. When the plant is set in the new hole and the cavity partly filled with fine top earth and tramped in firmly with the heel, a good soaking with water is made. An hour later the filling is completed, evenly heeled in again, and finally the two inches of surface soil is raked loose. At the Dominion Experimental Station it is found very profitable to supply the larger transplants with shade and shelter for one summer. A convenient means is to place three stakes on the south and west side of the tree and drape three firmly with a strip of burlap. Brush packed into the ground on the south and west sides may replace the sacking or burlap. A generous irrigation with soft water is in order in periods of prolonged drought.

THOROUGHBRED SOCIETY HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Edmonton District Thoroughbred Society held in Edmonton recently, J. Lambert of Vilna was again elected president; Major V. B. Casey of Vermilion, vice-president and C. F. C. Jamieson, secy-treas.

The stallions leased by the Society were placed for the season 1931 as follows: "Will Somers," to stand at Edmonton, "Hearts of Oak" at Clyde, "Squire Wiggins" at Lacombe, and "Mister K" at Vermilion in care of Major Casey.

It was reported that 17 mares were entirely in foal to "Hearts of Oak," 21 to "Mister K", number not reported to "Squire Wiggins." "Will Somers" only arrived in Edmonton during the winter. Through the efforts of the Society, inspectors were sent out to pass on and register mares in the foundation stock in the Canadian Hunter Stud Book. Twenty-one mares were registered in the Edmonton district and several more in Lacombe. The inspectors did not come to Vermilion as their arrival was to have been during threshing, however they will be in Vermilion this year and those in the district who have not examined should notify Major Casey as soon as possible. There is no charge for the inspection nor any charge for the usual registration fee for thoroughbred stallions and conformation is all important in these mares, the type preferred is the heavy Clyde, a good free mover with plenty of daylight under her—not the very thick chat

"I rather think we are! But you see, a family usually has a daddy, and a mother, and more little children. Sonny, and Nick, and their father and mother are a family, so—so you see, you couldn't have Mrs. Hastings for your mother. Do you understand?"

"Not—nacky. Who—who can I have? Could it be Julie?"

Halliday stilled an impulsive smile, and answered: "I'm afraid not; but—" He seemed to hesitate; then said: "Martha, do you remember a lady who used to live here—a—a very pretty lady, in a blue gown?"

The child looked up, her eyes suddenly wide with distrust.

"She buried my kitty. She buried Sam so hard he runned away."

Halliday drew a deep breath. He had hoped the child had forgotten.

"She will never hurt your kitty again, dear. Would—would she possibly do for a mother, little girl?"

"No," said Martha. She slid off Halliday's knee as if this monstrous proposition had put something unintangible between them. "No," she said again, looking up soberly, "unless she was very, very good."

Tears smarted behind Halliday's lids. It was all so pitifully true! Then, meeting his eyes, the child's innocent heart surmised that he was hurt, and she flung herself upon him, clasping his neck in a passion of overwhelming love.

"It doesn't matter—much," she comforted. "It doesn't matter hardly any. I've got you, Daddy."

"Yes," said Halliday huskily, and smiled. "There's not the least doubt in the world that you've got me!"

And next day he went to Boston to see his lawyer.

CHAPTER XVIII.

It was on a day some five weeks later that Nick came back from a morning spent in the office of a negative lawyer, and with a sigh of relief dropped into a chair on the front verandah. The lawyer had proved slow, and plodding, and exact, to a degree that had made the impatient New Englander long to take him by the collar and shake him up; and the day was hot.

Nick threw down his panama hat, and mopped his forehead, thankful for the fact that though the topic was hot, the shade is cool. And another week ought to finish up the business. As he there looking out on the grove of palms that had become familiar in the past weeks, he felt torn between a desire to take the first boat home, and a longing to obtain his vacation now, and see more of the island and its people.

Clay had urged him to stay as long as he could be spared; and only the day before had come a line from Jack Maxwell saying not to hurry back. "Take another month, boy, and see all there is to see while you've got the chance. Simeon Bartlett is taking excellent care of your family, and I know that good wife of yours really wants you to have a taste of freedom. I wonder, Nick, if freedom is all it's cracked up to be! You can tell me all about it when you come back!"

Nick wondered, too. Although he had enjoyed almost every minute of the time, he had, all the way along, missed Clay's companionship. The sight of some new beauty brought the wish that she were there to share it. He wanted her comments on all he saw. He missed her understanding silences. For if a young marriage proves the right marriage, there is none so happy, perhaps because there is less adjusting to go through with. Youth understands its kind—has fewer habits to overcome—fewer prejudices.

Nick was hardly conscious of his surroundings that morning. He was thinking that in Baharuvia it was spring. Clay's last letter had told of piney willows, and venturesome robins. The snow was gone. There had been a tremendous thaw and the river road was flooded to low places. It had been exciting. The bridge at Lower Falls was threatened for a day; and Uncle Sim had hired Sam Hilton to take them in his car to "see the sights." The boys were tremendously worked up, and begged constantly to get into the bath tub and "play flood."

Nick felt a twinge of keen regret that he had not been there to share in the excitement. "I believe I'm as much of a kid as Sonny," he mused quietly. "I have a smacking love for floods, and circuses, and fires. Freedom! I'll tell Mr. Maxwell it's not everything. I'd give it up this minute for a sight of Clay and the kids. I believe I'm homesick. I know I am. I don't feel a bit like conquering the universe!"

He laughed softly, visioning the Nick of five years before.

"What a kid I was—and what a dead game sport Clay was to start out with me! I'll get in a bandwagon and a regular tramp. And the years since —never a complaint when there was a big bill to pay, and only thrift and not a regret when Billie Nick followed so close on Sonny's heels. Oh, I know what Clay would have said if he'd seen Flora Symmes made Johnny feel like a crim'nal when that second kid of ours was coming—and then loved it to pieces after it arrived! Well—I'm for home. I'll wind up this business and take the first boat back. I may be an idiot not to see more, but——"

Nick's reverie was interrupted by the arrival of an automobile, from which emerged Judy in a green of familiar bluenese. He arose dazedly. His thoughts jerked back to Jamaica and the boat, and the lady who had turned he was at her side.

"Welcome to our city!" he said, smiling.

Angela stared.

"Am I a wizard? I was just wishing you'd come to me, in fact, it was you came to see. I hope you appreciate the honor."

Nick's bow of exaggerated gallantry brought appreciative grins from the bell boys who were looking on.

"Going to be long?" he asked.

"Not long." She threw him a sweet glance from her lovely eyes. "I've a return ticket. I'll tell you at dinner. Just now I must have a bath. That awful railroad! Why didn't someone warn me what it was, so I could have come by auto?"

Nick laughed, went inside, registered for her, and demanded that she have a room facing the water. Angela was one of those people who always do get rooms on the ocean side. Later, when she came down to join him, she wore a simple white gown that made Nick catch his little girl. Watching her descend the staircase, Nick remembered that Cal had said she was "all of thirty," and inwardly scoffed at the idea.

"Is your work over?"

They were dining on the verandah, and a breeze from the water stirred a cool sentiment. Angela's soft cheek. Nick watched it a moment, fascinated, then answered: "Almost. Another week or ten days will see it through."

"And then?"

"Home," said Nick; yet as he spoke he glanced regretfully at a glimpse of water between palms.

Angela saw the glance.

"So soon? Isn't it foolish not to see more now that you're here?"

It was foolish. Nick told himself that he had known it was foolish even when he made his resolve an hour earlier.

"Perhaps," he answered. "But I ought to get back. This is a business trip on my part, you understand."

"But they'll let you stay, wouldn't they? In another month you could learn so much about the island. Or you could run down to Panama—through the canal to Aacon, perhaps—"

"Don't!" begged Nick, as if thrusting aside temptation. Her words had brought up the old magic. It seemed so wonderful to see those things. Yet—

"You could stay longer, couldn't you?"

He came back to earth at the question.

"Why, of course. It's merely a matter of conscience. I feel that I mustn't impose on Mr. Maxwell just because he's good enough to let me stay. And besides, I've a family to consider."

"But surely Mrs. Hastings wouldn't begrudge you this wonderful opportunity!"

"I should say not! Perhaps that's the very reason I feel that I should get back to her! That sounds enigmatic, but it's the truth. However, it would do no harm for me to take an extra week. What could I do for you most?"

Angela leaned forward. There was a gleam of victory in her eyes which Nick did not see because she had turned her lowered them. When she looked up it was gone, and only frank innocence remained.

"I've had you in mind a lot lately, Nick," she said. "I know you're not likely to take this trip again, and I want you to make the most of it. You remember my friends the Meyers whom you met at Bakerville? They've invited me to cruise in their gasoline yacht. They'll go to places the big liners don't touch, and see unusual things. They've asked me to join them, and I should bring a friend along. I wonder if you'd care to be that friend?"

Woman Has Intricate Job

Supervises Control Of Truck Traffic In Chicago Tunnels

An interesting illustration of woman's place in the modern world is the appointment of Miss Ruth Hester as the controller of the truck traffic in the tunnels that underlie the loop district of Chicago. Beneath the most congested business portions of the city there are 62 miles of tracks through which trucks are sent distributing coal to the basements of houses for unloading. "Is your work over?"

They were dining on the verandah, and a breeze from the water stirred a cool sentiment. Angela's soft cheek. Nick watched it a moment, fascinated, then answered: "Almost. Another week or ten days will see it through."

"And then?"

"Home," said Nick; yet as he spoke he glanced regretfully at a glimpse of water between palms.

Angela saw the glance.

Rock Of Gibraltar

Ancient Fortification Said To Be In Danger From Crumbling Of Limestone

The Rock of Gibraltar, symbol of strength, was reported by geological experts recently, to be crumbling and shrinking.

The principal cause was said to be the shattering effects of the fire of Gibraltar's 13-inch land defence guns During peaceful practice for years, the fort's guns have recoiled on the rock and shaken it severely.

As a fortress the rock has been regarded for centuries as the mightiest in existence. It now carries a gun of large or small calibre on every available inch along its three-mile promontory and the cannon are often cunningly concealed behind flowering plants. The approaches from land from the north and from the sea, from the south and south-west sides, have a guard of particularly powerful batteries, while there are also series of fortified galleries with secret entrances.

As the eastern side is unassailable because of the sheer drop of the 1,000-foot peak, there are not so powerful there, but the central guns command any approach from the Mediterranean and the Atlantic side. The Straits of Gibraltar are under easy fire.

The geologists who have recently examined the strata of the rock and its foundations say the rock is of Jurassic limestone, resting on a silurian base.

Speculation about what will happen if the rock crumbles more rapidly has led to the conclusion that it could be partly raised and the gun emplacements fixed on flat, solid foundations, thus enabling the fortress to keep its watch over the straits that would involve an expenditure of millions of dollars

Redistribution Bill

Possibility Of Large Cities Receiving More Representation

A general redistribution bill will be introduced in parliament next session or the following. This information was made in the House of Commons by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Political observers foresee the possibility of Toronto obtaining two more seats in the House, Montreal two, Ottawa one, Winnipeg one or two and Vancouver one or two.

The last general redistribution bill was passed in parliament in 1924. Changes in boundaries of various constituencies and increases in population always affect many ridings.

Canada's 1931 Conversion Loan

Premier Bennett has adopted a very practical and logical expedient for solving the problem of repaying the huge total of war and victory loans that mature before the end of 1941. A new loan of long term is being issued, and holders of maturing loans are being granted the opportunity of converting into the new loan on terms advantageous to themselves. The principle of the Conversion Loan is not new. It has been successfully applied by both the governments of the United States and Great Britain.

A total of $1,982,000,000 of Canadian war and victory loans mature within the next three and one-half years, the greater part falling due in 1933 and 1934.

The Government has arranged an equitable bargain with investors. In exchange for short term war and victory loan maturities is offered a twenty five year government obligation carrying a coupon rate of 4½ per cent. The present status of the holders of the bonds now being replaced will remain unimpaired during the short span of life remaining for these maturities.

The operation, however, has a deeper significance than mere investment opportunity. It has a patriotic appeal no less vital than existed in war time. to show to the world at large that Canadians have confidence in Canada and that the dominion's high credit rating ranks highest with her own people. Such a gesture of confidence and financial vitality has economic implication of far reaching influence.

The Government will secure no new money through this conversion program. It is a straight exchange of maturities. Investors should welcome this unique opportunity. Ordinarily the replacement of funds received from maturing investments is an occasion of concern and expense. All this is eliminated, and investors can consolidate their position for another twenty-five years without effort on their part.

Government bonds represent our primary security. We have nothing finer to offer. The public has grown wearied with speculation. It is now seeking safe haven for its investment funds. No other medium has more proven attraction. Throughout this era of security deflation, government bonds have stood forth a tower of strength.

The overwhelming support of the Government's Conversion Loan will advertise to the world at large the faith of Canadians in Canada and the economic stability of the country at large Moved, Mackenzie : Riddell, that this Association is of the opinion, consideration should be given to the question of having Supplementary Revenue (if this tax is to be continued) placed on a cash basis, rather than having to levy a separate mill rate and that this resolution be forwarded for consideration at the general meeting of Secretary-Treasurers in June —Carried.

Secretary-treasurer was instructed to write Mr. John Harvey, Deputy Minister of Lands and Mines, asking for information as to the attitude of his department as to the collection of taxes on Provincial lands. —Carried.

It was decided to hold a meeting of the Association annually, or on call of the President. The secretary-treasurer was instructed to send a copy of these minutes to each member of the Association.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. English and Mr. Pinchbeck, and the meeting adjourned.

GRAVELLING ROADS OF TOWN.

The gravelling of the roads of the town is being carried on apace, and judging from present appearances the roads of the entire town are to be surfaced. This is a laudable step on the part of the council, as some of the side streets were difficult to travel after a rain; and a good coating of gravel is also a fine eliminator of heavy dust.

Local Elks Lodge Entertain Visitors

"Brother Bills" from all the points of the compass gathered in Vermilion on Wednesday evening, May 13th, when the local Elks' Lodge acted as hosts to over seventy visiting brothers, the occasion being the official visit of District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, Bro. Dr. Goodwin, of Vegreville. Contingents of Elks came from Lloydminster, Vermilion, Wainwright Viking and other points, the Lloydminster party including the famous Elks' band of that town, who entertained the citizens with an impromptu concert before the commencement of the lodge session.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a social time was enjoyed in true Elkian style, Bro. W. B. Elford acting as toastmaster. Contributions to an enjoyable musical programme were made by Messrs. Leonard and Halliwell, of Lloydminster; Mr. Petrie or Wainwright and Messrs West and Williamson of the local lodge. The Lloydminster Elks' band also played several fine selections during the evening. Inspiring and instructive addresses on Elkdom were given by D.D.G.E.R. Dr. Goodwin, of Vegreville, and Exalted Ruler Harold Hanley (Lloydminster). D. Davidson (Wainwright) and Dan Taylor (Vermilion), after which a sumptuous lunch was served by the entertainment committee.

The gathering dispersed in the wee small hours, after the most enthusiastic meeting of Elks ever held in Vermilion.

To the Holders of
WAR LOAN AND VICTORY BONDS
A Statement by the Minister of Finance

IN THE dark days of the War, Canadians loaned to the Government of the Dominion many hundred millions of dollars to enable the operations of the Allies to be carried to a successful conclusion.

When Canadians loaned their money to the Governments, they received bonds which were promises to repay them the sum loaned with interest at the rate of 5% or 5½% per annum. On the 1st of October next, $15,000,000 of these bonds become due; on the 15th of November, 1932, the maturity will be $75,000,000; on the 1st of November, 1933, $446,000,000; and, in 1934, $511,000,000 must be provided for.

It would not be prudent, either in the interest of the security holders or the country itself, to wait until these loans become due before providing for their payment or conversion Action must be taken well in advance of the due dates to protect the credit of the country. The Government believes this an opportune time to afford Canadians the opportunity to exchange the bonds, which they own maturing in the next few years, for new bonds of the Dominion of Canada carrying interest at the rate of 4½% per annum, which is a very attractive return. Prior to the maturity date of the present bonds, those who accept this offer will, of course, continue to be paid interest at the rate as provided by the bonds they exchange

Canadians who have always shown confidence in their country are earnestly invited to exchange the bonds they now own for bonds of the new issue. By so doing, they will render less difficult the task of providing for the future finances of the country, will enhance its credit and will greatly assist the Government in the present period of worldwide readjustment.

No money will be asked for and no new bonds will be sold at this time. It is proposed to limit the present conversion to $250,000,000, but the Government has the right at its discretion to increase the amount if Canadians indicate a general desire to continue their investments in the securities of their Dominion. The subscription books will close on the 23rd of May.

I earnestly seek the active support of my fellow Canadians in making this conversion, which is one of the largest financial operations our country has undertaken in recent years, creditable alike to Canada and its citizens.

Minister of Finance.

Canada and World Disarmament

During this present period of world-wide business depression some people, good people too, are heard to thoughtlessly remark that the only way out will be another great war, so that such a struggle will be the ultimate outcome of the world's existing difficulties. Such a statement should be the last to pass the lips of any person. Another war instead of being a cure, would be the final world calamity.

Many contributing causes there may be to the economic trails of today, but the main source of all the trouble is to be found in the Great War, 1914-1918. That, indeed, precipitated the foundations for what has since taken place. In fact all students of history fully realize that our present experiences are but a repetition of those which followed the Napoleonic wars. Another great war would have exactly the same effect, and perhaps worse, because modern world conditions only serve to intensify and prolong such disturbances when they occur.

Against the horror of even thinking of war, the peoples of all nations should think and talk of nothing but permanent peace, and direct all their energies to the consummation of that ideal.

What is the great financial burden resting on the shoulders of the Canadian people today? It is the debt created by the Great War. The public debt of Canada created in the upbuilding of this Dominion from before the time of Confederation down to 1914 failed to reach the total of $400,000,000, or only $12,893,000, or only 3½ per cent. of our national expenditures, and approximately $1.30 per head of our population. On the other hand, interest charges on the public debt created since 1914 amount to $108,887,000, or 27% of our annual expenditures, and more than $10.00 per head of population in each and every year.

But this is not all of the war burden. In addition to this 27½ for interest on the war debt, Canadians are required to devote another 12.50% of all expenditures for services arising out of the war, such as pensions, after care of soldiers, etc. That is, over 40% of the national revenue of the people of Canada each year, $39.42 is directly attributable to the Great War. This is the burden which ties the hands and cripples the efforts of our national government.

Of every $100 expended by the United States $60.00 is spent because of war, past, present and future. The war expenditures of Great Britain are in like proportion, or possibly even heavier.

In a recent speech before the International Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Washington, President Hoover declared that the present world depression is largely due to "the destruction of life and property, the great tax burdens, and the social and political instability which resulted from the Great War," and he declared that one major accomplishment which international co-operation could affect for relieving the burdens, removing a primary cause of unrest, and establishing greater confidence for the long future, was "the limitation and reduction of armaments." President Hoover proceeded to back up his assertion with these startling facts and figures:

"The world expenditure on all arms is now nearly five billions of dollars yearly, an increase of almost 70% over that previous to the Great War. We stand today with nearly 5,500,000 men actively under arms and 20,000,000 more in reserves. These vast forces, greatly exceeding those of the pre-war period, still are with us even though twelve years have passed since the Armistice was signed, because of fear and of inability of nations to co-operate in mutual reductions. Yet we are all signatories to the Kellogg-Briand Pact. By that covenant we renounced war as an instrument of national policy, and agreed to settle all controversies by pacific means."

Nevertheless, in the face of such a declaration from President Hoover, and also in the face of a huge national deficit of over $900,000,000 which is suffering economies in practically every department of government, the United States budget for 1932 provides for an increase of $58,000,000 in prospective outlays on military expenditures.

Canada, too, is a signatory to the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact, and as such this Dominion is steadily reducing its expenditures for defence purposes as we have no offensive services. Expenditures for National Defence by Canada are the smallest of any country in the world having anything like the same population or degree of wealth. They total only $19,000,000 annually, or about two dollars per head of our population.

While, therefore, this Dominion is not at all blameworthy for the present state of world armament, the Canadian people should be stanch supporters of further disarmament everywhere as a step towards permanent peace. As a people we cannot remain indifferent to the attitudes of other nations, and unless a general reduction in armaments takes place another world tragedy will be enacted, and into it we may again be drawn as active participants and in any event cannot escape its disastrous effects.

H. MacBrien, president of the Aviation Leagues of Canada, in an address at Windsor, Ontario.

Work End Debts

Cunard Line Will Inaugurate Week-End Cruises From New York To Nova Scotia

In an effort to further increase the popularity of Nova Scotia as a tourist country among Americans the Cunard Line announces that their now famous "Week-end Cruises" scheduled for the months of July, August and September, will include a call at a Nova Scotian port.

The statement that was issued by Arthur Rendle, general passenger traffic manager of the Cunard Line in Canada, also pointed out the fact that not only will the "Week-end Cruises" call there, but those of the special summer cruises under the auspices of the National Travel Club will also visit Halifax a port of call. The co-operation of the Nova Scotian authorities in the matter of providing motor tours will be made to see that passengers on these cruises are given as much time in advance as possible to view the many attractions which the maritime provinces have to offer.

"It will be the first time," said Mr. Rendle, "that three giant express liners of the size of the "Franconia," "Laconia," "Carinthia" and "Mauretania," have called at Halifax, except that the "Aquitania" and "Mauretania" have visited that ancient port during the war. The first sailing of the "Week-end Cruises" to call at Halifax, Nova Scotia, will be the "Aquitania," July 3rd, from New York. These cruises will be carried on throughout the summer months with the last sailing of the "Mauretania" leaving New York on September 16th, while the "Franconia" cruises will also commence on July 27th with the "Transylvania" and finish with the same liner from New York on August 31.

"Carnecosta."

Until July there are scheduled from New York the "Franconia" on June 25th, the first leaving New York on May 2nd in the "Aquitania," calling at Halifax. Both these cruises will be the "Mauretania," leaving New York on May 18th, calling at Halifax and Bermudian Islands. The third cruise is that of the "Berengaria," leaving New York on May 28th and calling at Halifax to be followed by a cruise of the "Mauretania," on June 8th to Nassau. The "Week-end" and special cruises will be the first of the "Berengaria" is also unique in the fact that it is the largest liner ever to visit Bermuda."

"These week-end cruises, the first of which leave for Nova Scotia, are drawing capacity bookings. On board the attractions include dances, sports, lectures, concerts, deck sports, and every type of ship entertainment and the extremely low rates available have made them very attractive.

"The reason for these cruises is to familiarize the vast American people on this side of the Atlantic who have never had the pleasure of sailing in an ocean liner, with the opportunity of making a trip on one of the "Big Three" with little or no time away from their business.

The calls at Nassau and Bermuda allow passengers to go ashore sightseeing or enjoy the local attractions such as trips in the glass-bottomed boats at Paradise Beach, and sea bathing.

Officials of the Cunard Line expect that the call at the Nova Scotia port at the best time of the year will enhance the popularity of these week-end cruises.

Bill Introduced In Senate Asks Registration Of People In Canada

Compulsory registration of all persons in Canada over the age of 16 years would be provided for under a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator J. B. Chagnon. Registration would be followed by the issue of a certificate with the person's photograph and signature on it.

Certain exceptions to the universal registration would be allowed. Cloistered nuns, members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or any provincial or municipal police force, inmates of asylums for the insane or mentally defective, inmates of penitentiaries and prisoners or of any other institutions as it might be excepted by the minister in charge of the administration of the act would not have to register.

The act would apply to everyone in Canada, including British subjects and aliens. All would have to register within a named time and all persons subsequently reaching that age would have to register within one week of their 16th birthday.

In applying for registration a person would be required to state his nationality, and, if a British subject, whether he was born or by birth or naturalization. He would also submit a photograph which would be attached to his certificate.

New Use For Music

Elgar's Rousing March Cheers Brooklyn Sailors At Closing Time

You may not have realized it, but one of the matters to which deeper attention and consideration is that it is now being devoted is the study of the effect of music upon the human mind. Without entering into any lengthy dissertation on the subject, it is sufficient to say that it is now definitely established that music has a very powerful influence upon the mind, and that it is capable of producing a variety of moods and emotions.

Recently a novel use has been made of music in Brooklyn, New York. Sailors of the United States Navy, who have been ashore on leave, are required to be back on board their ships by midnight. Many of them, however, are prone to linger in the dance halls and other places of entertainment, and it is necessary to round them up and get them back to their ships. This is a task which is not relished by the officers in charge of the round-up parties.

Recently, however, it was discovered that the sailors could be induced to leave the dance halls and other places of entertainment without any trouble if the band struck up the stirring strains of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance." Lodging lingering dear garden straightened, seized their partners, and off they were swinging briskly along toward the exits. The shorewalker be questioned, was informed that the idea had been suggested by a bandmaster Islander.

The best they'd ever had for the purpose, and, incidentally, paid a high tribute to Elgar. His march, the floorwalker said, cleared the store faster than anything else they had been able to find by extensive experiments.

World's Grain Exhibition

Spain Making Arrangements To Participate In Conference

Though Spain is very busy just now reorganizing its national administration, the importance of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina, July 25 to August 26, 1932, has not been lost sight of.

A few days ago the headquarters' office of the Exhibition and Conference was visited by the General Director of Agriculture of the Spanish Ministry of National Economy that a special commission of cereal agriculture had been appointed to devote itself to the definite organization of Spain's participation in the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference.

Spain has a particular interest in the forthcoming world-wide grain exhibition and conference in that it is a preponderantly agricultural country. Its productive area is calculated at 114,000,000 acres of which, last year, nearly 12,000,000 acres were sown to wheat, 2,000,000 acres to barley, 2,000,000 acres to oats and 1,300,000 to rye.

Seventeen countries have now officially accepted the invitation to be represented at the Exhibition and Conference, namely; Italy, Peru, Yugoslavia, Guatemala, New Zealand, Czecho-Slovakia, Chile, Switzerland, Belgium, Poland, Siam, India, Portugal, Switzerland, Estonia, the Philippines, the Argentina and Spain.

STATEMENT OF AIRSHIP POLICY FOR GT. BRITAIN

London.—Making his long-awaited statement on the future airship policy of Great Britain, Lieut.-Colonel Clement MacDonald indicated in the House of Commons that Britain's airship activities would be confined largely to scientific research. The R-100 will be retained without alterations as a ship for experimental purposes, and the base at Cardington will be kept up for that purpose.

Mooring masts established at, St. Hubert airport, near Montreal; at Ismailia, Egypt, and Karachi, India, will be retained subject to the ascent, so far as the St. Hubert mast was concerned, of the Canadian government. He was sorry, the prime minister added, that the Canadian government had not replied as yet to inquiries as to its views on the St. Hubert mast.

"The idea was that with the co-operation of the Canadian government on the same scale as it gave in the construction of the mast, the mast would be kept up while a new scheme is in operation."

Several speakers urged the Canadian government should be asked to increase the production of helium. Mr. Montagu, under-secretary of state for the air ministry, said that the output of the limited program of the R-100 there was no necessity to consider the question of helium. Only 5,000 cubic feet of helium would be used per day.

The cost should also be considered. There would be a saving of $500,000 for a plant on this side and an annual expenditure of $400,000. Besides, the production of HH of hydrogen was an important factor. Mr. Montagu's explanation closed the debate.

The company insured itself against damage to its plant and property from fire, and against loss from shut-downs of the plant resulting from fire. A disastrous fire occurred and insurance companies paid the company $60,000. The National Revenue Department claimed the money was income and therefore taxable. That view was supported by the Exchequer Court of Appeal. The Supreme Court of Canada, however, decided in the contrary.

Riots In Spain

Outbreaks Occur On Occasion Of Private Property Of Alfonso

Madrid, Spain.—Following further anti-clerical riots in Spain, in spite of the strict watch of soldiery, the government has decreed the confiscation of the private property of King Alfonso, pending investigation and commanded provincial governors to use the strictest measures to restore order.

Meanwhile Cardinal Primate Segura, a Catholic archbishop of Toledo whose pastoral letter created a stir over a week ago, had crossed the Spanish border and was on his way to Rome, presumably on a journey to Rome.

Several more churches and Catholic religious houses were burned and sacked in provincial cities, in spite in the fact that martial law had been declared in most of the larger centres.

A nation-wide check-up of police forces, civil guards and provincial governors was ordered by the cabinet. The action resulted from the government's belief that some of these officials have not been stern enough in dealing with the situation. Twenty-four chiefs of police or their lieutenants, several officers of the civil guards and one secretary of a governor have been under discharge, or had alleged incompetency.

It was reported also that some provincial governors were to be displaced.

Cardinal Segura, accompanied by Father Vicente Traver, the Toledo Cathedral, drove in an automobile to the French border at Hendaye, where, he continued by train to Toulouse. It was supposed they were bound for Rome.

For Armament Reduction

Canadian Womanhood and Organized Labor Behind Movement

Ottawa, Ont.—Canadian womanhood and organized labor strongly support the League of Nations and its efforts to speed at the sixth annual meeting here of the League of Nations Society in Canada. It was made known that a huge petition will be presented on behalf of the women of the Dominion at next year's meeting of the Naval Disarmament Conference, urging reduction of the manufacture of instruments for warfare.

Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress and its representative on the society's executive, declared before the gathering for more was being spent in all countries on armaments than on social effort.

"It is necessary that we find some means by which money may be devoted to the betterment of the people instead of to the means of destruction," he added.

A number of other speakers representing organizations which they represented supported the work of the League of Nations. Among these were Mrs. C. Field Robertson of the Federated Women's Institute embracing 50,000 Canadian women; Mrs. Wilfrid Bovey, president of the National Council of Women, and Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., who reported for the United Farmers of Ontario.

London, England While Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was confined to bed for a few days under doctor's orders, the Daily Herald quoted Mrs. Snowden in what it described as "the first interview by television in history."

Both the interviewer and Mrs. Snowden were visible as well as audible to each other, one in the Herald's office and the other at 11 Downing Street. Asked about the Chancellor's health, Mrs Snowden told the reporter: "He has had rather a setback this week, I'm afraid. But I do not think it is serious. However, it has temporarily deprived him of the use of his voice to some extent."

Mr. Snowden virtually rose from a sick bed a short time ago to place his budget before the House of Commons. His physicians today told him to return to bed.

British Trade Mission Finds Desire In Canada To Foster Development

London, England.—Members of the Trade Mission which visited Canada and the United States in the interests of the Scottish woollen industry told correspondents that they had been struck by the "intensely nationalistic feeling" in Canada.

In Canada there was a desire to foster Canadian secondary industries at all costs, coupled with a desire to buy at home, the manufacturers said. This feeling did not exist in the United States, they said. It was essential that Scottish manufacturers should have better publicity and a better selling organization in both countries the members of the mission stated.

IS OPPOSED TO ANY CHANGE IN BANKING SYSTEM

Ottawa, Ont.—The banking system of Canada is admired by the heads of all this country and no reason exists for a change. This was the opinion expressed in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister and acting minister of finance.

Mr. Bennett asserted that the Canadian system embraced those great basic requirements which were essential to safety. It provided the people with a safe depositary for the money which they desired to have, and it furnished to those people requiring money adequate facilities for borrowing.

Mr. Bennett emphasized that complicated discussion which sometimes took place in respect to banks and banking in the community, must always receive itself into a simple, single inquiry. "Has the bank enough to its engagements had due regard in lending money to the fact that it may be called upon to pay it on demand and has it a source from which it was borrowed?"

"It may well be," Mr. Bennett declared, "that the time will come in this country when it is deemed desirable to expand our system as it now exists. I am not saying it will not, I am one of those who believe that you cannot today with respect to financial conditions say with certainty what it may be desirable to do tomorrow . . . using the word tomorrow, not in its literal sense but in relation to the time we employ the term in financial operations."

"It is necessary that we find some means by which money may be devoted to the betterment of the people instead of to the means of destruction," he added.

A number of other speakers representing organizations which they represented supported the work of the League of Nations. Among these were Mrs. C. Estimated Wheat Acreage

Government Figures Based On Farmers' Plans May 1

Ottawa, Ont.—The estimated acreage of spring wheat in all Canada for this season is 22,152,300, as compared with 24,682,900 last year. This estimate was announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a crop report issued May 12. This means that 3,530,600 acres less will be under wheat during 1931 than was the case in 1930.

In Alberta the acreage is 89 per cent of last year; in Saskatchewan, 92 per cent.; in Manitoba, 92 per cent.; in Ontario, 99 per cent.; Quebec, 100 per cent.; New Brunswick, 95 per cent.; in Nova Scotia, 99 per cent.; British Columbia, 102 per cent.; Prince Edward Island, 101 per cent. The acreage for all Canada for spring wheat is 93 per cent. as compared with 100 last year, a decrease of eight per cent.

The report explains that the figures are to be regarded only as an indication of the seeding plans of farmers on May 1. The actual acreage sown may be changed by later consideration, particularly by soil and weather conditions and by price movement.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN TO EMPIRE WHEAT QUOTAS

London, England.—The Labor Government has approved in general the principle of a quota for Empire wheat. This was the statement of Lord Passfield, president of the Council in the Labor cabinet, in the House of Lords. The quota would assure the wheat-growing Dominions a certain proportion of the British market.

Lord Parmoor believes the project is quite possible.

"The difficulty is one of detail which cannot be disposed of until after the forthcoming conference in Ottawa. The Dominions do not think it is impossible and neither does the government. Whether the Dominions can formulate a scheme which will be satisfactory, only time will tell," he declared.

Lord Parmoor did not believe a quota on wheat grown in British India was the best way to help the farming industry, since it could not be used without adding to the burdens of the taxpayers.

The decision of the government was not unanimously endorsed by the Labor party. Lord Arnold, who had made a slashing attack on the proposal. "It is a crude and terribly unsound proposal," he cried. "Only 10 per cent.25 per cent. of the Dominions' wheat would not only be practically no increase in the revenue from this part of Dominion wheat but would only represent one fifth of the purchase-taxation surplus. In the current year of $120,000,000 bushels."

It was admitted he had the support of the Imperial Conference and the speech of Rt. Hon J H Thomas Dominion secretary of state for which he [illegible] would shock this House.

Rt Rev Bertram Pollock Bishop of Norwich challenging Lord Arnold's assertions from beginning to end said that any kind of Empire preference was fraught to be good. The same further step could be taken "We are not necessarily committed to a long series of further steps," he declared.

Lord Parmoor has failed to follow the two main lines of argument put forward—foodstuffs or raw materials. That is every part of the [illegible] could be [illegible] and [illegible] should it clear they did not [illegible] to the [illegible] Empire [illegible] of quantities and he was unable to see why a quota should [illegible] more trouble.

On the other hand it was useless for home farmers to have a quota without a guarantee price, which would mean raising the price of wheat from 7s cents a bushel to $1.80 per bushel. The real treatment for the farming industry in the Old Country was an adaptation to new economic conditions, he declared.

EFFORTS MADE TO PROMOTE SALE OF WHEAT

Ottawa Every possible effort is being made by the government to find markets for Canadian wheat and to disabuse any antagonistic attitude millers of Europe might have against grain from this country, Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, declared in the House of Commons.

When estimates for his department were before the House, Mr. Stevens was pressed by opposition members to state the steps taken by the government to find markets for wheat. In response to that invitation Mr. Stevens said the government was assuming office last August at a time when financial and economic conditions were to bend every effort in broadening markets for wheat and other products.

In 1929 and 1930, Mr. Stevens proceeded, an attitude arose in Europe that was inimical to wheat from North America. Rightly or wrongly, Canada was charged with sending grain to Europe then turned to other markets. Argentina received additional grain from this country. Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, declared in the House of Commons.

In response to that invitation Mr. Stevens said the government was assuming office last August at a time when financial and economic conditions were to bend every effort in broadening markets for wheat and other products.

In 1929 and 1930, Mr. Stevens proceeded, an attitude arose in Europe that was inimical to wheat from North America. Rightly or wrongly, Canada was charged with sending grain to Europe then turned to other markets. Argentina received additional grain from this country. Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, declared in the House of Commons.

"Recognizing these conditions and to disabuse the minds of European millers," continued Mr Stevens, "we have tried to build up markets in other parts of the world. But that will take time, it will take years We have made some progress. We also found new markets in Columbia, Brazil, I admit."

Later, Mr. Stevens said, the grain trade in Western Canada had changed for the better. That had been followed by a better feeling toward Canadian wheat in Great Britain and on the continent. But the situation would soon be entirely rectified.

Baseball Entries Already Filled; Big Crowd Expected

Every little thing is now all set for the staging of the mammoth sports day here on June 3rd. Entries for the various competitions are already coming in, early as it is, and five of the six possible entries for the senior ball tourney are already filled. The teams entered to date are Vermilion, Verpervile, Paradise Valley, Prairie and Lloydminster, and it will be a toss-up whether Clandonald or Islay free gets the other position. Entries have been received also for the junior baseball, and Minburn is in for the tournament.

The grounds are being put into first class shape and Wednesday being a half-holiday, everything points to a tremendous crowd and a 100 per cent. sports day.

Statement By Minister Trade And Commerce To People Of Canada

An Opening of the Seventh Decennial Census

1. Do not hesitate to answer the inquiries. The purpose of the Census is to collect data concerning the social and industrial conditions in the country as a whole and for the different provinces, cities, and counties. Answers to the questions will be used for this purpose only. Enumerators and employees of the Census Bureau are liable to severe punishment if they divulge any of the information collected about any individual person.

2. Meet the census-taker courteously. You will save time for yourself and render the Government a great assistance by co-operating with the enumerator when he arrives at your home.

3. If you do not have exact information about such questions as the value of your home or the amount of your earnings, give the best estimate you can.

4. The "woman in the home" should be prepared for the census questions in advance, for she is the member of the family who will be in many cases called upon to answer the inquiries.

5. Persons living alone should fill out promptly any individual blanks left by the enumerator who may have called in their absence, and families away from home on visits should be careful to see that they are counted in the district where they maintain their "usual place of abode."

6. Do not hesitate to ask the census-taker to show his credentials if you suspect that he is not a bona fide enumerator.

New Export Business, West

With the first of a series of ship means of Canadian horses destined for the horse-meat trade at France, Sunday night, May 17th, a new business began for the Dominion. It is one which is said to give promise of developing to considerable proportions. The first shipment, consisting of 237 head, mostly from the ranges of Alberta, left the Montreal stockyards by Canadian National freight for Halifax, from where it will go to Havre on the White Star steamer Missouri.

Arrangements for the opening of this new trade, which, if present negotiations are realized, will involve weekly shipments of horses from Canada over a lengthy period were consummated as a result of the visit of Emile Reaillon and H. Blanchetion of Paris, France, who negotiated with Stewart Bros. of Montreal Livestock Exchange and the Agricultural and Foreign Freight Departments of the Canadian National Railways.

While several shipments of Alberta horses were made to Belgium five years ago this is the first consigned to France, where horse meat has long been an article of human food owing to its freedom from the danger of tuberculosis and its cheapness. Horse meat is used extensively for invalids in European hospitals. Animals used are those no longer serviceable as beats of burden. They are well fed and fed and shipped under the most humane conditions possible.

Silver Wires For Violin Bows

Gumma Stains New Material Gives Best Results

Violin bows, which have been strung with horsehair ever since the Middle Ages at least, may soon have to yield place to a new form of an old material. A German violinist has been experimenting with bows strung with silver wires of hair-like fineness, slightly roughened on their surfaces to set the violin strings vibrating. It is stated that a sweetiveness and brilliance of tone are achieved that saved the effects usually obtained with the old horsehair. Popular Science

JESUS IN GETHSEMANE

Golden Text: "Father if Thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not My will, but Thine, be done."—Luke 22.42.

Lesson: Luke 22.34-71.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 130.

The Agony in the Garden. verses 39-44:—Jesus went, as His custom was unto the Mount of Olives, for He oftimes resorted thither with His disciples. John tells us (18.2), His disciples followed Him. When He reached the customary place of prayer, the Garden of Gethsemane, He turned to them and said, "Pray that ye enter not into temptation"—that ye be not tempted to forsake Me When the moment of arrest came, prayer had made the Master calm and strong, and from lack of prayer His eleven disciples were frantic and cowardly.

And Jesus went a stone's throw away from His waiting disciples.

"It was but a stone's throw, and yet an infinite gulf lay between Him and them. "And so it is always in human life. We must needs go to the most sacred places of our life alone We can bear our sufferings when the agony of life gathers around us. We need to go beyond the kind gaze of friends, beyond their pity and their help, when the great transactions of the soul are to be achieved. In those few steps our Lord passed from the loud life of the world into the silent place of the infinite and the eternal."—W. J. Dawson.

And He kneeled down and prayed, saying, "Father if Thou be willing, remove this cup from Me." The "cup" expresses the appointed portion in Psalm 75.8 it the portion of judgment; in Psalm 23.5, of mercy or blessing; here, of suffering and being the sins of the world on the cross. "Nevertheless, not My will, but Thine be done," Jesus prayed. "As Christ was God and man, there were in Him two wills, a human will and a divine will, and the former did not always conform itself to the latter without an inner struggle; compare John 5 30; 6.38"

"No let me follow after Thee, It must be to Gethsemane,
To suffer, pray, and conquer still,
Because I do my Father's will."

Friends Who Failed, verses 45, 46. And when He rose up from His prayer, He came unto the disciples and found them sleeping from sorrow. Matthew and Mark speak of two other prayers, each following a turning to the disciples for sympathy. Jesus had forewarned His disciples of the approaching tragedy. As he partook with them the Last Supper He told them explicitly that one of them would betray Him. That prior experience Him. On entering the Garden He had asked the privileged three, Peter, James, and John, to keep guard while He went further on and prayed. How sorely He needed the comfort of their sympathetic presence! Yet they failed Him just when He needed them the most. On returning He found them sleeping for sorrow A strange confession of words, yet no one will have difficulty in understanding them who has ever experienced the superfaction which their nature sends to the senses when it has borne the burden that can be borne.

"Why sleep ye?" Jesus said to His disciples; "rise and pray that ye enter not into temptation."

Norway Would Stop Wilkins' Sub Journey

Government Considers Expedition Unnecessary Risk Of Human Life

The Norwegian Government may take active measures to prevent Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins from making his projected journey to the north pole in a submarine, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Oslo.

The message quoted the Oslo newspaper "Aftenbladet" as saying the government considers the expedition as an "unnecessary risk of human life." If the Wilkins expedition calls at Norway en route to the pole, the despatch said, the government plans to enforce the regulations enabling it to exercise definite control over all Arctic expeditions starting from that country.

Mechanical Eye For Airmen

New Device Can Penetrate Average Fog For Two Miles

A new mechanical eye which sees two miles through average fog was described to the Engineers' Club, at Dayton, Ohio, by W. P. Westerdorp of the General Electric Research laboratory.

The apparatus is designed to sit on the tail of an airplane, sight an airway light through the fog and reproduce on the aviator's dash a synthetic beacon. It has not been "up" yet, but has done field trials and successfully through two miles of ground fog.

Record Hundred Years Ended

That the second hundred years are the hardest is the opinion of Miss Ann Stanzuil of Mansfield, England, who she celebrated her 101st birthday recently. She said that since she had passed the century mark she had been attended for the first time by a doctor, had taken her first dose of medicine and had put the washing out for the first time. Then she took her first vacation trip.

The "Skeena," named after the river in British Columbia, is destined for service on the Pacific Coast, and will leave Portsmouth for the Pacific about 10 days after the "Saguenay," under Commander V. G. Brodeur.

The new destroyers will replace the "Champlain" and "Vancouver," loaned to Canada by the Royal Navy during the construction of the new vessels.

Jungle Broadcast

Roar Of Wild Animals In Africa Heard By Radio In England

A lion roaring in the jungle in British East Africa was heard by British wireless listeners with short-wave receivers recently, when a broadcast from a microphone in the wilds of Kenya was relayed from Nairobi on wavelengths of 49 metres.

The microphone was installed at a jungle drinking pool, and although the lion's powerful roars did not come up to expectations—he must have been stricken with microphone shyness—the calls of wild birds and the grunting of animals formed a weird chorus. It was fascinating to realize that the sounds came actually from the real jungle and not from an enclosed zoo.

A TRIP TO ALASKA

(From the May issue of "The Radio")

All aboard for Alaska, the land of the midnight sun!

It was the evening of Monday, Aug. 4th, when we boarded the Canadian National steamer "Prince George" at Vancouver for one trip to the glorious inside land.

This inland passage from Vancouver to Alaska is one of the three greatest in the world. The other two are off the coasts of Norway and Chili. At no time were we out of sight of land, nor did we receive the swell from the ocean except for a couple of hours as we crossed Queen Charlotte Straight. The further north we went the narrower this channel became, the higher the mountains, and the more numerous the glaciers.

Our first stops were made at Powell River and Ocean Falls. Both these places are paper company towns We visited the Ocean Falls plant on our return trip whilst three hundred tons of paper was being taken on board.

At noon on Wednesday we reached Prince Rupert, the northern terminus of the Canadian National Railway. There is no lack of evidence of the importance of this thriving little city as a shipping centre. It is also important for its fishing industry. The largest cold storage plant in the world has recently been erected there, and it is devoted entirely to the handling of fish.

At two p.m. of this same day we docked at Ketchikan, our first port of call in Alaskan territory. Here we were given two hours to see the points of interest. The business places were open and the whole town as active as the middle of the day.

Thursday was a very busy but interesting day and most fortunately for us was beautifully clear and sunny. We spent several hours cruising through Wrangel Narrows, the most dangerous portion of this trip and never attempted during a fog. The entire course is marked out by buoys. Including this part of the journey the captain is always on the bridge himself All day long we saw many beautiful snow-capped mountains and glaciers, and in the early evening we had a wonderful view of the beautiful Taku glacier. This is one of the largest known living glaciers It is a million quarter long, two hundred feet deep and stretches back over fifteen We don't forget good Alumni workers ladies. Although the Captain is called repeatedly it did not oblige us by, reading a beg into the sea. The collection of the blocks of ice floating round in the water were very beautiful.

Later in the evening of this same day we docked at Juneau, the capital of Alaska. There we saw the state-capitol buildings under construction and visited the territorial museum which contains exhibits portraying the history of this territory from its early days

Friday morning we reached Skagway, a name meaning "the home of the north wind." As the boat was not due to leave on her return trip until Saturday night, the passengers had two days to see something of the interior if they so wished We chose a trip by rail and boat to Bennett (Mecca of my heart) which took us into Yukon Territory and back into not Bennett B.C.

The first part of this trip was made by rail from Skagway to Carcross Y. T. The train was very out of date. The coaches are old-fashioned wooden ones and the railroad a narrow gauge. Every foot of this trip is alive with interest and memories of the old gold rush days which have been immortalized by Robert Service.

We crossed the famous Dead Horse Gulch where so many faithful pack horses gave their lives on the trail of '98. The trail is nothing but a tote road, winding up and down the mountain sides. High up on the mountain sides were seen the remains of log cabins once the homes of gold seekers. One wondered how they scaled the mountains to reach such heights

At noon we arrived at Bennett where nothing but the old log church remains of what was once a thriving mining camp. Two hours was not enough for a journey which took the gold diggers months of desperate hardship At Carcross we had a delightful little steamer called Tutshi which carried us south on the west Taku arm of Gastelaki Lake. The most outstanding feature of this afternoon's trip was the beautiful coloring of the mountains and the utter absence of all signs of human or animal life

As the sun was setting we arrived at Bennett this—a very beautiful spot at the other end of Taku glacier A prospector named Partridge died a claim here before the gold rush days and for forty years it has been the home of he and his wife For the last twenty-two years they have spent both winter and summer in this isolated spot. From October to June they are cut off from all communication with the outside world except by dog-team up the lake to Carcross.

The most striking feature of this place is the really beautiful vegetable and flower garden situated at the foot of beautiful Take glacier.

On our return to Skagway we had a couple of hours to visit that once famous little town, the gateway to the Klondyke. Skagway is most attractive to tourists on account of its historic associations and its beautiful flower gardens.

On our return trip the weather-man was as generous as before. We left Skagway Saturday night and called at most of the places visited on our trip up. Perhaps the most interesting place we saw was Wrangel, the oldest city in Alaska. It appears to be mouldering away and falling into the sea. At all these places we were most interested in the totem poles, carved fronies, and bunkies. The totem pole was the Indian's method of recording the great deeds of his tribe. They were held in great repute amongst Indians. Today they have become commercialized and at such places as Wrangel, Ketchikan and Alert Bay, thriving factories exist. At such points as Skagway and Carcross we saw many beautiful bunkies.

We returned to Vancouver on Wednesday morning feeling that our time and money had been well spent.

THE MERCHANT and manufacturer who advertise, actually are placing their merchandise before you for inspection. They invite your most critical attention, and an uncompromising comparison. And their advertisements, so to speak, say to their products, "We have introduced you to the public — now stand on your own merits."

If the manufacturer and merchant did not have confidence in their wares, they would hesitate to call attention to them. For advertising rigidly tests the maker, the seller and the merchandise. Business so tested, and found not wanting, is prosperous.

In the long run, you can depend on the man who advertises, as well as on his product. That is one reason why people have found that it pays to read advertisements.

It is through advertising that the excellent things of the world are brought to the attention of those who are seeking for the best and most economical way to spend their money.

CONSIDER LEGAL PRINTING

An exchange has the following: "Posting recently on many objections to the travelling peddler of every time from away to cage, this journal thinks it about time that some local newspaper noted the fact that the printing office is a local institution and if there is any ambitiousness in promoting enterprises from outside from in any line the same idea surely applies to buying printing from a salesman from a distant city who only spends money here for his meals and bed and laundry objects to the prices of both.

"One of the unfairnesses about the giving out of this work, too, lies in the fact that when a local firm gives a printing job to the local printing office it is usually for $50 or $100 less, while the travelling salesman lands them up with at least a $500 order. The home print shop might quote just as good a price on a large order, but the man who does the ordering says "Oh, we wouldn't use that much in a lifetime."

Try us on an order as large as the last one you sent out of town. Mr. Businessman.

Horticultural Society Activities

Hospital Grounds Improved

Following a meeting between the Municipal Hospital Board and a committee from the local Horticultural Society have come great improvements in the appearance of the grounds surrounding the hospital. Faced with the necessity of keeping within a definite appropriation of money the committee has endeavored to give the utmost in results for a minimum of expenditure; the expenditure was well within the estimate; the results will be for the Board and for the public to judge as the summer goes on and the trees and shrubs lend their beauty to what was formerly a barren windswept bed of gravel.

A considerable quantity of gravel was removed from three large beds immediately in front of the hospital building and from a large heart-shaped bed in the centre of what will be the main driveway into the grounds; new material was placed in the beds to a depth of about eighteen inches and shrubs of various kinds have been placed with perennials interspersed for best effect. A double row of trees, consisting of one row of white spruce and and an alternating row of green ash and Russian poplar runs around the west side of the grounds and as far east as the gate on the south side.

A right angle bed of sweet peas has been placed in the south-east corner of the grounds to provide cut flowers for patients.

The gate on the main driveway has been altered so that it is located immediately in front of the entrance and large stones have been placed around the beds and across the edge of the portion of the lane which will be needed to grade after the first rain; the purpose of the rocks is largely to protect the planting and it is hoped that they will be effective. The drive passing in front of the hospital is sufficiently large for an easy turn and it is understood that this drive is for emergency cases only as visitors have been asked to park their cars outside the fence in order that patients who are seriously ill may not be disturbed by cars driven within a few feet of the building.

While only a portion of ground to the west of the main entrance has been put in shape this year it is hoped that action may be taken by the members of the Board to have the east side levelled and good earth substituted for the gravel which now makes it impossible to provide any form of beautification. If this ground were put in shape this year early planting would be possible in the spring and the Vermilion Hospital grounds would compare favorably with those of larger centres.

The Horticultural Society desires to especially thank Principal Elliott of the School of Agriculture for assistance in laying out and executing the improvements and for the generous donations of trees and shrubs from the nursery rows of the College.

Arrangements have been completed by the Society to urge other improvements to public buildings, active committees having been appointed to forward the objects of the body.

For some time past it has been felt that the membership of the organization should include all who are interested in the beautification of the Town of Vermilion and within a few days a membership drive will be inaugurated at which time it is hoped that all who can will link up for the benefit of the town and district. The membership fee is only $1.00 per year and, as usual, a flower show will be held in August and the annual vegetables competition will be carried on by the Society. Premises of members will be judged twice during the summer and the judges will be asked to place awards on the basis of sentiment and general upkeep of premises, thus making it possible for the smaller grounds to successfully compete with those of greater size.

It is generally agreed that Vermilion is one of the better towns in Alberta but there is much still to be done in its beautification and all citizens are urged to get behind the Horticultural Society, to take an active interest in its work and to assist in the carrying out of plans which will react to the benefit of every property owner within the limits of the Town. Members are also requested from the surrounding district and those who desire to support this organization are requested to get in touch with any of the following members of the executive: Mrs. H. J. Payne, Mrs. H. Watson, Miss P. Hobbis, Miss Grace Bury, Col. Watson, Mr. H. P. Long, Mr. A. E. Kaiser ,Mr. Geo. Law, Mr. W. E. Sutton, Secretary, Mr. S. C. Heckbert, President.

CHIEF SCOUT FOR CANADA

"On assuming the position of Chief Scout for the Dominion, I am delighted to have an opportunity of sending my greetings to all the officers and members of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada.

"I am eagerly looking forward to having many occasions, during my term of office, of becoming acquainted both with Canadian Scouts and Canadian Scouting, and of observing their progress.

"It is most gratifying to me, as Chief Scout, to know that E. W. Beatty has consented to undertake the important duties of President of the Association.

"With all my heart, I wish the new President and the Boy Scouts of Canada, every possible success."

MISSING THING OR SAFETY

"It is gratifying to think that so fine a Movement as that of the Boy Scouts has captured the imagination of the youth of the world and has become so truly international. For Canada it is peculiarly fitted, as the camp fire which is its teacher is so well suited to our geographical conditions. Nothing else could be better than its precept of self-reliance, resourcefulness, unselfishness and the pledge to help others whenever it may cost; moreover, it appeals to the boy, as he gets a lot of fun out of this process of developing the spirit of true sportsmanship. The qualities inculcated are the qualities of the good citizen and one is not surprised that another name for a good citizen is 'a good scout'."

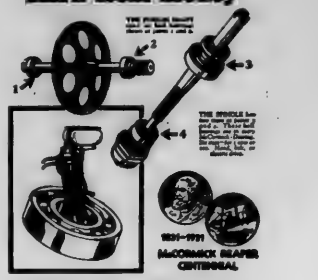
These Ball Bearings Earn Real Money



CREAM separator experts say: "One of the most common causes for loss of butterfat in cream separators is skimming bowl undersped. caused by old-fashioned plain bearings that bind and drag and make the machine hard to turn."

It's easy to run the McCormick-Deering Ball-Bearing Cream Separator at the right speed to get all the butterfat. The ball bearings and automatic oiling eliminate friction. No dragging—no lost profits.

We are out in the country demonstrating every day. On request we will be pleased to have them to see you try the machine.

MENACE OF UNSAFE TIRES.

Due to economic conditions which prevailed last year, motorists have run their tires to a degree where they are positively unsafe for further use. Unless their danger is brought vividly to their attention, there will be an enormous increase in motor car accidents this season. Every function and part of the automobile is exceedingly important; but, singularly enough, there are drivers who, while careful at all else, neglect an essential which is the very foundation of safety. They will take chances either from indifference or for false economy, with tires so old, so worn or so insubstantial to begin with that a breakdown or a blowout, soon or late, is inevitable.

The menace of worn tires will increase materially during the warm days to come. For example actual checks have proven that tires inflated to 35 pounds pressure and run for one hour usually show an increased air pressure of 40 per cent or 45 lbs. pressure. There are literally thousands of tires today that are so worn that they cannot long stand up under such higher air pressure and from continued road punishment. There is really no excuse for anybody driving on unsafe tires. Tire prices today are the lowest in history, being only 45.7 p.c. of what they were five years ago. Compared with this decline, food prices have dropped only about 30 p.c., farm produce 37 p.c., clothing 29 p.c., fuel and light 31 p.c. and 550 commodities only 23 p.c. And not only have tire prices dropped, but quality has been improved. According to Firestone statisticians, the cost per tire mile in 1914 was $0.113 while today it is $0.000747 — 15 times more service for the same money.

ADVERTISING.

Advertising has been defined as the process of obtaining and, particularly of purchasing, publicity. Space will not permit with dealing with all the phases of this process. It is safe to say however, that every business, no matter how extensive or how limited its scope, can by judicious advertising secure favorable prestige-building publicity.

BUSINESS QUESTIONS.

One of the questions to be asked in the coming census is "Do you own a radio?" It may be suspected that the purpose of this is to locate persons who may not have paid their license, or to assist private radio companies to make sales by letting them know what families do not own radios. This is wholly unfounded. The answers to this question, as to all other census questions, are absolutely confidential—even to Government Departments. The purpose of the question is to explore and analyze just the radio audience of Canada is, — where it is located, where it is dense, and how it is made up according to the different elements in the population. With the growing importance of radio, such information is indispensable to the formulation of satisfactory broadcasting. Radio is a further index of the Canadian standard of living, and some interesting studies may be expected as a result of the Census question.

LARGE FOX SHIPMENT REACHES WINNIPEG

The largest single shipment of white fox pelts ever received in Winnipeg, reached that city by Canadian National Express recently, having been transported from the shores of Hudson Bay over the Hudson Bay Railway. The shipment, which was billed independently of the large fur companies, included 621 white fox pelts and a dozen red fox pelts, all of which were trapped in the far north during the past winter.

SAFETY WEEK IN EDMONTON

The first week in June will be Safety Week in Edmonton.

The A.M.A. invites car owners in every town and district surrounding Edmonton to take advantage of this opportunity.

There will be no charge of any kind for these tests, but a card will be furnished showing any defects requiring attention and repair.

BROWNIE NOTES

Last meeting several of us learned and passed the learning of the flag, while others were passed on their knots. Next meeting we will all be ready to go on with some fresh work.

When we have little things like this to do we go to work eagerly and energetically, for we want to pass.

Everybody try and turn up Friday as we will talk over marching for Tuesday.

WEDNESDAY HALF-HOLIDAY STARTS NEXT WEEK

Mr. Advertiser, Get Your Advertisement in Early

The Wednesday half-holidays start next Wednesday, the third of June, and will continue for three months—June, July and August. Our advertisers attention is drawn to this for a special reason: the bulk of the changes in advertisements, while asked for Tuesday, usually come in on Wednesday, always making it a rush to get The Standard out by Thursday night. With the holiday in force the advs. will be asked for one day earlier and it is hoped that they will be ready for the compositor that same day. Please remember that printing a paper is a three-day job, and by having your advertisement in early in the week it is a distinct advantage to the editor and staff. So far it has been found impossible for The Standard to take advantage of this half-holiday, but we hope to do so this year, and with the co-operation of our valued advertisers will surely be able to. Getting your advertisement in Monday afternoon or early Tuesday morning will accomplish much in words this end.

A few of the risks of late copy are:—Chance of poor position; risk of typographical errors, no time for close proof reading, poor typography on fair physical scrub; advertisement hurriedly written, possible failure to catch mails out on Thursday night and Friday morning.

The advantages of early advertising copy are numerous to the printer and yourself. A few of these are: Better position; No errors, time for correction; good typography; fair to mechanical staff; advertisements well written and more effective; advertising in the mails in time for the reading public to get your message.

Give the printer a chance for a half holiday by getting your advertisement and copy in Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning.

BORDER PLANTS AVAILABLE

The School of Agriculture will have a few thousand small white Rock Plants (similar to White Alyssum) that will be suitable for border. These were self-seeded last year and have been left until an inch or so in height. In case any of the people of the district might wish some, they may be secured any time after 2 p.m. on Saturday. Bring a small box along or a shoe box; there will be spades on hand and you can help yourself.

POLAND BIDS FOR BRITISH BACON MARKET

Poland is making a strong bid for part of the British bacon market, according to advice received from that country by the Canadian National Railways' Department of Agriculture. The product of 18 bacon factories in Poland is centralized and handled by a government monopoly for export to Great Britain. The Census of Canada 1931

In the opening weeks of June every family and every home in Canada will be visited by a representative of the Government for the great national purpose of taking the seventh census of Canada.

The census is really a stocktaking. That is, it provides the information to enable the Government and others interested in the development of the country to formulate progressive policies for the happiness, comfort and prosperity of our people.

All the information supplied is strictly confidential, and the officers of the Government are subject to severe penalty if they disclose any of the information which is given to them by residents in the country, in any other than the Government.

Furthermore, it has nothing whatever to do with taxation, or military service, or compulsory school attendance, or immigration, or any such matter; and the government itself cannot use it except for statistical totals.

The Government representative will put the same questions to all, and it is your duty as a resident of this country to answer promptly and truthfully. The Government is very anxious to avoid forcing anyone to answer these questions, but it is empowered to do so in the few cases where individuals may refuse.

CRAIGS RETAIN THEIR INTERNATIONAL TITLE

Last week the Craigs turned back another invading team of lady basketballers from the United States, this one hailing from Lewistown, Ohio. The score were back in favor of the Edmonton team, 63-51 and 51-41, making a total of 140 to 92. The games were very favorably impressed with the visitors, who in turn enjoyed their visit to Alberta's capital.

Have you enough Life Insurance?

No matter how large or how small your estate, it will suffer heavy deductions before it reaches your wife or family. Doctors, nurses, hospitals, undertakers, lawyers, etc., not to mention succession duties, if the estate be considerable, will reduce the net amount payable to your heirs by anything from 10% to 25%.

Take your pencil and try a simple sum in arithmetic, using an actual case as an example:

	Typical Case	My Case
Total face value of all my life insurance policies	$3,000	$.....
Estimated value of my real estate, securities and other assets	$2,000	$.....
Total	$5,000	$
Less 15% as indicated above	$ 750	$
Total estate (net)	$4,250	$
Invested at good security at 5% this should yield my family an annual income of	$207.50	$

"The Cingalee" On June 8th.

Owing to the unprecedented interest which is being taken in the forthcoming production of the musical comedy, "The Cingalee," on Monday, June 8th at the Columbia Theatre, the advertising manager of the Company has been unable to cope with the stacks of letters which arrive by every mail.

Thousands of these letters contain inquiries regarding the members of the company, and the advertising manager wishes to announce that he cannot undertake to give individual replies in these cases.

It has been thought advisable, however, to publish a few brief notes on the personalities of some of the members of the cast. These will, no doubt, be read with interest by the hundreds of prospective patrons who are looking forward with eager anticipation to the greatest show ever produced in Vermilion — "The Cingalee."

Who's Who in "The Cingalee"

Albert Wood. — Plays the part of Harry Verelst, a tea planter. Prominent Vermilion business man. Has an ever-beaming smile and wears a moustache. Possesses no bad habits, but sometimes wears a bowler hat.

William Gaunce. — Plays the part of Hoohhamba, a nobleman. Very eccentric individual. "Hows" all the year round, but never "cows." Yodels occasionally but "moos" only to his life. Can answer any question put to him, and if he doesn't know it, he will guess.

Dan Taylor. — Plays the part of Sir Peter Lutlus, high commissioner. He possesses violence. Used to smash his teeth when in a rage, but since he became postmaster "stamps" his feet. Owns two thousand letters daily, of which nine thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine are addressed to "T. Dibbs, Esquire," and the other one to "thirsty Dib."

Norman Stowell. — Plays the part of Mynmgah, a native servant. Tough as nails, and full of muscle. Always sleeps between metal sheets. His shirts are immaculately laundered, and always has a "permanent wave" in them, owing to the fact that his wife uses a corrugated "iron."

Horace Cooper. — Plays the part of Bobby Warren. Spends much of his time practising arithmetic in the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Suffers from periodic fits of depression, but is always placed in a large cage in the bank whenever he shows signs of violence.

Vessie Bonsher. — Plays the part of Nancy, a Chanleuh girl. She "hails" from New Brunswick, but "reigns" in Vermilion as the queen of musical comedy. Has a domineering personality, and is inclined to bully anybody smaller than herself.

Hedy DeLeo. — Plays the part of Peggy Sahlee. Has scored many stage successes, and is the original heroine of the following unpublished poem by Byron:

"A maid by the name of McLean,
Decided to go and 'raise Kean';
But she ended her spree
In the lock-up, you see,—
Now she vows she'll not 'raise Kean' again."

Anne Asty. — Plays the part of Maitoona, a tea girl. Once held the heavyweight boxing championship, but had to drop it because it made her arms ache. Possesses strongly democratic principles, and never "looks down" on anyone.

Myrtle McDonald. — Plays the part of Lady Patricia Vane. Has "phoney" ideas on Empire Development. Frequently spends hours sitting on a stool repeating the word "Number". Was in the Cabaret at the 5:30 a.m. Holy Communion, and will speak to the teachers and scholars in the hall at 11:00 a.m.

At 2:00 P.M. evensong is it expected he will be present and preach at All Saints, Pleasant Valley, and again in St. Saviour's at 7:30 p.m. It is likely that a social hour will be arranged either after evensong on Sunday or on Monday evening in the Hall to give all an opportunity of saying "good-bye" to His Lordship.

While in town the Bishop will be the guest at the Rectory.

More United States branch factories are established in Canada than in any other country outside of the United States itself. At the beginning of last year 900 such factories were in the Dominion, representing investments of $440,000,000.

Shipping of all kinds entering and leaving Canadian ports last year increased 60 per cent. in the last ten years. The total tonnage, exclusive of coasting, for year to March 31, 1930, was 25,435,789 tons. This total must be added net tonnage of 87,734,772 tons of vessels entered and cleared coastwise.

Fool Young Again Enjoy Hard Work

New Ship Salvaging Machine Will Make Use Of Tides In Lifting Sunken Vessels

If ambition counts for anything, several of the 140 major ships wrecked in Alaskan waters, and even the "Lusitania" may be raised to the surface, with resulting recovery of fortune.

Frank Curtis, a flexible house mover, has dreams of great enterprises and huge fortunes, and always he prepares to lift the steamship "Islander," which sank with heavy loss of life and fortune in September 12th, August 15, 1901

He has signed a contract with F. H. and H. S. Wiley of Olympia, who already have recovered some gold from the sunken ship, and who hope to move the wreckage into shallow water, where it may be investigated in safety.

Curtis declared that after he completes the job, he may lay in a supply of ship salvaging equipment and go into the business on a large scale, first attacking other wrecks in Alaskan waters, then swinging to other parts of the world.

He plans to let nature help him raise the "Islander". In this manner he will use a diving bell to place cables under a ship, 20 to each side of the hull, and as the tide rises and falls, Winches will crinch up the cables at low tide, and Curtis figures that the large ship will be lifted with the tide rises. This operation will be repeated, and the barge will be towed to shallow water, where the sunken ship is dragged to shallow water.

"The Islander" was believed to have carried more than $1,000,000 in gold dust and nuggets.

Radio For Correspondence Courses

Six Thousand Residents Now Enrolled In Saskatchewan Correspondence Courses

Approximately 6,000 students are now enrolled in the correspondence courses conducted by the staff of the Saskatchewan Department of Education. Five thousand of the enrolments are in high school subjects. These correspondence courses are arranged to supplement the work being done in the schools of rural districts, high schools of Saskatchewan for boys and girls who, for various reasons, have been unable to attend school as much as they desired. If the young people are unable to go to schools, then the Department of Education through the school facilities shall be taken to them. The provincial government proposes to supplement these courses next autumn by a radio school

Artificial Sunlight Has Proved Beneficial

Much More Healthful Than Sunlight In Some Cases

The latest efforts have been toward producing lamps that simulate sunlight. Lamps of this kind are already available, and, while they have been sold primarily for purposes of home treatment, they are beginning to be considered as sources of general illumination in the house as well.

They can be so specified that the illuminating-engineer of the future will design lighting installations with a view of producing sunlight, and see but also of keeping us healthy. From such artificial sunlight, no less benefit is to be expected than from midsummer sunlight—much more, in fact, than is obtained from summer sunlight in smoky cities and from winter sunlight everywhere in middle and higher latitudes

Particularly in industry where workers are required to spend most of the daylight hours indoors and in offices where the biological effectiveness of natural light is practically thought. "I'd see things I never dreamed of seeing. Still—the time will seem horribly long to Gay, back there in Bakersville doing the same old stunts. I wonder if it isn't my duty to go home? What was it my mother said about the straight and narrow way this! I must tread it? I were to be happy? Perhaps my real happiness does lie in the road home. It will be bully to see Gay again to tell her everything. And the kids. . . . Gee! I bet they'll be glad to see their dad! I wish I knew what to do. What's the matter with me anyhow?"

He arose impatiently, pacing up and down in the starlight. A sleepy world dozed out, and Nick faced suddenly about.

"I must go up to bed. I'm behaving like a vacillating woman. Perhaps the morning light will clear my brain."

It did. He knew, when he awoke, that he was going home. He was sorry to disappoint Angela, but he would let her know how greatly he appreciated her kindness; and after all, it could'nt make any real difference to her whether he went or not. He whistled as he dressed—descended hurriedly fearing he was late; but as he passed the desk on the way to his

In his surprise Nick stared at her in an identity that she flushed, and sat a little straighter in her chair.

"That's mighty thoughtful of you," he said at last, "but I'll hardly like to accept so much from mere acquaintance."

"Oh, that needn't trouble you! They're only too glad to take along an attractive man. It won't cost you a penny, Nick. You don't mind my saying that, do you?—but I know such things have to be considered. The Myers are business men-would-be travellers then in former years, C. B. Canada said an revoir but not good-bye to Their Majesties the King and Queen of Siam at the border station of Portal, Saskatchewan, whither they had travelled in the great and glorious outdoors surrounded by bath wire fences and mosquitoes and great hopes.

This is the time for the thoughts of the old bachelors, as well as the proverbial young man turn to ideas of a nice cook stove, and they return from the field. Our eyes and ears are all on the qui vive for the first swain, who can deny these aching dreams no longer, and makes the leap, reveal less of 3c eggs and 25c wheat, but thus far it has been in vain; though as June, with its moon and roses and such like things approaches, surely someone will fall. Here are "run ners" in advance.

Fool Young Again Enjoy Hard Work

New Ship Salvaging Machine Will Make Use Of Tides In Lifting Sunken Vessels

If ambition counts for anything, several of the 140 major ships wrecked in Alaskan waters, and even the "Lusitania" may be raised to the surface, with resulting recovery of fortune.

Frank Curtis, a flexible house mover, has dreams of great enterprises and huge fortunes, and always he prepares to lift the steamship "Islander," which sank with heavy loss of life and fortune in September 12th, August 15, 1901

He has signed a contract with F. H. and H. S. Wiley of Olympia, who already have recovered some gold from the sunken ship, and who hope to move the wreckage into shallow water, where it may be investigated in safety.

Curtis declared that after he completes the job, he may lay in a supply of ship salvaging equipment and go into the business on a large scale, first attacking other wrecks in Alaskan waters, then swinging to other parts of the world.

He plans to let nature help him raise the "Islander". In this manner he will use a diving bell to place cables under a ship, 20 to each side of the hull, and as the tide rises and falls, Winches will crinch up the cables at low tide, and Curtis figures that the large ship will be lifted with the tide rises. This operation will be repeated, and the barge will be towed to shallow water, where the sunken ship is dragged to shallow water.

"The Islander" was believed to have carried more than $1,000,000 in gold dust and nuggets.

Radio For Correspondence Courses

Six Thousand Residents Now Enrolled In Saskatchewan Correspondence Courses

Approximately 6,000 students are now enrolled in the correspondence courses conducted by the staff of the Saskatchewan Department of Education. Five thousand of the enrolments are in high school subjects. These correspondence courses are arranged to supplement the work being done in the schools of rural districts, high schools of Saskatchewan for boys and girls who, for various reasons, have been unable to attend school as much as they desired. If the young people are unable to go to schools, then the Department of Education through the school facilities shall be taken to them. The provincial government proposes to supplement these courses next autumn by a radio school

Artificial Sunlight Has Proved Beneficial

Much More Healthful Than Sunlight In Some Cases

The latest efforts have been toward producing lamps that simulate sunlight. Lamps of this kind are already available, and, while they have been sold primarily for purposes of home treatment, they are beginning to be considered as sources of general illumination in the house as well.

They can be so specified that the illuminating-engineer of the future will design lighting installations with a view of producing sunlight, and see but also of keeping us healthy. From such artificial sunlight, no less benefit is to be expected than from midsummer sunlight—much more, in fact, than is obtained from summer sunlight in smoky cities and from winter sunlight everywhere in middle and higher latitudes

Particularly in industry where workers are required to spend most of the daylight hours indoors and in offices where the biological effectiveness of natural light is practically thought. "I'd see things I never dreamed of seeing. Still—the time will seem horribly long to Gay, back there in Bakersville doing the same old stunts. I wonder if it isn't my duty to go home? What was it my mother said about the straight and narrow way this! I must tread it? I were to be happy? Perhaps my real happiness does lie in the road home. It will be bully to see Gay again to tell her everything. And the kids. . . . Gee! I bet they'll be glad to see their dad! I wish I knew what to do. What's the matter with me anyhow?"

He arose impatiently, pacing up and down in the starlight. A sleepy world dozed out, and Nick faced suddenly about.

"I must go up to bed. I'm behaving like a vacillating woman. Perhaps the morning light will clear my brain."

It did. He knew, when he awoke, that he was going home. He was sorry to disappoint Angela, but he would let her know how greatly he appreciated her kindness; and after all, it could'nt make any real difference to her whether he went or not. He whistled as he dressed—descended hurriedly fearing he was late; but as he passed the desk on the way to his

The West's Besetting Sin

If there is one besetting sin indulged in by the people of Western Canada it is the sin of impatience. Nowhere else in any country which I have visited have we seen quite such a rapidly growing family of Indians and Immense herds of buffalo as the people today expect and demand all these services and conveniences, which it has taken centuries to build up and develop in older lands. It is a good fault to have and best there is in life for our children. It is a laudable ambition it work to secure such things, a proper spirit of discontent is all right, provided it is a proper spirit.

But in a vast extent of territory such when population is as yet but thinly spread, where the element of time has not yet permitted that degree of productive development which leads to the accumulation of certain reserves of wealth for people to expect to enjoy all those things which it is possible for older countries of large populations and centuries of accumulated wealth to provide for their people in and reasonable. Whatever we have must be paid for, and if in the West we have not sufficient people nor sufficient wealth to pay for what we want we must of necessity go without until such time as we are able to provide them. Also to be discontented with our lot in the meantime is neither reasonable nor right.

The example. Good all-weather highways to serve all parts of Western Canada is the desire of everybody in the community. Efforts to realize it are being put forth but people are impatient, and demand still larger programmes of construction, notwithstanding the fact that it is taxing their resources to the utmost to pay interest charges on past construction and finance the carrying out of existing programmes of new construction.

There is nothing to be gained, and much to be lost by having the whole country crime-cursed with good roads, provided with telephone and electric power services equipped with churches, schools and hospitals, and other services and conveniences now so generally regarded as necessities, if as a result of providing them the people are bankrupted and have to leave their people off their land. All these things are worse than valueless if the people cannot maintain an existence to enjoy them.

To cite another example of impatience until two years there has been erected and equipped, in the Province of Saskatchewan, three technical schools: one at Regina, a second at Moose Jaw, less than 50 miles distant, and a third at Saskatoon, 150 miles away each of which has cost half a million dollars or a total of $1,500,000. This large expenditure for purely technical education has been made in a Province where over 70 per cent. of the population lives in rural communities and where constant stress is laid on the importance of educating the youth to remain on the land.

The point is not that technical schools are not good and desirable things. The point is are we not aiming to provide those good things before we can afford to do so, and, to the extent that we mortgage our future in this way, are we not crippling our own efforts to provide and maintain something else much more essential and which would benefit a much larger percentage of all the people who have to bear the taxation burden? Are we not trying to spread our butter lands in our impatience to have everything they have, which no doubt they can afford now after long decades of growth, but which we cannot afford because we are not numerous and wealthy enough to carry the resultant financial burden

For men and fewer women there are but would like to live in a better house than they now occupy, if they could afford it, but knowing they cannot afford it they make the best of what they have. Many of them could have the finer house of their dreams if they were prepared to mortgage their whole future for it, and, while living in it, denied themselves other things and lived in a state of worry over the payments to be made.

The country is just an aggregation of individuals. They can have those things they are impatient to possess largely because other countries have been more patient and willingness to wait until they could occupy much the same position as those others who can afford these things, they plunge ahead and get them, then they must not be impatient of the taxes they are called upon to pay nor resentful if, being unable to pay, they lose all they had accumulated in years gone by

It is in times like these that heed should be given to such matters. The present is hard for most people and in no small degree because of the mistakes of past made individually and collectively. This present depression will pass, good times will come again We must willy-nilly be patient now. But will the old impatience come back with renewed force? Will we as a people still insist on running before we really are able to walk? If so, we will stumble again and fall once more

Greetings To Boy Scouts

Stirring Messages Sent Out From Earl Bessborough and E. W. Beatty

Stirring messages were forward recently to the Boy Scouts of Canada. One was from the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, on his assuming the position of chief scout for this Dominion. The other was from E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who recently became the first president of the Boy Scouts Association.

The Governor-General said: "I am eagerly looking forward to helping many occasions for becoming acquainted both with Canadian scouts and Canadian boys, and of observing their progress." He was pleased that Mr. Beatty had consented to undertake the duties of president of the association.

Another name for a good citizen is "a good scout" says Mr. Beatty, "It is gratifying to think that so fine a movement as that of the Boy Scouts has captured the imagination of the youth of the world and has become so truly international," he said. For Canada it is particularly fitting that the camperart which it teaches is so well suited to our geographical conditions. Lord Bessborough, first governor of pel of self-reliance, self-respect, unselfishness and the pledge to help others whatever it may cost."

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green rudie—an important dress—lost color and faded. Dyes were not procurable A friend who had admired it asked me to dye it. Diamond Dyes, I say more. On bursting the romance she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. It was a lovely shade of dress that really cost just 15c—the price of one package Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am now a firm believer in them and have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be so simple to use. They always go on evenly and evenly. They never spot streak or run. My friends now never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all."

Automatic Machines Will Serve Meals to Several Thousand

Five-minute meals will be the order of the day when London's latest aspect of automatic mechanics, the Automat, opens its doors.

No dish will cost more than sixpence, and all foods will be served through automatic machines. Behind plates will be slipped into letter-box like slots, and there is an ingenious machine which will automatically wash and sterilize their own glasses.

"Soft" drinks, supplied through automatic machines, will also be obtainable.

Customers simply slip their still drinks into a little machine, press a button, and the "still drink becomes "sparkling."

Samples of regulations alcoholic beverages cannot be supplied through the automat machines, but a barman has been employed to look after this department. Here, also, the highest prices will be charged.

The restaurant is to be open day and night, week days and Sundays.

World's Smallest Dog

The world's smallest dog is said to have been acquired by the Maritzburg Humane Society. It is a Pomeranian white pointer, and although it lived for three years it never grew longer than nine inches. Its head was one inch to tail tip.

His head was one and a quarter inches long and an inch broad, and his hind legs were slightly less than two inches long.

The Child Grows and Matures, It

Necessity Of Careful Training In Early Childhood

(By John Burke Ingram.)

I once knew a boy who was unreasonably afraid of a policeman. Unreasonably because he was a good little boy and his family were decent people. One day that little boy's grandmother told him a story about another little chap who got lost and of how a policeman on the beat found him and took him home to his mother. The simple story completely destroyed the child's fear of policemen. It made him realize and understand that the policeman was on "his side" and his duty was to protect him and his home and the others in them. It was exactly the growing child to be told.

Living is a problem, and many a conscientious mother has had her heart almost broken because little Bobby was afraid of horrible accidents and sees tigers walking down the street, and, perhaps, if he is a malingerer, he may see a monstrous threshing six big men on the way home from school. Lies like that, however, are, in the long run, useless and if it were not for this capacity for harmless lying, there should be no fairy stories, no fine pictures painted, nor music written. Of a different story however, is the lie that is told to cover up carelessness or to secure some favour, a personal lie in other words, and these must be corrected. It is easy to draw a distinction between a "fairy tale lie" and a "wicked lie," and in combating the latter a positive course must be taken to be included as a preventive. Stories of men who refused to lie even if it meant death, are good to tell. Followed to eagerly, for children are natural hero-worshippers and it is a good thing if a person's life is interesting enough, and interest enough to place worthy objects of hero-worship in the minds of the youngsters. By early giving away from our old ideas that children should be seen and not heard, and that a child should never have his own way. We feel that a child should have its own way just as it pleases, and that a child may be left to pick its head towards the sun. But once again, to remain for a moment in a position of analogy, as the tree is bent the twig's inclined, and a really tactful and understanding parent can, by a word or two, put the right channel so tactfully that the youngster will scarcely realize that it is his own ideas that he is carrying out.

Better Fire Protection Needed

Show Organized System For Rural Districts

A more organized system of fire protection in rural districts was urged recently by David J. Price, of Washington, D.C., chief engineer of the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, U.S. Department of Agriculture, addressing the annual convention of the National Fire Protection Association in Toronto.

Fire loss on farms in the United States last year, was the greatest ever experienced, he declared. From data available, it appeared that farm fire losses increased 25 per cent. during the 1926 season thought, he said. The loss for the year was estimated to be in excess of $125,000,000.

Spontaneous heating and ignition of agricultural products constituted, he said, one of the prominent causes of farm fire loss.

Largest Persian Rug

What is said to be the largest Persian rug in the world is rapidly taking shape in New York. It is being built for the main lobby of the new Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and will be more than 70 feet long and nearly 50 feet wide. The design to be followed is that of a Persian garden.

Miller's Worm Powders are the medicine for children who are found suffering from the ravages of worms. They immediately alter the stomachic conditions under which the worms subsist and drive them from the system, and, at the same time, they are tonical in their effect upon the digestive organs, restoring them to healthful operation and ensuring immunity from further disorders from such cause.

Protection For Miners

Safety caps and safety shoes are soon to be added to safety lamps as standard equipment in the Cape Breton collieries. The caps are of steel and are designed to protect the head from frequent bumps. The shoes will protect the feet from falling stones.

One reason why the scenery seems more wonderful in Europe is because you don't have to read it.

Canada Should Have Right To Amend Constitution

Conference With Provinces May Be Called To Discuss This Matter

A resolution declaring that Canada should have the right to amend her own constitution, moved in the House of Commons, brought from Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, the statement that he favored a conference with the provinces on this important matter. Before calling a conference, however, he thought that a committee of parliament should be appointed to consider this question.

"I am by no means hopeless of the situation," Mr. Guthrie declared to the House. "I am entirely hopeful, and I think it would be well for this parliament, if not at this session, at some subsequent session, to appoint a committee especially charged with the consideration of this question. We must prepare our case here before we call a conference, and it is for that we will require a great deal of preparation."

"After preparation had been made," added Mr. Guthrie, "I shall heartily favor the summoning of a provincial conference with the Dominion authorities to see what plan can be worked out so that in the future this parliament may be able to make the necessary amendments to our constitution."

Rubber Lining Protects Steel

Purfected Surface Resists Abrasion Under Most Severe Conditions

When chemists discovered a method for attaching a rubber lining to a metal surface, they presented to the world a new and valuable material to the chemical engineer for use in the various piping pumps and so forth in which he handles corrosive liquids The rubber lining effectively resists the action of acids which would soon eat through the steel Now this process of attaching a rubber surface to metal has been perfected to a degree which encourages its use to resist abrasion in some of the most severe service conditions imaginable Popular Science

Mrs Edward A Allen, Bessanour, Alta., writes "I would like to tell you of the great benefit I have received from your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I was feeling very much run down in health and was so weak I could scarcely do my housework, in fact, I would have to lie down in the afternoon for an hour or so I saw your Pills in the drug store and took a box home with me, and I was delighted with my renewed strength. I have recommended them to a neighbor and find sure they will help her too."

Dust Explosions

Warning Is Given Of Danger Lurking In Talcum Powder and Cornstarch

Don't fight a cigarette just after using talcum or any other powder Never leave the cornstarch box, the flour tin or the oatmeal bag where they are likely to fall That is, if you want to avoid the chance of an explosion

These hints on dust explosions were given recently by David J Price, chemical engineer with the United States Department of Agriculture, who was a delegate to the annual convention of the National Fire Protection Association in Toronto

He was pointing out that dust explosions were not confined to grain elevators as was commonly thought

Gold Rush Continues

Many Claims Already Staked In Pyle Lake District

Pyle Lake, Sask.—The "rush" to the Poplar Creek bed, six miles southeast of here, and on towards Cormack, continues and many claims have been staked.

According to information received, A. M. Bennett, a farmer opposite the M. Woolfin farm, two years ago sent samples of the dirt to Los Angeles to be tested, and received a reply that there were traces of gold. E. Larson, one of the men interested in the purchase of the Woolfin farm, is reported to have sent samples recently to Los Angeles, and to have been informed that the dirt he sent contained gold running from $2 to $20 a ton.

Pyle Lake is almost directly south of Moose Jaw, about 90 miles, located in range two, about ten miles from the international border line.

Men familiar with the district, who have explored it, claim there are heavy deposits of iron pyrites in the hills to the hills and along the beds of the Poplar, Horse and branches of Frenchmen's creeks

As far as gold is known to have been taken from the places where claims have been staked during the past two days.

Revolutionists In Indo-China Given Long Prison Terms

Paris, France.—A Havas despatch from Hanoi, French Indo-China, says that sentences have been given Communist revolutionists following a three-day trial at which it was revealed that plots to seize Indo-China were directed from Canton.

The chief of the Saigon Communist group received in his lodgings a document for participation in the assassination of a native foreman of the French administration. Five others were given 20 years, seven were sentenced to 15 years and 45 from five to ten years.

An alleged plot to assassinate Governor-General Sequier at Saigon was revealed during the trials.

British House Refuses To Legalize Lotteries

Application To Introduce Bill Defeated By Large Majority

London, England.—House of Commons came down hard on advocates of legalization of lotteries in support of hospitals, defeating by 181 to 86 an application by a Conservative member for leave to introduce a bill authorizing the operation of such lotteries.

There has been considerable agitation in favor of lotteries for the year in this respect in view of the great sums which have gone out of the country into the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes on horse races, while charitable institutions at home need money

System Of Credits Will Be Discussed

Premier Bennett Suggests Matter Be Referred To Banking Committee

Ottawa, Ont.—The question of setting up a system of long-term export credits for agriculture will be considered and discussed, is the light of agriculture, of money by the government respecting the $5,000,000 revolving credit corporation, before the banking committee of the House of Commons.

Unanimous decision favoring this action followed the introduction of a proposal in the House by W. T. Lucas (U.F.A., Camrose), for "consideration of some system of intermediate credits; and a statement by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, that the whole matter be referred to the banking and commerce committee. Mr. Lucas had expressed his belief that the $5,000,000 corporation would not take care of the situation among eastern farmers.

If the government could not set up a system of intermediate credits for agriculture, it was suggested that with the present $5,000,000 plan and subscribe dollar for dollar with the other subscriptions.

"If the Hon. Member," the Prime Minister stated, "Will move that the resolution be referred to the committee on banking and commerce, I think that would serve a very useful purpose; and discussion could take place in the light of knowledge which we have as to the proposed operation of the corporation, information to which I have referred the other day. The experience in the United States in connection with the Farm Relief Corporation was that practically only ten per cent. of the amount subscribed was used.

SAYS CUT IN WHEAT ACREAGE WILL NOT HELP

Toronto, Ont.—Not reduction of wheat acreage in Western Canada but the co-operation of every industry in Canada, including the railway and transportation systems of the Dominion was necessary, if the present depression in the agricultural industry and wheat crisis were to be solved to any degree, said Hon. Frank Oliver, editor emeritus of the Edmonton Bulletin and former Minister of the Interior and Railway Commissioners, addressing the Transportation Club here.

"Not in one year, nor in two years, he said, would only increase depression, although it would benefit the Wheat Pool. He was of the belief the principal governments which had guaranteed the pool advance. The pro-

Ruth Nichols may make Cape Breton and its scenery famous, but it is the rugged scenic beauty of the Bras D'Or lakes district that is attracting the attention of the entire flow of the Bay Lawrence and that point it's power purposes.

Allegation of fraud, misrepresentation, and gross negligence in the management of the Dominion Coal Company were made interested in the power to be developed at the Grand Falls on Bonaventure peninsula had even gone so far as to attempt to corrupt members of the Quebec Legislature, the features of discussion which followed the attack in the House.

Premier Taschereau, in the course of his reply to the charges, made public the text of a letter written by Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice in the Laurier government, to the engineers in charge of the Grand Falls development, in which he stated that the Premier of Newfoundland was in no way interested in the project and that he would have nothing to do with it. Premier Taschereau pointed out that the letter was dated 1907, and that the Premier of Newfoundland was not in office at that time.

Sir Lomer Gouin's letter, which was read in the House, stated that the Premier of Newfoundland was not interested in the project,

JESUS CRUCIFIED

Golden Text "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."—Isaiah 53.5.

Lesson, Luke 23.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53.7-12

Explanations and Comments

The Crucifixion, verses 33, 34.—We call the knoll where Jesus was crucified Calvary, from the Latin word "calvaria," a skull There He was nailed to a cross, and on either side of Him a malefactor was hung in intensify the ignominy of His crucifixion The four soldiers who crucified Him, after dividing His garments among them in the headdress, the shoes the outer robe and the girdle was distributed "to every soldier a part." (John 19 23, 24), cast lots for the possession of the seamless inner robe. Then they sat down and watched Him there (Matthew 27.36), to make sure that He was really crucified There is a remarkable picture by William Blake, which depicts the three crosses from behind No form of Christ can be seen. The soldiers are casting the dice for His garments. Two men pose behind the group, as to do this Light emanating from Christ's cruciform head illuminates the other crosses and the soldiers. Thus the artist has sought to depict the glory of the cross.

And sitting down, they watched Him there.

The soldiers did,

That, while they played with dice, He bore the burden.

And dust upon His cross to rid The world of sin.

He was a gambler, too, my Christ. He took His life and lost

It for a world redeemed.

And ere His agony was done

Before the westering sun went down,

Crowning that day with Crimson He knew that He had won.

III. Tennyson's Dream of Kennedy

"Father, forgive them: for they know not what they do," were the comforting words that Jesus spoke. There are not only for the soldiers who had nailed Him to the cross, but also for those also of the Jews who had brought Him to this place. They did not realize the enormity of their guilt. His prayer recognized that fact, and it was He had tried to inculcate in His followers when He taught them to pray, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." It is good to learn that despitefully used them "Think of the enormous load of guilt that the Jews who could actually try to find an excuse for their forgive—and the mercy pray for but actually try to find something in Jesus to blame Him for! There was very little that could be said in His favor, but they found it. Their prejudices, their upbringing, their false conceptions of Him. They did not know what they were doing. If they realized it, they would not do it. Father, forgive!"—J Paterson-Smyth.

The Death, verses 44-46.—For three hours there was darkness and silence. It was the Holy Place and the Holy of Holies that was hidden. The veil between the Holy Place and the Holy of Holies was rent in twain. The rent veil and shut skies were a fit symbol of the awful deed that had been done. Then The rending of the temple veil was a token of the way of the holy things now opened into the presence of God for all believers. The rent veil and the supreme aspects of this atoning death, and indeed of the whole incarnation, and the purpose of redeeming grace."—Charles F. Deems.

"Through His life and triumphant death, and through the living energy of the Spirit, we have the full meaning love which overcomes evil, and find forgiveness, freedom, and eternal life."

Fast Freight Service

Vancouver To Montreal In Eight Days

Twenty-four hours has been cut from the running time of the Canadian Pacific Railway's transcontinental freight service operating from the Pacific to the Atlantic seaboards, it was announced recently by the transportation department of the company This will permit a full day's earlier delivery of freight at Montreal

The train, which formerly took nine days in transit between Vancouver and Montreal, on the new fast schedule makes the round-to-coast trip in eight, the time saving in the spring and Montreal being reduced from three days to two

The improved time rate will not only benefit the middle west, it is explained, but will provide considerable importance to importers, who will have 24 hours longer to prepare clearance papers for goods of origin and still be assured of connection with steamships at Montreal.

Advocates Mixed Marriage

Union Of White and Yellow Races To Prevent Race War

Intermixing and marriage between the Japanese and Chinese and whites races in British Columbia would not only settle the so-called racial problem, but the resultant race problem would be superior to both the present white and yellow races, in the opinion of Dr. Charles Hill-Tout, noted Vancouver anthropologist, expressed in an interview in Toronto.

In his generalizations, if racial and cultural prejudice would be broken down and cross-breeding continued, he contended, a new race of the race would be fined, said Dr. Hill-Tout, who is attending the sessions of the Royal Society of Canada.

Only by intermarriage to the fullest degree could Dr. Hill-Tout see any solution to the problem of an ultimate race war, with the coloured peoples against the whites. "I think the only solution is a possibility," he said, "if we don't check up on our air of superiority in dealing with the Asiatic peoples and give India self-government. That seems the only way to me of preventing India from slipping from our grasp behind the times."

"All this foolish prejudice of race—just as strong on the part of the coloured—should be broken down," he continued. Denying emphatically the common belief that a mixture of the races usually retained the vices of both and the virtues of neither, Dr. Hill-Tout said that was simply because, "with our cultural prejudice, the resultant product is forced back into the lower of the two races culturally." It was that way with the half-breeds of Western Canada, he said, who on account of the race pride of the white were forced back to live with the Indians.

WHAT CAME BEFORE. Captain Jimmy and Scottie foresaw that the ship they were white flying over the Chinese war junk. Then they were boarded by Chinese bandits. Captain Jimmy escapes and plans to set free the remainder of his party.

Cautiously I crawled toward the ramp. I had to be very careful not to make a sound. Finally I reached the top. Then I peered around the corner. I could see the ramp leading down to the hold. I crept down it. Then I saw the door. It was open. I could see the bandits sitting around a fire. They were eating rice and drinking tea. They were talking and laughing. They looked happy enough. They were not expecting trouble.

Lower stones began rolling, and the boat began to tremble. I knew that the junk was striking the bottom of the reef. "If you know how bad everything is," I said, "you will be sorry for me. It certainly peeved me if the noise we made didn't wake the whole ship. Suddenly, as I watched, there was a lot of a shouting. I knew that the bandits had found would be.

The bandits had just risen to their feet at the sound of the shouting. Then they were still again. Nobody they were troubled. Had we been sailing our boat them like a whirlwind, they would have understood, and started firing on him. But here was a string of barren ground with a few huts in front of it. Not a sign of their enemy fire.

Leaning forward from the deck of my boat, I picked the last of the string with my jack-knife. With a shout, I who in turn pushed the last of the band. They wavered right and left. The bandits, and when a burst fell in front of them, they turned on their feet and flipped him. Then, in the midst of the uproar, we doubled our pulling. The rear was complete. We had sailed long enough to grab a rifle and greet us a shower of dust and shot.

Across a corner we came suddenly on a rolling track. Here we saw a big decrepit old freight cars stood, and a little locomotive. Then we found four hands of the sailors' barque pounding on the rail. Then we found the big boat itself, over and over, pounding on the stack of his pants. "As I bowled to pull him in, a dark form appeared and caught me shoulders, and over we all went. "It's I," he said.

Twelve Greatest Thinkers

Dr. Will Durant Lists What He Considers Greatest Thinkers World Has Produced

Dr. Will Durant, in a new book, lists the men he considers the greatest thinkers in the world's history.

Confucius, Plato, Aristotle, St. Thomas Aquinas Copernicus, Francis Bacon, Sir Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant and Charles Darwin, he says.

In his latest work, "Adventures in Genius," Dr. Durant says Jesus was a "transcendent figure in moral order, but is not included in the list of ten greatest thinkers "since it was not thought or reason but feeling and noble passion, a mystic vision and an incorrigible faith that made Him from the little foot of earth move the world."

Shakespeare, Dr. Durant says also must be classed with the earlier and above everything else. Shakespeare is included in Dr. Durant's list of ten greatest thinkers, which also names Homer, David, Euripides, Lucretius, Li-Po, Dante, Keats, Shelley and Whitman.

Remove Hats When Speaking

But Three Members Wear Them In House Of Commons

Three members of the House of Commons are famed for their almost invariable habit of wearing their hats while the Assembly is in session. They take them off, of course, when speaking. They are Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture in the late Liberal administrations; Jean Francois Pouliot, M.P. for Temiscouata, Quebec, and Lt.-Col. T. H. Lennox, M.P. for North York. Sometimes Lt.-Col. Reginald Geary of North Toronto joins them.

Most subject to general comment is the headgear of Col Lennox. His hat always sports a band of considerably bright hue. Just now the combination is red and what the society editors like to call "cool." But whatever the other colors, red is always included. Carrying out this scheme is the Colonel's almost unfailing habit of wearing a bright red tie—the bright-er, apparently, the better.

CHAPTER XIX

During the next week Nick had no time for introspection. His days were crowded with the winding up of his business—the mailing of Bert's report and certain belated papers—a letter to John Maxwell, accepting his generous offer to "take more time," and a long and loving explanation to Gay, telling the whole story, and how his decision to come back to her had been influenced by this unexpected, almost incredible good fortune. He wrote:

"Just imagine, dear girl, cruising around these tropic waters in a private yacht! Of course you'd tell me to go! If there's no sense of that I wouldn't consider it for a minute. I gather from your last letter that everything's all right at home; and though I hate to be away, I'm not homesick, and wish I'd stuck to my guns when I think if I did not regret it, both you and I.

"But I'm not going to mean only a month dear. They're to drop me where I want to, and I'll probably be some point in Cuba. Anyhow, send a letter to Havana. And of course I'll write if I get a chance. Not that anything though that's unlikely. However, I understand the yacht is equipped with wireless, which makes me feel nearer home. Can't you hold back the apple blossoms till I come? I don't want to miss that!

This was but a small part of that letter. Knowing Gay's feeling about Angela, Nick omitted her part in the invitation with almost too much reason. He laid great stress on the fabulous fact that made her take the journey to Kingston for the sole purpose of giving him this chance. He said, as he had said to Gay on the past, that he felt sure Gay was unjust to her, and that she was an unhappy woman. If he could help her to forget things for a while, it might repay her a little for her thoughtfulness in asking him to go.

On the day this letter reached Bakersville, Gay was not well. She was ready to be ill, and when Mrs. Benny brought in the mail, which consisted of her letter, and the usual postcards from Bert, she could not read them aloud to Benny, and as he descended to share them with Uncle Silm, she threw her letter at him with a sense of overwhelming gladness. It would doubtless tell when Nick was coming. His last letter had hinted that the work was reaching completion, and that she could look for him before long.

Gay had missed her husband more than she would let herself admit. If, as Nick said, "the ache was gone," it was rather like a man minus an arm or leg. Gay herself felt a sense of oppression, as if the very heart in her breast was incomplete with Nick so far away. And for the last few days a weakness she did not understand had come upon her. It frightened her. Was she perhaps, to go through all she had gone through with Nick, again? She would not let herself face the thought There was no reason to think that the same experience would be here twice. The doctor had reassured her finally. When Nick came home everything would be all right again; and if the baby were the little girl he wanted (and deep in her heart Gay knew it must be that little girl), how gallantly she could endure the suffering! It was the courage Nick always gave her that she missed now. She couldn't stand having him away much longer. He'd read her letter.

An hour later, wondering at her long silence, Uncle Silm went quietly upstairs. Gay had said nothing about not feeling well, but the old man had detected an unaccustomed listlessness in her manner, and understood that things were not quite right. Fearful of waking her should she be asleep, he stood for a moment on the threshold. Then, at a sudden convulsive movement of her shoulders, he closed the room and touched her gently with a hand that trembled.

"Gay!" he called.

"Uncle Silm, wiping her eyes; trying to smile; ashamed that he should find her weeping.

"I'm just a—silly. All along I've urged Nick not to hurry, but now somehow I thought he would. That's like a child, isn't it, Uncle Silm? I—I don't just rightly get it," said patient Simeon. "Isn't Nick comin' pretty quick?"

"He—he was." She swallowed a sob, and went on quietly: "He'd got as far as Ireland to start up some of his business with that stupid lawyer was finished, and then—you—you see, Uncle Silm, that Mrs. Halliday was on the boat going down?"

Simeon nodded. Daylight was beginning to through, and his face took on a straight, unyielding line. Gay, twisting her wet handkerchief into a ball, did not notice.

"It seems," she continued slowly, "that some friends of Mrs Halliday's and acquaintances who visited here last summer, have asked Nick to go on a cruise in the yacht. Mrs Halliday went over to Kingston to give the invitation. It—it was very kind of her, of course, and it's a wonderful chance for Nick. I suppose I'm selfish even to feel disappointed. He says it's for only a month longer, and they're to go into out-of-the-way places, and see marvelous things. It's rid culous of me to cry, but—but I'd got so up my mind he was coming, and—"

"There! There!" Simeon comforted. "It's natural you'd look by in no time with the warm weather's come, and they's so much pretty to look at.

"But I can't! Look-a-here Gay! If you feel like you couldn't spare him I'll send a message. Nick wouldn't want you to if he knew you needed him."

For a perceptible moment her eyes brightened; then she said: "No, it's good for Nick, and anyway I wouldn't be so selfish as to spoil his plans. They must have sailed yesterday or the day before, and there's no way to reach them. He doesn't even mention the name of the yacht—probably he'll know when he writes. Don't worry about it, Uncle Silm. I wouldn't have cried if I'd been well."

"Well," Simeon meant to confess even as much as that, but Simeon said anxiously: "What's the matter, dearie? Have you seen the doctor?"

"No; but I will. I shan't co-nonsine on doctors now, Uncle Silm not after I went through before."

Simeon walked to the window — looked out at the children, and called: "Come you let little Martha Ann in. Don't you know she's a lady and you got to be polite? That's it. Now, dearie, you give that paper to the baby. He's littler'n you, and you got to learn to give up yer own way. That comes your daddy. You can him if Uncle Silm ain't right."

Gay had joined him, and was watching Halliday bend down to untie the small disputé. Simeon put an arm about her.

"Look-a-here," he said, "how's Nick to get back if they're cruisin' off in them out-of-the-way places?"

"They'll drop him somewhere in some part of Cuba, probably. Perhaps he'll write more definitely before they start. You can read the letter, Uncle Silm. It's a darling letter, and of course I understand; only—only, Uncle Silm, I—I don't like Mrs. Halliday."

"No—o," grunted Simeon; then: "Think'll find her out, honey. Nothin' like boat travel to show up people's faults."

"But Nick's so—trusting. He thinks everyone's as splendid as he is himself. And she's clever, and older than he, for all she looks so girlish. I shouldn't want her to make a fool of him."

Dogs Aid French Smugglers

Average Animal Can Carry Ten Pounds of Contraband

Tobacco costs 20 cents a pound in Belgium and just across the border in France, the price is $1.20. As a consequence there is a widespread smuggling traffic across the border between the two countries

Almost any night French smugglers may be seen in heavily wooded sections of Belgium at the border, gliding from tree to tree accompanied by their dog couriers, awaiting an opportunity to dash across the border.

On the other side pairs of French customs men are hidden behind bush es with their killer dogs awaiting for their prey

The average smuggler's dog carries ten pounds of contraband. The profit for each successful journey is $10. Only a few hours are required and the business is a profitable one. There is no risk for the smuggler, but for the dog there is death.

Usually the trained shepherd or Alsatian canine is used. Invariably the smugglers' dogs are overtaken by the customs men. There and another death—perhaps two—is chalked up in what might be termed an epic battle. When the dog is overtaken it is brought up at least one of them and perhaps both, will be dead If is generally the smuggler's bitter that wins these sanguinary battles, he says.

A famous dog called "Gamin," belonged to the Valenciennes brigade of the customs service, was himself killed in battle after he had finished off seven of his enemies in the dog's career. The customs men get a bounty of 12 cents for the left hind foot of each dog they kill.

To combat the illicit frontier running the French customs men have taken to using a new weapon—a bending over a young sapling and hanging a hooped rope from it A pair of these is placed astride the loop serves as a bait and releases the trap when it is touched

Recently it was discovered that are foolish enough to stop on their way to nibble at the meal, suddenly find themselves caught around the neck or midriff and jerked into the air Somewhat similar traps are placed on the approaches to the bridges and tunnels

These devices for tempting the smugglers with food along their way in particularly effective because the dogs are always hungry when they start across the frontier To insure that the dogs load straight for home, the smugglers feed them well at home and not at all in Belgium

This evening's meal is made by his animals for home via the woods and can get a horse by himself whistling They take no pains to conceal their load, however, and anyway I wouldn't be so selfish as to spoil his plans. They must have sailed yesterday or the day before, and there's no way to reach them. He doesn't even mention the name of the yacht—probably he'll know when he writes. Explorer Died In Arctic

Body Of German Professor Found By Eskimos

Arctic rigors have claimed another illustrious explorer and scientist. Word received at Berlin from Eskimos of Professor Alfred L. Wegener, head of the German expedition to central Greenland, had been found by a search party dispatched to that lingering hope that he would be found alive.

Missing since November 1 when he started out with a native companion for his base on the western edge of the Greenland ice cap on a journey of about 200 miles—Dr. Wegener's body was found some 90 miles from his central camp at Eismitte, his starting point.

The body was clothed warmly in fur and it is thought he succumbed to heart disease. His diary, however, is missing, presumably having been removed by his companion, who also took with him all the maps made in the brief explored excursion.

The 50-year-old scientist led his expedition into Greenland in April, 1930, intending to spend 18 months there studying meteorological and scientific data.

Promoters of Dr. Wegener's expedition announced that his work would be carried on according to program under the leadership of his brother. Professor Kurt Wegener, who plans to sail early in June for Greenland via Copenhagen

Soviets Make Rubber By Secret Process

Cost Of Manufacture Said To Be Very Low

The Leningrad rubber trust factory produced more than a half metric ton of synthetic rubber during the past official rubber from oil in one day by means of an unrevealed process

The engineer and anyway I wouldn't be so selfish as to spoil his plans. They must have sailed yesterday or the day before, and there's no way to reach them. He doesn't even mention the name of the yacht—probably he'll know when he writes. Don't worry about it, Uncle Silm. I wouldn't have cried if I'd been well."

Gay meant to confess even as much as that, but Simeon said anxiously: "What's the matter, dearie? Have you seen the doctor?"

"No; but I will. I shan't co-nonsine on doctors now, Uncle Silm not after I went through before."

Simeon walked to the window — looked out at the children, and called: "Come you let little Martha Ann in. Don't you know she's a lady and you got to be polite? That's it. Now, dearie, you give that paper to the baby. He's littler'n you, and you got to learn to give up yer own way. That comes your daddy. You can him if Uncle Silm ain't right."

Gay had joined him, and was watching Halliday bend down to untie the small disputé. Simeon put an arm about her.

"Look-a-here," he said, "how's Nick to get back if they're cruisin' off in them out-of-the-way places?"

"They'll drop him somewhere in some part of Cuba, probably. Perhaps he'll write more definitely before they start. You can read the letter, Uncle Silm. It's a darling letter, and of course I understand; only—only, Uncle Silm, I—I don't like Mrs. Halliday."

"No—o," grunted Simeon; then: "Think'll find her out, honey. Nothin' like boat travel to show up people's faults."

"But Nick's so—trusting. He thinks everyone's as splendid as he is himself. And she's clever, and older than he, for all she looks so girlish. I shouldn't want her to make a fool of him."

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Number Of People Afraid Of Lightning

And Still Will Risk Their Lives In Many Ways

It is surprising to find the number of people who are terrified of lightning, in spite of the fact that the records go to prove that very few persons have ever been struck by lightning.

As a matter of fact there is no reason for terror, but when nature starts her fireworks it is useless to point this out to many people.

It really is surprising There are men—we are not talking about women who will shiver at a flash of lightning, even rush for cover

Yet these same men are not afraid to try and beat a train over a level crossing, or not afraid to cut in and out of traffic on a crowded highway, even if they have the family with them in the car.

And there are men who think nothing of trying to pass a car on the face of a hill, or of driving at a rate of sixty and seventy miles an hour, who will not drive at all in a thunder storm, because they are afraid of lightning

There are men who are afraid of lightning, who are not afraid to work hard, to be out in the wind even in high pressure sailsmen The list, in fact, is long, if not endless

True, lightning has proved fatal, but even if it chose all its victims from the class of birds we have mentioned, scarcely a gap would be made in the ranks, we would still have them with us, a pest on the land

A Unique Industry

Town Of Norway, Maine, Has Large Snowshoe Plant

Snowshoes and skis may be out of season, but not in the small town of Norway, Maine, on the banks of a branch of the Grand Trunk Railway branch of the Canadian National system.

One of its largest industries is the manufacturing of snowshoes and skis and it boasts the largest ski and snowshoe factory in the new world. Improved machinery now being installed will greatly increase the present annual output of 10 000 pairs of snowshoes and 60 000 pairs of skis

Each year the bales of white steer are cut up for snowshoe filling or strings, and 200,000 feet of white ash are used for the frames. Snowshoes varying in size from a child's model measuring 9 inches by 32 inches to a duffel Peary model are made in Norway as well as skis from 3 to 9 feet in length

Merlin Dunham, of Sidding fame, who lives in Norway, designed and made the snowshoes used by Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary on his successful dash to the North Pole.

Effective Fog Horn

Toronto Professors Working On An Entirely New Device

The most effective fog-horn in the world was perfected by John Northey and T. Foulis and is now in use in many foreign countries Prof Louis V King of McGill University, told the members of the Royal Society of Canada recently

Prof King and Prof C H Vegard are now working on an entirely new type of fog-horn it was announced This horn would enable a ship to determine its exact distance from the danger point Simultaneous warnings would be sent out by sound and by radio and picked up by a delicate mechanism on shipboard Using the difference in time between the arrival of the sound warning and the arrival of the radio warning the ship's crew would then be able to calculate the distance over which the message had come

Adds Value To Home

Shrubbery Which Is Carefully Planted Is Real Asset

Carefully planted shrubbery adds charm and value to the home Authorities agree that best effects are secured by confining the shrubs to the border and to the base of the dwelling Setting away from the foundation planting shrubs of different heights should be chosen and the planting arranged irregularly and so placed as to avoid the alignment without regularity covering the foundation

Suitable shrubs are described by the Dominion horticulturist in the federal department of agriculture bulletin No 120 which also tells how to plant the planting

There Should Be No Ugly Women!

There are 5 classes of women.

(1) The beautiful, healthy and attractive creatures.

(2) Those pitiful ones who don't know how to make themselves beautiful—rather it is who don't know the simple combination of Nature's rules to physical perfection and attraction!

Know her rules are a perfect blend of the six vital minerals which Nature ordained, glands, blood, nerves and body organs should drain or receive from food if they are to function correctly and which are impossible to obtain in this age of modern cooking.

Little Helps For This Week

"There's no fun in a man to be liked, he is a new creature, all things are passed away; behold all things are become new" 2 Corinthians 5 17

Whatever hath been written shall remain

Nor erased, nor written over again. The unwritten only still belongs to thee

Take heed and ponder well what this shall be

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

We cannot undo the past and begin afresh But we can change the past as the starting point and determining element of the future But the good or evil remains that what cannot be obliterated may be transmuted by divine grace In Christ Jesus we may become new creatures And in the eternal life that we begin in union with Him all old things so far as they are sinful and sin-condoning power in them pass away and all things in the transfiguring light of heavenly love become new Hugh McMillan.

Turkish City Dwindling

Constantinople Is Rapidly Losing Place As World s City

Constantinople once the proud capital of the Turks is gradually dwindling into insignificance as a world city. In 1914 a rough census of Istanbul, as Turks call the city, showed a population of 1,065,000 of which 450 000 were Moslems, 297,000 Greeks, 73,000 Armenians and 12,000 Jews. Three years later a more accurate census was taken and the city had then a population of only 673 000 Recently the municipal statistical committee, while taking a census in preparation for the elections, found that the population of Istanbul has slipped forward 110 000 since 1927. Evidences of commercial stagnation are apparent on every hand.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING AGAIN DEMONSTRATED.

The value of advertising as an aid to business was clearly demonstrated last week-end when, as a result of an energetic advertising campaign, a double page spread advertisement in the Standard and 1000 full sheet posters, Crafts Brothers literally filled the town with shoppers, and every business man benefitted as a result. A little more extra special advertising on the part of each and every business man in the town yielding results like that of last Saturday would be amply repaid and the whole town would benefit, as was proven.

Don't sit by with a "Let George do it" attitude. Take your turn and help yourself to the largest share of the business. Remember that "you've got to tell 'em to sell 'em."

FUNERAL OF THE LATE FRED BOWLERWELL

(From May 27th issue of "The Viking News")

The funeral of the late Fred Bowlerwell, who was found dead in the bush south of town last Wednesday morning, was held at the Anglican church on Friday afternoon, at two o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Bee officiating. Burial took place in the Viking cemetery.

The late Mr. Bowlerwell was sixty-five years of age, the day he was found dead. Little is known of his early life. He was born in England and it is understood that he has been in Canada about thirty years. He had travelled a great deal and had seen many parts of the world. He came here from Vermilion some six years ago and was employed as caretaker at the municipal hospital for about two years, when he left that position to be night clerk at the hotel. Two years ago he returned to Vermilion to take a position in a hotel. He came back here about six weeks ago in a destitute condition and suffering from a sun shot wound in the head, the mystery of which was never cleared up, and perhaps will never be now that death has sealed his lips. In a note book found on his person he had left this note: "No work, no home, no relatives." He was a bachelor, and if he has any relatives living it is presumed that they are residing in the Old Country. Through his work in hotels, he had a wide acquaintance among the travelling public. He also found him to be quite a likeable fellow. Many kind deeds that he had done in an unobtrusive way will be remembered by those with whom he came in contact.

SEEDING GRASSES AND LEGUMES

You are receiving a quantity of selected grass or legume seed under the Alberta programme this year for encouraging the growing of forage crops. The object of this programme is to promote the production of more grasses and legumes in those districts of the province where farmers have not been producing them to any considerable extent. In order to have any success with these, and to demonstrate their value in your district, your attention is drawn to certain practices regarding seeding.

1.—Seed only on well-tilled land which is firm and clean at time of seeding. Seeds of these crops are small in size and require a firm seed bed. Summer-fallow land is to be preferred. In some districts clean stubble land may be used if properly tilled before seeding. The use of a land packer is valuable in preparing soil for these crops.

2.—Sow without a nurse crop if possible. If a nurse crop is used seed it evenly and be prepared to sacrifice it by early cutting should the season turn dry. Alfalfa must be seeded alone.

3.—Do not seed these small seeds deeply; about one inch is the proper depth. Such seeds as Western Rye Grass, Brome and Meadow Fescue, may be seeded 1½ to 2 inches deep. You are cautioned against seeding any of these seeds through the same drill runs as grain at ordinary seeding depths. You may use a grass seed attachment, or go over the field a second time with the drill, seeding the small seeds the second operation more shallow than the grain; or you may broadcast and harrow the seed in. Broadcasting may be done by hand with a Barrow seeder or with a Cyclone seeder.

4.—Inoculate legume seeds. (Consult Department's Fieldman).

5.—Don't pasture these crops during the first year or allow any considerable trampling of them by stock.

6.—Don't be in a hurry to seed early in the season. Good stands of grasses and legumes may be obtained by seeding as late as the last week in June. Wait until the first growth of weeds is killed and your field is firmed. Wait until the possibility of rainworm damage is past. Wait for moisture. If you can seed before or after a rain on land which has been spring-tilled up until June the crop will make a rapid growth, will have an opportunity to combat weeds, and will be strong enough by fall to winter well, much better than they will if seeded early with a nurse crop.

CLANDONALD CLIPPINGS

DISASTROUS BLAZE DESTROYS RESIDENCE OF JIMMIE GORDON

Citizens Save Adjacent Dwellings

A disastrous blaze whilst broke out in the house of Jimmie Gordon at 2 a.m. Monday completely destroyed that building and but for the earnest efforts of the citizens of the town who turned out en masse, would also have burned the home of Ed Clark which was adjacent the destroyed structure. A hastily formed bucket brigade kept water on nearby residences and prevented the fire from spreading. They were also aided by the east wind which kept the flames blowing away from the other houses. All the fire extinguishers from the convent and elevators were pressed into use also. All the contents were removed from the ground floor of the house and also some of the upstairs effects.

W. F. Cauldron has been transferred to the Hayward Lumber Yards at Vermilion, while the manager there —Mr. Gillespie, will take charge of the hardware store and yards here. The change will be made about the middle of the month.

Many people from the village and district enjoyed an outing at Rat Lake on Sunday.

The wreck at Derwent last Sunday morning delayed the mail somewhat. Postmaster Mackenzie and station Agent Pilsley finally motored over and picked up the mail from Derwent.

We are pleased to see that the young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shouler and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mackenzie are back from the Vermilion hospital where they both have recently undergone operations.

Grading on roads east of Clandonald has already started.

Miss Leslie, formerly a dairymaid in Clandonald and more recently of Kitscoty, left on Monday for Prince Edward Island.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Just about this time of year every gardener should be doing a tedious, and often neglected, job — that of "thinning out." Many people do not realize the necessity of doing this, but plants are like children, they need light, air, and room to grow into healthy robust plants, and they cannot do this if they are all crowded together. The only plants I know of that do all right without thinning, are parsley and mint, but even they benefit. Carrots can be thinned out 2 inches apart, and when big enough to use, pull out every other one; repeat this a little later till they are at least 6 inches apart, then in the fall you will have a nice sized carrot for storing. Beets can be left till the greens are big enough to use, and then thin out 6 to 8 inches apart; parsnips, 8 inches; turnips at least 12 to 15 inches. Peas and beans are usually sown (thick), because of cut worms. When they are over, the peas should be 4 to 6 inches apart, and beans 8 to 12 inches. The same applies to all annuals sown directly outside such as nasturtiums, marigolds, etc. The tendency is to think the thicker they are the more you will have, but the result is small roots, thin "leggy" tops, and weak, spindley flowers; thin out liberally and you will soon realize the difference it makes in the size and quality of your plants.

UNION UNITS

The dance held at the Woodvale Club under the auspices of the Civic Club, was a decided success. Being the first dance of the summer season made the undertaking more or less a gamble, but taking some of the auxiliary results into consideration, it couldn't have been better. After the expenses of the work, city fees and incidentals were were very much in evidence, but by supper time, with the inspiration ground out of Mr. Cox's Orthophonic, everyone between the ages of 8 and 80 were tripping the light fantastic, with all the old time zest and spirit.

A nice little impromptu program was much appreciated, the following contributing: Leonard Harwood, Carl Roberts, Wilfred Logan and Mr. Ross Seales.

Canada's Railway Milestones

Fifty years ago, on May 2 1881, to be exact, the first sod for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was turned, thus commencing one of the great engineering undertakings in the world's history and marking the beginning of the world's greatest transportation system. Enthusiasm for and confidence in the great work was mingled with grave doubts and misgivings, and especially in financial circles in the old world were grey heads shaken in doubt over the wisdom of a young country of small population and no accumulated wealth embarking on such a gigantic enterprise.

The contract for the building of the C.P.R. called for the completion of the project in ten years. It is a matter of history that the last spike of the original main line was driven on November 7, 1885. In other words, construction was completed in four and a half years, and on June 28, 1886, the first C.P.R. train to the Pacific coast left Montreal, arriving at Port Moody 21 days and one-half days later.

The building of the C.P.R. was in fact the building of Canada. Without it Confederation could not have been achieved nor continued. It is the steel link which bound all of British North America together. The successful carrying through of this huge undertaking not only gave the people of Canada courage but it established confidence in the new Dominion throughout the old world. It was a milestone in our history, an ever present encouragement to the Canadian people in dark days and in undertaking other great enterprises.

With the completion of the C.P.R. possibly many people of that day thought that Canada's transportation problems were solved. Yet within fifteen years of the driving of that last C.P.R. main line spike, Laurier, Mackenzie and Mann were engaged in building a second transcontinental railway across Canada, and within the brief space of another ten years a third transcontinental was under construction from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Looking back over the years, and in the light of experience, Canada probably overdid the building of transcontinental main lines, but at the time these projects appeared to be necessary if essential to the national well-being and development. Possibly, too, had the Great War not plunged the world into confusion and years of wholesale destruction, the story of Canada's railways would be different. However, to speculate on this is idle. The fact remains that, with that same courage which promoted and successfully carried through the C.P.R., the people of Canada faced and grappled with the problem which confronted them when war broke out and the Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific, National Transcontinental and the old Grand Trunk were plunged into financial difficulties.

Never during back another page in history, we find that it was only eleven years ago, May 30, 1920, that responsibility for the operation of the Grand Trunk passed to the Government of Canada. Thus several main lines were added to the complexities of badly co-ordinated branch lines, with a top-heavy financial structure, were left on the hands of the Government. Within a decade these have been amalgamated into a mighty and highly efficient transportation machine, with the largest mileage of any railway under one management in the world. An operating deficit of $32,000,000 in 1920 was transformed into an operating surplus of $30,884,000 in 1930, and an unbroken record of achievement is but symptomatic of improvements and advances made in every department of service, until today the Canadian National Railways are a source of pride to every Canadian.

In a previous article it was stated that the people of Canada are an impatient people; that they demand results almost over night; that they insist on having all those services and conveniences which the people of other lands have devoted centuries to creating and developing. And it is true, but possibly what Canadians have accomplished in the life of one or two generations is responsible for this impatient trait, perhaps their acme. Impatience we are the result of this impatience Nevertheless, such a national characteristic has its dangers With all the advantages of our great transportation systems we are of necessity paying heavily for past mistakes, for mistakes attributable to our impatience.

And the real danger lies in the fact that we do not appear to have learned the lesson, costly as it has been. We are still vehemently demanding other things which, in our own best interests, it would be wise to defer for a time until we get our feet a bit more solidly on the ground, and secure for ourselves a stronger position when we can the better stand the strain which these additional and admittedly desirable things will impose upon us as a people.

Crime in United States

Statistics Show Homicides Doubled In Ten Years

Statistician have completed their annual study of homicide in the United States, and have produced figures that should appeal opportunistically with the effect of the compilation of a year ago. These researchers have selected data from thirty-one cities with a collective population of twenty-five million people.

In a generation — thirty years — the average homicide rate for these thirty-one cities has doubled. And in one year the rate has gone up from 8.5 to the hundred thousand population in 1929, to 9.3 in 1930.

There were seventeen times as many homicides to the 100,000 as in England and Wales.

Then the statisticians add one significant statement; The number of convictions in murder cases in the United States is decreasing steadily. The number of murders is rapidly increasing throughout the country. — Minneapolis Journal.

Bay Insurance Rates

Hon. R. J. Manion Says Maritime Rates Will Be Reduced In Due Time

Maritime insurance rates on the Hudson Bay route will be reduced as experience proves the route a safe one, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, told the House of Commons. It was impossible, he said, to estimate what the cost of shipping grain through Hudson Bay would be compared with the cost by other routes.

Many factors entered into the cost, and insurance rates were one of the most important. Rates on a new or experimental route were always high, he said, answering a question from Hon. W. D. Euler, (Liberal, Waterloo North). But, if there were few accidents, the rates would soon come down.

People had so often been fooled about different parts of Northern Canada, the minister said, that there was no reason to believe the route would not be a success.

Astronomers May Soon Explore All Universe

Possibility that astronomers may some day be able to explore with their telescopes to the limits of the universe, was pictured at Washington by Sir James Hopwood Jeans, British astronomer.

"The modern astronomer regards the universe as a finite closed space," he said, "as finite as the surface of the earth, and if he is not yet acquainted with its shape and extent he has good reason to hope that he will be before very long.

"We of today no longer think of vast, unknown and unseeded depths of space, stretching interminately away from us in all directions. We are beginning to think of the universe as Columbus thought of the earth, something enormous but something whose limits we can fix: something capable of being telegraphed and studied as a single complete whole."

The invention of an unsinkable ship is claimed by an engineer in Germany. He has made a steel model three feet long which, under a load of 55 pounds and with holes bored in the sides, cannot be sunk. If pushed under water the vessel rises to the surface again and the water pours out through the holes.

Gold Prospects Not Promising

Geologist Does Not Expect That Gold In Large Quantities Will Be Found At Pilot Lake

It is hardly likely that large discoveries of gold will be made in the Pilot Lake area south of Moose Jaw, Sask., considered Professor F. H. Edmonds, of the Department of Geology at the University of Saskatchewan, when questioned regarding possibilities in that area.

Hay Mountain Creek drains what are known as the Saskatchewan gravels, round water-worn quartzite boulders which were carried by great rivers flowing from the Rockies, in the times before this area was invaded by the glaciers some 30,000 years ago, he pointed out.

It is possible that a certain amount of gold deposited as placers in these gravels might have been re-sorted by later water action. There is also a possibility that material brought down from the north by the glaciers might have been re-sorted with a separation of gold.

A small amount of gold might have accumulated in either of these ways, but it is not where one would expect to look for it, he said.

Japanese Going Into Poultry

Five Thousand Eggs From B.C. Shipped To Japan In One Week

Five thousand British Columbia eggs were shipped in one week to Japan. Japanese exports visited British Columbia poultry farms and selected eggs from thirty-one cities with a collective population of twenty-five million people.

Revise Trade Treaties

Between Twenty and Thirty Treaties Will Be Sought To Revision

Within the next year between 20 and 30 Canadian trade treaties are to be revised, according to a statement made a few days ago in the House of Commons by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. While no comment was obtainable on a visit from London, England, that Poland was seeking a commercial treaty with Canada, it is assumed representatives of the Polish capital will be under consideration when other treaties are reviewed.

Poland is one of the more important European nations with which Canada has no trade agreement.

Canada's trade with Poland is at present not large. In 1930 imports from that country had a value of $139,000 and exports from Canada $73,000.

WEIR DEFENDS CHARGES AGAINST HIS DEPARTMENT

Ottawa, Ont.—No answer was required to charges that the Forestry Department of Agriculture were incompetent and inefficient, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, stated in the House of Commons when consideration of the agriculture estimates were resumed.

His actions since taking over the department were the best answers that could be offered. He thought he had been fortunate in dismissals in his department than on any former change of government. Out of some 2,500 employees of the department only two or three had been dismissed.

A. F. Totzke (Lib., Humboldt), said the minister should make a statement on an article which appeared in several papers in the west reflecting on the staff of the department and on the former minister, Hon. W. Motherwell. The House was ready to give supply to the department until the charges were disposed of.

"When I spoke to the House the other day," said Mr. Weir, "I did not think it worthwhile to say anything about the article. I have always been careful to speak in the kindest terms of my predecessor in public utterances, both in the House and outside of the department. The officials of the department have not."

Henry Al. Collins (Cons., Marquette) charged the late government with creating the present conditions surrounding the grain trade. The president Mr. Motherwell's successor, Hon. Robert Weir, never would "eat the coconut." He had gone through the country endeavoring to find out if moth eggs are fertile or if barley has red cheeks.

Whoever had written the article in question, he did not know, said Hon. W. R. Motherwell, ex-minister of agriculture, but he proposed to defend the officials of the department.

The other day the member for Hastings South (W. E. Tummon) had "mumbled" a statement reflecting upon the accuracy of the department figures.

Mr. Motherwell expressed utmost confidence in such returns.

Upon Chemistry Rests the Burden gas in Turner Valley, Alberta, remains a problem of extreme seriousness and urgency, and upon chemistry rests the burden of solution, Dr. G. S. At a meeting of the Canadian Institute of Chemistry, subsidiary of the association, Professor A. T. Cameron, University of Manitoba, was named president. Dr. T. Thorvaldson, University of Saskatchewan, was elected to the council.

Chinese Want Munitions

Southern Armies Buying Equipment To Fight Nationalist Government Forces

Hong Kong, China.—A contract has been signed between leaders of the southern armies and a firm of munition manufacturers for a million dollars worth of shells, bombs, grenades and rifle ammunition with which to combat Nationalist government forces. Heavy shipments from Europe to Germany and Japan, it was said, have been unloaded at Canton in the last few months. The combined Kwangtung and Kwangsi armies have sufficient munitions to hold out for six months.

Protection Of Copyright

Winnipeg, Man.—Authors who wish complete protection in the matter of copyright for their stories must register them at Ottawa, or indicate in the material they carry "copyright," according to judgment of Mr. Justice Donovan. Otherwise, if a newspaper had no reasonable grounds for suspecting that "copyright subsisted in the work," it was entitled to publish it.

Swedish Flier Presented

Stockholm.—Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier who participated in the removal of Augustine Courtauld, British meteorologist, from the Greenland ice plateau, has been promoted to the rank of a captain in the army in recognition of his feat. His direct rise from a non-commissioned officer was considered an unprecedented distinction in Sweden.

Foster Freight Service

C.N.R. Carries Short-Haul Package Freight in Baggage Cars

Winnipeg, Man.—Faster and more frequent delivery of package freight to short-haul points along certain lines of the Canadian National is stated by Vice-President A. E. Warren to be the object of an experiment which is now in effect in the Winnipeg region. The experiment is the carrying of less-than-carload lots by baggage cars of the regular run of passenger trains. The new service went into effect May 22, between Winnipeg, Belmont, Brandon and Virden, and a similar baggage freight service has been established between Saskatoon and Edmonton by way of North Battleford, and between Calgary and Edmonton, by way of Mirror.

Cattle Shipments To Britain

First Of Several Weekly Shipments From Saskatchewan

Saskatoon, Sask.—One hundred head of Saskatchewan cattle went forward to the British markets recently, 30 of which were taken from a feed lot within half a mile of Saskatoon. This is the first of several weekly shipments that will be made by the Saskatchewan Co-Operative Livestock Producers Limited.

The cattle were taken from the J. H. Laughland farm, Saskatoon and a half miles out on Avenue "B" North, and were purchased by Mr. Laughland under the government feeder scheme.

They were Hereford steers and averaged between 11 and 12 hundred pounds.

SOVIET POLICY OF GOVERNMENT MEETS CRITICISM

Ottawa, Ont.—A protest against the action of the Dominion Government in licensing imports of pulpwood, furs and other commodities from Russia by order-in-council, was voiced in the House of Commons by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Independent member for Labelle. He failed to see where the government had secured a mandate to take such action. If there was to be a protest against conditions in Russia, such protest should be made by the parliament of Canada.

Mr. Bourassa found some inconsistency in the attitude of the Government toward Russia. Our sense of social order and justice stood "aghast" at the idea of purchasing coal and pulpwood from Russia, but why had the Soviets been invited to attend the London conference of world-export-ing countries, presided over by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in Great Britain. He presented a motion that "the House regards the growing practice of dealing with Russia by order-in-council in matters of public policy, as an encroachment upon the duties and privileges of parliament and that no order-in-council be received."

Remembrance Day

Will Pause To Pay Reverence On November 11 At the Same Hour

Ottawa, Ont.—After a prolonged discussion, a senate committee passed the bill to fix permanently the observation of "Remembrance Day" upon November 11. It would separate the observance of "Thanksgiving Day" and "Armistice Day," fixing the latter upon November 11, and leaving the former to be proclaimed upon any day chosen by the Dominion cabinet. The bill will go back to the senate for final consideration.

During the committee discussion, some criticism was made of the plan of having two distinct holidays.

On behalf of the various veterans' associations, J. R. Bowler, general secretary of the Canadian Legion, pressed for separate celebrations of "Thanksgiving Day" and "Remembrance Day."

Canadians Lose Credit

Contributions To Cultural and Economic Development Refunded

Ottawa, Ont.—Canadian contributions to the cultural, social and economic development of North America are often ignored, Professor J. Bartlet Brebner, head of the Canadian History Department of Columbia University, New York, told the Canadian Historical Association here.

Professors, publicists, scientists, artists and professional men have naturally carried their ideas to the larger United States market and, once there, no one has been concerned to separate their contributions from the general pattern of living."

Ottawa, Ont.—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, plans to visit the Old Country this summer, to hold a watching brief, as it were, in several important appeals going before the Privy Council. It is understood that the natural resources appeal is to be heard, also the security frauds act appeal. Mr. Guthrie's visit is considered to mean there being no imperial Economic Conference here this autumn, and also upon an early conclusion of the session of parliament.

No Cause For Damage Claim

United States Claims "Tin Alone" Was American-Owned

New York A special despatch to the New York Times from Washington says

"The demand of Canada for damages for the sinking by the coast guard of the rum-running schooner "Tin Alone," 200 miles off the Louisiana coast on March 2 1929, will be met by the United States with the contention that the vessel was in reality owned by Canadians and that no just cause lies for a damage claim.

Robert Gardiner and upheld the Beauharnois Power Company.

Loss Of Russian Submarine

Craft Goes Down After Explosion With All Hands On Board

London, England Russian aeroplanes and warships circled above the spot where Soviet submarine No. 9 of the Baltic fleet sank, Friday, May 22, 1931, in a pool of oil.

Although the Soviet Government remains silent on the tragedy, despatches from Riga, Latvia, said it was understood the craft went down after an explosion presumably with all hands, about 100 miles from Helsingfors Finland

Moscow despatches said the submersible failed to rise after making a dive during manoeuvres with other vessels of the fleet.

The number of the crew or the extent of the casualties was unknown.

Russia is believed to maintain a fleet of about eight submarines 12 destroyers and three battleships in Baltic waters

Rum Ring Probe

Enlargement Of Investigation Is Urged In Senate

Ottawa, Ont.—Enlargement of the Quebec-St. Pierre-Miquelon rum ring probe to include the Maritime provinces was suggested in the Senate by Senator J. J. Hughes. He was informed, he said, the government intended passing an order-in-council within a short time, fixing the powers and scope of the investigation.

Short-circuiting of liquor cargoes from the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon to isolated spots in the province was charged against the rum ring, Senator Hughes declared. The Federal Treasury, he was informed, was being mulcted out of millions of dollars in excise duties, but he did not believe the activities of the ring were limited to Quebec province.

DAIRY GRANT UP FOR DEBATE IN COMMONS

Ottawa, Ont.—In a brief but somewhat heated discussion of agriculture department estimates in the House of Commons, low butter prices bulked large. An appropriation of $295,000 for dairying, of which $5,000 is a grant to the National Dairy Council, furnished the basis for the discussion Almost at the outset came a motion to cut down the total amount by $5,000. E. J. Young, Liberal member for Weyburn, who moved the motion asserted that the council had become an organization to "propagate Ford's politics," and that the unfortunate choice in its officers had produced nothing better than recommendations for higher duties on agricultural products

The grant had been voted for several years, rejoined Hon Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture. If he discovered at the end of the present fiscal year that the National Dairy Council had done nothing to earn it, he would be willing to see it dropped from next year's estimates

Regret at the decline in butter prices was voiced by Mr Weir. He spoke of an agreement which he had made with Hon Parker Mackeay, Australian Minister of Markets that no butter should enter Canada from that country at less than 32 cents a pound except by mutual agreement" An entry at a lower price would injure Canadian farmers. Subsequently the minister said, price cutting among Canadian organizations had materially reduced the price until it was only about 2 cents higher than the Australian rate. He had then released Mr Mackeay from the agreement

Complaints were voiced by Liberal members that Conservatives, during the last campaign, had declared that butter prices would be no worse under Bennett than returned to power.

If the National Dairy Council did as much for agriculture as it had when he was minister said Hon W R Motherwell former minister of agriculture it would get his support. He asked Mr Weir if the total figure of $295,000 included the supplementary estimates of last year When the minister said it did not Mr Motherwell proceeded The true criterion of the progress of dairying was its milk production During the 10 years of Liberal government the production of milk had advanced from 10 billion pounds to 14 billion pounds an increase of 40 per cent.

NURSERY FARMS IN WEST WILL BE CONTINUED

Ottawa Ont - Dominion government nursery stations at Indian Head and Sutherland, Sask., will continue in operation and arrangements have been made to administer them until the end of the present fiscal year through the Department of Agriculture

Hon T. C Murphy Minister of the Interior, made this statement in the House of Commons when queried by Hon W R. Motherwell, former minister of agriculture

The object of the stations, Mr. Murphy stated had been to supply tree nursery stock to the farmers of Western Canada. They had formerly been administered by the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior. When the natural resources of the Western provinces were taken over by the provincial governments last year no arrangements had been made for the carrying on of the work by the provinces

As the service was supplied only to the three Prairie Provinces the question had arisen as to whether it was not a purely provincial matter now that the provinces had control of the natural resources adding it was on this point the work would be carried on for the present year

World's Altitude Record

Balloonist Claims To Have Reached Height Of 32,500 Feet

Friedrich Austin, of August Piccard's reaching the Alpine town of Gurgl, and his adventurous flight into the stratosphere he had been "misunderstood conception" and that he and Charles Kipfer had broken the world's altitude record by more than two feet.

He claimed they had reached a height of 32,500 feet, or more than two feet.

They never lost control of their balloon, he said, and gathered much valuable scientific data in their long hours aloft in the metal gondola suspended from the gas bag

The balloon itself lying on the Grosser Gurgler Ferner," 9,000 feet up in the Alps, is to be salvaged by a detachment of the Tyrolese Alpine chasseurs

"We're both very tired," the physicist said, "but otherwise we're well and happy. Our balloon is not the only human habitation so we spent the night in our gondola."

Early in the morning, he said, they got their bearings and walked down the mountainside toward Obar Gurgl, meeting the rescue expedition as it came up

Hermetically sealed within the aluminium ball, Professor Piccard, a Brussels physicist, and his assistant, soared aloft in the giant balloon from Augsburg Germany.

The aluminum "basket" is seven feet in diameter The bag, the largest ever built in Germany, has a diameter of 180 feet and held 3000,000 cubic feet of hydrogen

The object of the flight was exploration of the stratosphere to obtain new data on the origin of cosmic rays, and so demonstrate that human beings can travel and live in such a rarefied atmosphere.

Piccard and Kipfer attempted to make a flight in the balloon last September but unfavorable winds held them to the ground.

Grain Movement Steady

WINNIPEG, June 9.—At the present rate of loading in western prairie provinces at country points on the Canadian Pacific Railway, it is evident that grain stocks throughout the west will be reduced to a very low figure by the end of the present crop year July 31, it was stated today by H. C. Taylor, superintendent of transportation for western lines.

From August 1, 1930, to May 31, 1931, Mr. Taylor explained, total grain marketing along Canadian Pacific lines have reached 180,352,000 bushels or 55 per cent of the total marketed in western Canada.

During the past ten days car loadings of grain have been heavy, and from the period mentioned a total of 104,982 cars have been loaded as against 87,414 for the same period a year ago, making an increase of 18,674 cars.

The Mannville Co-operative store and the store owned by A. J. B. McLachlan had their locks tampered with but the thieves were not successful in gaining an entrance. So far no loss of goods has been reported, Constable Olson of Vermilion is investigating.

GREENLAWN FARMERS—MEET, DISCUSS LEGUMES

A great deal of attention is being given at the present time to the matter of inter grasses and legumes such as Sweet Clover and Alfalfa. This is no doubt a result of the general added interest in live stock that is quite apparent over most of the Province.

The staff members at the School of Agriculture at Vermilion are called on frequently to attend farmers' meetings in the territory adjacent to the school, for discussion upon these subjects.

On Monday night, June 1st, Mr. D. A. Andrew in charge of the Live Stock work, and Mr. R. J. Whitbread in charge of the Soils and Crop work, attended a very large meeting at Greenlawn where several local farmers' organizations banded together for a united meeting. That there was keen interest was manifested by the large number of questions and the active interested discussion that took place.

The meeting adjourned about 11:15 for a splendid supper that was served by the good ladies of the community

Alexandra Co-Operative Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Alexandra Co-operative Livestock Marketing Association was held in Vermilion on Saturday, June 6th and was well represented from various parts of the district, around 90 members being present. The Auditors' Report showed a heavy decrease in the amount of stock handled from the previous year but showed the Association is in a good thirdty condition.

Considerable discussion took place on several matters of business and those present felt that this would be a step in the right direction as soon as fair seasons will permit.

THE RESURRECTION AND THE ASCENSION

Golden Text: "It is Christ Jesus that died, yea rather, that was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us."—Romans 8.34.

Lesson: Luke 24.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15.50-58.

Explanations and Comments

The Interview On the Way To Emmaus, verses 13-31.—On the day of Christ's resurrection, two of His disciples (not apostles), were on their way to the village of Emmaus, seven and a half miles from Jerusalem. Disillusioned and disheartened, they were talking over the sad events of the last few days, when Jesus drew near and walked on with them, But "their eyes were holden that they should not know Him." "Holden," is the archaic form of "held." They were absorbed in their sorrow; they were not expecting to see Jesus; and Jesus' appearance was evidently changed. Luke 24.37; Mark 16.12; John 20.14, 15; 21.4.

Jesus' question to them (verse 19) was not to learn something He did not know. He knew their thoughts (verse 25) and their actions (verse 28). He knew their sorrow and their unbelief. He asked the question to lead them to unburden their troubled hearts. "What communications are these that you have one with another?" He asked. "Would I like my Lord and Master to overhear all my conversations with friends who go beside me on life's way? If He were to break in suddenly on some of my talks, and say 'What manner of communications are these that ye have one with another?' how ashamed before Him I would sometimes feel! Dare I think myself, in even an intimate conversation to utter anything, any silly word, any untruthful slander, any unreverent remark which I would never me with confusion to think He had overheard? Must I not, must I watch upon my lips?"—G. H. Knight.

"Dost Thou alone sojourn in Jerusalem and not know the things that are come to pass in these days?" they returned in astonishment. "They mean that Jesus is the stranger must be very much out of it indeed," Dan Crawford in "Thinking Black."

Right vital facts they told Him: (1) Of a Jesus the Nazarene, which means, word for word, a Branch of the worst, for "Nazarene" meant the latter, and "Jesus" the former. (2) they named Him mighty in deed and word, for like Moses He came with His talk. Also (3) all this because it was before God, first of all, then all the people. Moreover (4) because (4) His being sentenced to die, and He died, but more than Christ died that day; for (5) there died also many a Hebrew hope that it was He who should redeem Israel. Further, sorrowingly, they seem (6) to roll up a second stone to His tomb in the dark down-to-earth words, And besides all this, it is now the third day since these things came to pass Then (7) it ought to be the perfect number, and (8 to) certain women amazed us, saying He was alive! Lastly (9) certain of our own company rew did not go, but they did) went to the sepulcher and found the facts fitted to the woman's report."—Dan Crawford.

On approaching Emmaus, Jesus "made as though" He would continue on his way This was not pretence on His part, for had they not by their entreaties constrained Him to stay, His would have gone on "Abide with us," they begged. "For it is toward evening, and the day is now far spent." At the evening meal Jesus offered the customary grace before partaking of the food, and then He broke the bread and gave it to them. Then their eyes were opened and they knew Him. Perhaps the familiar words spoken by the familiar voice, or a familiar gesture in the breaking of the bread (verse 35) revealed Him to them At that moment He vanished out of their sight, leaving them with the rapturous knowledge that they had seen the Risen Christ. And they recalled how their hearts had burned within them as He talked with them on the way.

The Interview Reported To the Disciples, verses 33-35 They hastened that very hour to Jerusalem and found the eleven disciples and others with them, but in amazement over the good news which they had heard: "The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon."

Then the two in their turn told what had happened on the way to Emmaus, and how they had recognized Christ as He stopped with them and broke the bread.

Unexpected Results

A little London girl was given a long window flower box and some packets of seeds by her uncle and told she might sow them. and have her own garden on the nursery window sill. She was also told to water them well A few months afterwards her uncle came again to see her and asked. "Well, dear, did you sow your seeds" "Yes, uncle," said the child. "Did you water them well?" "Yes, uncle, very well." "And any thing come up?" "Yes, uncle, a policeman"

According to the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior, commercial forests can be grown on 55,-000,000 acres of Canada's domain, and that on 185,000,000 acres the forests are either at present inaccessible or are of value mainly for their conserving effect on climate, the control of water flow, prevention of erosion or their scenic attractions.

Social Ineals Allow Disease To Flourish

Many Children Die Needlessly Under Association in Vice

"There is cause and effect at the bottom of every disease, and we should teach people to make health a matter of good management," said Prof. Roy Fraser in his address before the community Health Association of Canada in Toronto at their annual dinner in Hart House.

"If a child dies needlessly, someone tries to salve the parents that it was the will of God—that's blasphemy. It never was the will of Him that a child should die.

"These things have to happen,' people will say.. They don't have to happen. When people learn that disease is a result of cause and effect, and not a divine act, then you will have courage to go out and conquer it.

"Medical science has gone a long way, but there is no serum for procrastination, and no vaccine for pigheadedness. Disease will be with us as long as we have social inertia."

In speaking of health education in the schools, Prof. Fraser stated that if the curriculum was too heavy to take care of it, it should be unloaded to make room for learning something the children have to know. We ought to know as much about our bodies as we do about a carburetor of a car.

"We need a closer co-operation between those who heal and those who teach. The doctor and the nurse should lead, and everybody else follow.

"I have never heard a politician make a public health a plank in his platform, and yet the national loss through war, tariffs, financial depression, accidents are heavy, but our economic loss for disease would top them all.

For communities to argue that they had no concern with the health of their people was as foolish as to argue that only those who had a fire should pay for the fire department, and only those robbed should pay for the cost of bringing criminals to justice.

"We are now on an era of preventive measures in the matter of health," the speaker said.

Honor Memory Of Wife

Laurel Wreath Placed On Mural Tablet At Bath, England

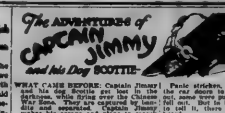
The memory of General Wolfe was honored at Bath, England, when Frederick Pariter Burden, agent-general for British Columbia, placed a laurel wreath on the mural tablet of the beautiful old Georgian house where Wolfe was living when he received his commission to go to Quebec.

The ceremony was followed by the Royal Empire Society Bath branch luncheon, at which Mr. Burden was chief speaker in place of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, who was called to Geneva.

"Isn't your little son sweet? He told me I was pretty."

"Did he? I must take him to an oculist."

The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE



WHAT CAME BEFORE: Captain Jimmy and his dog Scottie are adrift in the darkness, while firing over the Chinese lines. They are captured by bandits. Scottie escapes and Jimmy makes his escape and finds a nearly dead faithful Scottie.

Yes, sir, just as I crowded the old Chinese interpreter over the edge of the car in the hope that I had a parting bandit, a black object came hurtling through the air square in the belt.

"Scottie!"

We untangled ourselves and there was a grand reunion. But there wasn't any time to waste. The bandits were following closely on our trail. Some of them were on foot.

At the corner of the car were piled a number of tea chests. There I shoved our old three of us could hide in behind. Over the top I spread some old straw matting.

Only the train would come along in time the bandits caught us, we would be all right, but it seemed to me waiting on the switch until a train coming the other way passed.

Then the sound of hoofs rose on the rocky railway siding and I knew the bandits were coming up and down the train pawing into the cars. Things were pretty serious, especially when the bandits began rummaging around the tea chests. Scottie growled. I shushed him.

Something had to be done quickly. Suddenly my fist doubled up tight, and then up. Quickly I steadied Fu Hsi Lung's head. Then I let him have it square on the jaw and swiftly along the side of the train away from the bandits. I dropped our way to the old early morning fight toward the engine.

The bandits had evidently sent out scouts—additional wandering men who were hanging down along the track. I slipped in behind them and gave them a good shove right over west—and over they went, yelling.

Then I followed the bandits for days, and tried to reason with the chief Mahdi, but my interpreter was not capable of himself, and before anyone could interpret anything, someone got shot.

As soon as he regained control, the bandits recovered him, and carried him to the mountains. Jim and Scottie are in search of his brother, but had no very definite clue as to where he might be.

Suddenly I realized that a machine gun was held captive by the same cavalry that had captured me and Scottie on the day before. We began to lay our plans, but it was impossible to escape, for we did not notice where they were guarding the guns from the opposite direction, until the whistle sounded.

Presentation Of "The Cingalee"

Musical Comedy Staged by Local Talent

On Monday, June 9th the Vermilion Citizens' Band presented at the Colonial theatre one of the best musical comedies ever heard in Vermilion, "The Cingalee" under the direction of Wm. S. Elford. The cast and everyone concerned are to be congratulated on the uniform excellence of the production. Mrs. S. C. Heckbert as Nancy gave a most natural and artistic performance and again demonstrated her histrionic ability. Wm. Glanvill as Beechenbrae, a noble of Kandy, is an acquisition to Vermilion in a leading part. His portrayal of the role was most characteristic and convincing. It is hoped to see a little more of him again in similar productions. Dan Taylor as Sir Peter Lofton gave his usual able and masterful rendition of the role. Lady Patricia Vane as played by Miss Myrle McDonald was a treat. Miss McDonald showed a great deal of talent in her interpretation and both her singing and dialogue were most delightful.

Walking of stage all the parties who sang individual numbers, which by the way were of a high order, were most especial mention. This work showed long and careful preparation and it was indeed a pleasure to hear the various chorus numbers. After all, the chorus is the backbone of any musical comedy and the success of "The Cingalee" in no small measure is the result of the splendid performance of the chorus, the members of which were Nellie Bennett, Hallie Craig, Kathleen Glanvill, Berth. Hughes, Madeine McLean, Agnes Newlove, Dorothy Oakley, Annie Peacock, Al Beecroft, Fred Belmore, Wentworth Brown, Wm. J Elliot Betty Robinson and Allan Hunter.

The specialty dancers, Mildred Dickinson, Evelyn Maxwell, Isabel McKone and Babe Swanson, were most captivating and artistic. Mrs. Alison Lamb is to be complimented on her efforts as director of dances. The dances of the chorus showed with a vim and swing highly appreciated, and the special dances were most graceful and attractive

Peggy Sabine, taken by Mrs. Lorne McLean, was a most delightful performance and quite in Mrs. McLean's best vein.

Vernon Newlove was admirable as Bobby Warren and his "You and I" with Lady Patricia Vane was thoroughly enjoyed. Chamblaudy Ram, the Baboo lawyer, taken by Wm. B. Elford, was the leading comedy part. W. R. was most amusing and kept the house laughing whenever he appeared. Chamblaudy Ram and Peggy Sabine in their "Pretty Pol" duet gave one of the best performances of the evening.

Albert West, leading man, as Hon Harry Vereker, the top planter, play ed a difficult part with his usual ability. Mr. West's solos, particularly "My Dear Little Cingalee" were very fine.

Wm. S. Elliott and Clifton Kirby made excellent guards. Marwaill Brimmendon, as attendant and Nora as Brownie as a native servant were quite in character. The tea girls, Anne Auty, Margaret Hopkins and Grace Poole; Alison Lamb as Sir Penn's daughter, and the governesses, Clara Brimmendon, Barbara Hill and Isabel West, all played their respective parts with confidence and completed a cast which has every reason to be proud of its efforts

The whole performance would not have been possible without the aid of the accompanist, Miss Edythe Lipsey who gave a most efficient and sympathetic accompaniment. Fred Keys in charge of effects, contributed much to the atmosphere required from the drums, cymbals, etc. Norman Bowcott as stage manager, assisted by Peter Williamson, were on the job and should be able, after the way they handled this production, to take on any show that comes along. Right here we want to say that the scenery in charge of Norman Bowcott and W. S. Elliott, and the lighting in charge of George Law, were exceptionally fine.

The whole play was thoroughly enjoyed and is one which no one would hesitate to hear a second time.

Writer Practice Makes Perfect

A strong man, having beat here by iron and here by lead, he played cards, as a fluid item taken a lemon from his pocket, squeezes it hard, and gives a little cry anyway in the solitude. His name was Samson, he dropped. Several large and powerful men volunteered for the effort, and struggle unsuccessfully with the fruit. Finally, a little man of weak and unpromising appearance assumes the stage, seizes the lemon, and to everyone's surprise, squeezes most easily, several gallons of juice. The performer, handing him over the prize, rests for an explanation of the seemingly impossible feat. "It is quite simple," replies the little man. "You see, I am editor of the Vermilion Standard."

Pheasant Being Growth Scarfe Pens

Planted on April 15th, Is Now Two Feet High

In furtherance of the campaign of the Chamber of Commerce to grow hemp in this district for industrial purposes, Mr. Harper, who is particularly interested in this project, visited several of the pens in the district recently and found that wonderful growth has been made by the hemp in practically every case. The climax was reached on the farm of Bert Scarfe, where the plot of hemp was planted on breaking and had reached a height of slightly over two feet. This was planted on the 15th of April and has withstood two hard frosts without damage. The experiment in hemp growing is being watched with interest by the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Providing this ultimately proves a success, the Chamber of Commerce has assurance of a cordage factory being located here, and a valuable asset to the farmers will result.

County Treated To Copious Rainfalls

Beginning with a preliminary rain on Monday morning, followed by several showers until Tuesday night, rain set in in earnest early Wednesday morning and continued all day long with very few interruptions. At noon on Wednesday the Pageant had amounted to one inch at the School of Agriculture, and during the afternoon several lengthy and heavy showers fell. As a result of the rain this particular district is well supplied with moisture for some time to come and growth should be remarkable now. This was noted as one of the warmest rains ever experienced, the weather continuing mild and balmy throughout. Reports in daily papers state the rain to be general through out all of Alberta.

"I couldn't get along without you, Uncle Sim. Here's the letter. You'll call me a goose after you've read it! I'll wash away those tears, and I shan't shed any more, I promise."

Better not make too many promises," said Simeon, as he moved toward the stairs. "Nothin' cleans the air like a good cry. Now it's a thunder storm, and that don't always work, neither."

He went down, and out on the porch, the letter in his hand, but at sight of Halliday, still talking with the children, he crossed the driveway and joined them by the sand pile.

"You got a letter from Jamsley?" he questioned.

"Why, no," Halliday was slightly puzzled at the question. "The fact is, Mr. Bartlett, my wife is the worst correspondent possible. She usually leaves her letters till the last minute, and then misses the mail; so I've learned not to worry when I don't hear. Did Mrs. Hastings get her letter?"

"Is her husband coming soon? I thought she wasn't looking well this morning."

"She ain't," said Simeon. "She's goin' to see the doctor this afternoon if she'm what ails her, but I think she's just plain starved." He lowered his voice, a cautious eye on the children. "She most—went out, when little Nick was born, and—maybe you've noticed there's another comin'? I wish Nick was to home."

"But surely he'll get back as soon as possible. He wouldn't leave her long at a time like this, or—"

"He don't know a thing about it," broke in the old man quickly. "She didn't want he should know till he come back. He hasn't paid up all the bills for his own sickness, and she thought he'd worry and like as not give up gold all if he knew what was loomin' up ahead. That's why she hurried him off, but she needs him just to give her courage, and—" Uncle Sim cleared his throat a bit uncomfortably. "Well," he hesitated, "she's got a letter today, and Nick—well, he's gone off a-cruisin' in someone's private yacht, sailing o' your wife. I thought likely you'd heard about the plan."

"With my wife?"

Halliday was all attention

"Yep," answered Uncle Sim his eyes squarely on the gorgeous yellow rose that adorned small Martha's curls. "He'd about made up his mind to come straight home, when Mrs. Halliday blew in with an invitation. I take it some friends o' hers was goin' off to some outlandish places—just the sort o' thing that would tempt a tramp like Nick. I ain't read the letter yet, but I gather he thought he'd ought'er not lose the chance. He said they'd drop him somewhere along about a month from now, down Caley way, where he could get back home. Well, all I got to say is, I hope to God he gets here all right. The sooner the better."

His eyes lifted from the yellow ribbon, to Halliday's face; but the younger man had glanced away.

"Did he say whose yacht they were to go in?"

"Guy said it belonged to some folks that was visitin' your wife last summer. She didn't mention the name."

Halliday looked thoughtful.

"Have they started yet — left Jamaica, I mean?"

"She says they must be' gone yesterday, or the day before."

"If she needs him couldn't we send a wireless?"

"We don't know the name o' the yacht. Guy thinks maybe another letter'll come mailed before they get away. This one was written a week ago."

"Then we must wait. I—I'm sorry that Mrs. Halliday was in any way to blame; but I wish Hastings knew the state of affairs here."

"I'll send along the first o' September. Oh, Nick'll be back; only she wants him now, and seems like she ought to have him. Bill, the month's no pretty quick now warmer days have come and she can get about more. Then there's the fact to consider, Mr. Bartlett, my wife is the worst correspondent possible. She usually leaves her letters till the last minute, and then misses the mail; so I've learned not to worry when I don't hear. Did Mrs. Hastings get her letter?"

"I'll add along the first o' September. Oh, Nick'll be back; only she wants him now, and seems like she ought to have him. Bill, the month's no pretty quick now warmer days have come and she can get about more. Then there's the fact to consider, Mr. Bartlett, my wife is the worst correspondent possible. She usually leaves her letters till the last minute, and then misses the mail; so I've learned not to worry when I don't hear. Did Mrs. Hastings get her letter?"

James Halliday doubted, even while he pretended to tell Simeon at once should anything enlightening come his way. Angela's letter, written the day Nick's wife left, but, as usual, too late to catch the boat, arrived four days later in the mail that brought another to Guy Angela wrote:

Just a line to let you know that I'm off with the Myers on their yacht "Sea Bird." We're to cruise for a couple of months, so I can't tell you where to write if you want anything of me, which I don't likely, anyway. Might try Havanna, and Nassau, if I think of anything to say. We'll be in Miami, but goodness knows when. It may interest you to know that Nick Hastings has joined our party. I'll wire when we land—but that it will make much difference to you now that you've found another incentive.

Halliday's brow drew into a puzzled frown: then cleared at the thought that she was referring to small Martha. The note said little more, and he sighed as he laid it down. Poor puzzled Angela! Angela's hasty letters eagerly, seeking a word of tenderness that never came. The thing was a habit now. He had ceased to care for tenderness from her; yet the ghost of their dead past still had the power to hurt him a little.

Dearest, in an hour we're off. I'm as excited as a kid at his first Christmas tree. The yacht, "Sea Bird," is a beauty eighty feet long, white with blue rails—mahogany trimmings, and all the fixings you read about in fiction. The party consists of Mr and Mrs. Myer whom we met last summer, their little girl, a sporty-looking old cove named Nowell (they picked him up at the Thirsk field, I believe), Mrs. Halliday and myself. Honestly, Guy, save for Mrs. H. and the kid, it's not a very congenial-looking crowd. But I shan't mind. It's places, not people I'm after.

Talk about "the ends of the earth!" We're to cruise among the Bahamas like—the outer Bahamas, many of them uninhabited. Send your letter to Nassau, not Havana. They've decided to drop me there instead, where I can catch the Royal Mail for New York. I'll wire on landing, but this is probably the last letter you will have. Think what a whale of a lot we'll have to talk about! And how I wish you were going, too!

Five weeks later, on a morning when Guy was wondering if her letter-gram would come that day, as indeed, she had been wondering for the last week, Sonny appeared at breakfast and handed her the morning paper. She opened it idly, waiting for Uncle Sim to come in from the garden, before she poured his coffee. Sonny ran out to call him, and baby Nick was busy with his oatmeal.

The room was very still. The rustle of the newspaper as Guy spread it at once was the only sound, until the baby set up a sort of sing-song that he and Sonny had been chanting for the last week:

"My daddy, tamin soon—my daddy be tamin—my daddy tumin soon—my daddy—"

The baby stopped; Guy had uttered a little moan that frightened him. She was staring at the paper, reading with blurred eyes the words:

Terrible hurricane in the West Indies and Bahamas. Many small boats go down. United Fruiter from Port Antonio makes difficult headway against the storm. No word of the "Sea Bird," a gasoline yacht owned by George B. Myer, of Tulsa and Pasadena, which left Kingston more than a month ago for a cruise among the outer Bahamas. Last wireless from them was picked up at Key West, twenty-four hours before the storm got on board, names the crew, Mr. and Mrs. Myer, their ten-year-old daughter, Marjorie, Mrs. James P. Halliday of Boston, Colonel Charles Wenell of Cincinnati, and Nicholas

There was a crash of breaking china as a bowl from little Nick. When a moment later Uncle Sim and Sonny rushed in the baby was screaming with fright, while Guy lay

Canadian Citizenship

Bill Before Commons Sets Forth Qualifications For Canadian Nationality

Second reading was given in the House of Commons to the government bill to define Canadian nationality and to provide for loss or renunciation of Canadian nationality. Sponsored by Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, the bill sets forth definitely the qualifications for Canadian nationality, and also the process whereby a national of Canada may lose or renounce his nationality. Mr. Cahan intimated that the bill, if passed in the form presented to the House, might necessitate some amendments to the immigration act. As the law now stood, said Mr. Cahan, a man who left Canada for a time, and was delayed over a year, had to make his way into this country in just the same manner as an immigrant from Siberia or Turkestan. Missionaries who went abroad to pursue their calling, were away a considerable period, and sometimes brought up families in a foreign country, could not claim Canadian nationality for their children.

Prince Albert National Park

Improvements To Be Made This Year in Saskatchewan Playground

Ironing out of dead curves on the gravelled highway in Prince Albert National Park, extending for five miles of road to the Narrows graded last year, oiling of the main thoroughfare at Waskesiu Lake, and general maintenance work on the gravelled road in the park—these are the items decided upon to date in the 1931 program of the National Park system, according to P. Ednay engineer in charge of the parks service for the province of Saskatchewan playground. A commencement has already been made, a number of miles of highway having been regravelled.

In fact, it speedily recovers from the effects of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasites. They do their work thoroughly and strength and soundness follow their use.

Hopes To Become Fire Chief

With the hope of eventually becoming chief of a fire brigade in Calcutta, India, a young Indian has joined the fire department of Regina, Saskatchewan, it was learned on Sunday. Chandra Das Gupta, and is 24 years old. Calcutta has fire brigades, and the most modern methods are officered by Europeans. But the dusky youth believes there is a future for native officers.

Dominion Wide Meeting

Saskatoon City Council Favors a Get-Together Gathering To Discuss

Dominion-wide conference on unemployment, called by federal authorities to consider the present situation and possible remedies, was approved by the city council of Saskatoon. The motion was suggested by Ald. A. M. Isley.

There was no doubt in his mind, Ald. Eddy said, that such a conference could do much toward overcoming the present situation. Officials of cities and towns throughout the whole of the Dominion were dealing with their local unemployment problems, and many might be in a position to contribute ideas or plans which would work for improvement, he said.

Desirability of a conference to consider the unemployment question was also suggested by Alderman R. M. Pinder. Some solution, he believed, could be worked out. At present the various bodies, including municipal, provincial and Dominion, are back and kept "passing the buck," without any permanent improvement being effected in the situation.

The Dominion Government will continue to give relief to the municipalities on the present basis, according to a letter from Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor. At present the relief of the cost of direct relief administered here is provided by the Dominion, one-third by the province and the remainder by the city.

In his letter the minister stated it was also the intention of completing the programme of relief work in Northern Saskatchewan as outlined at a conference in Saskatoon totalled 160,940 man days.

Whence came your portion
Grief or delight?

Questions keep welling
Up in your heart;
Why do your cherished
Treasures depart?

Still is the answer
As it has been:
Still good or evil
Comes from within
In your soul's soil grow
Flower or weed.
Yours is the thought that
Planted the seed.

For National Park

Movement On Foot For Establishment Of National Park in Southern Saskatchewan

Definite action will be taken by the tourist committee of the Regina young men's club, it is believed, to establish a national park in the southern part of Saskatchewan. The proposed park will be situated just north of Cypress in the Cypress Hills district.

A resolution was passed by the young men's club at the last meeting of the club, urging the establishment of a national park in the Cypress Hills district. A committee was appointed to interview the provincial government and the federal government on the matter. It is believed the establishment of a national park in the southern part of Saskatchewan would be a great boon to the province.

The proposed park will be situated just north of Cypress in the Cypress Hills district.

New Species Of Blue-berry

A new species of blueberry, or huckleberry, as it is sometimes called, has been tried out in the experimental farms of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The berry is about the size of a marble and has been taken from the district of Mackenzie River.

The Man With Asthma, also

Long, long ago, when the world was young, and the gods walked the earth, there lived a man who suffered with asthma. He tried all the remedies known to the people of his time, but without success. Then he heard of a wonderful remedy called Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, and got relief at once. Let him but use it faithfully and he will find his asthma a thing of the past.

Quaint German Custom

In Germany, when a town wants to raise money for any purpose, it makes quite a certain before it opens, which is known as the Pfeffer Kuchen Fest, or Summer, is carried out with great jollification in the old town of Eisenach.

A laboratory has been built and equipped at the United States Bureau of Standards, where fossil and other optical lenses can be ground with least interference from dust and vibration.

Don't Gamble With Health

We all know health demands absolute inner cleanliness. But what we often don't realize is the risk we take when we use harsh, gripping purgatives that create a strained, unnatural condition.

German Battleship Slides Down Ways Before Being Christened

Germany's first "pocket battleship," known as the Ersatz Preussen while under construction at Kiel, launched herself, sliding down the ways six minutes ahead of schedule while Chancellor Bruening was still far from the end of his christening address and before President von Hindenburg could hurl a champagne bottle against the warship's bow.

Sixty thousand looked on in astonished silence, forgetting to cheer until just as the bow settled into the water.

"Deutschland be thy name!" President von Hindenburg called after the rapidly receding ship, while the champagne bottle dangled aimlessly in the air before the christening stand for a few seconds and then fell to the to the ground unsmashed.

Investigation has not yet determined whether one wire of the cables holding the ship fast parted or some one gave the signal to release the last check too soon. Naturally, much uneasiness exists among Kiel sailor folk over what is technically an unchristened ship.

Douglas' Egyptian Liniment is especially recommended for spider or fly bites. Beware of substitutes. Also in cases of sparins curbs and splints

President Of Law Body

Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, was elected honorary president of the American branch of the International Law Association at the annual meeting held in New York.

Worth Watching

Mary Garden quit grand opera cold and announced that she is going to tour Corsica in a motor. She is going to be worth watching if there is a creature on earth more temperamental than a concertura soprano. It is a Corsican mule.

Little Helps For This Week

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord." 1 Corinthians xv 58

Though scoffers ask where is your God,
And mocking say your work is vain,
Your sacrifice did not die and be forgot,
Work done for God, it dieth not.

Press on! press on! nor look behind or fear
From age to age this voice shall cheer;
Whatever may die and be forgot,
Work done for God, it dieth not.
—Thomas Kmox.

When men do anything for God, for the very least thing they never know where it will end, nor what amount of work it will do for Him Love's nature is to expand: to be always doing things for God, and not to mind because they are very little ones.
—Frederick William Faber.

World's Non-Refuelling Record

Walter Lees and Frederic Brown, Detroit flyers, landed their aeroplane on the beach at Jacksonville, Florida, recently, with a world's non-refuelling record of 84 hours 13 minutes. The new record is 9 hours 10 minutes better than the former record of 75 hours 23 minutes made in March this year by two Frenchmen.

No matter how large or how small your estate, it will suffer heavy deductions before it reaches your wife or family. Doctors, nurses, hospitals, undertakers, lawyers, etc., not to mention succession duties, if the estate be considerable, will reduce the net amount payable to your heirs by anything from 10% to 25%.

ORANGE CELEBRATION at Vermilion on WEDNESDAY, JULY 15th. Watch for full particulars!

Here and There

Admiral Earl Jellicoe, hero of the battle of Jutland, will open the Toronto Exhibition next August. He will be a passenger on the "Duchess of York."

More newsprint paper is made in Canada than in any other country. In 1930 Canada manufactured 2,564,000 tons or 58 per cent of the world production of newsprint paper.

Thirty-eight lakes in the district of The Pas are being commercially fished today as against 18 ten years ago. The catch was 2,179,000 pounds of fish in 1930 as compared with 1,600,000 lbs. in 1922.

Sixteen countries have so far accepted the invitation of the Canadian Government to send official representatives to the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina, July 25 to August 6, 1932.

Foxes on the ranches in Prince Edward Island are getting Vitamine D in their diet, through the medium of fish. Twice a week sun-dried herring are fed to the foxes on the ranches. The animals are thriving on this new diet.

Banff, Yoho and Kootenay national parks in the Rockies are available to motorists in a continuous loop route at the cost of a $5 license fee. This opens up 400 miles of fine travelling in the unrivalled scenery with a total park area of 2,673 square miles.

A Calgary man has won the cheque for $500 offered for the best slogan in the contest just closed by the management of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina, July 25—August 6, 1932. The slogan was: "Show what you grow and share what you have."

The English Association Football team, representing many of the best soccer teams in the Old Country, which will tour Canada, playing games in the major cities of the Dominion during the next two months, arrived at Montreal on board the Duchess of Atholl, May 23.

Radio continues to grow in popularity in Canada. Licenses for receiving sets at the end of last March totalled 514,701, an increase of 90,555 over the number registered the previous year. Figures for the year to March 31, 1931 represent a net for every 19 of the population.

Included in the brilliant passenger list that will feature the maiden voyage of the Empress of Britain, 42,500-ton flagship of the Canadian Pacific Atlantic fleet, at the end of May, will be Lord Rothermere, great English publicist and owner of a string of British newspapers, including the London Daily Mail.

Representative French railway experts touring this country and the United States recently made a thorough inspection of Canadian Pacific transportation facilities, steamships, hotels and terminals, gathering a considerable body of information with a view to renewal of material and equipment on the Chemin de Fer du Nord, in France.

Empire Day, held this year on a Monday, made a long week-end holiday. In every part of the Dominion, holiday-makers took advantage of the new low week-end fares, recently inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway, charging fare and a quarter for return trips to any point in the country. This reduction is in force everywhere in Canada every week-end. (749)

"A Cry From The Heart" Of Everyman

They All Feel the Same About These Taxes. It Seems; the Letter That Sent a Laugh Around the World.

These everywhere he turns—governmental officials trying into his business — demands for unlimited money—

He wouldn't even cling to life but for curiosity as to what will happen next, says a latter in "The Accountant," London. It was credited to a customer in South Africa writing to a London firm. The letter has sent a laugh around the world. It has turn ed up in various places. The East Kent Times, for example, reprinted it and feelingly labelled it "A Cry from the Heart."

Anyway, the letter's terms as well as its reception show that there is a unanimity of feeling the world over. Here is the letter:

"Dear Sirs,—For the following reasons I am unable to send you the cheque for which you ask. I have been held up, held down, sandwiched, walked upon, sat upon, flattened out and squeezed by the income-tax, the super-tax, the beer tax, the sports tax, the motor tax, and by every species of taxation and rich that the inventive mind of man can think of to extract what I may or may not have in my possession—for the cost across the black cross and the double cross, and every hospital in town and country.

"The government has governed my business till I don't know who owns it. I am inspected, suspected, examined, and re-examined, informed, required and commanded, so that I don't know who I am, where I am or why I am here at all.

"All that I know is that I am supposed to be an inexhaustible supply of money for every fool, drain, or hope of the human race, and because I will not go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away, I am cursed, discussed, boycotted, talked to talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, rung up, hung up, robbed and damn-near ruined

"The only reason why I am cling ing to life at all is to see what the hell is going to happen next."

Soviet Russia's imports of American industrial machinery last year were valued at nearly $10,000,000.

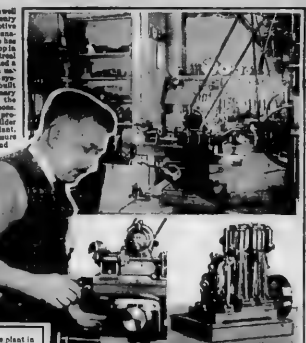
Life's Work Is Hobby, Too

Mechanics are a hobby as well as the life's work of Henry Blake Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock, Canadian Pacific Railway, who has an up-to-date machine shop in the basement of his Montreal home. Here he has invented a number of tools now in use throughout the vast shop system of the company and built a series of model stationary and marine engines, to the great delight of his three sons. He came into particular prominence recently as the builder of the C.P.R.'s new giant, "8000" type, multi-pressure locomotive, the biggest and most powerful of its kind in the world and unique on the American continent, designed for heavy duty in the Rocky Mountains. The pictures show the workshop, in which so many of Mr. Bowen's leisure hours are spent. Recently he surprised himself that it is the most complete private plant in Montreal. Inset, Mr. Bowen is seen operating a milling-machine, which he built with his own hands. The model marine engine, shown lower right, is the latest product of the hobby-shop. Although it is only four inches high and could almost be housed in a cigar box, it is complete in the minutest detail and can develop 4000 revolutions a minute. It offers an interesting contrast when considered in comparison with the newest mammoth locomotive. Mr. Bowen built them both.



Estonian Farmers Will Compete At World's Grain Show

National Exhibit Will Also Be Displayed at World's Grain Exhibition and Conference at Regina in 1932.

Many farmers of the Republic of Estonia are expected to take part in the competitive classes of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held at Regina next year

A communication has been received by officials of the Exhibition and Conference from the national committee in charge of Estonia's participation in the 1932 gathering to the effect that efforts of the committee are being directed toward encouraging Estonian farmers to make entry in the competitive classes for wheat, rye, oats, seed of grasses and flax seed for fibre

Estonia will also be represented by a national exhibit. The National committee is preparing an exhibit typifying the agricultural and educational activities of the republic, for which reservation of 2½ square feet of floor space in the Exhibition and Conference building has been made.

A short time ago the Estonian government, in accepting Canada's invitation to participate in the World Wide Exhibition and Conference, announced the appointment of a national committee. The organization has now received its first Exhibition and Conference official notice, the personnel of the national committee, Mr. Mikkel Pill, director of the Plant Breeding Station, Jogeva, chairman; Jaak Uuemaa, M.Sc., in agriculture, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Education and Experimental Work of the Ministry of Agriculture; and Johannes Juhanson, director of the State Seed Testing station members.

Agriculture is the chief occupation of the 1,107,000 people of Estonia. Of the population of the little Republic of Estonia on the eastern shore of the Baltic Sea, 72 per cent of the people are engaged in grain and dairy farming. The total agricultural area is about 10,000,000 acres and the chief crops are wheat, rye, barley and oats. Cooperative dairying is one of the features of the agricultural life of the Republic. There are now twelve hundred factories mostly operated on a cooperative basis

Insurance Against Depression

A newspaper published on the Pacific Coast prints the following note received by it from a worker in lumber camps: "Too need not worry about me. I have worked many years in the logging camps, saved my earnings. Now during the depression, I am able to get along on three meals a day and a good place to sleep. I am a naturalized citizen. I will vote for the things that make my adopted country a better place to live in."

Commenting on this statement, a magazine writer says it would be difficult to combine the principles of sound economics and good citizenship into smaller space. Let us analyze it a bit.

In the years when work was plentiful this industrious woodsman labored and saved, for his common sense told him that fat years and lean years had alternated throughout the known history of man. They did in Egypt in the days of Joseph, when amid the scoffings of the masses he stored up grain during seven fat years as insurance against the succeeding seven lean years. Ordinary prudence told this Pacific Coast woodsman that in storing up from the surplus of the fat years he, too, would be able to meet the deficiency of the lean ones.

This woodsman had nothing but his labor to sell, so he sold it at a profit when the market was brisk and saved the profit to provide for his needs when the market should be dull. And "depression" finds him living comfortably and free from worry. He can afford to wait in philosophic patience for the sure advent of another period of fat years.

And, after all, why of us is really differently situated than is this woodsman? What, in the final analysis, has any person to sell but his or her labor? And having sold that labor in times when it is in demand and well paid for, whether in wages, or profitable production from farms, or turnover in business, it surely is the sane and sensible policy, in fact the duty of the laborer to "save" against the day when there comes a decline in demand for his services and a resultant decline or stoppage in current income or profit.

Everybody but the wholly improvident and thoughtless insure themselves against sickness, accident, death and old age. They insure their homes, businesses and belongings against possible loss by fire or other catastrophe. They regard these steps as not only wise, but a duty they owe to themselves and their families. In the same manner, to lay up in fat years, is the part of wisdom, and a duty, in the fat years of earning power to "save" against the lean years which the whole history of man teaches us will inevitably come?

In all the volumes, said an age and speed-mad, editorials, and articles that have been written or spoken on economic topics, in all the speculations as to causes and cures for the present "depression," can any one find a surer specific for economic comfort and independence than that offered by this hard-headed, straight-thinking woodsman? Out of the abundant fat years lay up a store to bridge the shortage of the lean ones. It is simply the old classic preventive of Industry and Thrift properly balanced. And whenever it has been applied it has worked.

Think Salaries Too Low

Civil Service Federation Holds Wages Paid Are Inadequate

Holding that the civil service salaries are inadequate, the Civil Service Federation of Canada, at the opening session of its 14th national convention in Ottawa, considered the report of its executive committee outlining plans for continued efforts to secure some adequate pay throughout the government service. The executive reported active preparation of the case for the service for higher pay to be laid before the Bessby Royal Commission.

Canada's Automobile Output Is High:

At End Of April Production Showed Substantial Increase

Automobile production shot upward in Canada during April. With a total output of 17,189 cars, the daily average of 572 cars was 37 per cent. higher than in March. Although only about one-half the average during April 1929.

Believed In Advertising

Given in England, in the village cemetery of Ingoham Essex, stands a tombstone on which that bit of advertising copy appears:

A New Field For The Alpinist

The great attraction of Jasper National Park in Alberta to alpine climbers is no doubt the opportunity it affords for first ascents. There are many important peaks still unconquered and even unnamed and whole regions waiting to be explored.

Inter-Provincial Traffic Council

Saskatchewan Board Of Trade Voices Opposition To Proposed Plan

Opposition to the proposed prairie provinces inter-provincial traffic council was voiced at an annual meeting of the Saskatoon Board of Trade. The opinion was expressed that it would not be in the best interests of Saskatoon and Saskatchewan to enter this association.

It was pointed out that Saskatchewan was in a peculiar position in connection with freight and express rates, and that at present there was a Saskatchewan traffic council which was functioning in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. Stevenson, K.C., said Manitoba and Alberta were in far more favorable situation as regards rates than this province. The one had the rate from Vancouver, while the other had the special rate from the head of the lakes.

He said that owing to the geographical situation of the province, agricultural business two provinces which enjoyed special facilities, it would militate against Saskatchewan receiving consideration. He said that if a move were made for a reduction in rates for Saskatchewan, the other provinces, in the association formed, would oppose any concession which would give Saskatchewan any relief.

He also expressed the opinion that Manitoba and Alberta should proceed to organize traffic councils in each separately and that joint action could be taken on specific problems where there was common ground.

Credit Goes To War

How Made It Possible To Retain Federal Two Nonentes

The federal tree nurseries at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, distributed trees from where trees have been distributed to prairie farmers free of charge, are to be closed down by the federal government. This service was cut out of the estimates tabled in parliament a few weeks ago, and would have been completely abandoned on July 31, had the government not reconsidered the matter and reversed its final decision.

Not an additional dollar is to be voted for their upkeep, but Mr. Weir will cut down on other expenses within his department to obtain the funds necessary for the work. The decision, favorable to the nurseries, was reached only after Mr. Weir had put the matter before Mr. Bennett on two occasions. On the first he was refused, on the second he obtained Mr. Bennett's consent. The announcement followed a question put to the government by Hon. W. R. Motherwell.—By Grant Dexter.

Probe Wheat Board

Will Investigate Sale Of Grain By Wheat Board Of 1917 and 1918

The standing committee on agriculture will, in addition to its other functions, inquire into the documents brought down in the House of Commons recently in connection with the 15-cent per bushel guarantee between Robert Whitaside, farmer, of Brissy, Sask., and Sir George E. Foster, when the latter was Minister of Trade and Commerce. The correspondence deals with Mr. Whiteside's complaint respecting the loss by him of a hundred of the grain crops of 1917 and 1918. In these letters Mr. Whiteside expressed the strong belief among the western farmers that the government had made a large sum of money from the sale of the grain.

On a motion of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, the documents were given to the agricultural committee to enquire into this.

New Catapult Tested

With a deafening roar of compressed-air motors developing 4,000 horsepower, which were utilized to give a sudden pull on a long tow rope, one of Great Britain's largest bombplaying planes, weighing almost nine tons, was literally hurled into the air in the space of a few yards at Farnborough Royal Air Field, Kent, when a new catapult will enable long-distance planes, heavily laden with bombs, to rise from small aerodromes or from the decks of naval carriers.

Uniform Signs For Europe

Roadside warning signs in all Europe will be uniform if the countries accept the system adopted at the European Conference on Road Traffic which recently met at Geneva. Danger signs will be triangular, stop signs circular, and information signs rectangular. Should all the countries adopt it the change will mean the scrapping of thousands of signs now in use.

Made Interesting Flight

Professor Believes It Will Revolutionize Theories About Stratosphere

The London Daily Express, in a telephone interview with Professor Auguste Piccard, "stratosphere" balloonist, quotes him as saying that the result of his flight "are likely to revolutionize all previous theories concerning the stratosphere.

"The flight proves that the stratosphere is navigable," the Professor is quoted as having said, "and that man with modern technical methods will be able to master its low pressure and its cold.

"Recovered from their perilous thrust into the upper reaches of the sky, Dr. Auguste Piccard has started compiling his scientific data, while Charles Kipfer, his assistant, took a three-hour climb to recover their ballast from the glacier in which it came to rest.

Dr. Piccard said, in conversation with Austrian newspapermen, that the stratosphere, which he claimed to have penetrated in an ascent of more than 50,000 feet, was the most practicable element for long distance aviation.

"The can be done, however," he said, "only if the cabins are as airtight as our gondola was."

Information received at Innsbruck, Austria, from Professor Auguste Piccard said that he and his companion, Charles Kipfer, suffered greatly from thirst during their balloon flight into the stratosphere.

They were forced to scrape the frozen moisture from their breath off the walls of the aluminum cage, the report said, and to melt and drink it.

"The fact that we carried a double supply of oxygen saved our lives," he said. "On landing we found that we left only sufficient for one hour more."

A Remedy For Encroachments.—To have the earache is to endure torture. The pain is distracting, and few can bear to deal with it, considering it work for a doctor. Thomas' Eclectric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops of the liquid, hot or medicated cotton and placed in the ear will do much in relieving pain.

Believe Jazz Age Dying

F. Scott Fitzgerald, the novelist who gave the jazz age its name and "discovered" the flapper, believes that the age of jazz has ended, according to a letter received from him by his publishers, Scribners. Fitzgerald said the jazz age lasted ten years from the suppression of the May Day riots in 1919 to the stock market crash in 1929.

Felt Tired Out All Day

Could Not Sleep at Night

Mrs. Aldemond Lalonde, 2481 St. James St., Montreal, Que., writes:—"After a spell of the grippe I was left very nervous, and felt drowsy and tired out all day, and could not sleep at night. I was also troubled with my heart and did not feel at all like working. I was told about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking four boxes I was completely relieved of the trouble, and can recommend your Pills to everyone."

LOSE FAT THIS WAY

No matter how fat you are or how much you have put on and weigh a couple of tons, get busy.

If you will take half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 20 days—

You will feel so good—so energetic, and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily dance of sweet delight—and a bit.

Why will Kruschen Salts make this great change for the better in me—it is natural for you to ask.

Because Kruschen is a blend of the six vitalizing salts Nature says your body must have to keep every organ, gland and nerve in the body luxuriantly healthy.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer, and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings. The old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active exercise—and you'll sleep like a top. You'll look fat, and probably live years longer.

To Aid Unemployed

Suggestion Made To Establish Movement Along Lines In Each Province

Acting on Bishop Doull's suggestion that "immediate action is necessary with regard to the unemployment problem," the Anglican Synod, the Diocese of Kootenay, B.C. after lengthy debate, adopted a resolution prepared by F. Travbridge, a retired member of the bar and a graduate of Oxford, which asks that "as a means of permanent relief against actual distress amongst the unemployed who are willing to work, that provincial camps be established in several parts of each province; that in the said camps shelter, bed, board and clothing be supplied to those in distress who apply; that the said camps be conducted by an officer in charge who shall have full control; that all receiving relief be required to work unless physically unable to do so; that preference in the work in the construction, extension and maintenance of camps, such be given to married men; that which is the accepted principle

GROUNDHOG IN TOWN PARK ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

A groundhog, a rarity in this part of the country, paid a visit to the town park on National Avenue on Monday of this week, and the visit proved untimely for him. The animal was first seen entering the south gate of the park, evidently coming from the railway where it is thought that he must have come in on a freight train, as groundhogs are common in Manitoba and the east. The animal was seen by George Furness who was working in the park; he approached Mr. Groundhog who showed very little fear, and struck him, with the idea of stunning him and effecting a capture, but the blow must have been too hard, for the groundhog never recovered from it. The "remains" were on view in the fire hall for a while where they were an object of curiosity.

This is the third groundhog to be noticed around this spring: Ernie Telford and boys captured one, while George Law is also reported to have been one near the roadside recently

BEE FIELD DAY

It is perhaps not generally known, but there are some eight stands of bees at the Agricultural School of Agriculture which are making honey during the present days.

There seems to be considerable interest in bee culture at the present time and a considerable number of farmers are interesting themselves in the project. With a view to giving as much assistance as possible, the school of agriculture has arranged with Mr. S. O. Hillerud, provincial apiarist, to come to Vermilion on the 23rd of June to give talks on bees and bee diseases. He will also discuss wax and wax products. As bee culture may easily become a profitable side line it is hoped that as large an attendance of those interested as possible may be on hand. The discussions and demonstrations will start at 2 o'clock and all in the neighborhood who may be interested are cordially invited to attend. There is, of course, no charge or fee in connection with the matter, but it is a simple effort to get the information out to those who may desire same.

Country Deluged - Two Inch Rain Fall

Rain commenced to fall here early Wednesday afternoon and continued until about 8 p.m., when after a lull until 11:30 the storm returned and a torrential downpour continued for a half hour and then settled into a fairly heavy rain. This was perhaps the heaviest rainfall of the season Thursday light rain is continuing.

The Wednesday half-holiday has evidently been selected by Jupiter Pluvius for his weekly rain, the last two having been extremely wet days.

From 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon up to press time this Thursday afternoon the precipitation had recorded a total of two inches

Vermilion High School Closing Exercises

The closing exercises of the Vermilion High School were held on Friday evening of last week in the assembly hall of the school which was filled to overflowing with interested people and students. The latter filled the front seats in a body, the young ladies looking particularly attractive in their smart graduation attires The big feature of the excellent programme arranged was the presentation by the Glee Club of the school of "The Child Hood of Hiawatha." Too much praise cannot be given to the members of the club for the very fine rendition of this charming cantata. The presentation was under the direction of Principal Markle. It was a splendid and highly successful effort Another interesting item on the program was a one-act play, Confessional, in which the parts were excellently taken by Malcolm McLean, Helen Norton, John Brown Eleanor Welsh, Wilfrid Fraser and Clifford Gates As with the cantata it drew generous applause from the audience. A third feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation from the student body to Principal Markle of a valuable and handsome pen set, neatly engraved and mounted in gold. The presentation address was read by Miss Place, president of the Literary Club. Mr. Markle was taken by quite a surprise and replied feelingly in the kind words expressed in the address. Clifford beautifully rendered the selection with which he won honors at the big musical festival at Lloydminster a few weeks ago. Fred Brimacombe led in a song and was heartily encored by the Boys. Mr. Markle gave, in his usual pleasing manner, a solo "Early in the Morning" while Gilbert Brimacombe followed with a catchy piano solo Clifford Gates sang in fine voice "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline," which was well received Mrs. Malcolm and Mr. Markle rendered a pleasing duet, "Friendship," which also received unlimited applause. Solos by Mrs. Malcolm and Mr. Beckett brought the musical part of the program to a close. Both were well received This was Mrs Malcolm's first appearance in public in Vermilion and she made a very favorable impression.

J. W. G. Morrison chairman of the school board, presided and during the course of a short address in which he congratulated the students on the splendid work accomplished by them during the term and wishing them every possible success in future, made a few remarks concerning the retirement at the departure from the school of the principal. Mr. Markle also Mr. Veblilon, a member of the staff. He also emphasized the fact that there was no opposition with the board and the students and the fine progress made by the school since their appointment to the staff. Mr. Morrison told the graduating class that those whom they were leaving behind would watch with keen interest their advancement in the scholastic world and hoped they would be mindful of the happy days they had spent at the Vermilion high school.

The exercises were all most enjoyable and pleasing and held in connection with this department of the town's school system.

The Spirit Of Adventure

Sir Edward Grigg, Governor of Kenya, one of Britain's East African dependencies who is at present on furlough in England, recently delivered an interesting address in which he noted a decline in the old British sense of adventure and made an appeal for a re-kindling of this spirit in the new generation. Without it he feels the new generation would not be the equal of their fathers and grandfathers—those three generations that ran the length with the reign of Queen Victoria, and both ended, I agree with him, in folly.

In support of his views of adventure Sir Edward attributed to the nervous depression produced by the Great War and he urged that a revival of it would tend to promote support at home for development overseas, and that this would keep Britain and the Empire strong.

It maybe that Sir Edward is right and that the old roving spirit which sent Frobisher, Drakeand Scotsmen into all the nooks and corners of the world is dulled and unstirred by the deeds done by brought Canada into a large portion of Africa, and many of the tales of the seven seas to be found in the land of the impelling forces it once was in the British Empire which Rudyard Kipling wrote it not possibly true that the same spirit exists now in the rising generations of the world of today it is never telling their averages of experience."

Take, for example, the spirit of adventure that was abroad in the Great War purely in a spirit of adventure and Sir Edward is no doubt right that in that grim struggle they became disillusioned and a sense of depression followed on the heels of exhilaration. Again, thousands of the most daring spirits among the young men of the generation gave their lives in that great adventure, men who today would otherwise be found following in the footsteps of their sires and grandsires.

But is not youth today much as it has always been? Before the Great War many people entertained the opinion that mankind had become soft, that the ability to face the rough and tumble and withstand the hardships accepted by former generations as inseparable from existence. The stamina displayed in the Great War demonstrated the amazement of all, how erroneous were such opinions.

In the spirit of adventure had it ever in the decline? The attempt of Sir Hubert Wilkins and his companions upon which they are now embarked, if make a dash in a submarine under the ice-fields of the Arctic constitutes an adventure more daring than any that excited the imagination of a Jules Verne.

Or, under the recent adventure of Professor Piccard, and his assistant Charles Kipfer, who in a hermetically sealed aluminum ball attached to a balloon soared over 52,000 feet, almost ten miles, into the air, into that rarified atmosphere where winds do not blow, nor clouds form, but where the stars shine by day.

There is no end our own daring Canadian aviators who carried out the photographic survey along Hudson Straits to determine the ice conditions and navigations of that route, or who month in and month out maintain the forest fire patrols in the sight of our northlands, or are engaged in mapping unknown portions of Canada from the air.

All over the world daring and adventurous Britishers, including young Canadians, are engaged in engineering enterprises, building huge bridges, dams, hydro-electric plants, railways and highways and in almost inaccessible places with the same zest and enthusiasm which carried their forebears into the unexplored regions of a by-gone past.

Canada this year celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the commencement of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a great adventure, followed by a still greater adventure on the part of the thousands of men and women who in a few short years settled and transformed the prairies of Western Canada into great wealth producing provinces now inhabited by over two million people.

No, the sense of adventure is not dead we doubt if it is even on the decline For example, give a thought to the daily adventurings in the realms of science and invention where patient and courageous souls are discovering and inventing the wonderful and finer things that are ever did the romantic discoverers and explorers of the past.

Today the sense of adventure is very much alive, but it manifests itself in new ways and in different channels in keeping with the changed conditions of a scientific and machinery age as contrasted with those which preceded the age of steam and electricity. That is all and there is no ground for pessimism that the British race is losing its determination and grit.

Seeking Record In Flight Around World

Youths Expect To Make Trip In Ten Days

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, two prudent young men, have figured out the comparative hazards of flying around the world and trying to cross a busy street—and they've decided to fly around the world.

"We got an expert to look over our motor," said Post at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York. "Then we figured our chances. We found we had something like 2½ chances of getting hit by an automobile for every one chance that the motor would stop when it wasn't supposed to.

"So, we're not afraid. If we were, we wouldn't go."

Post used to do what he called "rough necking" in Oklahoma oil fields, and Gatty was an Australian marine navigator.

They've got a great, shiny monoplane on which they pin their confidence of circling the globe in something less than ten days for a record.

The Story Of The Tea Plant

History Points To the Fact That Tea Originally Came From India

There was a Chinaman, we are told, five thousand years ago, penetrated the forests of Assam in India, and discovered the tea-plant. The plant he introduced into his native land.

It is hardly likely that this venerable soma, almond-eyed woodsman knew how popular his discovery would be. Probably it appealed to him as a new and hitherto unheard of bush, so he took it back to China, let us say, to plant in his front yard and cause the envy of his next door neighbor.

In spite of this interesting legend the true origin of the tea plant is still unproven. Ancient Chinese authors say the tea plant was growing in China about 2700 B.C., but it is curious try to show through ancient writings and old legends that China is the original home of this plant.

On the other hand India has a strong claim for the honour as well. The tea plant grows wild in the province of Assam and has more likely flourished over large tracts of primeval country in the province from time immemorial. Since best authorities are agreed that the tea-plant is a native of India, it is safe to assume that the story of the Chinese woodsman is rather close to fact and that tea originally came from India.

The tea-plant belongs to the Camellia family of vegetation. There are several varieties, but the best grown among them being the Assam and the China. The word "Tea" is derived from the Chinese local Amoy dialect word "te."

Apparently it was the Chinese who first discovered that a beverage could be made from the leaves of the tea-plant, for a Chinese author in the world records, 1,700 years ago, a beverage that could be produced by steeping the leaves of the tea-plant in boiling water.

A later Chinese writer named Chu Pu tells us that tea had been used only for medicinal purposes until it became popular as a beverage in China during the sixth century A.D. It was not until the 16th or 17th century that Europe began to assume tea.

In the early days of the seventeenth reultury the product came to Great Britain from China and fetched fabulous prices.

In 1664 Queen Catherine, wife of Charles II., received a present of some tea from the English East India Company. She liked it so well she introduced it into Society and it became the fashionable drink. Needless to say only the wealthy could afford to be fashionable.

In the days spoken of China as a ten producing country.

The history of tea in India is a comparatively modern affair. The earliest mention of its being grown there was in 1670, and about that time the Company sent Captain Thomas Hastings, who was instrumental in introducing some varieties of the Chinese plant into India. Many years elapsed, however, before any serious effort was made at cultivating it on the Indian soil, and it was not until the tea plant was discovered about 1823) to be an indigenous growth in the north parts of India that any energy was displayed in regard to its cultivation. Shortly after that, the Burmese province fell into, and this, together with other troubles of the British Government in India, militated against tea, and it was a small new industry. It was not, in fact, until near the middle of the century that the tea industry in India was placed on a sound footing

It is in Ceylon, however, that we find the tea plant reaching its full perfection. The climate of that beautiful island, owing to the heavy rainfall, is particularly favorable to the cultivation of tea. After a number of experiments had been successfully carried out, the first plantation was opened in 1867. In that year there was ten acres placed under cultivation. Thirty years later (1897) the acreage under tea, was over 40,000, and about 100 million pounds were exported. Since that time the distinctive quality of Ceylon tea has been gaining greater popularity This will give some idea of the extraordinary success of the tea industry in Ceylon.

Following are direction for the most satisfactory preparation of tea:

Use (1) Kettle
(2) Fresh water
(3) An earthen-ware tea pot.

Scald the pot by pouring boiling water Use one level teaspoon of tea for every cup desired Add freshly boiling water, allow to steep about five minutes, then serve.

If the tea is going to stand longer than this it should be poured off the leaves into another heated pot, for it is over steeping that causes bitterness Another suggestion is to stir the tea with a spoon before pouring, in order completely to infuse its strength and flavour.

Forced Labor Spreading

Foreign Purchases Help Soviets To Enslave People, Says Duchess Of Atholl

The Duchess of Atholl in an address at London, said there are now several millions of men, women and children performing forced labor in Soviet Russia because of the speed with which the five-year plan is being pushed.

It is estimated that over five million persons were forcibly deported under the February, 1930 decree, chiefly to the forests of the far north of Russia.

"Many of them arrived there in the winter and had no houses until they had built them for themselves. History, I think, records no such wholesale uprooting and banishment of peaceful fellow-citizens as this.

She reported that the forced labor had spread to collective farms, handling the grain and timber and other industries.

"The whole enslavement is due to the five-year plan is unquestionable," she concluded. "That the stupendous uprooting of the plan being assisted by foreign experts, foreign credits and foreign purchases is further undeniable.

"Canada has taken action to clear herself completely of responsibility in the matter. Are other countries in the United States and Great Britain, both of which have made sacrifices in the past in the name of freedom, satisfied to do less?"

Labor Minister Seeks Data On Unemployment

Is Making Survey Of Conditions In Western Canada

A survey of actual unemployment conditions throughout Canada will be conducted personally by Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor. Economic conditions in Western Canada are more acute, he will start investigation there. Upon his return, a similar inquiry will be undertaken throughout Eastern Canada. A detailed report to the government will climax the tour of inquiry.

Accompanying Senator Robertson on his western trip will be the superintendent of unemployment service and the director of unemployment relief. Discussions will be held with provincial authorities and representatives of the largest municipalities. In addition, first hand information on rural conditions will be got at present and as they may exist during the fall and winter, will be secured.

Factories Reopened In Orient

The slump in the price of soy beans in Manchuria has been followed by a boosting for Japanese and Korean farmers, who are able to afford large quantities of fish manure (A.C. fertiliser). Demand for fertilizer at the new prices has become so great that many Chinese factories making bean oil and cake have reopened after years of idleness. New factories are being organized.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective remedy is Mother Graves' In Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

A Lucky Find

After lying at the side of the road outside her residence at Southwold, England, for four and one-half years, a diamond valued at $2,500 has just been restored to Mrs. F. Lewis. The gem fell from her ring on August 8, 1926, and a thorough search for it was made at that time. A street sweeper found it among his sweepings, and received $250 reward.

DEMAND THAT RELIEF POLICY BE ANNOUNCED

Ottawa, Ont.—Suspension of the redemption of Dominion notes in gold was advocated, as an emergency measure, in a sub-amendment to the budget, moved by Hon. T. Chase Casgrain. Moved by H. E. Spencer, of Battle River, the sub-amendment crystallized the views of U.F.A. and Progressive members in the "ginger group" corner of the chamber.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, of Southeast Grey, was the seconder.

The amendment was coupled with a suggestion by W. A. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, that members of the opposition and the independent groups combine with private members on the government side to continue debate until the government announces its policy on unemployment, furnished the highlights of a rather uneventful day.

Mr. Neill demanded that the government bring down a measure of unemployment relief before it was too late for discussion.

"The practice of bringing a measure down only about 24 hours before the close of the session and directing that if the money is not voted the measure will not be passed, has played out," Mr. Neill warned the government. "That plan worked all right in the short session, but it will not be accepted a second time."

The House now has before it the government motion on which Rt Hon. R. B. Bennett made his budget speech, the Liberal amendment, and the U.F.A. sub-amendment. There can be no further amendments to the budget.

"Today we have poverty in the midst of plenty," Mr. Spencer declared to the House. "Some of the countries as were established in Canada would only serve to make things worse by adding to the glut of commodities which people could not buy "I am quite sure that the system of production, which is the result of the government, will never be a solution for unemployment," he continued

Neither did he think the dole was a solution for this problem, but he did think "that the greatest the freedom of action either between province and province or internationally, the better for all concerned."

Criticism of the coal policy outlined by the government was voiced by Mr. Neill. The coal industry had received a measure of assistance "if a measure which with one blow gives a dollar and with the other takes away 90 cents can be called assistance," he asserted. British Columbia coal received only 17 cents a ton by way of assistance as a result of the measures, he claimed.

A suggestion that all parties in the Commons should pull together during the present crisis was endorsed by R. C Matthews, Conservative member for Toronto East-Centre. He found little criticism of the new tax proposal throughout the country

Disaster would follow continuation in the present high tariffs, in the opinion of Hon. Charles Marcil, veteran Liberal member for Bonaventure. He counselled the adoption of a moderate policy which treated other countries as Canada would herself wish to be treated.

James L. Bowman, Conservative member for Dauphin, followed with a defence of the budget and a denial that it was designed to benefit the rich

Britain Is Importing Butter From Empire

Answer to Russia's "Five-Year Plan" Says British Member

London, England. "The empire's reply to the Russian five-year plan," is the description Sir William Wayland, Conservative member of the House of Commons and chairman of the Empire Dairy Council, applies to the increase in imports of empire butter to Great Britain this year

During the next few weeks no fewer than 46 vessels from New Zealand and Australia will bring more than 3 million boxes of butter to British ports Canadian butter is now more entering the British market, too, after being absent for five or six years

Export Cattle Trade

Assuming Much Larger Proportions Than Was Anticipated

Ottawa, Ont.—The export cattle trade is assuming much larger proportions than was anticipated, with the result that there are numerous applications from private members to book space from Montreal to Great Britain.

These shippers have notified the Federal Government of their difficulties and Hon. Robert Weir is endeavoring to increase the accommodation on ships, particularly for the summer months. He has had most of the boats engaged for sailings from Montreal up to Ottawa to see him, and is trying to persuade them to outfit more ships. One of the great difficulties which has to be overcome is that the British Board of Trade regulations announced early in the year and later suspended, are due to come into full effect in September. These regulations will add much to the cost of equipping ships for the cattle trade, and the shipping companies now hesitate to go ahead on the old basis, fearing that the government will not succeed in having the regulations further suspended. It seems reasonably certain that, failing the withdrawal of these new regulations, the Canadian cattle government will get a further suspension probably until November 30, but this is definitely assured as yet.

The question of providing more space is now under the consideration of the shipping companies and a decision will be reached within a week.

Freight Rates On Grain

Canadian Rates Stated To Be 33 Per Cent. Lower Than U.S. Rates

Ottawa, Ont. Testifying before a special parliamentary committee on grain freight rates, Sir Henry Thornton said if they were regraded only 33 per cent lower than the rates on commodities which people could not buy "I am quite sure that the system of production, which is the result of the government, will never be a solution for unemployment," he continued

Neither did he think the dole was a solution for this problem, but he did think "that the greatest the freedom of action either between province and province or internationally, the better for all concerned."

Criticism of the coal policy outlined by the government was voiced by Mr. Neill. The coal industry had received a measure of assistance "if a measure which with one blow gives a dollar and with the other takes away 90 cents can be called assistance," he asserted. Barriers On Trade

New Canadian Duties Are Discussed In British House

London, England.—Canada's tariff changes were brought up in the House of Commons recently. Rt. Hon. William Graham, president of the Board of Trade promised questioners that if further information revealed increasing trade against Great Britain the government would consider the advisability of representations to the Canadian government.

P. A. Harris, Liberal, asked for particulars of the new Canadian tariff and inquired the position of the Board of Trade should make representations "as to the undesirability of fresh barriers on trade at a time of universal depression"

Rt Hon. Mr. Graham replied he had not received details of all the recent changes, but they would be published as soon as they were received The point raised in the second part of the question, he went on, could not usefully be considered in the absence of further information than he possessed at present

Mr Harris asked if Mr. Graham would make representations if he eventually found that some duties were increased against Britain, and Mr Graham gave assurance that the question would be fairly considered

Tragedy Of the North

Remains Of John Bennett Sent To England For Burial

Edmonton, Alberta.—The remains of John Noel Patch Bennett, 18-year-old schoolboy who sought experience and found death in the wastes of the Fitzs Fans district, 180 miles west of Grande Prairie, were forwarded to England from Edmonton this week.

Bennett's last hoarded skeleton, a wolf-gnawed rifle, a pack sack, a diary and a few shreds of the clothing that had been torn from his frozen body by the fangs of wolves that had unearthed it, were discovered by Kelly Cameron, veteran Hythe guide, who had sought the boy's body for seven months, when he journeyed up Tillicum Creek with a load for Mrs.

Bennett left his home in Oakdene, Manor Road, Coventry, England, in order that he might gain experience which would school him for a diplomatic career, on which he intended to make his life's work. Instead he found adventure, and has inherited a large fortune on his coming of age.

Advised to turn back by the perils of the journey he was about to essay, he set forth from Grande Prairie in October last with a pack horse, hoping to make his way through Flying Pass to Prince George, British Columbia.

Caught by the winter, his horse abandoned, his moccasins worn out and his clothing ragged, he struggled on. Finally, with feet and hands frozen by the intense cold of the mountain winter, he camped on further and sank down to die beside the lonely Tillicum Creek, where his body was found this spring

CRITICISM HEARD OF EMBARGO ON RUSSIAN GOODS

Ottawa, Ont.—Definite opposition to the Russian embargo on the ground that it is "inconsistent, unbusinesslike and unfair" was voiced by no one but ourselves," came from Hon. W. D. Euler, former minister of customs, in commenting on the order.

"I am opposed to the Russian embargo," asserted Mr. Euler, and he went on to declare that the government had put on the prohibited list such commodities as hard coal, lumber and pulpwood because they were only one of these commodities which Canada imported was hard coal, and this country did not produce lumber.

"The only good we do by putting hard coal from Russia on the prohibited list is to help the government of the United States, the former minister declared. He had tried to ascertain the reason why the government had barred goods from Russia. Apparently it was because Russia "is an hard times and is a cause she has a system of government with which we do not agree

"Are we acting as a Christian nation when we declare economic war against another country?" asked Mr. Euler. He held he better for business he had no sympathy with the methods adopted in that country, but it was that nothing but harm would come to Canada through the imposition of embargo.

He referred to the inconsistency "I almost said hypocrisy — of the Canadian High Commissioner in every Britain, who had called in the wheat conference delegates from Russia.

"Those delegates must have been laughing up their sleeves when they and that we wanted to have nothing to do with them, and then in the door procedure, we asked them to do something for us," remarked Mr. Euler.

Wants Conference On Stabilizing Silver

If Canada Leads It Would Be Great Advertisement Says Midland Bank Director

Ottawa, Ont It would be a wonderful thing for the world and a great advertisement for Canada if this country would call an international conference on stabilizing silver, said F. E. Darling, director of the Midland Bank of Canada, who returned to Ottawa from Washington and New York where he had been in the stock market or what their opinions of brokerage practices were Mr. Darling said there were to be no questions asked in considering the

The question at issue was whether the two men had taken the certificates and carried them fraudulently to their own use, he said. "It is true I think, he said, "that none of the directors complained at any time also that each customer got back certificates corresponding to the number of stock shown being carried for him

VERMILION CITIZENS HONOUR WITH ROYALTY

Abdicated King in Town on Friday Last

Vermilion citizens were hobnobbing with royalty last Friday when the ex-king of Spain, Alfonso XIII, Lazare-witz, was a visitor in town. Ex-king Joseph had with him numerous credentials, documents, etc. to prove that he was really what he claimed. The ex-king is no greyhound — indeed he has had to hand the leader age of 25 years and has been on the road ever since he was fourteen. He suffered the loss of his throne, and through a revolution over labor troubles, but became a young and beautiful lady at Brandon, Manitoba, fought his way to Toronto, and will shortly catch Joseph himself for he is now on his way to Manitoba and will soon settle down to an entirely contrasting life. He will have to work and will have to worry, and he will no second in command of the household instead of being head of the below kingdom. The ex-king is a fine conversationalist and one that is extremely easy to sit and listen to hp the hour; his experience have been many and varied and the most wonderful thing about him is that he has not done a stroke of labor for 11 years. We forgot, however, that Comrade Leon Rogal Lazarevitz will be in for a mighty change in his scheme of life, for his future helpmate has decreed that he has to go to work.

GREENLAWN ITEMS

One of the earliest pioneer residents of the Greenlawn district, Mrs. Annie McMullen, died on Monday, June 8th after a lingering illness, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Archie Wood. She was nearly 70 years of age. She came to Alberta a widow with three children in the spring of 1903 and took up a homestead. Mrs. McMullen was born in Ontario, but had lived in Manitoba some time before coming to Alberta. She is survived by her family, Mrs. Archie Wood and Mr. Wm. McMullen of Greenlawn, and Mr. Jack McMullen of Heinsburg, and a number of grandchildren. The funeral held on June 9 at Greenlawn hall was very largely attended by the many friends of the family.

Several U. F. A. members from Greenlawn and Riverton attended the meeting at Telegraph school, near Landonville, which was addressed by Mr. Pete Ennemarr, M.L.A. for the Alexandra district, on Saturday evening, June 13th. The large crowd listened with great interest to the hon's logic and sane conclusions of their "philosopher" member.

UNION UNITS

The U. F. W. A. did not hold their usual June meeting, due to the fact that they were enjoying literal "showers" of blessing. Several of the senior ladies went, however, to the home of Mrs. Hobbis and did some work on the quilt. The usual hostesses being absent, Mrs. Hobbis served a dainty and much appreciated lunch. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Sr. and the program for same will be carried out.

We told you Bert Symons had returned to this neck of the woods, and now in his wake follows Mr. Alfred Mills. They are both inseparable, and while Russell is doing that outside painting, Alf may be inside decorating. Watch out!

Mrs. Aleck Barr demonstrated how truly charming a hostess can be when she entertained for dinner Messrs. Samuel I. Brown, Peterborough and Funnell, on Tuesday last.

Don't forget the 24c Dance at the Union school, Friday 19th.

Miss Margaret Wilson has been much concerned over the state of her health recently, t'poo consulting her medical friends, a grave verdict was rendered. Instead of having pupils in her eyes, he found a cowboy.

Can anyone tell us just why Jimmy Hoag has so suddenly taken a notion to be travelling so much, calling especially where the school teachers reside? We are all consumed with curiosity.

Found! — A very efficient looking tomb labeled: "For the Union U.F.A." If it would be of any assistance, we feel sure the W. A. will draw up a program for your next meeting, first by-law being "No cards until 11 p.m." and then only after a real honest-to-business meeting and program has taken place. Buck up Boys, don't let the ladies scare you out. You need to meet occasionally and hear the other fellow's hard fortune and you'll probably discover you are not the very worst off person in these parts. A space will be reserved in this column for a report on any signs of activity or life in your organization.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Doyle are rejoicing over a new arrival at "The Matabelt." Where it gets its hot hair from is hard to say, but such things do happen in the best regulated families.

Our sympathies are extended to Mrs. Dorothy, for between Bill's bed and his possible pyjama parades, we are fearing for a rubbing of the otherwise smooth waters of their little home. Oh, you've wrong again! don't be misled by the foregoing for said arrival has four feet, a nice curly tail and a man-sized appeal.

THE LATE ARTHUR CURTIS

A dignified and impressive service characterized the funeral of the late Arthur Curtis, which was held from the Anglican church Thursday afternoon last, the Rev. G. McComas taking the regular Anglican service. The beautiful Masonic ritual of the concluding ceremony was taken at the graveside by members of the Mannville and Vermilion lodges.

The church was filled with sympathizers and friends of the deceased's family, a goodly number of Masons being present and forming a bodyguard both at the church and at the cemetery. In the unavoidable absence of the Hon. R. G. Reid, the government was represented by Mr. English and Mr. Sidney V. Lee, who drove down from Edmonton by car and both of whom spoke at the graveside, paying high compliments to the life of Mr. Curtis and his work in the community. Previous to coming to this country over 30 years ago the deceased had held high Masonic positions in England and was instrumental in starting Hope Lodge in Mannville. Settling in the Saltcoat district he for many years held the position of secretary to the Buffalo Coulee municipality.

His loss deeply mourned by his wife and two daughters, Mabel (Mrs. Staden) of Saltcoat, and Dora, of Illinois, U.S.A., and by four little grandsons, whom he called "Bud" and "Dud."

Floral offerings included a lovely wreath from: "Wife and Dora," Mabel and Reg; Dud and Dud; Hon. R. G. Reid and Mrs. Reid, Councillors of the Buffalo Coulee Rural Municipality, Community, Cummings Community, St. Saviour's W.A., Hope Lodge A.F. & A.M., Queen Esther Chapter O.E.S., Col. and Mrs. Watson, Joy and Bill, Mr. & Mrs. Witherbe and Beth, Hector Whitson.

The pallbearers were the members of the council of M.D. Buffalo Coulee and the auditor.

Arrangements were carried out under the direction of Mr. J. Waring, and interment made in the Vermilion cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Curtis and Family wish to express their sincere thanks to the many friends whose sympathy and acts of kindness have been very much appreciated during their recent bereavement; also for the beautiful floral offerings and to those who were responsible for the arrangements made.

"Little Theatre" Honor Departing Member

The Little Theatre Club tendered Mr. and Mrs. Markle a send-off at the Brimscombe hall Wednesday evening, about 50 of the members and friends being present. It was the intention at first to have a dance in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Barwick, but the inclemency of the weather in the afternoon prevented the Club from going out, deeply to their regrets. The programme was then hurriedly rearranged and the party proceeded by the lady members was served at the St. Andrew's hall, after which the party adjourned to the Brimscombe hall where a jolly evening was spent with music and song. An interesting item was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Markle of a handsome cabinet of silver plate. The presentation was made on behalf of the members by the President, M. J. Hennessy, and was acknowledged by Mr. Markle expressing feelingly his appreciation of the gift and the entertainment so well worded by the president. He wished the Club every possible success. Short remarks were then made by Mayor Fallow and others, conveying to Mr. and Mrs. Markle the regrets of the citizens of Vermilion at their leaving and hoping they would have unbounded success in their new home. Everybody had in the words of the proverb, a very good time.

The thanks of the Club were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Barwick for having placed the beautiful grounds at the disposal of the Club.

Edmonton Exhibition July 13 To 18

The Edmonton Exhibition is the farmer's own Exhibition, and this year an effort has been made to make the Prize List particularly attractive along this line, with special classes for farm boys, girls, and women, in cooking, butter-making, gardening and needlework. Many of the live stock classes have been re-arranged, and breeders are requested to place emphasis on type and breeding qualities, rather than extreme fitting, particularly in the cattle classes.

Many special features are being staged during the Exhibition, July 13 to 18, including a Basketball Tournament, open only to competitors living south of Edmonton.

A Horse-Shoe Pitching Tournament will also be held, under the auspices of the Alberta Horse Shoe Pitchers' Association. A feature of this tournament will be the Alberta Single Championship, which event is expected to arouse considerable interest in horse shoe pitching circles. Interested players should write for rule book and information to E. L. Holmes, Secretary, Arden, Edmonton.

A trip to the Edmonton Exhibition is not necessarily expensive. The railroads are offering reduced railway rates, or visitors may motor in to the Edmonton Exhibition, being train and ferr in the free Auto Camp; tents may be rented through the Exhibition Management, if ordered in advance. The grandstand attractions were never more worth seeing than this year, with a magnificent Musical Review, the Fiesta of 1931, Scotch Highlanders' Band, and a number of outstanding vaudeville acts.

LATEST STORY ON MEAL SUPPLY TO TRANSIENTS

In connection with the unemployment situation and the demand by transients for meals, peculiar situations have been created. An incident which happened recently not many miles from Vermilion indicates the uncertainty that exists regarding the authority by officials to provide free meals. It appears that a transient searched out the mayor of the town in question and made a request for a meal; the mayor thought it advisable to consult with his council regarding his authority in the matter. The secretary-treasurer advised that a meeting be called to deal with the matter. The result of the deliberations was to provide meals until the following Monday. And now the joke comes in. The couple had enjoyed several full course meals, taking advantage of everything appearing on the menu, and proceeded on their journey on the Monday, leaving their bewildered with the town authorities —who are just now wondering if it would not have been better to have accepted the offer of tape and limpets them 50c than to provide the two-day cuisine at 75c per meal

"The train ride from Vancouver to Banff is the most wonderful I have ever taken," was the comment of the much-travelled and famous writer J. B. Priestley, of "Angel Pavement" and "The Good Companions" fame, interviewed recently at the Banff Springs Hotel. "These parts are too wonderful to describe," he said, and added that he considered a trip in September for the trail riding.

The Shield for efficiency among the four Canadian Pacific white Empresses of the Pacific, donated last year by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the company, was presented for the second time at Vancouver recently to Captain A. J. Hennessy and the ship's company of the Empress of Russia. During the presentation the gathering was entertained by the broadcast from the Empress of Britain, over 5,000 miles away, steaming down the St. Lawrence.

Definite promise of an International travelling Art School which headquarters to be established at Banff in 1932, or at one of the Bungalow Camps in the Rockies, has been given by Tom Hall, prominent London, England, artist who has been invited by a member of his confreres in England that Banff would be ideal for artistic exploitation of the scenic wealth of the Canadian Rockies.

Travelling by Canadian Pacific special train from Vancouver to Victoria and return, over 100 members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association held their annual general meeting early in June and took the opportunity to make a Trans-Canada tour, including Winnipeg. Regina and Saskatoon, where they conferred with local industrialists and were given civic and provincial welcomes. The meeting coincided with the 60th anniversary of the entrance of British Columbia into Confederation. (6tdd)

C.P.R. WIN CLAIM FOR $4,173; DISMISS BIG COUNTERCLAIM

Mr. Justice Boyle has handed down a written judgment allowing the claim of the C.P.R. against John Joseph Lee for $4,173 back payments on parcels 4se of two sections of land in the "Lloydminster Block" west of Vermilion, dismissing Lee's counterclaim for $85 437 for alleged mis-presentation.

The judgment deals at length with the "boiler-room-sales-talk" pamphlets which induced Lee to buy the land, and with the representations of Mr. C. F. Norwood, company land sales manager, who sold Lee the land. "Norwood," says the justice, "as a witness impressed me. I was not impressed by his evidence that he went almost so far as to dissuade Lee from buying the land. He may as well say frankly 'I let not believe him.'"

Lee purchased the land in 1929; received the deed in 1930 and defaulted in 1923. This formed the basis of the judgment.

The company had the right to think that Lee was a man of ordinary common sense and would have discovered, in the course of three years at its delivery, the exaggerated representations were made to induce him to make the second bargain.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Everybody likes a flower garden and this is the time of the season when flowers need their most care. Few of mother's bon gonal the plants are or how suitable the soil. If they are not cared for after planting, the garden will be a failure. The plants should be no larger than the grower can care for properly. Cultural practices will differ somewhat with different kinds of flowers, but there are some that are common to all Cultivation is absolutely essential to success. A great many people cultivate to keep down the weeds. This is to be commended but not enough unless the cultivation which stops there is usually insufficient. The chief object in cultivation should be to conserve the moisture. This means that the ground should be kept in such condition that there is a mulch of dust from one to two inches deep over the surface at all times. Cultivation must be constant to accomplish this end. It must take place after every rain which is sufficient to pack the surface soil and at least every two weeks whether it rains or not. Plants must have food and moisture to produce flowers and cultivation is one of the best means of providing both of these.

Plants which show a dwarfing and yellowing of the foliage had best be pulled out and destroyed.

BROWNIE NOTES

Last meeting we went to our homes and worked on various subjects.

Brown Owl taught the Tweenies some work for their Brownie Pins. We hope Betty Markle will be able to get hers before she leaves, and Helen Bowers her second-class, for she is going also.

Brown Owl took the second-class Brownies and taught them a new and simple way to darn, while Pack Leader looked after the little Brownies and tried to teach them their knots; two Brownies were successful in learning them completely, so Brown Owl has promised to judge them next week. We hope they pass.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE SIN OF CAUSING OTHERS TO STUMBLE—TEMPERANCE LESSON

Golden Text: "It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth."—Romans 14:21.

Lesson: Romans 14:13-23.
Devotional Reading: I John 4:7-12.

Explanations and Comments

Our's Responsibility For His Brother. verse 13 But thou, why dost thou judge thy brother? question asked in the preceding verses (10-12); Paul in the preceding verses (10-12); or then again, Why dost thou set at nought thy brother? For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of God. So then each one of us shall give an account of himself to God Therefore, in view of God's judgment), Paul continues, let us not judge one another any more; but judge ye this rather (notice the play upon words here) that no man put a stumbling block in his brother's way, or an occasion of falling. Instead of thinking about your brother's conduct and condemning it (verse 10), think about your own conduct, and see that it does not cause another to sin. See also Romans 8.8-13. "Stumbling block," and "an occasion of falling" are generally synonymous, though the first is taken to mean a hindrance and the second something that actually throws a brother down in his life's course. See Romans 9:33 Leviticus 19:14

Nature's Scruples Must Be Respected. verses 14-18 I know, and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus, that nothing is unclean of itself, in its own nature; as a "Pharisee of the Pharisees" Paul has strictly kept the Levitical law, which forbade the eating of certain animals (Lev 11). his discovery that nothing is unclean of itself must come to him through his fellowship with the Lord Jesus. The Greek though "koinos" unclean, means literally "common"—such food was common to the world, but forbidden to the pious Jew Recall Peter's vision (Acts 10) beforehand. Nothing is unclean, save that to him who accounteth anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean.

Love Important and the Unimportant. verses 17-18.—For the Kingdom of God, the reign of Christ over men in the eating and drinking the important matters are righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit —through His indwelling.

He who serves Christ in this way is pleasing to God and man. So then let us pursue things that make for peace, and things whereby we may improve one another, that is, let us consider what effect upon others our conduct will have.

Abstinence For the Sake Of Others, verses 20-23.—Overthrow, pull down, is the opposite of edify, build up Possibly some of the "strong" Christians were on the point of disrupting the Church of Rome over the unimportant question of "meat," and Paul counsels them not to overthrow for meat's sake the work of God. "The Christian brother whose Christian personality is God's work." Paul now repeats the thought of verse 14 in saying, "All things indeed are clean, however it is evil for the man who eateth with offense to his own conscience It is not good to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." Compare the Golden Rule and the two Great Commandments

The faith which thou hast,—the enlightened faith, which permits thee to see that all things are clean, have them to thyself before God do not proclaim it so as to offend others. Happy is he that judgeth not himself in that which he approveth But he that doubteth is condemned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith and whatsoever is not of faith, whatsoever is not done because one believes it to be right, is sin.

Changed Postal Systems

A March hare crossed up the postal system of the island of Nimafood, one of the Fiji groups. For years a native swam a mile and a quarter every four weeks to meet the steamer "Tofua," carrying with him outgoing mail The last incoming mail was lost when a shark attacked and killed the swimmer. Hereafter a large canoe will be sent to meet the ship

The word salary means "salt money."

All the good of which humanity is capable is comprised in obedience.

Vital Statistics

Eighth Annual Report Covering the Year 1928 Has Just Been Issued

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has just issued the eighth annual report of Vital Statistics covering the year 1928. Although the more important figures for that year were given out in 1929 in preliminary form, the present volume, which contains detailed salyals for the whole Dominion has many features of great interest.

The report contains tables classifying the parents of children born during the year, under such headings as age racial origin and birthplace. Tables of decedents are presented under similar headings, and special attention is given to treatment of causes of death according to age, nativity and conjugal condition, while the occupation of the decedent is tabulated for certain values. Marriages are classified according to the ages, birthplaces and religions of the contracting parties. Statistics of births, deaths and marriages are also given in detail by localities. The report includes a number of tables on the population and for the Yukon and the North West Territories.

A very full analytical introduction is included in the volume.

Great Lakes' Level Exceptionally Low

Will Hamper Fall Grain Movement Unless Rains Increase

Movement of the grain crop down the Great Lakes will be considerably hampered next fall unless this summer sees an excessive rainfall throughout Ontario, Manitoba and middle western United States.

Such is the conclusion to which hydrographic experts in the Department of Marine and Fisheries have tentatively driven following a check-up of the water levels of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

Figures gathered by the department show that these levels are far below the average for this time of year.

Yukon Executive Retired

Major Burnsuth Succeeds To Office Made Vacant

George P. Burnsuth, former gold commissioner and chief executive officer of the Yukon, and since 1926 executive in charge of the Arctic exploration and development work for the Yukon and North West Territories branch of the Department of the Interior, was retired from the civil service recently.

Major Leslie T. Burwash, investigator for the same branch, and one of Canada's outstanding Arctic explorers succeeded to the office.

Mr. Mackenzie's retirement is part of the cutting down programme of the interior department.

The last party of the year will be on Friday evening next in the Assembly hall. All ex-students are, of course, welcome.

Word has just been received from H.Q., Military District No. 13, Calgary that the Cadet Corps of the Vermilion high school has been awarded the much-coveted R. B. Bennett Shield for the year 1930-31. This trophy is awarded for general efficiency and is open for competition to all the rural corps of Alberta. This is the first time our boys have won the highest place and they are to be heartily congratulated on their fine showing. The officers of the corps, viz.: Marker Fallow, Cadet lieutenant; Gilbert Brimacombe, Cadet sergeant, and Cadet corporals Gordon White, Ray Johnson and Welsh, are deserving of the highest recommendation.

We note with pride that the Vermilion corps was also the runner-up in the Gravely Shield Competition in physical training The winner of this trophy was Camrose public school and Vermilion came next with two points difference

The Middleton Cup awarded the Cadet corps obtaining the most points at summer camp, is still held by Vermilion. This cup was won two years ago when a number of the Vermilion cadets went to camp at Cochrane.

CAR ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY

An accident occured on the local war field, miles west of town last Friday night when a car driven by Mrs. Haines was leaving the car ahead and driver into the ditch when the car turned over, damaging it considerable running board. The car she was driving had previously been purchased by Miss Haines who was learning to operate it under the tuition of her brother, and previous to the accident was stationed at a point midway between Vermilion and Kitscoty, ready and preparing to start forward in order to permit the car preceding her to get ahead. It will be the idea in mind that Miss Haines had to the main highway. The accident resulted in the car she was driving being damaged to the extent that it was bit undrivable.

Don't Be Critical

There are two kinds of criticism,—one that nowadays we refer to as "constructive" criticism, and the other that in common parlance we term "destructive" criticism. To be exact, the word criticism should not be employed in connection with the latter.

Criticism is a fine old English word which in its pure significance, so a present writer has pointed out, implies carefully weighing and balancing; fine, exact, authoritative judgment. Needless to say the heading over this article does not refer to such true form of criticism.

In modern usage the word has been debased, and divorced from its true meaning. Today its implication is not to balance, the measure of something or some one, but rather to point out, dwell upon, magnify the defects of something or some one. The tendency is not to balance, but to distort, to become cynical, to carp at, to indulge in wholesale fault-finding, to seek to destroy what is rather than to work for betterment. It is in this sense we say: Don't be critical.

In so many respects people are the product of their environment that it takes an unusually strong person to stand erect and breast the onrushing tide of current opinion. When times are prosperous, business booming, stocks and bonds mounting ever higher, when nine out of every ten people are optimists, many of them merely because it is the fashion to be so, they become extremely critical of the person who advises caution. Such a person is characterized as a non-progressive, labelled a back number, when as a matter of fact he may be more truly progressive, more far-seeing, more of a real builder than those who call him names.

Reversing the picture, we find in these present days that the vast majority of people are pessimistic and because conditions are shrouded in a good they are critical of and would destroy those very institutions under which they developed and enjoyed their former prosperity, and they now denounce those who again urge caution and a carefully weighing of all the facts before taking a leap in the dark. If they are impatient with and critical of all those who advise sane, clear thinking and careful, well-thought out action rather than wholesale destruction of all that has gone before.

Environment, too, has a great deal to do with our prejudices, and yahoodice is the fruitful source of a very large percentage of harmful criticisms. It is only the accident of circumstances of birth that makes a person one of the white race rather than a negro or an oriental. Many a staunch Protestant who criticizes, denounces and raves over everything appertaining to Roman Catholicism would easily been born a devout Roman Catholic and thus be the object of the criticism and scorn he now pours out on others, or he who now insists he belongs to the only true church might have been born one of those he now regards as a heretic, or even a heathen savage.

The circumstance of birth has placed some men on thrones, or in positions of luxury and wealth, while others have been born as slaves and paupers of low degree. Each one may be doing his duty as he sees it, honestly and fearlessly, striving for individual, community and world betterment. But neither the one nor the other has the right to look condescendingly on the fellow man nor decide him. They may not agree upon what constitutes world betterment, and each has full liberty of action to strive for the attainment of that in which he believes betterment consists. Constructive teaching and action looking to the realization of desired ends is praiseworthy and should be indulged in, but narrow, bitter, illogical criticism, purely destructive in its nature and intent, is not only deplorable and to be condemned, but, in the final analysis, it is futile in results.

What this old world needs, probably more than anything else, in its present stage of development, is more universal acceptance of the meaning of the good old English word, "Criticism." People need to readjust their thinking processes, their words written and spoken, their actions; they need to subdue their passions, curb their prejudices, look beyond their environment; in a word, in business, in government, in community life, in all our intimate social intercourse, there is imperative need for careful weighing and balancing, for fine, exact, authoritative judgment. Prejudice and self-exaltation require to give way to reasonableness, a willingness to recognize and study the other fellow's point of view.

In short, the world needs Christ, it has always needed and always will need, the application of the Golden Rule, the spirit of co-operation, in the every day activities of life, by those activities great or small, vitally significant or relatively unimportant.

Postpone Trip Until Winter

Trans-Canada Auto Travellers Decide To Wait Until Mosleys Frozen

The "Nova-Columbia," powerfully constructed auto, which has been attempting the first trans-Canada journey via the automobile route, will lay up at Fort William for the balance of the summer. Decision to halt the hazardous trip until winter frosts harden the treacherous muskeg land in the Kenora Lake district, has been arrived at by the drivers, Charles McKenzie and Guy McMinn, who assert they cannot negotiate a mile a day under present conditions. The pioneers of trans-Canada motor travel started out from Halifax last September, and have covered 2,000 miles of the 4,000-mile trek. It is estimated the trip will not be concluded before in 1932, as all of next winter will be required to put through the thick bush and muskeg country.

Interested In Canada

Canadian Exhibit Proved a Big Attraction At Buenos Aires

On his return to Ottawa from the British Empire Trade Fair at Buenos Aires, E. Mack, Poultry Inspector of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, states that while Canada can put essentially a new quantity in that part of South America, the Canadian Exhibit proved a big attraction of the kind shown. Interest in Canada has been stirred as never before and the contacts made may be expected to result in much of benefit to Canada. He sees an interesting future in the development of exports of poultry breeding stock, and at times of low prices in Canada of egg exports for the poultry industry in Canada. Egg grading in Canada gives Dominion exporters a real advantage in respect to dependable quality in a market where quality as yet is, to put it mildly, largely a matter of indifference.

"My husband went 7 miles to see what my sister had given her baby, and he came home with a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I gave the child a few doses and she was soon well again.

Manitoba Visions Huge Power Project

Development Of Dauphin River Power Would Be Great Benefit To Province

A likely means of balancing agricultural and industrial development in Manitoba was pictured by Premier John Bracken in his address to the Young men's Section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade recently, on "The Possibility of the Dauphin River as a power development scheme." Properly developed, the Dauphin River project would be the largest individual development in Manitoba, he said, and have the possibility of adding 50 per cent. to the industrial future of the southern part of Manitoba.

Amish Mennonites Ban Radios

Classify Them With Musical Instruments Sent By Devil

Bringing the extremely strict tenets of their creed up to date, the Amish Mennonite Conference of Ontario, which concluded a three-day session at the Mapleview church, Wellington Village, near Kitchener, Ontario, has decreed that radios must be banned from all Amish homes, the conference classifying radios with musical instruments which have been barred since the sect was founded.

Musical instruments, along with many other modern conveniences, are also banned from the homes of Amish Mennonites, the conference ruling that the devil designed to lead the faithful away from devout worship of the Almighty. The recent report of the ban on radios in the home is excommunication from the church.

Would Cancel Certificates

One Hundred and Seventy Naturalization Certificates May Be Cancelled

Cancellation of 170 naturalization certificates which were obtained fraudulently has been recommended by Judge J. G. Wallace of Woodstock, who investigated many cases in Montreal and Toronto last April. The recommendation is in the report of the present time but it is expected the recommendations will be followed. Consideration is also being given to the institution of criminal charges against those involved and to deporting them from the country.

Eats Poison Weed

Saskatchewan Boy Dies From Eating Wild Parsnips

After eating some wild parsnips, which he found near his father's farm, Gregory Kotek, son of a well-known farmer of the Foam Lake district, died before medical assistance could be obtained. No inquest was considered necessary, the youngster's death told his parents what he had eaten.

Wild parsnips are deadly poison, even when cooked. Recently the University of Saskatchewan agricultural experts published a warning against eating this weed.

Business As Usual

An insurance agent had outstayed his welcome in a merchant's office, and took no notice of the many broad hints that he was making himself a nuisance. At last his victim got him by the scuff of the neck and pitched him downstairs. The man got up, retrieved his hat, and turning to the man at the top of the stairs, he said calmly, "Joking apart, what about that insurance policy?"

The farmer is not unemployed. Just unpaid, that's all.

Support Taking Form

Men Are Working Day and Night At Churchill

Two thousand men, working in day and night shifts, are employed at Churchill, terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway and Manitoba's new seaport, and the town is "sprouting a skyline," reports Hon. W. H. Chipin, Provincial Minister of Public Works, who returned from the northern port.

A seaport, equipped with all modern facilities, is taking form on the shores of the great natural harbor of Churchill, with the hundreds of men working on elevator and dock construction.

The steel fabric of the grain elevator, which will have a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, stands out against the clear northern sky, said Mr. Chubb. Hundreds of men are busy building the dock where during the shipping season of future years ocean vessels will take on cargoes of Western Canadian grain and livestock of Old Country markets.

Mr. Chubb and Hon. Donald C. McKenzie, Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, inspected the mining townsite where streets and lots will be surveyed and laid out this summer.

Eskimos Ride in Truck

First Automobile At Churchill Startles the Natives

Weary pedestrians will be travelling north to Churchill's new seaport at Churchill, to escape the ever-present automobile were startled recently by sloughing through the heavy muddy roads of this settlement the first car north of it.

The lone five-ton truck is being used in freighting the supplies of the Roman Catholic church from the station to their various missions along the west coast of Hudson Bay.

Eskimos, northern trappers, and Indians gathered around the truck gazing with awe as it ploughed through the bush roads. For a considerable time before any of the Eskimos could be convinced it was safe to ride in the machine.

The young Indians and Eskimos who rode in the back of the machine were looks of rapt wonder as they jolted along the trail.

Have Better Chance

The family which possesses a piece of land and will work it so that it will produce the things they must have to sustain life, is vastly better off than the general run of population of the towns and cities, even though they may not be out of employment now. It has been a long, hard pull lately for the farmers but they are not without something with which to pull, as is the unhappy condition of the unemployed in the cities.

Important Office Abolished

Nova Scotia Government Does Away With Representative In London, England

Tuesday, June 30, will see the end of the longest record of official representation in London, England, that any part of the overseas Empire has known. In 1761—one hundred and seventy years ago—John Mauger was appointed agent-general in the Empire capital by the Nova Scotia Government. On June 30 Miss Jean Iris Howard will relinquish a post terminated by the present political administration. Henceforth Nova Scotia's affairs in Great Britain will be handled through the Canadian High Commissioner's office, according to announcement in the House of Assembly this year.

Economy was the motive which led to abolition of the office. The point of view of the Nova Scotia Government in abolishing the office is that the province's interests can be looked after adequately by the Canadian High Commissioner's staff, by the railways, insofar as immigration is concerned, and by the Provincial pioneers. The saving will be about $20,000 annually.

Cloud Of Insects Visits Alaskan Island

Report From Wrangell States All Vegetation Was Destroyed

A despatch from Wrangell, Alaska, states that a cloud of insects which filled the skies to such density that they could be grasped in the air by the handful, visited and destroyed vegetation on Vank Island.

J. G. Smith, a fox farmer, said the insects were borne to the island by a southwest wind. He described them as about half an inch in length, with red legs and with a head and mouth resembling an ant.

They alight on the trees and shrubs, eating a single hole in each leaf, he added. Strawberry blossoms turned black later.

Fish that died millions of years ago are so old to the modern geologist searching for water far underground.

Invents New Type Of Engine

Windsor Resident May Sell Rights In Internal Combustion

After 30 years of effort William MacKirdy of Windsor and Detroit is ready to offer for market an engine which is declared to be revolutionary and in many ways not comparable with anything at present on the market.

The inventor describes his product as a combination of the Diesel principle with the Otto cycle of internal combustion, that is, burning fuel oil under high pressure, and the principle of steam wherein water is turned into steam. The present lost in water jackets—is utilized in generating a highly superheated steam. It has all the virtues of the Diesel practice and the steam principle, with none of the disadvantages, it is asserted.

When Sir Harry Brittain, director of D. Napier and Sons, of England, visited Detroit recently he crossed the river for the express purpose of examining the engine. On his request, arrangements were made through the world rights of manufacture if the engine meets with the inventor's claims. Sir Harry expressed himself as very favorably impressed.

GOVERNMENT IS SUSTAINED IN VOTE ON BUDGET

Ottawa, Ont.—By a majority of 30, the budget was passed by the Commons, bringing to an end two weeks of debate. An amendment and a subamendment to the budget, moved by Liberal and U.F.A. ranks respectively. A crowded House approved the government's proposals by a vote of 102 to 72. Previously the U.F.A. subamendment had been negatived by a huge majority of 156, the vote standing: for, 15; against, 169. The amendment had been defeated by 93, 70 members voting for it to 109 against.

Crowded galleries witnessed the three divisions. A good natured House indulged in songs, laughter and badinage while the somewhat slow process of registering each member's vote was gone through. When the final vote was announced the Conservative supporters broke into loud applause and cheering. The House rapidly moved into committee of the whole and, in accordance with the main budget motion, and then on the motion of the prime minister rose and reported progress."

Echoes of the election campaign in Quebec, and allegations by Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, that the "war cry" had been raised to secure votes on behalf of the budget by Hon. Fernand Rinfret, former secretary of state, who claimed that the minister of marine had not defeat if he had submitted it to the people; advocacy of "salesmanship" to dispose of the budget, and a declaration by E. J. Garland, U.F.A. member for Bow River, in favor of reducing the tariff on coal, and, featured continued debate on the budget.

The short session was discussed by E. F. Wills, Conservative member for Souris, who emphasized the fact that Canada's budget is the best in the world and that there was always a market for the best.

Hon. A.Rinfret and Hon. Fernand Rinfret were head-liners in the debate. Both represent Quebec constituencies. Mr. Duranleau is one who raised the question of "war scare" election tactics which, he claimed, were employed by the Conservatives, not the Liberals. He assured the minister that if Conservatives had been responsible for raising more would be heard of "war cries" in the province of Quebec.

Pay Tribute To Heroes

School Children Decorate Graves Of Canadian Soldiers At Shorncliffe

Folkestone, England.—For the fifteenth successive year, thousands of school children gathered to deck with flowers the graves of Canadian soldiers in Shorncliffe cemetery.

"While we cannot bear too much nor in too forcible terms of the sin of war, on the other hand we cannot extoll too highly the heroism, self-sacrifice and devotion to duty of the athletic motives that urge the manhood of the day to face inevitable mutilation and death," said Major W. Steiner, of Folkestone, addressing the school children.

Sea Cadets Give Display

Winnipeg, Man.—Delegates to the annual convention of the Navy League of Canada attended in a body the annual assault-at-arms of the Winnipeg Sea Cadet. More than 100 cadets performed for the visitors. Judges included Admiral W. O. Story, Lieut.-Commander H. G. Hayes, Lieut.-Commander H. G. Hayes, Lieut. T. V. Anderson and Col. G. H. Gillespie.

Urge Construction Of Railway

Vancouver, B.C.—Urging immediate construction of a railway connection between the Pacific Coast and the Peace River primarily as an emergency measure of unemployment relief and equally as contributing permanent relief through colonization, the executive of the On-to-the-Peace Association waited on Senator Gideon Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor.

Will Pay Visit To Canada

Windsor, Ont.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's High Commissioner to Great Britain, will return to Canada about August 1, it was stated at Kingsville, by Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. He remains in the Dominion for about six weeks, said Col. Kennedy.

Epidemic In Newfoundland

Five Hundred Cases Of Beri Beri Disease Have Been Reported In St. John's, Newfoundland. — As a result of a medical investigation of the south coast, especially in the vicinity of Placentia Bay, there has been revealed that a disease called beri beri, which is similar to dropsy, is extremely prevalent among the inhabitants, an estimate of more than 500 cases having been made.

Dr. Kendall, local health doctor, attributed the disease largely to the lack of vegetables in the diet. Prolonging the tidal wave of last year the people have been mainly occupied with reconstruction work and have neglected cultivation of vegetable foods. A bulletin giving instructions regarding dieting is being issued, while the worst cases have been brought to this city for electrical treatment.

Farmers Going North Are Making Mistake

Timberland Soil In Northern Saskatchewan Usually Bad Says Professor

Saskatoon, Sask.—Farmers of the prairie provinces south country who are moving to timberland regions of the north are making a mistake. That is the opinion of Professor A. H. Joel, head of the soils department at the University of Saskatchewan.

Professor Joel, in an address before a Kiwanis club luncheon meeting here recently, said: "I don't like to see people going north. Timberland soil is bad as a rule. If, however, they settle on black grassland soil amongst the timber they may be alright."

SWEEPSTAKES BILL IS OPPOSED IN THE SENATE

Ottawa, Ont.—A vigorous attack on the Hospitals Sweepstakes Bill was delivered by Sir George Foster. The bill would make it legal for hospitals to raise revenue by conducting sweepstakes with the sanction of the attorney-general of any province. He concluded by moving that the bill be given a six-months' hoist.

The state owed a duty to look after its aged and its poor and its sick, Sir George declared. It should not delegate that duty to a gambler's chance.

If this bill was made law, Sir George predicted, he could see no limits to which propaganda to sell lottery tickets might not extend. From such a bill made law, he thought it was possible such degenerating propaganda might result as would call out the honest heart of the people of Canada.

Referring to the Irish Hospital sweepstakes, he said they were a great Irish industry. Everything was in favor of chance, and neither experience nor skill, reason nor discretion could be counted.

Senator Gillies said the majority of the people were opposed to the principle of the bill. Canada had had a disastrous period of stock gambling and did not want a period of lottery gambling.

Senator Lacasse thought Sir George Foster's argument would have been stronger if applied to all forms of gambling. Money lost in sweepstakes would not have gone to charity. He favored the bill because it transferred further rights to the provinces.

Senator Forke was opposed to the bill and seconded Sir George Foster's motion for a six months' hoist. He sympathized with the object of the bill but not the method.

Senator Dandurand felt the object of the bill was a worthy one but did not like the principle.

Government Seeking Services Of Expert

To Reorganize Livestock Industry In Canada Says Hon. Robert Weir

Ottawa, Ont.—The department is seeking the services of an expert to reorganize the whole livestock industry in Canada, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, said in addressing a delegation organized by the Holstein Breeders' Association. An attempt was being made to bring to Canada Dr. R. Orr, of Aberdeen, Scotland, described by Mr. Weir as a specialist in nutrition, and to assist in co-ordinate the whole livestock industry for its commercial advantage."

Must Surrender Books

Victoria, B.C.—The attorney-general of British Columbia must surrender all books and papers of Holloway, Mills and Company which have been seized under the Trade and Commerce Profits Prevention Act, the court of appeal ruled in final settlement of the appeal of W. J. McGee versus Hon. R. H. Pooley.

Fewer Jobless In East

Vancouver, B.C.—Before a meeting of the Vancouver and New Westminster Trades and Labor Council, Hon. Gideon Robertson, Dominion Minister of Labor, said that, while the unemployment problem was serious in Canada, there was far less stress in the eastern part of the country than in the west.

Navigation Of Churchill

Port Now Reported To Be Free Of Ice and Work On Dock Nearly Completed

The Pas, Man.—Churchill's harbor is cleared of the final remains of the ice floe and it is possible now for craft to navigate along the river for many miles. Dredging will get under way within a day or two. While whales and seals may be seen from the harbor daily.

The breakup started nearly a week ago and was brought back and forth with the tide during the past few days. Ocean craft could now steam into the bay port without danger, according to word received here from the port Wednesday. The dock is completed enough to handle oceangoing boats now.

The big dredging program at Churchill will be completed this season. About 2,500,000 yards of material will be moved under the directions of engineers there.

Work on the 3,000,000 bushel elevator is now three weeks a'head of schedule and there is little doubt that it will be completed in time to handle the initial shipments of grain through Churchill this fall.

Farm Credit Proposal Outlined By Beatty

Half Of Five Million Capital Of Company Now Subscribed

Ottawa, Ont.—Within a few weeks the organization of the Canadian Agricultural Credit Company will be completed, H. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, told the House of Commons committee on banking and commerce.

Designed to assist farmers in Western Canada in diversifying their operations, the corporation has been set up and feel its way for the first few years, the idea, Mr. Beatty said, was derived from similar agricultural corporations of the United States which had functioned with success on similar lines in Scandinavia and other states.

Up to the present about half of the $5,000,000 capital of the company has been subscribed and when the bill now before parliament to authorize banks, loan, trust and insurance companies to invest in the securities is passed, no time would be lost in getting the scheme under way.

Winnipeg Is Visited By Caterpillar Plague

Insects Devour Leaves On Whole Trees

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—With whole groves of trees almost denuded of leaves, particularly in Kildonan Park, and Elmwood cemetery, Winnipeg is suffering a severe visitation of the caterpillar pest.

Millions of wriggling green insects have devoured countless leaves in preparation for their pupa stage.

The public parks board attempted to wipe out the vandals with arsenic of lead, but according to George Champion, superintendent, the equipment and force available have proved insufficient to combat the hordes of tiny leafe destroyers.

May Help Wheat Sales

Ottawa, Ont.—The advance in the percentage of foreign wheat to be permitted in flour in France should increase Canada's wheat sales to that country, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Earlier this year only 10 per cent. of foreign wheat was permitted in French flour. This was subsequently increased to 25 per cent., and now to 30 per cent.

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's revenue from customs and excise duties and excise taxes for the month of May were $18,878,833, as compared with $25,540,079 for the corresponding month last year. Figures were released Tuesday by the Department of National Revenue.

BRITISH SCULLER'S SPORTSMANSHIP REWARDED

In recognition of his sportsmanship, Canadian rowing enthusiasts have presented a canoe to Jack Beresford, Jr., who was eliminated in the Diamond Sculls event at Henley last year when he waited until Jon Wright, Jr., had cleared a crab just after the start of one of the heats. Joe Wright won the heat, but later was defeated by the German entrant, who, in turn was defeated by Jack Guest, winner of the famed trophy. The picture shows the English sculler and two companions having a try-out on the Thames at Putney. Left to right, Jack Beresford, Ted Phelps, world's professional champion, and Bob Pearce, Australian champion now representing Canada.

Better Times Ahead

Professor Swanson Looks For Greater Period Of Prosperity Than Ever

Saskatoon, Sask.—Commenting on the "better times are coming" interview with Roger W. Babson in New York, Professor W. W. Swanson, head of the department of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, said that "Babson was correct in his view that a greater period of prosperity than the world has ever known would follow the emergence from the present depression."

"There can be no real recovery of business until primary products, especially farm products, have reached the level needed to subscribe to it."

A fair test of the feasibility of the Hudson Bay route unencumbered by excessive marine insurance rates, the provision of pensions for the blind and overhauling of the machinery of legislation and regulations for war pensions were other suggestions thrown out by the Winnipeg executive of the humanitarian association, when it met in Regina in September," he said.

Mr. Woods explained how the organization of the humanitarian has chosen appropriate groups of men for certain problems. Boards of study will report next month and be asked to bring considered recommendations for the furtherance of their particular cities of the wheat belt will be asked to come with conclusions on agriculture.

"The purpose behind the proceeding to get information on the unemployment problem," continued Mr. Woods, "is as an avenue of spreading it information, too. What the government learns, we hope, will be of value to it, and the experience of our country-wide membership will be at the disposal of the government. The board is in receipt of letters from all over Canada at this conference is in itself an opportunity to send them down on the field here, completed with a common objective.

"The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is said is going to degenerate into a body for the passing of pious resolutions. We seek to be no pacifical things. I believe that, outside of the work of the government, our organized trips to the West Indies, to Great Britain, to the Orient, to South America, are the most potent factors in the development of Canada's foreign trade."

Cattle Ships Needed

Not Enough Ships Available For Transport To Britain

London, England.—The question of providing shipping facilities for import of Canadian cattle to Great Britain came up at the House of Commons. A member said that in view of the fact that large numbers of cattle were held in Canada awaiting shipment because there were not enough ships available for transport the president of the Board of Trade should bring the matter to the notice of shipowners who controlled ships lying idle in British ports.

G. M. Gillett, secretary to the overseas Trade department, replied that well informed shipowners were not satisfied that proposals in regard to the increased shipment of Canadian cattle were justified before the present crisis, so are the signs of a greater prosperity to be seen at present, he added.

"The greatest asset this country possesses is the ten millions of sturdy souls by whom it is inhabited," said Mr. Woods, "and in the quality of these souls rests the future of the land. Therefore, it is for you and me, as individuals, to see not only that we live free of commercial and financial bonosity and honor, but that we may attain in the highest measure the principles of courage and hardihood and cheerfulness by which our forefathers laid the foundations of our land."

Mobilization of the business brains of Canada to solve the problems presented by economic depression, particularly unemployment, is being effected by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Woods intimated later in the course of an interview.

"We do not know of any better means of studying this problem, any better chance to get a comprehensive picture of the opinion of the whole country, than will be afforded at the annual conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Regina in September," he said.

Mr. Woods explained how the executive of the humanitarian has chosen appropriate groups of men for certain problems. Boards of study will report next month and be asked to bring considered recommendations for the furtherance of their particular cities of the wheat belt will be asked to come with conclusions on agriculture.

"The purpose behind the proceeding to get information on the unemployment problem," continued Mr. Woods, "is as an avenue of spreading it information, too. New Record For Hawks

Aviator Travels 900 Miles Per Hour From London, England, To Rome, Italy

Rome, Italy. — Captain Frank Hawks landed here on a round trip flight from London, England, completing the trip at an average speed of nearly 200 miles per hour.

Captain Hawks made the flight in a new record time of four hours and 29 minutes. He found the weather fairly good all the way, but was surprised at his own speed.

Croydon, England.—Capt. Frank Hawks brought his fast monoplane down on the field here, completing his flight from Rome in five hours flat.

STRICT ECONOMY NEEDED FOR C.N.R. SAYS MINISTER

Ottawa, Ont.—The motto of the Canadian National Railways should be "economize and produce more," Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals informed Parliament in Committee. While denying the charge that the government is unfriendly to the Canadian National, the minister stressed the need for careful examination of accounts, and the exercise of economy in the management of the system.

"I say that the statement that is being foolishly made by some of the friends of the leader of the opposition that we are enemies of the Canadian National, is simply an untruth." Dr. Manion declared emphatically. "Any man who is an enemy of the Canadian National Railways is not a good Canadian, and therefore is not entitled to be a good Canadian government, and that we are at least good Canadians, we are not the enemies of the Canadian National but its friends, desirous of looking after its best interests."

While presenting facts and figures which indicated that the financial position of the government system is such that the greatest care and economy must be practiced, Mr. Manion's statement was not without a ray of hope for the future of the railway. If the depression passes, if unwise capital expenditures are eliminated and costly changes are not carried out, and if economical management is brought into play "and if we and the people of this country are reasonable in their demands from the National Railways and from the government, I think within five years there will be a very much more hopeful and cheerful picture," the minister said.

SAYS CANADA IS AT THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA

Vancouver, B.C.—Canada at the dawn of a new era, of greatness among the greatest commercial nations of the world, is the vision outlined by J. H. Woods, of Calgary, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who was a guest at luncheon of the council of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Through courage, energy and integrity is this vision to be realized, he said. Even as the forewords of history even in evidence, through financial and financial honesty and honor, but that we may attain in the highest measure the principles of courage and hardihood and cheerfulness by which our forefathers laid the foundations of our land."

Waiting Reply To Note On Waterways

Washington Looking For Developments When Canadian Minister Arrives

Washington.—The Ottawa government is expected shortly to reply to the United States note of last September enquiring the attitude of the administration of Premier R. B. Bennett to the proposed St. Lawrence waterway enterprise. The impending arrival in Washington of Major W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington and brother-in-law of the British premier is being looked forward to by United States officials as presaging important developments.

Escaped Injury In Plane Crash

Quesnel, B.C.—Carrying supplies to his father and companions at Thudade Lake in Lard mining district, northern British Columbia, Tom Cox, 22, crashed with his plane and after 65 hours of hiking reached Takla Lake. His 'plane, equipped with pontoons, fell in the forest when the engine stalled at 4,000 feet. Both wings were stripped off.

Want Full Inquiry

Winnipeg, Man.—Full inquiry into all circumstances in connection with the boarding by United States coastguards of the "Josephine K." on January 24, which resulted in the death of a Canadian sailor, will be urged on the Dominion government by the Navy League of Canada. This was decided in a resolution adopted at the annual convention here.

COMMUNICATION

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

SCHOOL LANDS

The question of Farm Relief is of paramount importance in this province and nothing should be left undone which might in any way relieve the situation for any part of our agricultural population during the present serious depression.

However, while much is suggested little is done in the way of actual relief. No doubt most suggestions involve an expenditure, which the Government can ill-afford to make, but there is one large section of our agricultural population which could be given much needed assistance without any drain whatever on the Treasury of this province. I refer to the owners of School Lands.

School Lands are purchased on the following terms: 10 per cent. of the purchase price down, six per cent. on principal due and seven per cent on arrears. These lands were purchased by thousands of Alberta farmers during a period of high land values, inflated prices and boundless optimism. Comes a period of falling values and deflated prices. The owners of school lands, unable to meet their payments, find arrears piling up against them and their evaluation rapidly becoming hopeless and helpless.

The Soldier Settlers found themselves in a similar, though not as serious a situation, during the period of deflation following the war and the Soldier Settlement Board came to their assistance by foregoing all interest charges for a period of five years and later reducing the land valuation by thirty percent. Is there any reason why the Provincial Government should not do as much for the owners of School Lands?

Here then is a concrete proposal for the relief of a large part of our farming population which involves no cash outlay whatever and which makes no drain on the provincial treasury. More than that, without such relief and encouragement, the owners of these lands will be forced to abandon them, they will revert to the Government to the detriment of the country generally and our harassed municipalities will be deprived of much needed taxes.

Press despatches recently stated that Eastern capitalists, awake at last to the serious situation in the West, were considering the reinstatement, or at least a substantial reduction of interest charges against western lands. Here is an opportunity for the provincial government to show the way to Eastern Companies and at the same time to extend to thousands of hard-pressed farmers substantial assistance.

UNION UNITE

Word has been received from Edmonton of the marriage of Miss Florence Tattersall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tattersall of this district, to Mr. K. Schevick of that city, on June 18th.

Old friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilhite of Utah, formerly of this district, are glad to know that they have returned. They came by motor.

The U.F.W.A. finally had their June meeting and it certainly paid to wait for it, for it was the best meeting so far of this year. Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Mr. entertained the ladies and the capacity of her new home was severely tested, but proved quite sufficient. Much interesting business was completed and two new members joined at this time. The question has proved a most interesting innovation, as the ladies are fairly launched on the humorous quite often. Several warm discussions arose from some of deeper questions. Mrs. Jo Brown's paper on "Herbs" showed she had her subject well in hand and was greatly enjoyed.

The monthly donation for the Bazaar for July will be in the form of an "Egg Shower."

The program for July will be Mesdames Gaston, Hobbis, and A. Friedland. Mrs. J. Brown was elected to attend "Farmers' Week" at the College in August.

The next meeting will be held at Union school, Tuesday, July 8. Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Sr. and Mrs. Funnell will be the hostesses. Visitors are always welcome.

Bud: "How do you spell 'association'?"

Fred: "Assobiation"

Bud: "No, there's a 'c' in it somewhere."

Russell: "I'll tell you how to fix it. Nobody could read that; make a big 's,' 'c' and 'a' and they can't go wrong." (No fiction about this!)

The fine reputation the appeal to attend the last dance of the Curlers' Club at Union school, was most gratifying to the Club in charge. There was scarcely a dull moment and the happiest spirit seemed to pervade the air, proving the Golden Rule is still in fashion.

We have had our weather eye out for a week to take a reef out of someone, but guess they are all buffaloed except Harry Connaughton, who on Monday "meetin's" that he edged his way into the U.F.W.A., though he had no idea what was in store for him.

It happened that when Mrs. Connaughton stated that the "most amusing feature in her life" was a squeaking, squawking, wobbly screen door, Harry thought it was time to look at the horses. Woman's intuition!!

Any district in need of rain, please notify the Union U.F.W.A. and they will call a meeting at Union school. It will follow, as sure as you open your mouth every time you bend your elbow,—the only rule being that members of that district do not think of rain on that day.

Juvenile Hockey Team Honor Mr. Addison

Banquet and Presentation to Departing Manager

Last Friday evening the Boston Cafe was the scene of a banquet tendered to Mr. Addison by the Juvenile hockey team of which he was the manager, Jack Mackenzie being coach and George Capaton backer. A sumptuous spread in the form of a turkey dinner was partaken of, Mr. Capaton being at one of the table and the departing manager at the other. After the feed, George, on behalf of the boys, spoke of how much they were indebted to Mr. Addison in the town's hockey world, of his quiet unassuming manner in handling the boys and the respect that they had for him and the regret that they were experiencing at his departure, also saying that friendships formed by teen age boys in the realm of sport were strong and lasting. He told Mr. Addison that he took with him the best wish es of the boys and knew that he would have many happy memories of merry nights spent in the Vermilion rink. Mr. Addison was then presented with a leather case as a remembrance from the Juvenile organization.

Mr. Addison expressed to the boys the pleasure that he had in working among them and that it would always be a pleasant memory. Jack Mackenzie then wished him the very best of luck in his new sphere of labor, hoping that his work in future among the boys would be as pleasant as it had been here. Those present at the banquet were: Mr. Addison, George Capaton, Jack Mackenzie and C. Long, and Messrs. Fraser, White, Fallow, Wiebe, G. Brimacombe, F. Brimacombe, Gates, Curnow, Craig, English, Waldenhofer and Munro.

Chadiana spent in one recent year, more than $75,000 was paid for General Motors, cars, trucks and coaches.

Shows Faith In Canada

Sum Invested In Her Industries Is More Than $6,350,000

The impressive fact that the sum invested in Canadian industries is so much as $6,350,000 is mentioned by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, in a foreword to the "Canadian Resources Supplement" published by the Financial Times of London, England. Still more impressive, he says, is the fact that sums contributed from outside sources are held in proportion of 51 per cent. by the United States and 35 per cent. by Great Britain.

Detailing a few facts to indicate the "extraordinary resilience of Canadian industrial activities during the period of acute world wide depression," Mr. Ferguson records as another impressive fact that building contracts during the first ten months of 1929 totalled $400,000,000. He says, "this hardly looks like fatalism or resignation to declining business. Building contracts on this scale are as reliable an indication of Canada's prosperity as any that can be found."

St. Lawrence Route Is Popular

Enterprise and Confidence In the Development Of Canada's Future

The growing popularity of the St. Lawrence route from America to Europe has received another fillip with the placing in commission of the "Empress of Britain," said by competent authorities to be the finest vessel afloat. On her first trip from England to Canada the "Empress of Britain" carried a very notable passenger list and marked another step forward in the popularization of the St. Lawrence route to Europe.

Although not the largest passenger vessel ever launched—the "Empress" of Britain" has a gross register of 42,500 tons—the new vessel is said to present the latest developments in nautical architecture, designed to insure comfort, safety and speed. Among innovations are a full-sized tennis court, a squash racquet court, long distance telephone in every first-class apartment, and every room an outside room. Her speed will enable her to make the passage between Southampton and Quebec in about five days.

The St. Lawrence route has the advantage of furnishing an ocean journey in Europe with the first thousand miles consisting of placid water enclosed by magnificent scenery. The vessel will reduce the open Atlantic period of the voyage to 3½ days. She is the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and may therefore be fairly claimed as an evidence of Canadian enterprise and confidence in the development of Canada's future.

Amend Copyright Act

Bill Drafted To Conform With Rome Convention Of 1928

Parliament has given third reading to a bill amending the Copyright Act, approving the final three acts drawn in 1928.

Chief among the changes is the extension of the copyright law might be undertaken but indicated it would require "a great deal of time."

The bill is drafted in order to bring the present copyright law into conformity with the Rome convention of 1928, and Canada is required to deposit this country's adherence to that convention by July 1. In general its purpose was to extend the provisions of the copyright so as to embrace radio broadcasting and cinematograph reproductions, those developments not being in existence when the original Berne convention was drafted.

As the bill operates, individuals who have not registered their works will not possess the right of suit in the court in respect of such unregistered works. In the case of assignment having been made, any such assignments as have been registered will vest in the assignee whatever court rights are embodied. Unregistered assignments will have no status before the courts.

Organizations to whom copyrighted works have been assigned and who charge fees for the performance of such works will be subjected to government regulation if, after an enquiry by a commissioner under the Enquiries Act, it is shown that excessive fees are being charged or that the organization are operating detrimentally to the public interest.

A Real Patriot

It was a beautiful Sunday morning. Simpson, having finished reading a paper printed with an invention made in Germany, set out with his wife for the meeting house of a faith found in Palestine. Contemplating the beauty of the land, which had been discovered by an Italian in the employ of a Spanish queen and causing on the thirty it possessed thanks to the help of a French navigator, his bosom swelled with pride. "Thank God," said Simpson fervently in a language imported from the British Isles, "I am a one hundred-per-cent. American."

Law Price For Eggs

Alberta Farmer Receives 20 Cents Net For Case Of 30 Dozen

Eggs at one and three-tenths cents a dozen.

That is the price a farmer of the Peace River constituency of Alberta recently received for thirty dozen eggs, according to a letter he has sent Donald M. Kennedy, member of parliament for Peace River.

The farmer lives at Falher, Alberta. Of his egg shipment seven dozen were graded first, 21 dozen seconds and two dozen mixed. A creamery at Westlock, 260 miles distant, paid $1.64 for the consignment the farmer writes, from which $1.05 was deducted for shipping and other expenses, leaving 39 cents for the farmer.

Earl Of Bessborough Says Wider Knowledge Of Language Is Great Asset

Earnestly appealing for a wider knowledge of the French language throughout Canada, His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough told students of Ashbury College at their closing exercises that he would not have experienced the supreme happiness of marrying his wife if he had not been able to speak her language.

Gandhi Prefers Humble Quarters In London

Chooses To Live In Garret Among the Poorer Class

Mahatma Gandhi, who will leave India about the middle of August to attend meetings of the federal structures committee in London, England, has decided that when he gets there he will live among the most humble inhabitants of Kingsley Hall, London's east-end home for the poor.

While India's other delegates to the round table conference will install themselves in the city's hotels or the estates of their friends, he will be in a garret among poverty and unlike those familiar to the people who revere him so highly at home.

If the weather permits he will not even alter his habitual costume of white cotton and this cotton loin cloth, but if it is cold he will wear a homespun coat and the conventional European trousers. When he appears before the King and Queen it will be in the Indian costume with shaven head and bare feet.

Despite the problems of state with which he is concerned, one of his major considerations at the moment is how he will obtain fresh goat's milk in London, England, and the ox will there. Contrary to reports he cannot take his own flock of goats which are milked twice daily in his native land, and it is likely he will instruct Miss Slade, his British attendant and disciple, to take along a supply of condensed milk.

Larger Boats On Welland Canal

Boats up to 730 feet in length will be allowed to pass through the Welland Ship Canal, commencing this month, Chief Engineer Alex. Grant announced. Previously regular passage has been restricted to boats of 254 feet. Maximum beam is 45 feet, any boats in excess of that have required a special pass. This new regulation will cover all classes of vessels, Mr. Grant announced, but the restriction to 18 feet draught will remain in force.

Angela's hand, resting on her father chair not far from Nick's, caught the suddenly cleft chin. Curious digs. He turned toward her, startled, but she had already drawn it away, and was talking to the room.

"Any of you been there?" persisted the Colonel cheerfully.

Nobody had.

"It's just a long neck of land stretching out into the sea," he went on affably. "Rocks, and berry bushes, and one wide, wonderful curving beach—at least, that's what it was before the summer people took it up. It's some colony now. Finest hotel in the state out on the point beyond the artists' studios. Never been your name, Mrs. Halliday, without remembering something rather ghastly that happened there a year or two ago—the only summer I've missed being there in a long time. Some people named Halliday had a cottage next to mine. A boy and girl, I think, and a baby. Yes, that's right, I remember now, the baby was four. Halliday, I'm sorry to report, has a name and shabbed his throat."

"Why, Dad Angela, her voice quivering, "No; I never heard of the place."

"Quite a yarn," went on the Colonel. "Those Hallidays (just a man and wife, I believe), were evidently a queerly assorted pair. She was a quiet chap—professional man of some kind, and crazy about his wife. Never looked at anybody else. She was different. Wasn't happy without a man at her heels. Before the summer was over some called her a murderess, but—"

"It's getting awfully chilly," broke in Angela. "I think I'll go for a wrap."

She would have risen, but Amy Myer tossed a sweater into her lap.

"Take that. I'm melted; the air's so breathless. Do go on, Colonel Howell; this bids fair to be exciting."

The colonel obeyed eagerly.

"They hired the Burgess place, a fine big house out on the point, and the cottage next to it was taken by a man named Ashley—an artist from somewhere in New York state. He'd had a wife and baby. Everyone liked them; nice, homey sort of people, I understand, though Ashley himself was—well—his views were a trifle too radical to suit some of the regular population of the place; though I doubt if they thought much about it till after the tragedy."

The Colonel leisurely lighted a cigar, enjoying the sense of keeping his audience in suspense. Angela stirred again, as if she would arise, then sank back in resignation as he continued, her hands tensely clutching the arms of her steamer chair.

"Well, this Mrs. Halliday was a sort of vampire. She tried her charms on the Rector at Ashley, but they didn't work, so she began on Ashley, and before she was through she fascinated him—literally. The servants said afterward that they heard her husband remonstrating; but she had a high temper, and when he couldn't do anything with her. Anyhow, Ashley went off in a genuine huff one fine day, and didn't get back till morning. When he landed and went to his own cottage (probably scared blue, too, trying to think what he'd say to wifey), he well, he found that there'd been no need to say anything. She'd taken carbolic acid an hour before."

"How horrible!" exclaimed Nick, wholly unconscious of the rigidity of the form beside him.

"Isn't that's not all." The Colonel was plainly relishing the effect of his lurid tale. "Mrs. Ashley was in the bathroom, alone, as the neighbors gathered, when the baby woke and yelled so long that someone went in to investigate. Ashley had evidently turned her over to see if she were gone; and then he'd reached for his razor and stabbed his throat."

Angela had risen. Even in the moonlight her face looked pallid.

"That's quite a pretty story, Colonel Nowell," she said unsteadily. "It's given me the creeps." She laughed a forced little laugh that rang out eerily on the still night. "Well, I think I'll turn in now. Night, everybody. Don't forget some air to breathe tomorrow."

She moved toward the door, staggering, though the sun was like a ball of fire, then sprang up the stairs, putting an arm about her until she reached the stairs.

"All right" he questioned. "That was a beastly yarn to spin a night like this. Sure you're all right?"

But Angela did not speak as she fumbled blindly for the bannister. When the cause came back the Myers were preparing to go below; but Colonel Nowell was at the rail, and moved forward to meet them.

"Hope my story didn't upset the little lady too much. Say! I wonder what Halliday's weren't some relation after all! Uncommon name—Halliday; but she said she'd never been to Ashley's cottage."

"I think it was just Mrs. Halliday's extreme sensitiveness," Nick answered. "There are some natures, I noticed, when you began to talk. What became of those people, Colonel Howell?"

The Colonel shrugged. Nick had noted this growing habit, and wondered if the little man had caught it from Angela.

"You mean the Hallidays? They left the Neck at once—naturally. Mrs. Ashley was in a rather bad way for a time—used up nervously, I believe; you wonder they never went back to the cottage. They never will be in the Neck, and that's all I know, though, come to think of it, someone told me last summer that Halliday had provided for the child—the Ashley child. Look! there's a big cloud gathering. Wonder if we'll get a wash-out."

In their cabin below, the Myers had undressed in silence. It was as Myer had anticipated for his good-night kiss, that he said, jerking a thumb in the direction of Angela's stateroom: "Did you get the make of that?"

His wife smiled.

"I think our friend isn't always a professional actress; but let's say little about it here. These partitions are too thin. Good-night."

And about that thin partition Ivy Angela, hot hands pressed against her eyes as if to shut out some horrid picture.

She was thinking: "They said the carbolic had spilled onto her face. She was then burned horribly . . . disfigured. . . . What else could the man do then? . . . She was a fool anyway . . . Why didn't she give him time to explain? . . . I didn't hurt him! . . . My God! . . . I won't! They never let her be forgot!"

As she turned dry-eyed to the wall she was conscious of an inexplicable longing—she wished for a long, steady touch of her husband's hand.

CHAPTER XXI.

Two hours later the moon was obscured by clouds, and the face of the deep seemed vaguely restless. After the Colonel left him, Nick sat for a long time on deck, enchanted with the night—the soft and fragrant breeze—the thought that it was he, Nicholas Hastings of Bakersville, U.S.A., who had seen the wonder and beauty of these tropic isles. Wooded, cone-tipped bits of fairyland, they seemed to him. All his life he would be grateful for these weeks, and grateful to Angela, who had made them possible.

He frowned as his thoughts turned to Angela. She was undoubtedly upset by the Colonel's story—curiously upset. Putting two and two together one might think—BUH, it was a horrid thought. He hoped none of the others had grasped it. Of course Colonel Nowell had never met James Halliday. He couldn't know how near the story fitted. And Angela did enjoy having a man at her heels! Nick smiled into the clouds. Why, she even enjoyed an old married man like himself! It was perfectly evident, and with Mrs. Myer. Perhaps she was one of those women who didn't care for her own sex. That might account for Gay's strange aversion to her.

Gay! Why, it was a relief just to think about her! No wonder she and Angela didn't hit it off. They were so different. Gay could talk to the men—could keep them interested (Nick's brows drawn flatteringly looking at her as if he thought her a little piece of all-right!), but she didn't look at them in the way Angela did. God! he was glad she didn't. Not that Angela meant anything by it either. They were just—well—different, that was all.

He arose, walking a bit restlessly up and down, thinking of the changes that were hiding the familiar stars; wondering why Angela had grasped his hand so tightly when he mention of Painter's Neck. Yet she said that she had never heard of the place.

"I'd give a penny to know," he mused quietly; then broke off with an impatient: "No I wouldn't either! Thunder! I'm getting morbid myself. Big toss? Why, if it were Angela, if she'd even the indirect cause of that ghastly affair, she'd never look at another man as long as she lived. She's not that sort. Although she comes it will usher in better business conditions throughout the states. Let us take time, but it will be made steadily as soon as we get the malaria of speculation and economic boom.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

Twelve Years Since First Ocean Flight

Alcock and Brown Made Trip In Twenty-Four Hours

It was 12 years ago June 15th that the world watched for reports of two men who were trying to win the first successful attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean. They were Sir William Alcock, who had served in the Great War, and Lieutenant Arthur Whitten Brown, later knighted.

The two British flyers made the first trans-Atlantic flight from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Clifden, Ireland, in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The aeroplane used was a Vickers-Vimy machine, powered with two Rolls-Royce motors of 350 horsepower.

The flight of Col. Charles Lindbergh was made May 10, 1927, or almost eight years after the flight of Alcock and Brown.

Had To Have Headgear

Jewish Lawyer Wore Woman's Hat While Taking Oath

This tattoo craze that causes young men to go blithely about bareheaded resulted in an amusing scene in the county court clerk's office at Hazleton, Pa., Hallese, a young Jewish student lawyer found it necessary to swear out an affidavit of search. Jews must wear some head covering when taking an oath.

The first person to pass wearing a hat was a girl. Graciously the young lady removed her wide-brimmed hat, fled with embarrassment, but loyal to the tradition of the institution the moment she was through. Solemnly, she replaced the flimsy sunshade, solemnly took the oath.

Stained Glass Windows In Battleship Chapel

Dedication Ceremony Performed On Cruiser "Reptilus" Was Unique

The unique ceremony of dedicating a stained glass window on board a battleship was performed at Sheerness by the chaplain of the fleet, Archdeacon Walter K. Knight-Adkin, on the battle cruiser "Repulse." "Repulse" is the first ship in the Royal Navy to have her chapel adorned in this way, and the window fits into an ordinary porthole in the ship. Before the ceremony the chaplain addressed the officers and men on the quarter-deck. The designer is Archibald Nicholson. The window represents St. Nicholas blessing two sailors.

Sales to farmers at the wells have been continuing in large volume, and May was the deliveries do not represent the total production. Farmers purchase around 500 barrels daily from the various companies.

People Are Suffering From "Mass Pessimism"

Present Economic Condition Aptly Described By Ambassador Dawes

Ambassador Dawes, returning to the United States for a short vacation from his duties at the Court of St. James's, brings with him a phrase that aptly describes the present economic situation. We suffering, he says, from "mass pessimism."

Some say too much is being made of the psychological side of depression. Still, it seems obvious that there is a morale in economics as well as in war. Once "mass pessimism" seizes an army it is as hungry as it is unable to carry the campaign one step further. Why not "mass optimism" seized the United States and other countries and reduced the value of a word to an ineffective economic nullity.

There are causes, of course, behind this "mass pessimism." When we get rid of the pessimism we shall doubtless be able to see the causes and remove them.

That seems to be about the meaning of the Dawes statement. Chairman Dawes had given currency when it is considered in connection with his remark that the country has nothing to fear about due, and when the change comes it will usher in better business conditions throughout the states. Let us take time, but it will be made steadily as soon as we get the malaria of speculation and economic boom.

Eating When Tired Bad For Digestion

Body Needs Chance To Recuperate and Rest Is Better Than Food

When you are tired don't eat. Rest is times of fatigue, will do more for the digestion than something thrown into the stomach, says Hygeia, the health journal.

Many people develop a habit of eating or drinking to relieve fatigue or merely to pass away the time. When a person is tired the body needs a chance to recuperate. It is not then advisable to take in quantities of food or to overstimulate the body with drinks and drugs.

Human beings need food to develop energy for daily work. The antidote to desire for food is the feeling of satisfaction. Try on eating merely because food is set before one, after satisfaction has been reached, is to overtax the system. Because people are more moderate now in their eatings and drinkings they are living longer than their forefathers who gorged themselves on food in the belief that the more they ate the stronger they would become, and were boasted of being "three-bottle men."—Regina Daily Star.

Aviators Have Narrow Escape

Almost Sucked Into Crater Of Volcano In Alaska

Man, for the first time, has flown over the crater of Ashichak volcano on the south shore of Alaska Peninsula, but the suction of cold air towards the hot crater, 21 miles in circumference, pulled the seaplane toward the pit, and only a sudden dive from the gaseous mouth saved the ship from hanging into the hole.

A 'plane, piloted by Harry Blunt, with Al Bowcott, pilot, and Lieutenant Father Bernard J. Hubbard, the "Glacier priest," after several days' waiting for good weather, soared over the world's largest active crater taking off from Chignik Bay.

Hovering over some 5 hours, several huge eagles attacked the 'plane Father Hubbard reported, sneaking up behind on a short turn and diving in. The propeller wash turned them over like chips of the ocean, but, screaming, they came back for more until out-distanced.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST
—By Aline Michaelis—
PRAYER FOR THE JOURNEY
Oh, God of small things as of great,
Of atom as of star,
Let me not fear or hesitate
Before the things that are!
Let me unfalteringly go
Always with steadfast trust,
Since I am blest in that I know
The plan is wholly just.
Oh, God of worlds unguessed, remote,
And farthest deeps of space,
Yet not too vast a force to note
The spider's silver lace,
And heed the lily-weaver's fall,
Let me serenely tread
Life's way, and go content in all
The paths where I am led.
Oh, God of small things as of great,
Of atom as of sun,
Let me not doubt or hesitate
Till all my course is run.

LOSE YOUR FAT This sensible way

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clear out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd almost forgotten had existed—you get the needful exercise.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving second doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Kruschen Salts are the delectable Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—be careful of the foods you eat—take regular moderate exercise—then watch the pounds slide off.

Little Helps For This Week

"For we have great joy and consolation in Thy love."—Philemon 1. 7.

There is no father, no brother so pitiful and compassionate as He who calls you His child. Whatever else you may be sure His love never lags nor love will not fail. He is with you, in your struggle against sins, in your fight for truth, your woes and griefs, and loneliness, and trials. All your hope, all your patience, all your regard for what is sacred and imperishable, come from Him. And as He has given you your capacity for His friendship and His likeness, He will train you and guide you to Himself, if you are submissive and obedient.—Horatio N. Powers.

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring those healthy conditions without the use of which there is no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is a most trustworthy worm exterminator.

Telephones Per Square Mile

Britain Comes Fourth, But Tenth When Population Is Considered

It was recently suggested by the "Telegraph and Telephone Journal" that a very fair test of telephone development in a country is the number of 'phones to the square mile. Taking this test, Great Britain comes fourth on the list, with 21.2 telephones per square mile. But there is very little in it. Holland, which heads the list has 22.8 telephones per square mile; Belgium, 22; and Denmark, 21. The United States is ninth on the list with 6.6 'phones to the square mile. Both Canada and Australia have fewer telephones than they possess square miles of territory. However when it comes to a test of population, Great Britain only comes tenth on the list.

Before Her Baby Came
"I have used several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it helps me wonderfully, especially before childbirth. I have five lovely children. After my last baby came I had a miserable pain in my right side so I bought another bottle of the Compound and I feel fine now. I work outside during the fruit season in addition to my housework."—Mrs. Charles Slingerland, R.R. #4, St. Catherines, Ontario.

CORNS LIFT OFF!
Pain Stops!
An amazing remedy—acts in a few seconds and causes no pain. The corn shrivels up and loosens. Another application or two and the corn drops out. Wonderful—true it is—but that is just how Putnam's Corn Extractor works. You can buy Putnam's Corn Extractor from any druggist for 25c.
